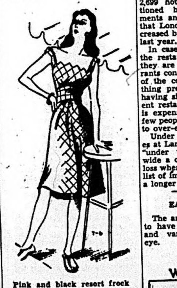
For Sunny Southland Wear



Pink and black resort frock

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

PINK WITH touches of black, or vice versa is an accepted color scheme at smart southern resorts, presaging its popularity come summer. Pink rayon in a linen weave, nicely plaided in black makes a nice little frock for wear under sunny southern skies. The square neckline is edged with pretty, pointed scallops, and the dress buttons down the back with large shiny black plastic buttons. It has a molded set-in midriff above the gathered skirt, and slit pockets on either side.

Canadiens Hope to Meet Bruins In Semi-Finals for Stanley Cup Rather Than Detroit Red Wings

Play Leafs Last Game of Season With Schriner Sniping for 200th Goal

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

For what in all probability is their last tangle of the 1945-46 season with Maple Leafs the Montreal Canadiens arrived in Toronto today cherishing the hope that the top teams in the National Hockey League would finish just as they stand now — Montreal, Chicago, Boston and Detroit.

Here is the reason: Canadiens would sooner meet Bruins in the semi-final of the Stanley Cup series than Detroit Red Wings.

There is a reason for that too. For you who have seen Detroit play it is probably apparent, particularly if you saw Detroit win and left the rink wondering just why. So many people have wondered that, including Canadiens on occasions, for Detroit's is a helter-skelter type of play with the pattern effective but not too apparent. It's just sufficiently unorthodox at times to be hard to counter.

So the way Canadiens have it doped out — and this word comes from the Habitants' home, hard by Mount Royal — Boston will be easier. Red Wings they term a "wearing down" team. Canadiens might, and probably would, win against the Wings. But, boy, would they be tired for the Stanley Cup final!

Only Fixture Tonight

Canadiens have no date on Leaf ice between now and tomorrow week when the Regular schedule ends and tonight's Toronto-Montreal fixture is Saturday's only N.H.L. engagement.

Tomorrow night, however, there is a full league issue for the customers with Maple Leafs at Boston, Detroit at New York Rangers and Canadiens at Chicago.

The Montrealers, out in front by three points over second-place Chicago reached Toronto without Buddy O'Connor and Joe Benoit, who will be replaced on the forward lines by Kenny Mosdell and Gerry Plamondon. O'Connor has a bad cold and Benoit is still troubled with his back.

That back shows just the sort of effort Benoit puts into the game. He has had an ailing back for a long time but he went out there and fought and didn't complain. Finally it got too bad and it was x-rayed and showed a spinal injury that demanded treatment.

Schriner After 200th Goal

On the Toronto side this is the night the old Calgary Dutchman, Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, comes out asniping for goal No. 200, an expedition which, coupled with an ever-so-slender chance of Leafs making the playoffs, has the customers intrigued.

It is to be noted that Schriner has done better against Canadiens than against any other club over the years, that is a worry for goalie Bill Durnan of the Canadiens who is said to be fully recovered from a slight knee injury suffered last Sunday in Detroit when hard hit by a shot from Eddie Bruneteau.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

The largest number of curlers to play on Guelph ice in many years are expected for the Snowbird Bonspiel there next Wednesday and Thursday. Local entries have been reduced in six to make room for the outside competitors, including rinks from Ottawa, Detroit, Sarnia, Galt, Hamilton, Toronto and Kitchener.

University of Toronto earned a tie with McGill in the final standing of the Intercollegiate Senior Hockey League last night at Toronto, when the Blue and White defeated University of Montreal 12-2.

University of Chicago yesterday withdrew from the Big Ten Conference because of athletic impotency. Chicago had been a member since the start of the conference 50 years ago and its football teams under A. A. Stagg for years dominated the Conference. The Chicago withdrawal, expected for some time, was finally forced by the recent basketball season in which Chicago ran up their 60th straight defeat.

The world and British flyweight boxing champion, Jackie Peterson, was outpointed by Bunty Doran of Eire in a 10 - round non-title bout at Dublin last night.

In an exhibition basketball game Western Ontario University last night beat University of Detroit 35-31 at London. It was the first London victory over Detroit in 14 years. Johnny Metras Western Mustangs were tied 14-14 at the half but forged ahead in the final few minutes.

At Pembroke the Pembroke Lumber Kings took the Upper Ottawa Intermediate Hockey championship by beating Renfrew Lions 5-2. The Lumber Kings qualified to meet the winners of the Rideau Intermediate League in the first round of the Ottawa district playdowns.

Simpson Grads last night defeated Hamilton Tigers 55-40 in the first game of their Ontario senior basketball finals at Toronto. Second game of the total-point series will be played next Tuesday night in Hamilton.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.)

New York, March 9—(AP) — The Yankees are finding their Florida training camps infested with scouts from other clubs, which recalls a prediction by prexy Shag Shaughnessy of the International League that the big league teams will spend more time scouting one another than watching for prospects in the minors this spring . . . that's the only way they can get a line on players for possible trades, Shag explained, and besides that, they need a lot of information about who'll be who during the season . . . Another point Shag brought out is that they won't waste time on stars from second division clubs . . . those deals just don't work out, he claims, because a player can make a lot of mistakes and still look good with a low-ranking club, but when he moves up near the top those errors cost games.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

Tonight in Oshawa the Kingston Locos and the Peterborough Intermediates tee off in the third tussle of their finals series. The Choo-Choos derailed the Petes in the first two games played in Kingston, but the Liftlock Laddies are confident they can de-fuel the Haynesmen on a surface that at least looks like ice. The Petes have hollered loud and long anent the slushy condition of the Harty Arena artificial ice, and fans from this city bear their statements out. One Pete fan cracked the other day that the next time he accompanies his team to Kingston he's dragging along the fishing tackle to have a little over-the-boards diversion between periods.

• • •

The I-told-you-so laddies who earlier in the season predicted that Oshawa Generals and St. Michael's junior "A" squads would be in at the group kill, are having a field day. For that is the set-up as is, and it is quite likely that all attendance records in Toronto and the Motor City will be blasted high wide and handsome. The first tilt between these smart squads takes place in Toronto on Monday and the teams whip back to Oshawa on Thursday night next. They joust again in the Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday afternoon, March 16 and back in Oshawa the following Monday night. St. Mike's proved themselves a great money squad in their playdowns—and so has Oshawa as far as that goes, so it is altogether likely the series will go down in hockey history as one of the hardest fought in years.

• • •

You're chumps today and champs tomorrow. Twas ever thus in the realm of sport. Down Montreal way, the fiery fans that have cheered the Canadiens down the more or less screwy National League Hockey trail yelled blue murder at the Maple Leafs if and when they defeated their favorites on Forum ice. Mayhem was considered a light punishment for the doughty foreigners from Ontario who dared take those Canucks down a peg on the ice. They hadn't forgotten that crashing climax last winter.

• • •

Now the Mapleos are the candy kids, from the Canadiens supporters point of view. "Those Toronto guys aren't a bad bunch of fellows after all," is a consensus. "What if they did beat us a game or two, it was just one of those things. Mebbe we've judged them too harshly. It's too bad they were edged out of the playoffs."

• • •

The reason? Didn't the Maple Leafs knock off the dreaded Chicago Black Hawks who were sending puffs of hot breath down Canadien necks a short while ago? And they've done it twice. In fact if Hap Day's gang had cuffed the Hawks around in Toronto last Saturday night the Chicago crew would have been in a tie with Canadiens for first place at that point. For the Habitants picked up only one point in two games with the Detroit Red Wings.

• • •

Sixteen years ago tonight Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, lasted only two minutes against Isidoro Gastanaga, a Spaniard, in an attempt at a come-back in Havana. It was a bit of poetic justice for hadn't the Irisher won the title against Battling Siki, huge Senegalese in Dublin, on St. Patrick's Day March 17, 1923.

• • •

Siki's knifed body was found some time later in a back alley in New York. McTigue went on to hold the title for two years losing it to Paul Barlenbach in 1925.

• • •

Jack Delaney won from Berlenbach on points in a fifteen round go in Brooklyn, 1926, but resigned the title when he entered the heavyweight class in 1927. Opportunist McTigue promptly reclaimed the title and lost it to Tommy Loughran after a fifteen round battle in New York on October 7, 1927.

• • •

This corner's only view of McTigue occurred back in 1920 when an unknown fighter was scheduled to fight one dubbed "Red" MacDonald, the slugging pride of the Cape Breton miners. The battle was fought in Ackers Theatre, Halifax before a roaring raging mob of the MacIntyres, MacDonalds, MacTavishes and other Macs from the northern part of the peninsula. Previous to the fight, McTigue's manager had borrowed two bucks from the sports ed. of the Herald to buy his boy a meal.

• • •

McTigue, a rugged Irishman, fought MacDonald to a standstill and amid the roar and boos of the enraged miners put their favorite to bye-bye in the fourth round. That fight was the first stepping stone to McTigue's more or less brilliant if brief career as a champion. He went on to defeat Noah Brusseau, then Canadian middleweight champion, left Canada for the golden lure of the States —and Mike was in.

• • •

He was a careful fellow with his money and saved plenty of it. It was reported that when he retired he was worth $100,000, a far cry from the fellow who borrowed money to buy a steak to fortify himself for his first Canadian fight.

MANNIE SEAMON WILL TRAIN LOUIS FOR TITLE MATCH

Assistant to Chappie Blackburn Who Trained Champion in 1938

West Baden, Ind., March 9 (AP) —Mannie Seamon, who expertly trained five boxing champions, will get Joe Louis ready for the 22nd. defence of his world's heavyweight championship against Billy Conn in New York Yankee Stadium June 19.

Seamon, 48-year-old New Yorker and boxing trainer for thirty years, first gained recognition with Benny Leonard, who reigned as world's lightweight champion 25 years ago. He became assistant to the late Jack (Chappie) Blackburn, Louis' first trainer and mentor in 1938.

Seamon lives in the same quarters with Louis during training camp periods, eats with him and frolics with him in the evenings. He knows the heavyweight champion's moods like a book.

Sitting in a comfortable rocking chair on the porch of the two-storey white frame hotel in which Louis is quartered, he outlined Louis' training routine for the 48 days the Brown Bomber will remain in this village spa. He will be allowed to slip into his hard work gradually.

"For the first two weeks," Seamon began, "Joe will simply catch up with himself. He doesn't have to be rushed. He'll take it easy, get plenty of sleep, eat twice daily and take his training in stride. He probably won't do anything more strenuous than long walks over the hills. Then, after he gets into the swing of things, I will step him up to a set routine."

Louis will be outfitted with big, heavy army shoes; backwoodsman lumber jackets, heavy shirts and a two-bladed axe for whacking down trees in the wooded foothills of the Cumberland mountains.

"Louis is a great worker," Seamon explained, "Loves it .. loves to trains .. he loves that title, too, and certainly will be in grand shape to defend it."

Seamon likens himself to a nurse in caring for the title holder.

"I watch his performance on the road, in the ring and at leisure," Seamon added. "If he looks bad in his ring workouts, as he sometimes does, he'll make up for it on the road. He never was a gymnasium fighter. He wins in combat."

26 WILL START IN HANDICAP

Arcadia, Calif., March 9. (AP) —The richest race in the world, the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap, ran smack into the probability of one of the largest fields ever assembled for a major American stake event in its ninth running today over 1 1-4 miles.

Twenty-six horses, three-year-olds and older, were entered and jockeys named for all but two. The entry list was so large, 13 horses were grouped as No. 12 in the wagering field, as the Mutuel Board has only 12 spaces. If all 26 start, the race will be worth $139,400.

Regardless of the number of actual starters, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Mulrenan's sturdy First Fiddle, fourth-ranking all-time money winner, appeared certain to go to the post the favorite at about 3-1. The seven-year-old Fiddle has earned $361,595. The $102,660 first money would put him second to Whirlaway, ahead of Seabiscuit and Sun Beau in all-time earnings.

No Fine Imposed On Marchildon Says Connie Mack

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 9 (CP)—Connie Mack, Manager of Philadelphia Athletics, denied yesterday that he has imposed any fine on pitcher Phil Marchildon for failing to report.

Mack expressed surprise when told Marchildon was reported to have said that he was being fined $50 a day.

"There is no way he can be fined when he is not under contract," the veteran manager said.

Mack said he received a telegram Wednesday from Machildon saying that the Penetanguishene, Ont., pitcher had been awaiting word from the Athletics for over a month about his contract, which Marchildon had previously turned down.

Mack said that he immediately wired Marchildon that the contract was final, but that if he reported here by March 12 the Athletics would refund his transportation.

The Philadelphia manager explained that the terms of the pitcher's contract were based upon the fact that Marchildon pitched only five innings in the 10 weeks he was with the team last year.

If Marchildon arrives and shows his pre-war form, the club probably would be willing to negotiate with him further, Mack said.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 9 — (CP) — Probably just by way of argument, Stan Newman, 45-year-old world-known snooker and billiards player, says Canadians "are not up to the standard" of players on this side of the Atlantic.

By this, he adds hastily, "I don't mean Canada produces only corner-block pool-room sharks."

Newman, only man in the world to make two consecutive breaks of more than 100, toured Canada in 1925 and 1926 and says players from the Dominion need only encouragement. "It would be a great boon for us if some Canadians would come over here. We could hold an international tournament."

Interviewed between games during preliminary heats of the world's snooker championships held at the "Cosy Snooker Parlor," Tooting, in southeast London, Newman said he would like to visit Canada again next year "if it could be arranged." He would lecture and play exhibitions in the various cities.

Many halls in Britain were blitzed during the war and Newman says all that is needed to give the game a "lift" is rebuilding of halls that would seat from 500 to 2,000 persons. "The game is tremendously popular here and I expect to see it grow greater."

Practice of six to eight hours daily for at least four years "would turn out a first-class player," he says. He has been in the game 27 years and is "making a decent living at it."

But his income — or any other first-class player — doesn't approach the salary of National Hockey League players. "Perhaps in the future, though, we will net $7,000 or $8,000 a year."

Wally Hammond, England's great cricket captain, has a tremendous respect for Australia's Don Bradman.

Speaking at the Cricket Club Conference annual meeting in London recently, Hammond said it would "need a Churchill to describe adequately what Bradman has done for the game." He expressed a hope Bradman would again play in test cricket.

Of Bradman "I would say 'seldom in the history of cricket has so much been scored off so many by so few'," by so few'."

Footballer Ray White came back from Dunkerque sightless. Exposure, long immersion in the water had their effects.

Gradually, sight returned and this year he asked Tottenham Hotspurs of the English Football League (South) for a trial. He got his chance Feb. 23 against Luton Town as a halfback and made good.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 9 — (CP)—By act of parliament passed in the year of Confederation, 1867, lacrosse is Canada's national game. Yet its colorful past, its rise to popularity and its gradual decline lack a chronicler. The time for writing the history of lacrosse is now. Soon the last of those who played with the "giants" of the game — even those who saw them play — will have passed from the scene.

The parliamentary decision in awarding the honor to the Indian pastime of baggataway rather than to hockey has long been a puzzle to many sport fans. The fathers of Confederation probably were influenced by the fact lacrosse is native to North America whereas hockey had its roots in Europe.

Variations of the game have been known on this continent almost from the time Columbus made his historic discovery. Apart from its sport aspect, lacrosse played a part in the country's history, assurance that it will not be forgotten for centuries to come. It was the game Chief Pontiac used in the Indian uprising in 1763 as a ruse to overwhelm British garrisons.

By "carelessly" throwing a ball into the fort during a "friendly" match between the garrison and an Indian team, the natives would get into the fort and open the gates to swarms of warriors waiting among the spectators outside.

In 1869 a book was published by a Montrealer about lacrosse, but it is long since out of print and few copies exist. Nor is it a true history since it deals solely with the game's earliest development.

The 30-year-period between 1880 and 1910 was the Golden Age of boxla, boasting such greats as Ross MacKenzie, Newsy Lalonde, Charlie Querrie, Sport Murton, Harry Hoobin and Billy Fitzgerald.

During that time many Canadian cities cradled and fostered the game. Ottawa was home to the great Capitals, while Montreal was famous for the Shamrocks, Nationals and M. A. A. A. teams, Cornwall and Toronto were other thriving lacrosse centres in the early 80s.

Transported to the Pacific coast, boxla flourished in New Westminster, B.C., home of the famed Salmonbellies. But similar transplanting to the Maritimes met with little success.

Like that of the Roman Empire, the declining path of lacrosse leads but to its fall. And were it not for the enthusiasm in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, it would today be dead.

Among trophies that grace mantles the continent across today, hangs many a lacrosse stick —memory of some past glory — a melancholy symbol of Canada's national game.

NEGRO PLAYERS WELL TREATED

By GAYLE TALBOT

Tampa, Fla., March 9 — (AP) —The two Negro ball players, Jackie Robinson and John Wright, are being treated precisely like everyone else while they are on the Montreal Royals' training field in the outskirts of Daytona, and from here on it is up to them to demonstrate they can play double-A baseball.

Robinson and Wright, in the hour we watched the club work-out the other day, took part in the "pepper" games against the grandstand, shagged flies in the outfield and took their turn with the wood in batting practice. Wright pitched to the batters and showed speed and control.

Two of the largest Negro newspapers have sent sports writers to the Royals' camp, and they find no fault with the trial the two men are receiving. Robinson and Wright are living at a nearby Negro college, while the remainder of the team bunks at a resort hotel.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 331

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

BRIDGE LAW

The clunks like Gabby Gushenguteh should change their game to rummy. At bridge they always talk too much whenever they are dummy.

The customary beef against dummy is his habit of roving. As soon as his hand is spread, he leaves his seat for no apparent reason but to breath down the necks of the other players.

However, a fault that is just as bad or even worse is that he speaks out of turn. By that I mean that he says some things that the laws of bridge do not permit him to express.

In a recent deal, the bidding had stopped. As an opponent was about to start with the opening lead, dummy said: "Somebody tell me how the bidding went."

Is dummy entitled to a review of the bidding? The bridge laws say no. After the bidding ends and before the opening lead, certain players can get that information from certain other players.

The declarer may ask opponents to restate the previous bids. But he must not ask or get that information from dummy. Either of the opponents may ask declarer or dummy. But not his own property.

If either opponent asks dummy, he may reply. But not if declarer asks. Nor may dummy voluntarily state the bids. However, he has the right to correct anybody's wrong restatement of them.

The words in the laws are: After the final bid and before the opening lead, declarer or a defender may ask opponents to restate calls. Dummy may reply to a defender's restatement request and should correct errors in restatement but may not ask to have calls restated.

Just so your day is not spoiled, lead from this hand:

♠ A Q 7
♥ Q 5
♦ 8 6 4 3
♣ J 9 5 2

Your correct opening lead from that hand is the deuce of clubs. The reason you lead a small card is because you have no honor lead.

Leaders often find good use even for the lowly deuce.

Ray Milland, whose dipsomaniac role in "The Lost Weekend" won the industry's acclaim, was just another broke actor for years. Finally he landed a gigolo part in a Carole Lombard - Bing Crosby picture and played in program films for 10 years until he won an Oscar at the age of 38.

In Manhattan

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 9 (CP) — John Coulter, well-known Toronto writer, may have a play running on Broadway next season, producer Eddie Dowling announced this week. Option to the yet-untitled drama, based on a 19th century Russian novel, "Oblomoff," has been bought by Mr. Dowling.

Mr. Coulter, an Ulster Irishman who came to Canada after several years in London, read the novel some 15 years ago. Last November he suddenly sat down and pounded out the play in 10 days of intensive writing.

It was previewed this week at the Arts and Letters Club in Toronto. Mr. Dowling, still occupied as co-producer and co-star of the long-running "The Glass Menagerie" here, has not yet scheduled New York production plans for Mr. Coulter's drama.

Mr. Coulter also is the author of a short novel, "Turf Smoke," wrote the libretto of the short radio opera, "Transit Through Fire" for which Dr. Healy Willan provided the score, and has completed work on a full-length radio opera "Deirdre of the Sorrows," to be presented next month by the CBC.

One of the most controversial episodes of this not-too-exciting season was the opening and scheduled closing of Maxwell Anderson's drama, "Truckline Cafe."

Mr. Anderson, whose "Both Your Houses", "High Tor," "Interest," "Knickerbocker Holiday" and half-share in "What Price Glory?" have given him a high place among modern American playwrights, came up this time with a play about the mental scars the war has left on those who saw it from the battle front and the home front

The action, laid in an all-night coffee-stand on a California highway, concerns several couples who have been separated by the war and now are faced with the need for finding a formula with which to reassemble their interrupted lives.

Marion Grudeff, erstwhile Toronto child prodigy, came to New York this week at the grand old age of 18 to make her Town Hall debut. Ter piano recital was somewhat overshadowed for the evening by the Carnegie Hall appearance of violinist Erica Morini, an established favorite of New York concert-goers, but those first-line critics who attended Miss Grudeff's performance gave her generous notices.

KENTUCKY DERBY HAS 149 ENTRIES

Louisville, Ky., March 9 (AP)— The owners of 149 well bred colts, fillies and geldings cast hopeful eyes today toward the 72nd running of the Kentucky Derby, as Col. Matt J. Winn announced the list of nominations for the May 4 turf classic at Churchill Downs.

The list included virtually every star from last year's crop of two-year-olds, each owner hoping for a crack at that $100,000 added money and the gold trophy. Col. Winn, Downs president, called it "a brilliant field."

High among the names were those nominated by Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's Maine Chance farm.

They include such stars as Knockdown, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby; Star Pilot, one of last year's ranking two-year-olds; Lord Boswell and Colony Boy.

Among the other nominations were such performers as Dixiana's Spy Song, Fred Wyse's Air Rate, Calumet Farm's High Shine, Hal Price Headley's Pellicile, C. J. Sebastian's Gala Damion, Bobanet Stable's Marine Victory, John Marsch's Mighty Story, Mrs. Louise Donovan's Fighting Frank, Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Mist O' Gold and many others.

NORTHERN ONT. TEAM MADE UP OF VETERANS

McIntyre Squad Will Play Hamilton Tigers for the Ontario Senior Title

Timmins, March 9 (CP) — A team of Northern Ontario hockey veterans with a mere sprinkling of youthful blood, the 1945-46 senior championship McIntyre squad goes into action tonight against Hamilton Tigers in an all-Ontario best-of-five series.

Macmen, making their first bid for the provincial crown, won the right to meet the Ontario Hockey Association champions by virtue of a victory over Sudbury Wolves in three straight games of a best-of-five series for the Northern Ontario Hockey Association title.

With only one addition to the team since the series with Sudbury wound up here Wednesday night, the Macmen moved out of Timmins by train Thursday for their jaunt to Hamilton. Vic (Hank) Haneberry, who starred with Ottawa R.C.A.F. Flyers when they won the Allan Cup in 1942 and who recently was discharged from the Air Force, was given the green light for the current series by W. A. Hewitt, O.H.A. Secretary.

Haneberry became the storm centre of a controversy when he joined Dome Porkies for the semi-finals in the Porcupine before his release had been made official.

Played With Air Force

During the current season the lanky right-winger played with the Air Force squad in the Ottawa inter-service league and with the Ottawa Senators of the Q.A.H.L. A team-mate of Haneberry on the Allan Cup service squad of 1941-42 is burly defenceman Roy Hawkey, back in the Porcupine after overseas service, who played the regular season with Buffalo Ankerite Bisons.

Goalie Alex Brownlee, native of Port Colborne, Ont., returned to the Ankerite squad this season following his release from the army.

Lyle Porter, the regular McIntyre netminder, is along on the trip, but an infected foot probably will keep him on the sidelines except in an emergency.

With Hawkey back of the blue line will be fast-skating Joe Iannerelli, generally credited as the one-man addition to the club which made Macmen the big favorites in the Porcupine Mines League finals.

Iannarelli recently was discharged from the army after serving with the provost corps. His previous hockey experience was limited to a forward line spot, but frequent breakaways make him a regular scoring threat.

Taking Along Kid Line

Mickey McKay, fast-skating veteran, and husky Boyd Prentice comprise the other defenceman making the jaunt.

Coach Jimmy Colquhoun is taking along his "kid line" centred by Red Doran, a pre-war star with Omaha and Porcupine district senior and junior teams. Back in Canada only two weeks, Doran joined the squad for the northern finals. His wings are diminutive Nellie Boyce, who led the regular schedule scoring race until the last few games, and play-maker Nick Tomiuk. The three "kids" were a big attraction in the series with Sudbury Wolves.

On the second line will be Oscar (Moose) Clouthier, sharp-shooting centreman of last year's Sudbury Frood Tigers; Roy (Wink) Wilson, oldest player on the team but still considered one of the fastest skaters and hardest shots of the Porcupine Mines league; and Jack Ladds, former Toronto navy star forward.

Utility players will be Haneberry, Ralph Orlando, Ted Lister and Lino Delmonte, all front linesmen in the regular Porcupine schedule.

Hobe Esseltine regular coach of the Buffalo Ankerite squad, is along as manager.

AT THE CAPITOL — Ray Milland, the movie man of the year, 1945 Academy Award Winner, is the star of Paramount's "Ministry of Fear," opening next at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program as timely as today's headlines, "Crime School," starring Humphrey Bogart, and the Dead End Kids.

B.C.I. Will Present Pirates of Penzance For Three Nights

Confident that their annual spring stage presentation will again be a success, the cast and directors of the Belleville Collegiate opera "The Pirates of Penzance" are awaiting expectantly for its presentation on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week.

Giving strength to the confidence of cast and directors that the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera "The Pirates of Penzance" will be an outstanding success is the assurance of Major McCool, director of music in the Ontario Department of Education who, following his attendance at a rehearsal, stated that only in one large city collegiate had he seen a more finished performance.

Although much credit is due to staff members and students participating in preparation of the opera, two Belleville musicians, Mr. W. E. Wheatley and Mr. Alec Gordon, have lent prestige and finish to the presentation with professional accompaniments. The precision, timing, beauty of voice and the polished acting reflect the wide experience in training amateurs that Mr. Maybee, Miss Merry and Mr. Youdale possess.

School authorities feel that the group of fifty-five boys and girls taking part in "The Pirates of Penzance" are receiving invaluable training, singing, in acting and deriving pleasure from creating their own entertainment. In later life they will take with them a greater knowledge and appreciation of good music.

Parents and other city residents are well advised to attend one of the three performances of "The Pirates of Penzance" starting Wednesday evening.

AT THE McCARTHY — Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Jack Benny's man Friday on the air, is seen in "I Love a Bandleader," Columbia Pictures' new musical production now at the McCarthy Theatre, along with "The Adventures of Rusty," with "Ace," the wonder dog.

Belleville Juniors To Start Drive In O.H.A. Playdowns

The Belleville Juniors journey to Kingston Monday night to engage the youthful Kingston "Saints" in the first round of the O.H.A. Junior "B" playdowns. The locals swept through their group undefeated playing a good brand of hockey throughout but the meeting with Kingston will be the supreme test.

'Tis reported that the Saints as a team possess exceptional speed and they also specialize in combination. Most of their players will be in junior company for another three years while some have four and five years to go in the age-limit ranks.

The Saints knocked off the highly-touted Vics in group play-offs and cannot be regarded too lightly by the Holway aggregation.

In Sammy Mulholland, the Saints have the fastest skater in the Kingston junior ranks. Sammy is regarded as one of Kingston's best all-round athletes, starring in football, hockey and senior baseball.

Doctors Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Welch

CHAPTER 21

"You wouldn't, Phil. You don't care very much for children."

"Oh, I like them well enough in their place."

There was a silence as they walked on together. There wasn't any moon tonight. Only a few timid stars had ventured out. The air was so still Gina could hear a sleepy bird chirping in a whisper to his mate.

Suddenly Phil said, "Look, Gina, I want to marry you."

"No, you don't, Phil. Not really."

"And to tell you the truth, I'm making good on my own. You remember the heart case, the one I operated on. Of course strictly under Edson's careful instructions, but that isn't generally known, and doesn't need to be. The point is, I've received quite a lot of favorable publicity and a very excellent offer from a big city hospital. New York, no less, Gina."

"Why, Phil, I think that's splendid. You did a wonderful job and you deserve everything you've been offered."

"How'd you like to live in New York?"

"It would be thrilling, only... of course..."

Phil bent his head over hers, "Of course what?"

"I can't marry you, Phil. I don't love you. I like you, of course, but..but it's no more than that. I think I'll say good night now, Phil."

"Wait." Phil caught her arm again. "Look, Gina, I've done everything I could to get you out of my mind. I've made dates with any number of girls. I've run around with a lot of them in Cynthia Snowden's crowd, pretty girls, all dressed up like Christmas trees. It didn't do any good. You're the girl I want, Gina. The others just simply haven't counted."

"Phil, I'm sorry. I really am," Gina tried to pull her arm away, but he held her fast. "Wait," he said again, and suddenly went on. "I'll get this child for you, this Patsy, if that's the one thing you want and must have: that is, if you'll marry me. I'll make arrangements to adopt her at once. It can be done easily enough, I think."

Gina stood there very still, her heart beating thickly. Could she marry Phil in order to make a home for Patsy, to take her away from all that awful squalor and neglect? "Phil," she began at last, "I want Patsy very, very much, but I..after all .. Oh, Phil, I don't know. It's a hard question to decide and it.. it came so suddenly."

He patted her arm gently. "Take a few days to think it over, Gina. I feel sure you'll see things my way. I'm going places. I'm not going to remain in this little one-horse hospital much longer, and you can go with me."

"And Patsy?" Gina heard herself saying a little breathlessly.

Gina went on to the cottage a few minutes later. She hadn't been there very long before she was called back to the hospital. An emergency. With Lora gone she was needed.

Luckily Phil was on hand, as Timothy was not there. An hour or so later, when things were quiet again, the telephone rang just as Gina started to go back to the cottage. It was Timothy.

"Is Doctor Chester there?" he asked quickly.

Gina replied in the affirmative. Then he told her to ask him to come out to a certain address which he had her write down carefully and bring some penicillin from his supply in the store room.

But when Gina went to find Phil, he'd gone on uptown. The orderly was also gone. There was nothing to do but to take it out there herself.

Gina knew the address Timothy had given her. It was in another tumbled-down slum section of the city, where people were too poor to live in a better part of town, or too shiftless to care.

It was raining when she started out, and Gina wondered why, whenever she and Timothy had work to do together or met outside of the hospital, it seemed to be raining or snowing.

She was there at last, paid the driver, told him not to wait and hurried toward the low, unpainted house from which a dim light from an oil lamp burned in the front room.

She pushed open the unlocked door, stepped into a bare little hallway. Almost immediately Timothy was there. "Gina!" he exclaimed in shocked surprise. "You shouldn't have done this." Then he added in a whisper, "Go on back as quickly as you can. Give me the medicine first."

She handed it to him, made a step or two inside the room where a man lay on a bed groaning. Gina saw he had been wounded. Timothy had given him first aid. Huddled in a rickety chair over in far corner of the room, Gina saw a pale, washed-out looking woman in a clean but faded striped cotton dress. Timothy said, "Her husband has been shot. It's a nasty wound... waited too long for attention." Timothy stepped back in the room, after adding, "You'd better go on back now, Gina, and thanks."

"I can't," she said in a whisper. "I sent the cab back. Besides, I want to help you."

Timothy gave her a quick glance. "Well, in that case.."

Gina came on in the room. Gina knew this wasn't the woman's husband. She'd attended him once during the time she'd been district nurse, and recognized the woman who was huddled over in a far corner. Gina had forgotten her name.

Gina did what she could while Timothy administered the penicillin; then she went over to the woman and spoke reassuringly. "He'll be all right in no time at all. Don't worry."

The woman looked at her out of great hollow eyes, made a motion with her lips as if to speak, but somehow the words didn't come. One thing was plain. She wasn't worried about the man in the bed. But something was almost frightening her out of her wits. It seemed to Gina that her eyes had involuntarily gone toward a small closet door opening in the room on the opposite side of the crude fireplace.

Timothy sat down in the backless chair beside the bed to await any reaction from the wounded man. Gina mended the dying fire with a bit of wood she'd found on a little lean-to-porch.

She persuaded the frightened woman to move a little closer to the fire. Touching her hand she found it as cold as ice, and was conscious that it trembled under her touch.

There was something wrong here.. something dreadfully wrong. She'd been conscious of a queer, almost sinister atmosphere from the moment she'd entered the hall. Timothy himself must have been conscious of it for he had not wanted her to come in.

She couldn't help noticing that now and then the woman's eyes seemed to wander involuntarily again toward the closet. Was there someone in there of whom she was afraid? Her husband, perhaps? Could he have come home unexpectedly and found this blond young man in his house and shot him in a fit of wild jealousy and was now hiding in the closet? Gina dismissed this idea as too melodramatic. She leaned over to the woman and said in a low voice, "Why are you afraid? If you'll explain, Doctor Gordon will help you. That's what we're here for....to help."

The woman spoke between nearly clenched teeth, "I'm afraid because .. we're all in danger."

Timothy rose from his broken-backed chair beside the bed. "He'll do now, will sleep the rest of the night. I'll come out again early tomorrow. In the meantime, keep him quiet."

The woman rose uncertainly. Gina gave the fire a little poke. She turned her head startled, as a sudden, near-gutteral voice broke in. "You're not leaving.. neither you nor the girl."

A man had stepped out from the closet, another one almost as tall and blond as the young man on the bed. His clothes told the story. On the back of the jacket were the letters, "P.W.".

Gina saw it all in a flash now. These two men were escaped prisoners, Germans, of course, from Camp Robinson. And this man held a revolver in his hand, carefully turned on Timothy. He said in good English, though still with a gutteral accent,. "If you will follow instructions carefully, you will not be hurt; otherwise I'll use this," he made a slight movement with the gun.

Timothy stood there very straight and tall, his face calm, his eyes thoughtful. He was considering what chance they might have to escape this desperate man. Gina as yet saw no chance whatever.

"First, your clothes," the prisoner said. "We will exchange. Then the keys to your car."

Timothy stood there regarding him calmly. "I have no intention whatever of exchanging clothes with you."

"Not even when I carry the difference?" the man made another slight movement with his revolver, while Timothy held his eyes steadily. "Not even then," he said.

"I can easily finish you off and take what I need," the gutteral voice came again.

"In which case you wouldn't be just a prisoner of war. You'd be hanged, or face a firing squad."

The prisoner's face flushed darkly. "So you want to play like that, do you? You're going to force me.."

At that moment Gina's voice rang out, "Oh, Paul!" She was looking directly over the prisoner's shoulder. He whirled around, expecting to be attacked from the rear. This gave Timothy the chance he needed. Quick as a flash he threw his weight against the man, grappled with him, succeeded in getting the revolver from his fingers; the next thing he was pummeling his head against the floor until at last his resistance ceased. But Timothy hadn't gotten off unscathed.

The German had put up a stiff fight with his bare hands. Timothy would have a bad eye for a while, a badly torn shoulder.

After he had the German completely subdued, tied up with a stout rope, the woman brought him, Gina took a quick look at him and ran out to the car. "Thank goodness I brought the first aid kit. Timothy, I shouldn't wonder if you'll need a stitch or two in your shoulder."

But Timothy had only grinned. "You're a girl in a million, Gina. My right hand..also my left."

While Gina was busy giving Timothy first aid, the farm woman had gone to the closet where her husband lay bound and gagged. He shook himself free and stepped out gingerly toward the doctor. "Thanks a hundred times, Doctor Gordon."

"Thank the young lady here," Timothy told him. The little man turned to Gina. "That's true. If it hadn't been for you.."

Timothy looked relieved. He gave instructions. Keep the pistol close by. He'd examined it, found it was in good working order; keep watch over the sick man. Not that he believed there'd be any further trouble. He'd get in touch with the police and the military as soon as he reached town. Wouldn't be long before some of them would show up.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was home erly on account of Saturday, and I said, Hap pop, can I have a nickel?

A nickel is a lot of money, even when you say it that fast, pop said. There are five cents in a nickel, and if you place them in a straight line one yard apart, they would stretch the entire length of this room. When I was your age I used to ask my father for a penny, and it seemed to me like quite a sum of money, and my father thought so too, he said.

Well jimminy, pop, I mean gosh, what can I do with a cent? I said, and pop said, That question never used to worry me. I could do plenty with a cent I could buy enough lickerish shoe lacers to keep my jaws moving for hours and blacken practically my whole face, or a whole mushmellow bannanna or 3 wedges of sugar and gum that looked just like slices of orange and tasted even better. Or I could buy enough jelly beans to keep me busy the rest of the day if I was moderately carefill, or 5 to 6 sourballs or a fistfull of chockolate pennies with little round specks of sugar all over them. Or, if I was fed up on candy on account of having had a cent the day before, I could buy a top to spin. Maybe not a shiny hardwood top, but a good werking top, he said.

But G roozalem, pop, you cant get anything like that for a cent any more, I said. And anyways, pop, I bet you make about 5 times more than your father did, so that proves money was scarcer then, I said, and pop said, I may make 5 times more, but I save a darn site less, if any, so that proves money is scarcer now, doesn't it?

Yes sir, I guess so, can I have a nickel? I said, and pop said, Well, okay, if you promise to discourrage inflation by walking, and not running, to wherever you're going to spend it.

The result being I walked exter fast to the stationerry candy store.

NEW BIKE PUMP INVENTED

London, March 9—(Reuters)—A new pump-as-you-pedal bicycle tire pump, designed by a brother of the man who designed Britain's famous fighter aircraft Hurricane, Typhoon and Tempest, will be on the home market for 12 shillings and six pence ($2.80) in July.

F. J. Camm, younger brother of aircraft designer Sydney Camm, said his tire pump will keep tires inflated after puncture. He has designed an automobile pump along the same lines but it is "for export only."

SIGN CONFESSIONS ON BLACK MARKET DEAL

Tokyo, March 9 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced Friday that the last of four American officers arrested in connection with a 1,000,000 yen ($66,667) black market transaction had signed confessions. The four were not identified. Commanding officers of those involved will be responsible for charges against them.

BY-LAW NUMBER A

Relating to Owners And Drivers Of Cars And Other Vehicles Regularly Used For Hire

PASSED the 23rd. day of February A.D. 1946.

WHEREAS Boards of Commissioners of Police of Cities are authorized by Statute to pass By-Laws for licensing, regulating and governing teamsters, carters, draymen, owners and drivers of cabs, busses, motor and other vehicles regularly used for hire within the City and for establishing the rates or fares to be charged by the owners or drivers of such vehicles for the conveyance of goods or passengers, either wholly within the City or to any other point not more than three miles beyond its limits and for providing for and enforcing payment of such rates or fares and for revoking and cancelling the license;

THEREFORE the Board of Commissioners of Police for the City of Belleville hereby enacts as follows:

(e) "Owner" shall mean any person licensed to operate an automobile livery in the City of Belleville.

The Chief of Police shall have supervision over all persons licensed under this By-Law and over all cabs together with the equipment used by them.

The owner of any Cab shall not use or operate the same or allow the same to be used or operated without a license hereinafter set forth, which said license may be in form "B" to this By-Law annexed or in some like form and such owner shall prior to obtaining his license pay such fee thereof to the Treasurer of the City of Belleville as may be prescribed by the Board from time to time.

Before the owner's license shall be issued, the applicant therefor shall file with the Treasurer of the City of Belleville a certificate of a Policy of Insurance issued by a Company authorized to issue Indemnity Insurance Policies in the Province of Ontario, for a period of time which extends to or beyond the expiry of the current license year, insuring the applicant to the amount of $10,000.00 against liability for damages resulting from injury or death occasioned by any accident arising out of the operations of the Cab in respect of which a license is applied for, with a maximum of $5,000.00 for bodily injuries to or death of any one person arising out of any one accident including passenger hazard for the above amounts, and to the amount of $1,000.00 covering legal liability for damage to property of others. Every such policy shall be kept in force by such owner during the period for which such license issued to him, or any renewal thereof, is in effect and should he fail to renew the same from time to time and pay the premiums due thereon, the Chief of Police may, upon notice to him, cancel such license. Every authorized insurer insuring the applicant and holders of licenses issued by the Treasurer on the authority of the Board shall at least fifteen (15) days prior to the cancellation of any policy held by the holder of any license issued under this By-Law notify the Treasurer of the said City by registered mail of its intention to cancel the said policy, and provisions to this effect shall be inserted in the policy by the Company issuing same.

Every Owner of one or more Cabs required to be licensed under this By-Law shall take out a separate license for each cab, the fee for such license shall be $10.00. Such license for carrying passengers shall not authorize the holder thereof to carry for hire, gain or reward, or hope thereof, any goods or chattels other than the bona fide luggage of the passengers being carried by him, but the mere carrying of a few small parcels or chattels, when requested by a passenger shall not be deemed a breach of this section.

The Chief of Police may at any time, for any cause appearing to him sufficient, suspend the license issued to the owner or driver of any Cab or other vehicle, and shall in such event report such suspension to the Board with all reasonable despatch and the Board may either continue such suspension for such period of time as it shall determine, or may re-instate such license; or if the circumstances shall appear to it to warrant such action may revoke such license.

No owner of any Cab shall employ any person other than a licensed driver under this By-Law as the driver of his Cab.

No owner or driver shall consume or have in his possession illegally any liquor while he is in charge of his Cab, nor shall the use of liquor by him be apparent while he is in charge of such Cab.

No owner or driver shall refuse a request for his services by any person requiring the service of his Cab without sufficient cause for such refusal.

Where any order has been given for a Cab that has been previously engaged, the owner or driver shall immediately advise the person so ordering of the prior engagement. Upon the owner or driver accepting a second engagement for the same trip he shall immediately advise his first fare.

The rates of fares to be charged by the owners of Cabs within the City of Belleville shall be exactly as shown in Schedule "A" to this By-Law, and no higher or lower amount than that contained in said Schedule shall be charged or payable.

No owner or driver shall publish or use a tariff or demand and receive rates or charges other than those authorized by this By-Law whether such rates and charges are determined by trip or by time.

In any case where one or more passengers is, or are carried to any point within the City of Belleville, the passengers or such of them as may request it, shall be entitled to hold the taxicab at destination by paying a waiting charge calculated at the rate not exceeding .15c for each five minutes or part thereof of waiting time after the first five minutes, and thereafter to be carried back to the place where the passenger or passengers were first picked up. But no taxicab will be required to wait for a longer period than 30 minutes, except that such longer waiting shall be voluntary on the part of the taxicab operator and that the charge set out above shall apply to such waiting period.

No person employing any Cab shall refuse upon demand to pay the fare or charge authorized by this By-Law.

Except as otherwise provided herein or by Statute, any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this By-Law or any By-Law amending the same, shall forfeit and pay, at the discretion of the convicting Magistrate, a penalty not exceeding $50.00 for each offence, exclusive of costs, and in default of payment of said penalty and costs forthwith, the said penalty and costs or costs only, may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in case of there being no distress found out of which such penalty can be levied, the convicting Magistrate may commit the offender to the common Gaol of the County of Hastings, with or without hard labor for any period not exceeding six calendar months unless the said penalty and costs, or costs only, including the costs of said distress and of the committal and conveying of the offender to the said Gaol are sooner paid. The procedure for the recovery of penalties under this Section shall be as laid down in the Ontario Summary Convictions Act.

Any notice of suspension, or revocation of any license required to be given by the Chief of Police or by or on behalf of the Board, or any other notice required under this By-Law shall be effectively given if served personally or if sent by prepaid registered post addressed to the party entitled to such notice at the address given by him in his application for a license, or any amendment of such address previously notified to the Chief of Police or the Board in writing.

No License issued under the authority of this By-Law shall without the authority of the Board be assignable or transferable and any transfer made or purported to be made without such authority shall be void.

All By-Laws or parts of By-Laws heretofore passed inconsistent with this By-Law are hereby repealed.

The provisions of this By-Law shall come into force and effect on and after March 1, 1946.

Charred Remains To be Returned To Battle Scene

Toronto, March 9 — (CP)—The charred remains of an unknown soldier who died a fiery death in a tank near the Falaise Gap in Normandy are being returned for burial at the scene of his death—consigned to a return Atlantic journey by a firm policy of "fairness to all" laid down by the War Graves Commission.

The ashes, however, will remain on Canadian soil.

The bones were found in a burned-out tank near the scene of the historic Canadian battleground by an army chaplain, Hon. Maj. Robert Currie Creelman, padre of the 1st Hussars of London, Ont., who brought them to Canada in an urn in hopes he might build a memorial chapel and tomb in the soldier's memory.

He scattered the ashes on the property of the Presbyterian church at nearby Weston, where he is minister, before the Canadian government requested the remains for return overseas.

The scrict policy that all Canadians killed overseas must be buried overseas was formulated by the Imperial War Graves Commission and accepted by Canada. It was felt that if some families were permitted to bring home the remains of a soldier, the Canadian War Graves Commission would be flooded with requests from bereaved parents for similar action.

The policy was adopted as the only practicable one which would be fair to all concerned.

The urn and the bones were turned over to Hon. Col. J. Logan-Vencta of Ottawa, former principal Protestant chaplain, in the presence of Brigadier Churchill Mann, officer commanding Military District No. 2, on Feb. 28.

Maj. Creelman, who still hopes to have a memorial on the church grounds where he scattered the ashes, said he "had no choice but to bow to the government's decision."

Germans Developed Infra-Red Rays to Detect Enemy in Darkness

Washington, March 9 (AP) — The Germans developed technique for detecting enemy men and machines in darkness with invisible infra-red rays that have certain advantages over radar at short distances.

A report of American experts who unearthed many of Germany's wartime secrets disclosed today that the Germans effectively used these" searchlights of invisible light in two ways:

1. On tanks and other vehicles. American investigators were told by German scientists that the Nazis once used night vision equipment to surprise and destroy 65 Russian tanks before being knocked off themselves. The invisible searchlights had a range of about two miles.

2. On rifles of infantrymen, enabling a German sniper to spot and shoot enemy soldiers "in complete darkness up to distances of about 100 yards."

The infra-red searchlights sent out their invisible rays and the image of the target would be reflected back and transformed into a visible image on a viewing apparatus.

Some Advantage Over Radar

Edwin Webb Jr., chief of the communications unit of the Commerce Department's technical industrial intelligence branch, which made the report, said the infra-red technique had certain advantages over radar at short distances.

In radar, short pulses of radio energy are sent out and are "echoed" back to give a discernible image. With infra-red a continuous beam of the invisible light is used.

But Mr. Webb says the radar waves are subjected to interference because the waves spread out after leaving the transmitting apparatus. With infra-red, he said, the rays can be kept in a narrow beam, free from interference except when an infra-red beam from the other direction is directed into exactly the same path.

Moreover, he said, infra-red radiation requires far smaller equipment than does radar.

Mr. Webb said the Germans also had worked out a technique to detect infra-red searchlights if the Allies used them. The device consisted of a screen which was first exposed to sunlight. Upon exposure to infra-red light, the screen would emit a visible red glow.

But Mr. Webb said the Allies made no use of infra-red up to the end of the war "because we developed it too late."

The heart of the German device, the Americans reported, is a picture-forming tube, called a Bildowander.

How It Works

When the rays strike a target, an image in infra-red is reflected back to the apparatus and focussed by a lens connected to the tube. The image—still invisible—is fixed on one side of a translucent screen in the tube. Electronic impulses are then activated and the original image appears in visible light on the other side of the screen.

On a tank, the infra-red beam is emitted through a kind of headlight.

On an infantryman's rifle, the whole apparatus is poised on the gun barrel. Electrical power is furnished by a battery carried in a gas mask canister on the man's back.

The rifle has two triggers — one to start the infra-red, another to fire the gun.

Mr. Webb said the Germans also had tried, with partial success, to dye uniforms so that they couldn't be detected by infrared rays.

Fight for Control of Tin Smelting Industry Is Possible Shortly

London, March 9—(Reuters)—A fight for control of the world's tin smelting industry is likely in a few months if the United States insists on keeping in production a huge smelting plant erected in Texas as a wartime measure, the financial editor of the London Evening Standard said Thursday British smelters are convinced they can win easily if the American plant is not assisted by subsidies, the report said.

Australians Want Shark Nets About Beaches

By WILLIAM STEWART
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sydney, Australia, March 9 — (CP)—Australians whose most popular sport is surfing, a well-mastered trick of riding the breakers head-first, are shark-conscious.

During the war some of their precautions against sharks which abound in coastal waters had to be abandoned and lately there has been a campaign in the newspapers for resumption of meshing, which in one year caught 900 sharks, and for the use of shark repellent.

Bathers who jam the dozen and a half good beaches around Sydney have been kept aware of the shark menace by the recent death of a youngster caught just a few feet from shore by a man-eater, a swimming sailor's loss of a leg, and recent alarms that drove people from the water Sunday afternoons.

Odds against individual attack by a shark quoted at 11,000,000 to 1, give some comfort but the uneasiness of most swimmers will disappear only when 1,000 foot nets are dropped nightly offshore.

During the years this system of "meshing" was regular practice, there were no shark victims. In the previous 50 years about 120 attacks were reported.

While laying of these nets is not yet resumed, there are still elaborate precautions for the people who on one beach will number 10,000. Alarms are given by low-flying airplanes patrolling the shore and issuing advertisements by loud-speaker when no sharks are in sight. There are also beach-based shark spotters and warning systems, and sections of some beaches are permanently meshed-in against sharks.

Years of swimming and bathing in waters really shark-infected have given the majority of Australians a fund of shark stories and a close familiarity with shark habits.

A few facts about sharks: They will attack in water less than four feet deep. The shallow water of small rivers emptying into the sea is as dangerous as the seaside. Sharks are hungry at dawn and dusk.

When one more is a Crowd!

When the family comes home, or friends are caught in town without hotel accommodation, you can always make room for one more : : : if Dad will sleep on the chesterfield. But sometimes there simply is no room for one more.

Take the home that is not adequately wired, for instance. That new sandwich grill may be one appliance too many for the circuit to carry. The new kitchen mixer may be out of luck for a convenient wall outlet to operate from. Where to put that frozen-food cabinet may be a bigger problem than finding one you can buy. The wall outlet in the chosen corner may be already "overloaded" because of improper distribution of outlets per circuit.

When you build or remodel, be sure that your home is adequately wired. Be sure that it is ready to receive the new electrical appliances that you will be wanting to add from time to time. Employ a reliable electrical contractor, and see that there are plenty of outlets in every room, and circuits enough to serve them all adequately.

Your Hydro supplies power at rates that are among the lowest in the world. If you are to have full advantage of its convenience, your home must be adequately wired.

If you are improving or building a home, ask your Hydro for the booklet, "Adequate Wiring for the Postwar Electric Homes of Canada."

Lewis Summons Policy Committee To Chart Demands

Negotiations With Soft Coal Operators Open Tues.

New York, March 11 —(AP)— John L. Lewis summoned his 250-man policy committee today to chart demands he will present to bituminous coal operators in negotiations opening tomorrow in Washington.

Lewis' American Federation of Labor United Mine Workers Union, representing 400,000 employees of the soft coal industry, already has taken legal preliminaries for a strike, should negotiations on a contract to replace the one expiring April 1 fail.

A royalty on each ton of coal mined, which would be placed in the Union Welfare and Hospitalization Fund, was expected to be one of Lewis' chief demands. Also likely were proposals for a shorter work week, without a proportionate loss in earnings, and recognition of a U.M.W. union for supervisory workers, including mine foremen.

As labor disputes kept 757,000 workers idle, about half of them in General Motors plants and the electrical industry, a battle was shaping up for control of one of the country's most powerful unions, the C.I.O. United Auto Workers.

Both sides in the General Motors dispute charged last week that settlement of the 111-day strike was being delayed by "politics" in connection with the approaching union convention.

Hitler Became Abnormal After France's Conquest

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, March 11 (AP) — Hitler's mind underwent a change after his 1940 conquest of France and he became "abnormal," Field Marshal Gen. Erhard Milch, former chief of the Luftwaffe, testified before the international military tribunal today.

"Hitler was not the same. There was some change," Milch said under cross examination by prosecutor Robert H. Jackson.

"What he did then was contrary to what he said before," the witness asserted. "We could not consider this normal."

Asked if he told anyone else of his suspicion concerning the Fuehrer's mentality, Milch replied: "If I had I would have been shot immediately."

Milch said the Luftwaffe was caught short at the outbreak of the war in 1939 because Goering, his immediate superior, had ordered in 1937 that the building of four-engined night bombers be discontinued.

Prior to 1937, he said, the production of these bombers was well under way, but the air staff recommended their discontinuance because "they believed expenditures could be spared since no one was figuring on a war at that time."

Goering approved the recommendation, Milch added, and "as a result there were no bombers available in 1939 which were designed for night attacks."

Dangers of Flood Lessen in Most Ontario Points

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Dangers of floods lessened in most Ontario communities today after a weekend of clear, freezing weather. Centres which previously reported rain-swollen streams running out of their banks today found them receding.

Waters of the Thames River at Chatham slowly dropped below flood levels, leaving driftwood and bits of refuse scattered over low fields which had been inundated during a three-day period. Danger of the river reaching a serious flood level this year was reported past.

Even though the weatherman today predicted milder weather for Tuesday, most reports agreed the flood danger was over. At Chatham warm weather eliminated possibilities of ice jams last week and the rising of the river was "nothing more than usual during early spring thaw periods."

Kitchener reported the Grand River and its tributaries, the Nith and Conestogo, had receded to normal boundaries and a similar report came from Brantford.

V.C. Winner to Take Ashes to France Unknown Soldier's

Ottawa, March 11. (CP) Maj. J. W. Foote, Canada's padre V.C. from Dieppe, will sail from Halifax March 20 with the ashes of an unknown Canadian soldier killed near Falaise, France, in August, 1944.

In line with Empire policy, the ashes will be buried in a military cemetery in France. They were brought to Canada by another padre, Rev. R. C. Creelman, of Toronto, who found them in the hull of a burned-out Sherman tank near the Laison River.

Unwittingly violating official policy, he brought them home in hopes of placing them in a Canadian National Memorial and tomb.

He scattered the ashes on the property of the Presbyterian Church at Weston, Ont., where he is minister, before the Canadian government requested the remains for return overseas.

The Defence department, announcing that Maj. Foote would return the ashes to France, said the decision was in line with the rule that no remains of servicemen will be brought home to Canada at either public or private expense—a decision based primarily on equality of treatment.

Gen. MacArthur Receives Wife Of Gen. Homma

Tokyo, March 11. (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today received Mrs. Masaharu Homma, and promised her that he would consider carefully all the facts in the case before he would permit her husband's execution by a United States firing squad.

The Allied commander in a half-hour interview told the wife of his Bataan foe of 1941-42 that he "understood and sympathized", when she informed him it would be a great loss to the world if Lt.Gen. Homma were executed.

Gen. MacArthur now is reviewing the case; and his word will be final. He can uphold —or ease—the sentence.

Mrs. Homma did not beg nor plead for her husband's life said Capt. George A. Furness, Brookline, Mass., counsel for the defence at the Manila war-crimes trial, who accompanied her.

Homma was convicted Feb. 11 of permitting the Bataan death march and other atrocities which cost 67,000 American and Filipino lives.

In April Dunkerque Will Once Again Become Port of Call for Channel Ships

Paris, March 11 — (Reuters)— The return of the proud name of Dunkerque to cross-Channel timetables marks a milestone in the long road to France's national recovery.

Next month this devastated port, scene of the last British stand in France in 1940, once again will become a port of call for regular cross-channel steamships.

Already the French railway network is almost fully restored. Famous international trains, including the Paris-Copenhagen Nord Express and the Paris-Brussels-Amsterdam Etoile Du Nord will run again next May. Train services from Paris to the Riviera and the Atlantic and Channel coast holiday playgrounds will be doubled.

But these signs of recovery will be overshadowed by the threat of famine — the difficulty of bridging the gap between the exhaustion of last year's harvest and the reaping of new crops. Large-scale imports of wheat from the new world can alone avert disaster, observers said.

Bread rationing, after a brief lapse, has been reintroduced at 300 grams (about 10.5 ounces) daily. Nominally everyone is entitled to a bare subsistence ration of 1,700 calories. In practice diet varies according to pocket.

The poor eat less than their due, as ration cards, especially for meat and potatoes, are not always honored. The rich can get any food, from the plainest to choicest, in any quantity — at a price. In between the extremes of wealth and poverty are millions who keep body and soul together by occasional expeditions into the black market.

Shortage of household wine, in France a staple beverage, is no less critical. To maintain the monthly ration of four litres — (about nine pints) per head, the French have mobilized all available merchant ships, even tankers, to bring wines from Algeria.

Lack of fuel, even more than food, has caused the greatest hardship both on the domestic and industrial fronts. Last November, coal reserves in the Paris region dropped to 20,000 tons — barely sufficient to keep the power stations going for two more days.

Drastic electricity economies were applied.

These cuts, as well as the increase of coal output to a weekly tonnage of nearly 1,000,000 and increased deliveries from the German Ruhr, relieved the situation. During the first week of February, the government lifted all restrictions on consumption of electricity.

KINGSTON COURT ORDERS MONEY RETURNED TO BANK

Recovered in Arrests Of Three who Robbed Three Ontario Banks Last Year

Napanee, Ont., March 11 (CP) —Orders for the return to the Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce of nearly $350,000 in securities and cash stolen in three Ontario bank robberies last year have been issued here by Magistrate J. B. Garvin of Kingston.

The orders dispose of money and bonds in custody of Provincial Police. It was recovered in the arrests of Ulysses Lauzon, Joseph Peltier were sentenced to 35 years for bank robbery and Koresky to 15.

On application of P. E. F. Smily, on behalf of the Royal Bank Magistrate Garvin ordered the return to the bank's branch at Bath of bonds worth $333,400 and cash of $4,339.41 recovered when Lauzon and Koresky were arrested at Charlottetown last September.

On application of T. J. Rigney, the Magistrate ordered the return to the Bank of Commerce of $10,184.86 in cash of which $5,176.08 was found in possession of Peltier and Leona Kelly at Winnipeg, $4,772 recovered from Lauzon's residence at Windsor and $233.78 proceeds from other goods recovered from Peltier.

The Magistrate also issued three orders for $1,000 in each case against Koresky, Lauzon and Peltier in favor of the Royal Bank at Bath and the Bank of Commerce at Ayr and Port Perry.

The orders write the final chapter in a wave of robberies which swept Ontario last summer. The first was at Ayr in which some $60,000 in cash and securities was stolen. Lauzon and Peltier were arrested, the latter in Winnipeg, and lodged in Waterloo County jail at Kitchener. They escaped from jail and the Port Perry and Bath robberies followed. More than $350,000 in registered bonds and cash was stolen at Bath. Lauzon was arrested in Montreal after being shot in a bank robbery attempt. The arrest of Peltier and Koresky at Charlottetown came a few days later.

Murder, Suicide In Quebec Home

Montreal, March 11 — (CP) — Charles Plouffe, 50-year-old taxi driver, died of a bullet wound in hospital here today less than 12 hours after his wife, 44, was found shot to death in their Mont Roland home, 40 miles north of here.

Provincial police, investigating the double shooting which they said was committed with the same .32 calibre revolver, found in the house, announced that Plouffe apparently had shot his wife and then turned the weapon onto himself.

Plouffe, father of seven children, was rushed to hospital in Montreal in the hope that an operation of the bullet wound in his head would save his life.

Pravda Accuses Churchill Of Trying to Incite War Against the Soviet Union

London, March 11 — (AP) — The Moscow newspaper Pravda today accused Winston Churchill of trying to incite war against the Soviet Union and declaring that if his ideas for a British-American military alliance were put into effect it would mean the death of the United Nations.

The Communist party organ, breaking Russian editorial silence on the former British prime minister's speech last week at Fulton, Mo., said Mr. Churchill had attempted to "intimidate the whole world with the horrors of Soviet expansion" and its alleged menace to "true democracy in the west."

"In reality," declared the editorial, which was broadcast by the Moscow radio, "Churchill tried to impress the idea that a new war is inevitable. More than that, he incites people to this war and, namely, to war against the Soviet Union."

Mr. Churchill, Pravda asserted, "slandered the U. S. S. R. by saying that Soviet Russia wants the fruits of war and unlimited expansion of her strength and her doctrine."

Commenting on Mr. Churchill's advocacy of a "fraternal" alliance between Britain and the United States, Pravda said:

"He adds quite openly that this military alliance must be directed against the U.S.S.R., but the military alliance of two of the partners of the coalition against the third means the end of the coalition of the three great powers, which was established in the course of the Second World war."

Might Mean Liquidation

Were Mr. Churchill's ideas put into practice, Pravda asserted, "it would mean nothing else but the liquidation of the United Nations Organization."

The editorial, entitled "Churchill rattles the sabre" declared that Mr. Churchill's address should be considered in the light of what it describes as his anti-Soviet attitude after the First Great War.

"Churchill then too," Pravda said, "marched out of step with history. Then, too, he placed himself in the path of historic events that were developing, and made demands to stop or halt these events.

"He was the inciter of the anti-Soviet campaign and main organizer of the armed intervention against the Soviet Union.

"Many years have passed since then, but Churchill remained true to himself. Apparently he has forgotten nothing and learned nothing.

"Now, too, he is in the grip of his former conceptions and his former aspiration. Again he rides his old horse, coming out against the Soviet Union — coming out sharply, aggressively, shattering one with the threat of Bolshevik danger and Bolshevik expansion, which he has dragged out of the archives."

U.S. SOLDIERS CAN'T CRITICIZE REDS TO GERMANS

Commander in Germany Will Not Tolerate Disparaging Remarks Against Allies

Wuerzburg, Germany, March 11 (AP)—American troops in Wuerzburg were warned by their commanding officer today to refrain from criticizing the Soviet Union to the German people.

Lt.-Col. Frank Ebey of Venice, Calif., issued this order to his command, the 203rd Anti-Aircraft Battalion: (300)

It has been brought to my attention that the morale of the civilian population of Wuerzburg has been raised as a result of a speech in the United States by a British politician, relative to our Ally, the Russian people.

I have heard certain military personnel express agreement with these policies in the presence of German frauleins.

This practice must stop immediately.

The Soviet government is an ally of the U.S.A. and you are individually and collectively representatives of our government I will not tolerate any disparaging remarks against our allies to the German people. This does not violate your right to free speech among yourselves.

I do not hate the German people. My policy in regard to dancing and social gatherings should indicate that fact to you. But I can't forget that the sun will always set upon the grave of some American soldier. From Pearl Harbor to Bataan to the Elbe, your buddies are lying dead because of the Nazi party and the evil machinations of Hitler and his gang. Don't let your fraulein's opinion influence you. She has been raised in an atmosphere of hatred and intolerance of all nations on earth except the master race we have just whipped.

Millions of Russian soldiers and civilians died to save our skins. Just remember that. If propaganda causes you to hate the Russians, stop and think — they died for you, too. If you want to fight again, encouraging these frauleins to think we hate Russia is a good way to get things going.

Those were the good old days, yes? Standing in halftracks all day in the bitter cold, dirty, hungry, and tired; firing off the line of departure; making river crossings and sweating out barrages. It is cold in Russia, remember that.

I am not a pinko or a red. But the Russians are our allies. They have guts and by God I never want to fight again. Think it over. You have been warned.

RETRIBUTION FOLLOWS

Toronto, March 11 — (CP)— Police said retribution followed swiftly after Ernest Harrell, 29, tossed a stone through a lunchroom window in central Toronto Saturday night. They said that as Harrell fled from the restaurant manager, he ran into the path of a street car which mangled his right leg. Later the leg was amputated below the knee.

BRITAIN ADDS HER SUPPORT TO U.S. PROTESTS

Foreign Office Spokesman Discloses Dispatch of Note on Manchuria to Moscow

London, March 11 (AP)—Britain has added her support to United States protests to Russia against the continued [illegible] of Red army troops in Manchuria and the removal of industrial machinery from that section of China.

A British Foreign Office spokesman disclosed dispatch of a note on Manchuria to Moscow, following by several days the United States protest. He added that the British government maintained that all factory installations in Manchuria should be left in the custody of the Chinese until an Allied decision was made for their disposal.

The spokesman also said that the British Charge D'Affaires in Moscow had been instructed to "press for an early reply" to a note demanding an explanation of Russia's failure to evacuate Iran in accordance with a Big Three agreement. The United States previously had protested to Moscow over the situation in Iran.

The Moscow radio, meanwhile, decried what it described as "irresponsible talk" in the United States, and said it appeared that certain people there were attempting "to plant the seeds of a new world war; to poison the public mind against the Soviet Union."

The broadcast declared Soviet-American friendship was essential to world peace and asked why the United States should "defend British colonial policy."

"Why should any American feel that while British actions in the colonies and elsewhere are severely criticized, America should turn away from the United Nations and start getting ready for another world war?" the Moscow commentator asked.

"Clear thinking people in the United States.. turn away from this third world war propaganda."

Red Fleet, official organ of the Russian navy, attributed the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria to a request by the Chinese.

"Some circles" in the United States and China are "trying to distort the real situation in connection with the presence of Soviet forces in Manchuria," it added.

China asked the Russians in December to remain until Feb. 1, instead of Jan. 1 as originally planned. China said she had received no reply to a query late in January as to whether Russia would withdraw her troops Feb. 1.

CHINESE TROOPS BATTLING AFTER RED WITHDRAWAL

Communists Occupy Northern District Of Power Plant And City in Sudden Move

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, March 11 (AP) — Chinese Nationalists and Communist reinforcements today were reported moving to Mukden, where, the Central News Agency said, the rival forces were battling after sudden withdrawal of Soviet troops.

Chinese press dispatches said that the Communists, heavily outnumbering Nationalist troops in the city of 2,000,000—Manchuria's largest—had occupied the power plant and northern district.

Other reports said the central government had proclaimed martial law in the skeleton city, whose once - great industrial plants had been picked clean by the Russians.

The press reports declared that elements of four Nationalist armies were marching to Mukden and that Communist reinforcements were moving in from the north.

The Central Daily News said a Nationalist division entered Mukden, Saturday.

The suddenness of the Soviet withdrawal was blamed for the "serious" street-fighting in Mukden. Dispatches said the Nationalist did not have sufficient troops to cope with the situation.

Officers Inaccessible

They said that for the past few days Soviet authorities in Manchuria, from Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Soviet commander, to junior officers, had been inaccessible to Nationalist officials.

The Central News Agency did not interpret the withdrawal from Mukden as a general Russia evacuation of Manchuria. The agency declared that six trains from Mukden had unloaded troops, tanks, artillery and automobiles at Changchun, Manchuria.

Yet another report said Changchun was full of rumors that Soviet forces intended to quit the city. No known developments supported this.

An unconfirmed report said Chinese Communist entered Mukden ahead of government forces. Smoke from unexplained fires hung over the city.

Secret Wartime Project Develops Fifty New Kinds Synthetic Rubber

Champaign, Ill., March 11 — (AP) — The University of Illinois has unveiled details of a secret wartime project — a research laboratory in which 50 new kinds of synthetic rubber have been developed.

The laboratory, which has operated for three years under sponsorship of the office of rubber reserve of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will continue for another year.

Prof. Carl S. Marvel, who heads the laboratory, expressed the opinion that within two years synthetic rubber will be "well superior" to the natural product and that the American tire industry will be "permanently free from any military or economic threats from foreign rubber sources."

Speaking with the permission of the federal government, which had maintained the work under wartime secrecy, Prof. Marvel listed these other accomplishments of the laboratory:

Establishment of the effect and importance of purity of materials going into synthetic rubber, improvement of soap used in the making process and development of analytic methods for controlling production and quality of synthetic rubber.

More than $500,000 was provided by the government for operation of the laboratory, which has a staff of 46 persons and is the largest university group project of its kind. The research is conducted in close co-operation with the rubber companies and with other university and industrial laboratories.

The researchers, using captured specimens, studied German processes of making rubber and investigated and tested a Russian process.

Prof. Marvel said the laboratory's greatest wartime contribution to the tire rubber program was in the study of ingredients and processes used in making synthetic rubber.

Whether any of the 50 new synthetic rubbers developed in the laboratory ever will be adopted for tire making remains to be learned, Prof. Marvel said, adding that some of the new rubbers show advantages for specialized uses other than tires.

Additional Charges Face Four Named In Spy Ring Case

May be More Serious Than Those Now Facing Accused

Ottawa, March 11—(CP)—Four persons accused of disclosing state secrets to the Soviets today heard in court they will face at least two additional charges under the Official Secrets Act.

The announcement came from Lee Kelley, K.C., special Crown prosecutor in the Soviet espionage case, who said the new charges, to be laid, will be under section four of the Act, which deals with persons in offices of trust who divulge secret information.

The four accused — Capt. Gordon Lunan, 30, Edward Mazerall, 29, Kathleen Willsher, 40, and Mrs. Emma Wolkin, 25 — then were remanded by Magistrate Glenn Strike to Wednesday at Mr. Kelley's request and with the agreement of defence counsel.

They were arraigned last Monday on charges of conspiracy to provide and with providing secret and confidential information to Soviet representatives and had been remanded until today.

Mr. Kelley said the new charges "may be more serious" than those already facing the accused, who were identified last Monday in an interim report from the Royal Commission on espionage as members of a "network" of under-cover agents operated by members of the Soviet Embassy staff "under direct instructions from Moscow."

Bail Deferred

Counsel for Capt. Lunan, Mazerall and Miss Willshire brought up the question of bail for their clients but the matter was deferred until the Wednesday appearance at Magistrate Strike's suggestion.

The four accused appeared in the same antiquated, Victorian courtroom in the central Ottawa police station in which they were arraigned dramatically and unexpectedly last Monday.

Brought into court at the opening of the session, they sat quietly, the two women on one bench and the two men on another, through the hum-drum routine morning series of weekend drunk cases.

They exchanged wistful glances with relatives as the tiny courtroom, crowded to capacity, waited impatiently for the weekend police blotter to be cleared.

Plea Withdrawn

A stir of anticipation ran thru the throng as Mrs. Wolkin's name was called and she stepped timidly forward, standing with hands folded and eyes downcast, while her counsel, J. P. Erichsen Brown, asked that her plea of guilty to both charges last Monday be withdrawn.

As Magistrate Strike drummed his fingers and nodded assent, Mr. Brown explained his client did not seem to have a "complete comprehension" of all that was involved in the charges when she pleaded guilty.

The Magistrate said he had planned in any event to permit the accused to change her plea.

Mrs. Wolkin, the External Affairs cipher clerk who is accused of divulging the contents of secret telegrams, then stepped back, looking almost tearful as she resumed her seat.

Next to be called was Miss Willsher, deputy registrar in the British High Commissioner's office who is said to have divulged to the Soviets the contents of secret documents, she was remanded until Wednesday with the others.

Capt. Lunan, Canadian Information Service official identified as the "head" of a group of Canadian agents, and Mazerall, National Research Council engineer accused of divulging radar secrets, sat in the big wooden prisoners' dock during the hearing.

Mazerall elected trial by jury on each of two charges without entering a plea.

Roydon Hughes, his counsel, noted that the charges, being laid under the Official Secrets Act, call for trial in the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Lunan's hearing also was brief. He stood quietly while his counsel, H. L. Cartwright, K.C., barrister from Kingston, agreed to a Wednesday remand and then questioned the authority of an oath Lunan had taken not to disclose certain things which had taken place since he was detained by the R.C.M.P. more than three weeks ago.

British Convoy Heavily Engaged By Indonesians

Batavia, March 11 — (AP) — Approximately 1,000 British Indian troops today boarded ships as the British authorities began to carry out their announced policy of gradually withdrawing their forces from The Netherlands East Indies.

The embarkation followed the arrival here Saturday of 2,400 Dutch troops from Malaya. A communique issued at that time said they would replace the British forces when the latter "eventually leave."

Fighting broke out last night when a British convoy was "heavily engaged" by Indonesians between Buitensorg and Bandoeng, a British statement said, and Spitfires made five strafing runs on the natives.

This marked the first time in months that British planes had gone into action here.

The statement said fighting continued through the night and the convoy was still halted by roadblocks and landmines. The British command placed its casualties at seven killed and 25 wounded as of 8 p. m. yesterday.

Lewis Summons Policy Committee To Chart Demands

Negotiations With Soft Coal Operators Open Tues.

New York, March 11 —(AP)—John L. Lewis summoned his 250-man policy committee today to chart demands he will present to bituminous coal operators in negotiations opening tomorrow in Washington.

Lewis' American Federation of Labor United Mine Workers Union, representing 400,000 employees of the soft coal industry, already has taken legal preliminaries for a strike, should negotiations on a contract to replace the one expiring April 1 fail.

A royalty on each ton of coal mined, which would be placed in the Union Welfare and Hospitalization Fund, was expected to be one of Lewis' chief demands. Also likely were proposals for a shorter work week, without a proportionate loss in earnings, and recognition of a U.M.W. union for supervisory workers, including mine foremen.

As labor disputes kept 757,000 workers idle, about half of them in General Motors plants and the electrical industry, a battle was shaping up for control of one of the country's most powerful unions, the C.I.O. United Auto Workers.

Both sides in the General Motors dispute charged last week that settlement of the 111-day strike was being delayed by "politics" in connection with the approaching union convention.

Hitler Became Abnormal After France's Conquest

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, March 11 (AP) — Hitler's mind underwent a change after his 1940 conquest of France and he became "abnormal," Field Marshal Gen. Erhard Milch, former chief of the Luftwaffe, testified before the international military tribunal today.

"Hitler was not the same. There was some change," Milch said under cross examination by prosecutor Robert H. Jackson.

"What he did then was contrary to what he said before," the witness asserted. "We could not consider this normal."

Asked if he told anyone else of his suspicion concerning the Fuehrer's mentality, Milch replied: "If I had I would have been shot immediately."

Milch said the Luftwaffe was caught short at the outbreak of the war in 1939 because Goering, his immediate superior, had ordered in 1937 that the building of four-engined night bombers be discontinued.

Prior to 1937, he said, the production of these bombers was well under way, but the air staff recommended their discontinuance because "they believed expenditures could be spared since no one was figuring on a war at that time."

Goering approved the recommendation, Milch added, and "as a result there were no bombers available in 1939 which were designed for night attacks."

Dangers of Flood Lessen in Most Ontario Points

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Dangers of floods lessened in most Ontario communities today after a weekend of clear, freezing weather. Centres which previously reported rain-swollen streams running out of their banks today found them receding.

Waters of the Thames River at Chatham slowly dropped below flood levels, leaving driftwood and bits of refuse scattered over low fields which had been inundated during a three-day period. Danger of the river reaching a serious flood level this year was reported past.

Even though the weatherman today predicted milder weather for Tuesday, most reports agreed the flood danger was over. At Chatham warm weather eliminated possibilities of ice jams last week and the rising of the river was "nothing more than usual during early spring thaw periods."

Kitchener reported the Grand River and its tributaries, the Nith and Conestogo, had receded to normal boundaries and a similar report came from Brantford.

V.C. Winner to Take Ashes to France Unknown Soldier's

Ottawa, March 11. (CP) Maj. J. W. Foote, Canada's padre V.C. from Dieppe, will sail from Halifax March 20 with the ashes of an unknown Canadian soldier killed near Falaise, France, in August, 1944.

In line with Empire policy, the ashes will be buried in a military cemetery in France. They were brought to Canada by another padre, Rev. R. C. Creelman, of Toronto, who found them in the hull of a burned-out Sherman tank near the Laison River.

Unwittingly violating official policy, he brought them home in hopes of placing them in a Canadian National Memorial and tomb.

He scattered the ashes on the property of the Presbyterian Church at Weston, Ont., where he is minister, before the Canadian government requested the remains for return overseas.

The Defence department, announcing that Maj. Foote would return the ashes to France, said the decision was in line with the rule that no remains of servicemen will be brought home to Canada at either public or private expense—a decision based primarily on equality of treatment.

Gen. MacArthur Receives Wife Of Gen. Homma

Tokyo, March 11. (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today received Mrs. Masaharu Homma, and promised her that he would consider carefully all the facts in the case before he would permit her husband's execution by a United States firing squad.

The Allied commander in a half-hour interview told the wife of his Bataan foe of 1941-42 that he "understood and sympathized", when she informed him it would be a great loss to the world if Lt.Gen. Homma were executed.

Gen. MacArthur now is reviewing the case; and his word will be final. He can uphold —or ease—the sentence.

Mrs. Homma did not beg nor plead for her husband's life said Capt. George A. Furness, Brookline, Mass., counsel for the defence at the Manila war-crimes trial, who accompanied her.

Homma was convicted Feb. 11 of permitting the Bataan death march and other atrocities which cost 67,000 American and Filipino lives.

In April Dunkerque Will Once Again Become Port of Call for Channel Ships

Paris, March 11 — (Reuters)—The return of the proud name of Dunkerque to cross-Channel timetables marks a milestone in the long road to France's national recovery.

Next month this devastated port, scene of the last British stand in France in 1940, once again will become a port of call for regular cross-channel steamships.

Already the French railway network is almost fully restored. Famous international trains, including the Paris-Copenhagen Nord Express and the Paris-Brussels-Amsterdam Etoile Du Nord will run again next May. Train services from Paris to the Riviera and the Atlantic and Channel coast holiday playgrounds will be doubled.

But these signs of recovery will be overshadowed by the threat of famine — the difficulty of bridging the gap between the exhaustion of last year's harvest and the reaping of new crops. Large-scale imports of wheat from the new world can alone avert disaster, observers said.

Bread rationing, after a brief lapse, has been reintroduced at 300 grams (about 10.5 ounces) daily. Nominally everyone is entitled to a bare subsistence ration of 1,700 calories. In practice diet varies according to pocket.

The poor eat less than their due, as ration cards, especially for meat and potatoes, are not always honored. The rich can get any food, from the plainest to choicest, in any quantity — at a price. In between the extremes of wealth and poverty are millions who keep body and soul together by occasional expeditions into the black market.

Shortage of household wine, in France a staple beverage, is no less critical. To maintain the monthly ration of four litres — (about nine pints) per head, the French have mobilized all available merchant ships, even tankers, to bring wines from Algeria.

Lack of fuel, even more than food, has caused the greatest hardship both on the domestic and industrial fronts. Last November, coal reserves in the Paris region dropped to 20,000 tons — barely sufficient to keep the power stations going for two more days.

Drastic electricity economies were applied.

These cuts, as well as the increase of coal output to a weekly tonnage of nearly 1,000,000 and increased deliveries from the German Ruhr, relieved the situation. During the first week of February, the government lifted all restrictions on consumption of electricity.

KINGSTON COURT ORDERS MONEY RETURNED TO BANK

Recovered in Arrests Of Three who Robbed Three Ontario Banks Last Year

Napanee, Ont., March 11 (CP)—Orders for the return to the Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce of nearly $350,000 in securities and cash stolen in three Ontario bank robberies last year have been issued here by Magistrate J. B. Garvin of Kingston.

The orders dispose of money and bonds in custody of Provincial Police. It was recovered in the arrests of Ulysses Lauzon, Joseph Peltier were sentenced to 35 years for bank robbery and Koresky to 15.

On application of P. E. F. Smily, on behalf of the Royal Bank Magistrate Garvin ordered the return to the bank's branch at Bath of bonds worth $333,400 and cash of $4,339.41 recovered when Lauzon and Koresky were arrested at Charlottetown last September.

On application of T. J. Rigney, the Magistrate ordered the return to the Bank of Commerce of $10,184.86 in cash of which $5,176.08 was found in possession of Peltier and Leona Kelly at Winnipeg, $4,772 recovered from Lauzon's residence at Windsor and $233.78 proceeds from other goods recovered from Peltier.

The Magistrate also issued three orders for $1,000 in each case against Koresky, Lauzon and Peltier in favor of the Royal Bank at Bath and the Bank of Commerce at Ayr and Port Perry.

The orders write the final chapter in a wave of robberies which swept Ontario last summer. The first was at Ayr in which some $60,000 in cash and securities was stolen. Lauzon and Peltier were arrested, the latter in Winnipeg, and lodged in Waterloo County jail at Kitchener. They escaped from jail and the Port Perry and Bath robberies followed. More than $350,000 in registered bonds and cash was stolen at Bath. Lauzon was arrested in Montreal after being shot in a bank robbery attempt. The arrest of Peltier and Koresky at Charlottetown came a few days later.

Montreal, March 11 — (CP) — Charles Plouffe, 50-year-old taxi driver, died of a bullet wound in hospital here today less than 12 hours after his wife, 44, was found shot to death in their Mont Roland home, 40 miles north of here.

Provincial police, investigating the double shooting which they said was committed with the same .32 calibre revolver, found in the house, announced that Plouffe apparently had shot his wife and then turned the weapon onto himself.

Plouffe, father of seven children, was rushed to hospital in Montreal in the hope that an operation of the bullet wound in his head would save his life.

Pravda Accuses Churchill Of Trying to Incite War Against the Soviet Union

London, March 11 — (AP) — The Moscow newspaper Pravda today accused Winston Churchill of trying to incite war against the Soviet Union and declaring that if his ideas for a British-American military alliance were put into effect it would mean the death of the United Nations.

The Communist party organ, breaking Russian editorial silence on the former British prime minister's speech last week at Fulton, Mo., said Mr. Churchill had attempted to "intimidate the whole world with the horrors of Soviet expansion" and its alleged menace to "true democracy in the west."

"In reality," declared the editorial, which was broadcast by the Moscow radio, "Churchill tried to impress the idea that a new war is inevitable. More than that, he incites people to this war and, namely, to war against the Soviet Union."

Mr. Churchill, Pravda asserted, "slandered the U. S. S. R. by saying that Soviet Russia wants the fruits of war and unlimited expansion of her strength and her doctrine."

Commenting on Mr. Churchill's advocacy of a "fraternal" alliance between Britain and the United States, Pravda said:

"He adds quite openly that this military alliance must be directed against the U.S.S.R., but the military alliance of two of the partners of the coalition against the third means the end of the coalition of the three great powers, which was established in the course of the Second World war."

Might Mean Liquidation

Were Mr. Churchill's ideas put into practice, Pravda asserted, "it would mean nothing else but the liquidation of the United Nations Organization."

The editorial, entitled "Churchill rattles the sabre" declared that Mr. Churchill's address should be considered in the light of what it describes as his anti-Soviet attitude after the First Great War.

"Churchill then too," Pravda said, "marched out of step with history. Then, too, he placed himself in the path of historic events that were developing, and made demands to stop or halt these events.

"He was the inciter of the anti-Soviet campaign and main organizer of the armed intervention against the Soviet Union.

"Many years have passed since then, but Churchill remained true to himself. Apparently he has forgotten nothing and learned nothing.

"Now, too, he is in the grip of his former conceptions and his former aspiration. Again he rides his old horse, coming out against the Soviet Union — coming out sharply, aggressively, shattering one with the threat of Bolshevik danger and Bolshevik expansion, which he has dragged out of the archives."

U.S. SOLDIERS CAN'T CRITICIZE REDS TO GERMANS

Commander in Germany Will Not Tolerate Disparaging Remarks Against Allies

Wuerzburg, Germany, March 11 (AP)—American troops in Wuerzburg were warned by their commanding officer today to refrain from criticizing the Soviet Union to the German people.

Lt.-Col. Frank Ebey of Venice, Calif., issued this order to his command, the 203rd Anti-Aircraft Battalion: (300)

It has been brought to my attention that the morale of the civilian population of Wuerzburg has been raised as a result of a speech in the United States by a British politician, relative to our Ally, the Russian people.

I have heard certain military personnel express agreement with these policies in the presence of German frauleins.

This practice must stop immediately.

The Soviet government is an ally of the U.S.A. and you are individually and collectively representatives of our government I will not tolerate any disparaging remarks against our allies to the German people. This does not violate your right to free speech among yourselves.

I do not hate the German people. My policy in regard to dancing and social gatherings should indicate that fact to you. But I can't forget that the sun will always set upon the grave of some American soldier. From Pearl Harbor to Bataan to the Elbe, your buddies are lying dead because of the Nazi party and the evil machinations of Hitler and his gang. Don't let your fraulein's opinion influence you. She has been raised in an atmosphere of hatred and intolerance of all nations on earth except the master race we have just whipped.

Millions of Russian soldiers and civilians died to save our skins. Just remember that. If propaganda causes you to hate the Russians, stop and think — they died for you, too. If you want to fight again, encouraging these frauleins to think we hate Russia is a good way to get things going.

Those were the good old days, yes? Standing in halftracks all day in the bitter cold, dirty, hungry, and tired; firing off the line of departure; making river crossings and sweating out barrages. It is cold in Russia, remember that.

I am not a pinko or a red. But the Russians are our allies. They have guts and by God I never want to fight again. Think it over. You have been warned.

RETRIBUTION FOLLOWS

BRITAIN ADDS HER SUPPORT TO U.S. PROTESTS

Foreign Office Spokesman Discloses Dispatch of Note on Manchuria to Moscow

London, March 11 (AP)—Britain has added her support to United States protests to Russia against the continued [illegible] of Red army troops in Manchuria and the removal of industrial machinery from that section of China.

A British Foreign Office spokesman disclosed dispatch of a note on Manchuria to Moscow, following by several days the United States protest. He added that the British government maintained that all factory installations in Manchuria should be left in the custody of the Chinese until an Allied decision was made for their disposal.

The spokesman also said that the British Charge D'Affaires in Moscow had been instructed to "press for an early reply" to a note demanding an explanation of Russia's failure to evacuate Iran in accordance with a Big Three agreement. The United States previously had protested to Moscow over the situation in Iran.

The Moscow radio, meanwhile, decried what it described as "irresponsible talk" in the United States, and said it appeared that certain people there were attempting "to plant the seeds of a new world war; to poison the public mind against the Soviet Union."

The broadcast declared Soviet-American friendship was essential to world peace and asked why the United States should "defend British colonial policy."

"Why should any American feel that while British actions in the colonies and elsewhere are severely criticized, America should turn away from the United Nations and start getting ready for another world war?" the Moscow commentator asked.

"Clear thinking people in the United States.. turn away from this third world war propaganda."

Red Fleet, official organ of the Russian navy, attributed the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria to a request by the Chinese.

"Some circles" in the United States and China are "trying to distort the real situation in connection with the presence of Soviet forces in Manchuria," it added.

China asked the Russians in December to remain until Feb. 1, instead of Jan. 1 as originally planned. China said she had received no reply to a query late in January as to whether Russia would withdraw her troops Feb. 1.

CHINESE TROOPS BATTLING AFTER RED WITHDRAWAL

Communists Occupy Northern District Of Power Plant And City in Sudden Move

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, March 11 (AP) — Chinese Nationalists and Communist reinforcements today were reported moving to Mukden, where, the Central News Agency said, the rival forces were battling after sudden withdrawal of Soviet troops.

Chinese press dispatches said that the Communists, heavily outnumbering Nationalist troops in the city of 2,000,000—Manchuria's largest—had occupied the power plant and northern district.

Other reports said the central government had proclaimed martial law in the skeleton city, whose once - great industrial plants had been picked clean by the Russians.

The press reports declared that elements of four Nationalist armies were marching to Mukden and that Communist reinforcements were moving in from the north.

The Central Daily News said a Nationalist division entered Mukden, Saturday.

The suddenness of the Soviet withdrawal was blamed for the "serious" street-fighting in Mukden. Dispatches said the Nationalist did not have sufficient troops to cope with the situation.

Officers Inaccessible

They said that for the past few days Soviet authorities in Manchuria, from Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Soviet commander, to junior officers, had been inaccessible to Nationalist officials.

The Central News Agency did not interpret the withdrawal from Mukden as a general Russia evacuation of Manchuria. The agency declared that six trains from Mukden had unloaded troops, tanks, artillery and automobiles at Changchun, Manchuria.

Yet another report said Changchun was full of rumors that Soviet forces intended to quit the city. No known developments supported this.

An unconfirmed report said Chinese Communist entered Mukden ahead of government forces. Smoke from unexplained fires hung over the city.

Secret Wartime Project Develops Fifty New Kinds Synthetic Rubber

Champaign, Ill., March 11 — (AP) — The University of Illinois has unveiled details of a secret wartime project — a research laboratory in which 50 new kinds of synthetic rubber have been developed.

The laboratory, which has operated for three years under sponsorship of the office of rubber reserve of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will continue for another year.

Prof. Carl S. Marvel, who heads the laboratory, expressed the opinion that within two years synthetic rubber will be "well superior" to the natural product and that the American tire industry will be "permanently free from any military or economic threats from foreign rubber sources."

Speaking with the permission of the federal government, which had maintained the work under wartime secrecy, Prof. Marvel listed these other accomplishments of the laboratory:

Establishment of the effect and importance of purity of materials going into synthetic rubber, improvement of soap used in the making process and development of analytic methods for controlling production and quality of synthetic rubber.

More than $500,000 was provided by the government for operation of the laboratory, which has a staff of 46 persons and is the largest university group project of its kind. The research is conducted in close co-operation with the rubber companies and with other university and industrial laboratories.

The researchers, using captured specimens, studied German processes of making rubber and investigated and tested a Russian process.

Prof. Marvel said the laboratory's greatest wartime contribution to the tire rubber program was in the study of ingredients and processes used in making synthetic rubber.

Whether any of the 50 new synthetic rubbers developed in the laboratory ever will be adopted for tire making remains to be learned, Prof. Marvel said, adding that some of the new rubbers show advantages for specialized uses other than tires.

Additional Charges Face Four Named In Spy Ring Case

May be More Serious Than Those Now Facing Accused

Ottawa, March 11—(CP)—Four persons accused of disclosing state secrets to the Soviets today heard in court they will face at least two additional charges under the Official Secrets Act.

The announcement came from Lee Kelley, K.C., special Crown prosecutor in the Soviet espionage case, who said the new charges, to be laid, will be under section four of the Act, which deals with persons in offices of trust who divulge secret information.

The four accused — Capt. Gordon Lunan, 30, Edward Mazerall, 29, Kathleen Willsher, 40, and Mrs. Emma Wolkin, 25 — then were remanded by Magistrate Glenn Strike to Wednesday at Mr. Kelley's request and with the agreement of defence counsel.

They were arraigned last Monday on charges of conspiracy to provide and with providing secret and confidential information to Soviet representatives and had been remanded until today.

Mr. Kelley said the new charges "may be more serious" than those already facing the accused, who were identified last Monday in an interim report from the Royal Commission on espionage as members of a "network" of under-cover agents operated by members of the Soviet Embassy staff "under direct instructions from Moscow."

Bail Deferred

Counsel for Capt. Lunan, Mazerall and Miss Willshire brought up the question of bail for their clients but the matter was deferred until the Wednesday appearance at Magistrate Strike's suggestion.

The four accused appeared in the same antiquated, Victorian courtroom in the central Ottawa police station in which they were arraigned dramatically and unexpectedly last Monday.

Brought into court at the opening of the session, they sat quietly, the two women on one bench and the two men on another, through the hum-drum routine morning series of weekend drunk cases.

They exchanged wistful glances with relatives as the tiny courtroom, crowded to capacity, waited impatiently for the weekend police blotter to be cleared.

Plea Withdrawn

A stir of anticipation ran thru the throng as Mrs. Wolkin's name was called and she stepped timidly forward, standing with hands folded and eyes downcast, while her counsel, J. P. Erichsen Brown, asked that her plea of guilty to both charges last Monday be withdrawn.

As Magistrate Strike drummed his fingers and nodded assent, Mr. Brown explained his client did not seem to have a "complete comprehension" of all that was involved in the charges when she pleaded guilty.

The Magistrate said he had planned in any event to permit the accused to change her plea.

Mrs. Wolkin, the External Affairs cipher clerk who is accused of divulging the contents of secret telegrams, then stepped back, looking almost tearful as she resumed her seat.

Next to be called was Miss Willsher, deputy registrar in the British High Commissioner's office who is said to have divulged to the Soviets the contents of secret documents, she was remanded until Wednesday with the others.

Capt. Lunan, Canadian Information Service official identified as the "head" of a group of Canadian agents, and Mazerall, National Research Council engineer accused of divulging radar secrets, sat in the big wooden prisoners' dock during the hearing.

Mazerall elected trial by jury on each of two charges without entering a plea.

Roydon Hughes, his counsel, noted that the charges, being laid under the Official Secrets Act, call for trial in the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Lunan's hearing also was brief. He stood quietly while his counsel, H. L. Cartwright, K.C., barrister from Kingston, agreed to a Wednesday remand and then questioned the authority of an oath Lunan had taken not to disclose certain things which had taken place since he was detained by the R.C.M.P. more than three weeks ago.

British Convoy Heavily Engaged By Indonesians

Batavia, March 11 — (AP) — Approximately 1,000 British Indian troops today boarded ships as the British authorities began to carry out their announced policy of gradually withdrawing their forces from The Netherlands East Indies.

The embarkation followed the arrival here Saturday of 2,400 Dutch troops from Malaya. A communique, issued at that time said they would replace the British forces when the latter "eventually leave."

Fighting broke out last night when a British convoy was "heavily engaged" by Indonesians between Buitensorg and Bandoeng, a British statement said, and Spitfires made five strafing runs on the natives.

This marked the first time in months that British planes had gone into action here.

The statement said fighting continued through the night and the convoy was still halted by roadblocks and landmines. The British command placed its casualties at seven killed and 25 wounded as of 8 p. m. yesterday.

Marsh Hay Used To Make Road Passable

Marsh hay is useful for more than just bedding down cattle, it has been demonstrated by a highway construction firm working in the vicinity of O'Brien Bridge on Highway 37, nine miles north of the city.

During the winter the firm had been engaged in extensive grade excavation at the north approach to the new bridge now under construction. Traffic began using the new grade prior to the breakup, with mild weather of the past week the freshly excavated grade was turned into a quagmire.

As an emergency measure highway authorities covered the quarter mile sea of mud with marsh hay and although the going is still rough, traffic is still negotiating the new grade.

Concrete abuttments for the new bridge have now been poured and placing of the steel for the bridge flooring has commenced. Earth grading of the approaches on both banks of the river is also nearing completion.

Robbers Steal $5,000 in Goods At Brighton

Brighton, March 11 (Special) —More than $5,000 worth of tobacco was stolen Sunday morning from the wholesale warehouse of Stewart Gunyo at Brighton. Entrance was affected by forcing a door at the rear.

The robbery apparently occurred some time shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday morning as the noise the robbers made loading up the stuff into car awakened Wilfred Ferguson, near-by resident, who notified Mr. Gunyo.

A police dragnet was placed around the area by Provincial and Brighton Police, but the robbers made their escape.

Apparently taken by the thieves, two cars were stolen during the night in Brighton, one owned by Arthur Ridley and the other by Frank Scarboro.

Four Homeless In Resort Fire

Picton, March 11—Fanned by a high wind, fire completely destroyed the home of Mrs. L. B. Metcalfe, at Point Traverse, 20 miles southeast of Picton, on Saturday. All the contents of the home were lost, as the occupants fled wearing only the clothing they had on. Loss is estimated at $6,000.

Mrs. Metcalfe and her young granddaughter, Mary Lou Reynolds were in the kitchen at the rear of the home and were unaware of the fire until Gerard Kavanagh and his brother John, who had been at a neighbor's home, saw the fire on their way home. At that time the fire was sweeping along the roof of the house and the entire front section was in flames. A bed and mattress, a few chairs and articles from the kitchen were all that was saved. The whole building was completely burned in half an hour. Fortunately, the wind was blowing away from the barn. It is believed the fire started from a chimney.

Known as the White House, the home had been a popular spot with summer tourists, and during the war years, Mrs. Metcalfe had boarded as many as fifty airmen at the bombing range in the vicinity. She had sufficient bedding, linen, dishes and other articles for that number of people and all were lost. Also lost were many family heirlooms.

Mrs. Metcalfe is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Cecil Bongard at Milford.

New Liquor Laws Still Dark Secret Around House

Not Likely to be Placed Before Members for Two Weeks or More

Toronto, March 11 (CP) — Changes in Ontario liquor laws forecast in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the 22nd legislature are being studied at top government levels and may not be placed before members for two weeks or more, a straw-in-the-wind survey indicated today.

So little information on proposed revisions in licensing policy is available that even government sources admit they can only guess the nature of new legislation being prepared by Attorney-General Blackwell, who says he still has "plenty to do" before submitting the proposals to the session which opened last Monday.

One high Progressive Conservative said he believes details of the new legislation are known only to Mr. Blackwell and Premier Drew. This informant, well versed in liquor matters, said the Premier's intention is to discuss the proposals in caucus and at a cabinet council meeting on the same day they are presented to the legislature.

The reasoning behind such "telescoping" of discussion was understood to be the Premier's desire to limit repercussions on what is bound to prove a contentious question, possibly involving an alignment of "wets" against "drys" on the issue.

One government official acknowledged the possibility of divergence of views by saying that in almost any forum on the question opinions ranged from those favoring prohibition to advocacy of cocktail bars.

Few Bills to Introduce

Meanwhile, as the session opened its second week it was learned the government has probably fewer than 20 bills yet to introduce. Premier Drew and opposition leader Farquhar Oliver have already spoken in the Throne Speech debate, with C. C. F. House Leader W. J. Grummett scheduled to speak Tuesday. Night sittings have been ordered for Tuesday and Wednesday in an effort to finish the Throne Speech debate by Thursday.

Much government legislation, including bills to continue subsidies on cheese, sugar beets and hogs, already has been given first or second reading. Some of about 40 private bills expected to be presented have been introduced and referred to the private bills committee.

With Premier Drew's government commanding 66 seats in the 90-seat chamber, few stormy sessions are expected. The opening week of the new session, however, indicated a strong feeling of hostility between the government and the legislature's two Labor-Progressive members, A. A. MacLeod of Toronto Bellwoods and J. B. Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrews.

In his address in the Throne Speech debate, the premier linked the Labor-Progressive party with the Communists, whom he accused of working under Tim Buck for a "Soviet Canada." During his speech the premier exchanged angry words across the floor with the Labor-Progressive representatives.

Mr. Oliver's address was critical of the Progressive Conservative administration, which he said had implemented only "five or six" of 22 points in a pre-election program of June, 1943.

Doesn't Relish Position

Despite Mr. Oliver's pointed criticism, Queen's Park observers noted that twice in the session he has indicated he does not relish his position as leader of the opposition. In both speeches he has made plain his preference for the role of a back bencher.

While forecast changes in liquor licensing remained the most insistent topic of corridor speculation, word from government circles indicated no immediate change is planned in rationing regulations despite action by most other provinces in easing or lifting restrictions. One reason for maintaining the present regulations in Ontario, an official said, is that only about 1,500,000 bottles of liquor are being sold each month compared with a potential permit usage of 6,000,000 bottles.

Bolton Mourns For 33 Killed At "Cup Tie"

By STUART UNDERHILL

Bolton, March 11—(CP)—This industrial centre of 177,000 population was a city of mourning today in the wake of Saturday's football stadium catastrophe which took 33 lives in the worst disaster in British sports history.

Twenty persons were injured Sunday in Dublin, three seriously, when crowd pressure caused a wall to collapse at a soccer match.

Eyewitnesses in Bolton gave graphic accounts of how a giant crowd, caught by "cup-tie fever," squeezed and trampled to death 33 persons and sent scores of others to hospital when two retaining barriers of a grandstand collapsed.

Bolton police said at first there were 38 dead, but later revised the total to 33. Two of the dead were women.

As the barriers at Burden Park Stadium gave way before the surging crowd, hundreds of screaming spectators were tumbled forward upon spectators below and bodies were piled four deep.

Gate Crashers Blamed

Chief Constable W. J. Howard of Bolton blamed gate crashers for the disaster. He said between 60,000 and 70,000 persons already had packed the stadium to witness a soccer cup tie game when several thousand persons forced their way into the stadium enclosure by tearing down a fence.

"These thousands created pressure by surging forward with the result that two of the steel barriers collapsed," Mr. Howard added.

With the collapse of the barriers, erected to restrain standing spectators, thousands tumbled forward to an equally-crowded lower tier before them. Some were crushed to death against the steel barriers before they gave way, but the majority died in the frantic pile-up which resulted when the wave of people toppled on to the spectators below.

Chests and heads of many of the victims were caved in. Bits of torn socks, coats, shirts and ties littered the area where the accident occurred.

Vince Williams, chief of the ambulance service at Bolton, 25 miles northeast of Liverpool, said most of the victims died of suffocation as their faces were pressed into the mud.

Tyendinaga Indian Reserve Contributed Many Sons To Gallant Service in War

During the American Revolution, the United Empire Loyalists left their homes in what was to be the United States and started the long trek northward into unknown country and hidden danger because they chose to remain faithful to the mother land of England.

Another group started northward at the same time. They were the Mohawks, one of the nations of the powerful Iroquois Confederacy who were expelled from their homes in the Mohawk Valley because of their fidelity to the unity of the Empire.

The Mohawks, under the leadership of Chief Joseph Brant, finally settled on the banks of the Grand River, near Brantford, Ontario.

Journeyed East in 1784

In May 1784, a group of these pioneer settlers, left the settlement on the Grand River and journeyed eastward under the leadership of Chiefs John Deseronto, Aaron and Isaac Hill. On May 22, they settled on the Bay of Quinte near the town which now bears one of the chief's name, Deseronto.

In 1793, the group received a patent from the Crown for 92,700 acres and became known as the "Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte." Much of this original land has been sold to the "whites" for the benefit of the Indians, so that now, the reserve consists of 17,604 acres.

Mr. A. D. Moore, the Indian Agent for the reserve, has been at Deseronto since August, 1941, and has been working with the Indians in Canada for 23 years. The Tyendinaga Agency, as it is called has a population of 1757. Actually, there are not more than 1,100 on this reserve which is considered to be one of the most advanced in the field of agriculture in the Dominion of Canada.

Many Answered Call.

When World War 2 came along, the Mohawks still possessed that same fidelity to the Empire that led their forefathers up from the Mohawk Valley at the time of the American Revolution and altho' they were primarily engaged in tilling the soil, they were ready and eager to answer the clarion call to active service.

A fair percentage of those serving in the forces cannot be given because not a few of their number enlisted elsewhere which makes keeping accurate records very difficult. Every day, reports of members of the band in the forces are being turned in to Mr. Moore.

Huron Eldon Brant brought great honor to the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte when he was awarded the Military Medal for his gallant service with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He made the supreme sacrifice in Italy in September, 1944.

In all, six were killed in the conflict, Huron Eldon Brant, Carmen F. Barnhart, Lloyd E. Brant, Willard Zacharia, Kenneth Brant and John E. Maracle.

There is only one record of one member of the band spending time in a prisoner of war camp. He is Sgt. Pilot Clayton Maracle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Maracle.

Five from One Family.

The record for enlistments is held by the family of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hill. They had five sons and all were in the service except the youngest who is about six years old.

Of the 71 men in the service of their country, four were in the R.C.A.F., four in the U.S. Army, one in the Veterans' Guard, and sixty-two in the Army.

Two girls, Freda Maracle and Marie Brant served in the CWAC while Madeline Brant chose the RCAF, Women's Division.

The following is a partial list of those serving in the forces:

Army: James A. Maracle; Andrew Loft; Francis Leween; Austin E. Fuller; Lloyd E. Brant; Clarence Hill; William A. Maracle; Rhenos Maracle; Manson R. Fire on Aircraft Carrier Subdued

Devonport, Devonshire, England, March 9—(Reuters)—Crew members and dock firemen last night battled a fire which broke out in the boiler room of the aircraft carrier Victorious, berthed here.

The fire, coming after a series of such outbreaks in British ports aboard liners and cargo vessels, was under control in less than an hour. Cause of the outbreak was considered purely mechanical and was subject of technical investigation.

Police and government officials are still investigating the fire which broke out in the liner Queen Elizabeth at Southampton yesterday.

Former District Couple Observe 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson, former residents of this district, celebrated the 40th. anniversary of their wedding recently at their home in Carroll, Manitoba, and the following reference to the event, which appeared in the Souris, Manitoba, Plaindealer, will be of interest to many friends here:

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson of Carroll, celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary on February 14th. at their home "The Elms," in the village.

The day was observed quietly, as Mr. Anderson has not been in his usual robust health for some months. However, there was a family dinner party with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Anderson and the three grandchildren, Margaret Anne, Mary Ella and Charles Leslie, Jr., present. The table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

The many friends in the community sent a "shower" of anniversary cards and greetings and among other gifts, a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers testified to the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are held in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were married at College Hill, Belleville, Ont., on February 14th., 1906, the officiating minister being Rev. Frank Anderson, a brother of the groom, assisted by Rev. R. S. Laidlaw. The honeymoon was spent in Montreal, and then the trip west followed. They came first to Mr. Bert Anderson's farm at Carroll and on March 5 settled on their own land [illegible] ing, which was later named "Fairview Farm."

A year and a half ago Mr. and Mrs. Anderson moved into their new home in Carroll. There are two sons, Leslie, on the home farm, and Allen, who is in business in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have always been active in church and community work, and gave their support and influence to every worthwhile cause. Mrs. Anderson was president of the W.M.S. for many years, and still is a very efficient worker in that organization and in the Sunday School. Mr. Anderson represented this ward in the council for some twenty years and was a member of the school board for several terms. He is on the Board of Session of the United Church, of which he and Mrs. Anderson are devoted members.

The Carroll community joins in offering most sincere congratulations on this happy occasion and wishes our friends the good old greeting, "Many happy returns of the day."—Contributed.

Most Important War Invention

The story of the British invention of the cavity magnetron — the most important scientific invention of the war — was told in London for the first time recently. It is the cavity magnetron which was to a great extent instrumental in virtually winning the war before the atomic bomb was used. It is a tiny instrument about the size of an ink bottle in which electrons are whirled around, producing a series of vibrations and hence waves, somewhat on the analogy of a siren. With it the inventor, and English professor, J. T. Randall, was able in 1940 to produce short waves with an intensity one thousand times greater than had ever been available before. Introduction of the magnetron led to a revolution as great as the invention of radar itself. It had an essential part in winning the Battle of the Atlantic, in the bombing of the German war machine and a score of other major Allied victories.

Tragedy at Bolton, England

Such a tragedy as that which took place at Bolton, England on Saturday with the collapse of two retaining walls of a grandstand shortly after a soccer game opened naturally shocks people everywhere in the Old Land and other parts of the world. When death and injury enter into conflict with a sports event they inject an element which is saddening and regrettable because the game is the thing and is a contest of skill and training in the spirit of goodwill and the crowds and the players are in their happiest moods.

During such a game no one looks for such a dire event as the death of more than thirty people in the collapse of a stand which poured its occupants out like water, this leading to many people being trampled upon and injured killed.

Fortunately such a lamentable event is not frequent. Saturday's accident was the worst on record. Descriptions of the experience say it was something that can never be forgotten by those who were caught in the throng hurled forward out of the stands.

Common Sparrow

Many a day in the cold winter months brought the common sparrow out to find food for that is the season in which any possible supply of food is buried under the deepest snow and the little bunch of feathery fluff has to find "eats" somewhere. Some days however he must do without, at least he does not put in an appearance where he can be seen. If he gets no food that day he must feel the bitterness of winter in all its austerity and harshness which only a rugged bird like the sparrow himself could pass through. But when those who notice these winter birds perched in trees as they are accustomed to do waiting for food to be thrown out from kitchens and miss the birds they may have the idea that the sparrow is all done up. But in a day or so he however appears again.

This bird lives through the winter, makes the air more cheerful with his raspy chirps and deserves a bit of food, as crumbs or discarded fat which cannot be otherwise used.

The sparrow holds his own in rugged winter against the ravenous starling and dares to put himself right in conflict with birds of that kind when food is around in the scarce season.

In winter his chirp is welcome and in spring and summer he does not seem to resent the birds of gay plumage which come back from their rich healthy winter resorts in the far South. Now the sparrow does not show up well with the contrast of colors others wear and he is much less attractive than even the migrating species of sparrow whose beautiful notes make the nesting season so melodious and which wears stripes or marks that the ordinary sparrow does not have to adorn his feathery coat. All the same the sparrow is quite at home among the gay spring and summer company of birds and he takes his share of the insects which put on a constant war front against plant life. According to an editorial in the C. S. Monitor the sparrow does a great deal of "good by keeping the insect population under control while some other birds are showing a marked and damaging preference for fruits. That newspaper says the sparrow brought to America in 1851 (95 years ago) to check a serious worm invasion which was threatening trees in Boston parks. "Those who have taken the trouble to observe his habits are puzzled how he came by his unfavorable reputation. While undoubtedly mischievious, he is seldom destructive. Next to the robin he is the friendliest of the birds. Three of his rousing chirps, then, for this dandelion of the feathered tribe. With all his faults we love him still."

His Own Almanac

Many an American householder these drab winter days, is finding himself a bit puzzled where to turn for dependable signs of spring. He has learned from experience that the robin cannot be relied upon.

The answer is, surprisingly, to himself. Although he is neither bird nor flower, the average man is a far more reliable herald than either redbreast or violet. The very fact that he is seeking signs of spring is of itself a rather convincing indication that warmer weather is on the way.

Should he on furnace-tending trips to the basement take the opportunity to get together his gardening gear, one can almost hear the rustle of spring's green garments. And when, after the evening meal, he busies himself with the spading fork, making the bed which is to receive the carefully selected packages of seed, there's no longer any doubt about it. He may as well cancel the order for those extra tons of coal and send that lighter suit to the dry cleaners. . . Ah, well, it's good to dream about it.

Portable Radio-Telephone

During the last few days, Londoners have seen yet another war-time invention adapted to peace-time use. This is the portable radio-telephone apparatus, and London firemen are now being equipped with it. A microphone is strapped to the throat and worked by vibration when the user speaks in his normal voice. Firemen in a blazing building were able to keep in touch with the central control and report progress as they played their hose on the flames.

Note for Alarm Clocks

One of the nation's giant corporations proposes to produce new varieties of alarm clocks in 1946 that will awaken people "gradually and enticingly."

The idea should be put in cold storage to await the next Era of Good Feeling. This year the citizenry, both public and private, needs alarm clocks which clang with a loud, snarling note, irritating one and all into leaping from bed into full days of working and thinking hard.

Boon for Bossy

The idea of providing rubber mattresses for tired cows so that they will give more milk has its points.

One of them is that Bossy will now have more bounce. Thus, if she is restless at night and jiggles about a good bit, she will not only give more milk, but it will be naturally homogenized, or whatever they call the process that mixes the cream up with the rest in the bottle.

Who said science had reached its zenith in the creation of the atomic bomb?

Sarnia defeated Belleville intermediates 14 to 4 at Sarnia last night, thus giving the Intermediate championship to Sarnia by the narrow margin of one goal and overcoming the nine goal lead of Belleville. It is a sad story, but in no way a discredit to the boys. The hoodoo sign was hung around Belleville right from the start and the Sarnia outfit secured all the breaks. The game was fast throughout, and Sarnia secured nine of their goals while Belleville men were in the penalty box. Belleville men rested 14 minutes and Sarnia 12 minutes. Simons played a whale of a game but was checked very closely and could not get away. Finkle was the most effective man for Belleville and Hillman and Grannary were the pick for the Sarnia team. Every man on the Belleville team played a good game. Whalen up to the time he was hurt in the last period, with ten minutes to go, was a star and Sarnia secured their last four goals when he was off. Finch of Sarnia, was dropped to even up. Sammy Symons had it over his check. Hillman shot in the winning goal lying on the ice. Belleville claimed that the crowd interferred, but Referee Barnhardt would not allow the protest. Sarnia played by far the better combination throughout. Belleville could not get used to the small rink which is a box compared with practically any other rink in the O.H.A. Needless to say Sarnia went wild with delight and the band paraded the streets after the game. All our boys, although disheartened at the result, took their defeat gracefully. The following composed the Belleville team: Goal, Conley; defence, Whitty and Symons; rover, Finkle; centre, Whalen; right wing, Simons; left wing, Mitchell. Penalties: Whalen 2, Symons and Finkle 2; Whitty 2. Sarnia penalties, Hillman and Halpin 2; Grannary and Dore 2. On the round the score was 19 to 18.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, March 11 — (CP) — Policy of the National War Labor Board in the administration of the amended Wartime Wage Regulations is expected to be outlined in an important case slated for hearing this week.

The Brotherhood of Maintenance-of-Way Employees (A.F.L.) has an application before the board for wage increases which affect about 35,000 employees of Canadian railways and the Board will receive submissions of the union and railways at hearings March 13 and 14.

Under the previous wage order applicants for increases were required to prove they were suffering "gross injustice or gross inequality." Wages now are to be approved on a basis of comparison with similar occupations.

Labor Minister Mitchell, in announcing the amendments Jan. 31, said they gave more flexibility in the adjustment or wages and were "a first step toward the orderly return to the normal processes of collective bargaining."

Final effect of the changes will not be known until the National Board discloses the principles upon which the amended order is to be administered. National and Regional Board members and officials conferred in Ottawa last week, but there was no indication of the trend of their discussions.

The maintenance-of-way case is the first of large proportions to be dealt with under the new order but it is understood applications are likely to follow from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The maintenance-of-way workers seek an increase from 61 to 72 cents an hour for yard sectionmen, placing them on the same basis as helpers of skilled mechanics in the mechanical departments. For skilled tradesmen in the maintenance-of-way department — men engaged in bridge building and other construction work — the union asks that rates be made equal with those paid skilled tradesmen in the railways' mechanical departments.

Senate: Possibility is seen in some circles near the government that this session of parliament, opening Thursday, will see a trend towards greater use of the Senate in legislation.

Emerging from wartime obscurity, the Upper Chamber showed a marked spirit of resurgence at the last session, culminating its debates with indications that the same spirit would carry over.

Chief Senate plaint is that little if any legislation originates there while the Commons is burdened unnecessarily, argues long, then sends a flood of business to the Upper Chamber late in the session.

There is a possibility certain legislation dealing with existing statutes which need revision will help modify that long-standing "beef" in the week ahead. Senate inquiries into such matters as immigration and the Income Tax Act, the latter launched at the last session, are also expected to materialize.

Looming, too, are appointments to fill the five Senate vacancies brought on by deaths and resignations.

The prosecutors ask for the death penalty.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

Swiss Maintained Neutrality By United Policy

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Bern, Switzerland, March 11 — (AP) — One of the mysteries of the Second Great War was Switzerland's ability to maintain her neutrality, sitting as she was in the midst of many belligerents and under constant pressure from Hitler to cast her lot with the Axis.

The fall of France left Switzerland absolutely alone in the face of the Nazi-Fascist combination. The world policy of the Swiss had been based on the balance of power in Europe. They had figured that if one country attacked them, then another would come to their rescue, but with France's collapse the Axis war machine was rolling free.

The Swiss were against Nazism and Fascism which ran contrary to their democracy and religion. Some eight times Germany tried to get Switzerland to join Nazi movements of various sorts, the idea being thus to drive a wedge in Swiss neutrality. Each time this country refused, but the danger continued great.

In 1940 Switzerland decidod that, alone or not she would fight to the end to defend herself. She had as her main defence, the Alps, mighty and precipitious mountains which are close to invulnerable in themselves, quite apart from strategic man-made redoubts and fortifications driven a mile deep into their stone sides. There is no doubt that these defences presented an obstacle which even the mighty Hitlerian army wouldn't have liked to tackle.

The Swiss also had industries capable of producing light war material and their standing army was 600,000. Furthermore all Swiss men are given an intensive basic military training. So reserves were available.

However, the country was threatened by more than military force for there was constant German propaganda to try to destroy national unity as well as false rumors about Swiss problems. To meet this danger General Henri Guisan, the commander-in-chief, decided in 1940 to create a new service to build morale among the troops.

This was done through permanent orientation towards the economic and political problems of the country, and he attacked the work in an unusual way. The orientation was carried out by personal contact between orientation officers and men and not by printed propaganda. The Swiss principle of absolute honesty was applied, that is, the idea of always telling the truth.

Switzerland was ready for Hitler, and despite his military strength only necessity would have sent him against these determined folk among their natural Alpine fortifications.

This orientation program was such a success that the federal government asked Gen. Guisan to organize the same sort of training for the civilian population. This was done in 1941 and similar high morale was created throughout the country.

In this manner Switzerland was saved, for Hitler constantly tested the Swiss spirit to find whether they were ready to fight.

WHO'S A FUSS-BUDGET?

Are you "a person who fusses and frets about trifles"? That's Webster's definition of fuss-budget. And a trifle is a thing of little importance. So the answer to the question whether you or I are or am a fuss-budget depends on what I or you, respectively, consider a trifle.

I regard most cryophobes and hygrophobes as fuss-budgets — neither of these words is in the dictionary, but a cryophobe is a person who has a morbid dread of cold and a hygrophobe is a person who has a morbid dread of dampness, and to my way of thinking cold and dampness are things of little importance, trifles, so far as health is concerned.

One young matron telephoned another to ask whether she would drive up in the mountains for winter sports, taking along a little boy and a little girl of whom I am fond. The second matron demurred because I had expressed the wish that they leave the children home. Sometimes the mountain road is dangerous when it is icy, chains or no chains. "Oh, come on—you know what a fuss-budget papa is about that." One of the children picked up the term and brought it up for discussion at our next meeting. I still maintain driving a car on that mountain road in snow or ice is no trifle, but then, I suppose some cryophobes and hygrophobes maintain—oh, well, let it pass.

This is the best time of year, I think, to reaffirm for the welfare of the public, this fundamental principle of health:

Any child or adult who is not actually an idiot knows better what clothing to wear or leave off in any circumstance than any parent, grandparent, doctor or other arbiter can possibly know.

Now I do hope that no reader, however old or young, wise or ignorant, experienced or inexperienced he or she may be, will try to pretend I do not mean exactly what I say about this.

To all young readers—you young ones are my favorite clients—if I can win you over to my way of thinking about exposure to everyday cold and dampness I don't care how many elderly people call me crazy—to all young people let me say I am prepared to meet the theories and fancies of fireside philosophers, eminent specialists and indignant parents or grandparents with plenty of facts submitted by investigators in many parts of the world—hunters, fishermen, soldiers, sailors, woodsmen, arctic explorers and other people who know what exposure means.

It all boils down to this:

If you find the conditions fairly comfortable or endurable, it is immaterial what you wear or do not wear, so far as health or illness is concerned.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Bad Breath

For years I have suffered from bad breath—always covering my mouth when near any one because I am conscious of it. (G. S.)

Answer—Chapter on breath odor in booklet "How to Breathe". It gives a recipe for a mouthwash to correct the trouble and advice about various conditions that cause it. For copy of booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. Official (U. S. P.) Solution of Sodium Hypochlorite—about a teaspoonful in an inch of water in glass, makes an excellent mouthwash—if the odor arises from the mouth.

Canker Sores

Taking nicotinic acid (now called niacin) for recurrent canker sores—50 milligrams three time a day—clears them up promptly, but in my case it seems to act as a blood circulation stimulant—would it be harmful to take it once or twice a day for a few months? (Mrs. W. McA.)

Answer—No. Niacin (nicotinic acid) or niacinamide is one of the B-complex vitamins. Everybody needs a certain amount of it every day.

No Change

If life begins at forty I have been forgotten somewhere along the way. Have you any information or advice about change of life? I am worried . . . (Mrs. D. S.) If so, how much is it?

Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address. Ask for pamphlet "The Menopause." There's no charge. There's no "change" either—no disturbance of health, no "crisis", no reason why a woman should worry about the menopause.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is whalebone?

Whalebone, formerly widely used in making umbrellas, brushes and corsets, stays and other articles for stiffening women's dresses, is not bone and it has none of the properties of true bone.

The term is merely a popular but inaccurate name for an elastic fibrous substance that grows on the roof of the mouth of the right and certain other species of whales.

Whalebone (more properly called "baleen," from Latin "balaena," meaning sea-monster or whale) consists of a series of thin parallel plates on the palate and is a horny exaggeration of the ridges found on the roof of the mouth of most mammals.

Baleen plates range in length from two to fifteen feet, although they seldom exceed twelve even in the largest whalebone or baleen whales.

They take the place of teeth and their function is to strain the water that the whale takes up in large mouthfuls.

The commercial value of whalebone, which is becoming comparatively scarce, is owing to its combined lightness, flexibility and toughness.

It has been largely supplanted by steel and other materials in making umbrellas and other articles.

Whalers prepare the product for the market by boiling it until it is quite soft and then cutting it into strips of the required size.

Formerly the whale was often confused with the walrus and other sea animals and "white as whale bone" originally meant "white as walrus ivory.

"Best Seller, Least Read"

The devotional address was given by Mrs. H. W. Froats from Tabernacle United Church. She said, "The Bible is the best seller but the least read. Where is your Bible? Do you have access to it when you need it? Is it a lamp unto your feet and a light unto your path. Do you believe it is the revelation of God? We are told the sword of the Spirit is the word of God. Why do we allow the sword to rust? Read your Bible as you would a letter from a dear one."

In closing she said, "Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God that ye may be able to withstand the evil day and having done all, to stand, stand, therefore having your loins girt about with truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace".... And take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God."

The service concluded with the National Anthem and Benediction.

Why VICKS VapoRub Is So Good
For Relieving Miseries of Childrens Colds

More than two generations ago—in grandmother's day—mothers first discovered Vicks VapoRub. Today it is the most widely used home-remedy for relieving miseries of children's colds. And here is the reason . . .

The moment you rub VapoRub on the throat, chest and back at bedtime it starts to work two ways at once—and keeps on working for hours—to ease coughing spasms, help clear congestion in cold-clogged upper breathing passages, relieve muscular soreness or tightness. It promotes restful sleep. Often most of the misery of the cold is gone by morning! That's why VapoRub is so good to use when colds strike. Try it!

RAILROAD WAITRESS

A touch of glamor has been added to the service on the Pere Marquette Railroad, Detroit, Mich., as part of its post-war expansion program. For the first time on any railroad in the nation, girls are employed as waitresses on the line's dining cars. Edna Declairie, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is one of them. Here she balances her tray with the greatest of ease as she glides down the aisle of her car with a meal for a hungry passenger.

Glamor and Style Will Feature W.H.A. Fashion Show at Capitol Theatre

Fashion's show window for things to come, accentuating the glamor of youth and the more or less sedate dignity of middle age will be the stage of the Capitol Theatre in the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, March 20, when the Women's Hospital Auxiliary will present their 1946 edition of the annual Fashion Show.

Seven attractive models will parade before the eyes of the curious, arrayed in all the glory and color of what designers have decreed will be the last word in milady's habiliments for the coming year.

With the accent on Spring, when milady emerges from her figurative cocoon of winter apparel, the Fashion Show will show in colorful stylish sequence, the latest styles in the afternoon, sports, formal and informal wear. Officials of the W.H.A. have spared no effort to bring to the ladies of the city and district, the last word in what the well-dressed woman of 1946 will wear, and the result should be gratifying to the most fastidious.

Merchants if the city are cooperating to the fullest extent in the 1946 presentation. McNabbs, will provide suits, coats and dresses; Ashley, furs; McIntosh Bros., purses, gloves and umbrellas; the Campbell Hat Shop, millinery; McFee's, costume jewelry; the Cummins, Vogue and Leeman's Beauty Salons, hairdressing; Lattimer's Drug Store, Dorothy Gray cosmetics.

Several valuable door prizes have been donated for the show with McFee's offering a ladies' Gruen wrist watch; Walker Hardware, a pressure cooker and teaset; and Lattimer's Drug Store, a set of Dorothy Gray cosmetics.

In addition individual gifts of Dorothy Gray cosmetics will be presented to each lady present.

Red Cross Needs More Members

The long and varied program of the Canadian Red Cross in its humanitarian work for people of this and other countries, needs the continued interest and support of its members. During the past week a drive for membership has been going on in the city in an effort to boost the number of workers needed for the organization's activities this year.

In connection with the drive letters were mailed to every householder in the city. But to date the response has not been as generous as campaign officials hoped it would be.

Residents of the city are reminded that the Red Cross here has not lagged in its efforts, even though the war bugles blow no more.

At the present time, unheralded and unsung, members are meeting trains day and night to afford warm welcomes and nourishing food to British war brides and their families. Within the past week 75 of these new Canadians have received the benefits of the services the Red Cross offers.

The Red Cross is vital to the life of Canada and Canadians. It cannot and does not depend on governmental subsidies. This year it is not asking for financial help. But it needs members. And every resident of this city should be proud to wear the button of the Red Cross on his or her person.

Memberships ($1.00 minimum) may be sent or mailed to Red Cross Headquarters at 25 Campbell Street, or mailed to Box 29 Belleville post office. Do it now.

There's Magic in Lipstick That Improves Upon Nature

A compact combining lipstick, powder and rouge, helps avoid messiness

By HELEN FOLLETT

EXCEPT the permanent wave, the lipstick is the nicest gift the beauty industry has ever offered to its clientele. It has become an institution. It has proved that it is possible to improve upon nature. Colorless lips are no good looks bargain. There's magic in the little red pencil.

If you don't like the shape of your mouth you can change it. Too bad something can't be done about noses. The young fry, especially, find fault with their noses; always wish they had been born with a neater model.

Rosebud Mouth

If the mouth is of the rosebud pattern, which isn't popular any more, it can be given a slight exaggeration to provide fullness and breadth. If the face is small and cherubic, the mouth a bit large, lines will be better if the upper lip is darker than the lower one, the pigment placed on the inner surfaces.

When applying the rosy glow to your mouth portals, try to put on just enough to form a neat, even film and no more. Blot off excess color with tissues. Don't disturb the lips until the application has set.

Heart-Shaped Face

The girl with the heart-shaped face usually has narrow lips that may give too sharp an expression. So she extends the lines somewhat over the natural pattern, making for facial harmony.

Keeping your make-up neat and all together is a big help, too. Don't be messy!

If eyes and hair are dark, skin creamy, cut out the commercial blushes, use dark red lipstick. That method makes for a pleasing appearance. The golden complexion calls for rouge of light, delicate shade, rachelle powder, a lip smear that is a combination of red and orange.

For the florid skin, a lip tint of raspberry or medium wine is flattering. Women with white hair and blue eyes must avoid vivid red; it will be too great a contrast for the delicate complexion and snowy locks, is likely to make the face look brittle.

GOOD MANNERS

Notes Thanking For Money Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I know that most of my friends are planning to give me money as wedding presents. Should I write them thank-you notes for this kind of gift? If so, how should they be worded?

2. Also, is it correct for me to send thank-you notes to all the girls who brought gifts to my shower, even though I thanked them at the time of the opening of the gifts?

3. In the receiving-line at our wedding reveption, do I introduce my husband to friends who have not met him?

M. H.

1. Yes, you should write a note for a money-gift as you would for a pair of candlesticks or any other gift. Perhaps somewhat like this:

Dear Clare,

You and Bill were so kind to send us such a generous gift of money, and Bob and I deeply appreciate your goodness to us. Now we are happily planning how we shall spend this bounty to make come true some dream we have had for a lovely and useful possession for our new home. And when we've achieved this and have returned from our wedding trip, we're going to summon you two dear friends at once, to give you a "look-see", hoping you'll approve of our choice.

Our dearest love to you both, and again our heartiest thanks.

Affectionately,
Marion.

2. Yes, for every shower gift received, you should, as soon as possible write a note of thanks. This is a grand opportunity the bride-to-be has: (1) to show she's an appreciative person; and (2) to expand her enthusiastic comments on features of the gift that probably were too briefly and generally thanked for at the shower.

3. Yes.

Duties of Maid of Honor

1. I am to be a maid of honor at a wedding soon. What are my duties?

2. My 6-year-old niece is to be the flower girl. Will you please tell me if her gown is like the maid of honor's dress or like the bridesmaids? What color should she wear?

D. M.

1. Your responsibilities as maid of honor are: to furnish your own costume, the details of which are planned by the bride, but the bride's family supply your flowers; to be completely and graciously co-operative with all the bride's plans and wishes; to look as lovely and decorative as possible at the wedding; to hold the bride's bouquet during the ring part of the ceremony; to adjust the bride's veil and train as she turns for the recessional; and to be gracious and charming as you greet the guests when you are a member of the receiving-line.

2. The bride-to-be decides how she wishes the flower girl to dress. Usually a flower girl wears a long, simple, white frock, or a simple party frock of pastel shade; often she carries a Colonial bouquet or an old-fashioned nosegay. Good taste decrees that children in a wedding party be dressed simply, not in fancy or "grown-up" costumes.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Colors in Dress

One rule to remember when selecting frock, hat or coat is this: bright colors are likely to emphasize one's size, age, and any imperfections of the skin that may be present. Dark colors give Mrs. Plumpie a more slendor appearance, though they are not likely to make her look more youthful.

Whether or not to wear black is a problem. To some women it gives a distinguished appearance; it will make others dowdy. The bleached blonde with heavy make-up will seem even more dangerous in ebon draperies.

Women who have suffered from color fear all their lives, and suddenly overcome it, spring forth from their gloomy cocoons as gay butterflies and find life considerably brighter. Color fear is inherited from our foremothers, who had the silly notion that the more dismal one's clothes, the stronger the appearance of respectability. If you happen to be among the afflicted ones, snap out of it. Go buy yourself a pair of red shoes or a red hat. Your spiritual doors will open upon an entirely new vista.

The best way to make one's soul go drab is to wear drab clothes. They get you down.

Dark-haired, dark-eyed lovelies can indulge in an orgy of bright tints—clear reds, rich, vivid blues, beige in almost any shade, white and cream if the skin is white. Brunettes with olive skins haven't quite as much leeway; purple tones and certain greens will have a sallowing effect upon their complexion. Warm, rich shades of brown — from copper to seal—often prove flattering. Grey is not a favorable selection. Grey, unless it is a delicate dove shade, will drain any complexion of coloring. Beware of cold, steel grey, no matter what your type. It is especially depressing when worn by elderly women with grey hair and facial furrows.

The brunette, with rosy cheeks and brightly colored lips, must go easy on gay hues, so that they will not eclipse her personality. Any woman should be more vivid, more interesting, than the clothes she wears.

The light-headed sisters with roses and cream complexions know that they must use restraint in the use of makeup; the same rule holds good with dress. Pinks and reds should be foresworn. Yellow is all right if it does not dim the golden thatch. Greens are splendid, as they are for the redhead. Blues—except faint pastel—are almost universally glorifying. And orchid is bet number 1.

Brown-eyed girls are permitted more color liberties than girls with blue, grey or hazel eyes.

Drab clothes foster a drab spirit.

EASTER PARADE

A black and white checked straw trimmed with black and white ostrich feathers is this creation.

"Buttercup" is what Walter Florell, hat designer, titles this hat, a pale pink felt trimmed with a gold-stsipped green chiffon ribbon and scattered yellow flowers.

Not a distress signal, but the name of this hat, "SOS," a red straw trimmed with black band and bright red ostrich feathers, worn by screen star Sylvia Sidney, is in advance showing of a Beverly Hills, Calif., millinery show.

Actress-Painter Leads Aid Group

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

St. Boniface, Man., March 11 (CP) — Madame Pauline Boutal is a small and energetic young Frenchwoman known throughout the west as a talented dramatic actress and painter. But for the past three years her time has been devoted to a small organization known as Oeuvre de Secours a la France.

The society, also known as "Relief for France," was organized by a group of Frenchwomen in the cathedral city of St. Boniface, Man., when war was declared. Gradually, other small French-speaking communities in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta became interested. Now there are more than 100 active members but there are thousands who help by knitting, sewing and contributing money .. all the way from Saskatoon, North Battleford and Edmonton to smaller centres like Gravelbourgh, Lorette and McCreary.

The cessation of hostilities didn't mean that the society concluded its work. Instead, they now are going ahead with renewed vigor, sending clothing, parcels and money for medical supplies to the people of France.

The parcels contain just about everything—old and new clothes for adults, baby layettes and soap. In France, soap is even more precious than nylon stockings are in Canada, and so it is scattered liberally in all boxes.

Madame Boutal has been president of the group since 1943. She is a tireless worker and does everything from packing boxes to sewing buttons on coats.

Go To Red Cross.

Her brown eyes sparkle as she talks about the work that is being done. During the war parcels were sent to French refugees in London, Gen. de Gaulle's army and also to the men from France training in Canada. Now they are sent directly to the French Red Cross in Paris.

Madame Boutal is enthusiastic about the co-operation the group has received. To date, they haven't paid rent for their office space—although this arrangemen has necessitated moving from time to time. And she says that tradespeople have generally given the society the best service and prices they could manage. Some shoemakers contribute the old shoes left in their shops and groups in small towns hold teas and raffles and send in the proceeds.

Since it was first organized, the society has sent more than 20,000 pounds of merchandise across the ocean, valued at between $20,000 and $25,000. In addition, about $5,000 in cash has been sent.

Mrs. Boutal's concern now is for the young people of France. She says it will take them years to build up the nation.

"There is much for us to do .. we Frenchwomen of Canada. We are a long way from finished."

Leafs Lose Last Playoff Spot by Dropping Two To Canadiens and Boston Bruins

Canadiens Cannot be Headed for Top Position in Loop; Sweeney Schriner Scores 200th Goal of His N.H.L. Career

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal Canadiens opened the last week of regular National Hockey League play with two smashing victories, going like a house afire into a six-point lead — and Toronto Maple Leafs opened with two losses, which finally put the Stanley Cup holders out of play-off picture. Not in 14 years has the season ended so dismally for the Leafs, perennial post-season cup battlers and winners of the Stanley Cup a year ago.

Canadiens beat the Leafs 2-1 at Toronto Saturday and pounded the Black Hawks 3-1 at Chicago last night. At Boston Sunday the Leafs were somewhat consoled for a 7-3 defeat when Dave (Sweeney) Schriner at last got the 200th goal of his N.H.L. career, but it didn't come until the 14th minute of the last period.

In Sunday's other game Detroit Red Wings were beaten 3-2 at New York, but the two losses suffered by Leafs made it certain that Detroit in fourth position today is four games ahead of the Leafs — and the Leafs have only three games left before the schedule winds up next Sunday night.

Chicago Now Third

Canadiens not only pulled the official curtains on any lingering hopes Leafs might still have had Saturday — they dropped Chicago from second to third place in their two triumphs.

At Toronto it was goalie Bill Durnan in the Canadien nets who broke the hearts of Toronto fans. Canadiens had battled into a 2-0 lead on goals by Glen Harmon and Ken Mosdell and it wasn't until after 13 minutes of the last period that Leafs were able to beat Durnan. Then Bill Ezinicki on a pass from Syl Apps scored Toronto's only goal.

At Chicago the Canadiens and Hawks treated 18,533 fans to the fastest — and roughest — game of the season. Seventeen penalties were called and a spectator assaulted referee King Clancy in the course of the battle that lasted three and a half hours.

A ringside spectator hit Clancy twice as the referee was explaining penalties on Max Bentley and Johnny Mariucci of the Hawks and Ken Mosdell and Kenny Reardon of Canadiens. Players of both teams went to Clancy's assistance and chased the spectator from the arena.

Maurice Richard opened the Canadien scoring in the first period and Clint Smith tied it up in the second. They remained deadlocked until 16.07 of the third period when Toe Blake scored the clincher for Montreal and Elmer Lach made it 3-1 in the last minute of play.

Roof Fell In

At Boston last night Bep Guidolin scored the first Boston goal at 3.24 of the second period, and Wally Stanowski tied it up eight minutes later. But in the third period the roof fell in on the Leafs as the Bruins rammed in five straight goals—Bobby Bauer, Woody Dumart, Roy Conacher, Jack Crawford and Murray Henderson in turn beating Broda, who previously had performed some sensational stops.

The Leafs, down 6-1, came right back with Schriner's 200th goal of his career. Bobby Goldham scored another four minutes later and Guidolin wound up the scoring.

At New York it was the Rangers' rookie line of Cal Gardner at centre and Church Russell and Rene Trudell on the wings that dampened the Detroit team. The trio were brought up from New York Rovers of the Eastern U. S. League. Phil Watson scored the first, Trudell got the second and Gardner scored the winner, after Detroit had fought into a 2-2 tie with Harry Watson and Murray Armstrong scoring.

CHANDLER GIVES PLAYERS CHANCE TO CHANGE MIND

Can Return to Organized Ball Before Season Opens Without Penalty

By JACK HAND

Havana, March 11 — (AP) — Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler left the door wide open today for all of baseball's wandering sheep to return to the fold before the opening of the United States leagues' seasons but held over their heads a threat of at least five years' suspension for those who refused.

While ordering the "contract breakers" back in line, Chandler revealed that Cuban sports commissioner Luis Rodriguez had been given permission to act as a mediator in the hope of establishing uniform baseball contracts in the United States, Cuba and Mexico.

Chandler previously had refused definite comment on contract jumpers but now the way was open for almost all ineligibles to return. The commissioner ruled effective immediately, that any player who broke a contract shall report to his club in organized baseball by opening day of the league to which the team belongs, and that in the future, any played who breaks a contract in organized baseball shall be suspended for five years.

Chandler met the Cuban officials after an exhibition game between the Washington Senators and Boston Red Sox. Clark Griffith, president of the Senators who was presented with a gold medal by the Cuban government for his efforts in behalf of Cuban ball players, American League president Will Harridge, and Herold Ruel, assistant to Chandler, were included in the group that met with Cuban winter league president, Dr. Rogelio Valdes, Rodriguez, and Merito Acosta, owner of the new Havana entry in the Florida International League.

The Cuban leaders promised to clean house and not to allow ineligibles to play next winter. Chandler agreed to help them establish uniform contracts and reorganize the circuit.

The Bears Will Have to Watch This Pair Tonight

SAMMY MULHOLLAND BRUCE WOODMAN

Belleville Juniors will have their hands full tonight when they meet Kingston "Saints" in the first round of the O.H.A. Junior "B" playdowns at Kingston. They will have to keep their eye on Sammy Mulholland, who has the reputation of being the fastest skater in the Kingston junior circuit, and Bruce Woodman, hard hitting, fast skating defenceman, who is reputed to be one of the most valuable players on the Kingston aggregation.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

There is a strong possibility, so it was grapevined today that the Stephens-Adamson Company may be represented by a powerful intermediate softball squad and a baseball team that is said will be great shakes, come the balmy days of Spring.

• • •

It appears that a number of the athletes of the well-known city manufacturing plant are desirous of chasing the "hard apple" around the various diamonds while the veteran softball stalwarts and a number of newcomers feel they should stay by the old love and devote their athletic activities to mushball.

• • •

All of which is well and good, if it can be arranged. The sprouts of Spring athletic activities are beginning to shoot up in the minds of local maestros, and it is quite possible that within the next couple of weeks something along organization lines may be forthcoming.

• • •

Maxie Peoples, impresario of the Saco Marines softball squad waxed optimistic the other night over the potentialities of the team this year. "Jim Hunter is back" he smiled, "and the slim fellow will likely form the nucleus of the pitching staff. Then we have Al Adams, who can throw 'em across the plate with the best of them and there is a possibility that I will have Bowbotham, who takes a back seat from nobody behind the plate."

• • •

"Gene LaBonne," Maxie went on, "expects to leave for the States in early Summer and there is a strong possibility that he will turn out for the first few games at least."

"Any more, chum?" was the query.

The chunky master - mind rubbed his chin. "Well," he ruminated, "there are the veterans of Henn, Mack Carson, Jimmy Barriage, who is always tops and one of the most reliable players in the district, and Jack Hunter."

"This may be a secret," Maxie went on, "but you might see Vernon (Jumbo) Goyer in a Saco uniform, if he is still in these parts."

• • •

The Sacos will likely be bolstered by a number of returned veterans who have not seen softball service with the club for four or five years, but who have played in leagues overseas and kept their batting eyes and throwing arms in practice. Included are Prout, Ashton, Partridge and Wardhaugh, not forgetting John Adams, who is said to be a smart utility man.

• • •

The baseball set-up of the company is a bit vague at present, but it is understood the boys are forming a sports organization in the near future and much baseball data may come out of that.

• • •

So at the present it looks as though the Intermediate softball loop is being re-vitamized. Two former squads, Point Anne and Sacos have indicated their intentions of forming a loop, while word from an unofficial source has it that another strong city team will be sponsored by a veterans' organization.

• • •

BASEBALL, SENIOR?

There are stories extant going the rounds that there is a strong possibility of a revival of the old senior Central Ontario Baseball League being revived this year, with entries from Peterborough, Oshawa Kingston and Batawa mentioned. Thus far the grapevine FBI has not mentioned this city as being a potential entry, and local baseball moguls might mull it over in their respective noggins.

The popular summer pastime is due for a terrific boost all over the province this coming summer and already in several centres, organizations have sprung into being with extensive plans being laid down for the season's activities. Leagues long dormant, in various parts of the province, are being injected with a revival serum and present prospects point to a decided upsurge in interest on the part of the fans and officials and players of the various hitherto lethargic loops.

• • •

Just what material this city has tucked away in factory plant and shop is not known at the present, but the idea might be given some consideration just to see what's what. There is talk of another industrial loop with O.B.A. affiliations, but sorting the wheat from the tare and with the addition of some bolstering talent, this city might produce a team that would give some sort of first-year opposition to outside clubs in a senior loop. Think it over, maestros.

• • •

THREE UP—ONE TO GO

In one of those hell-for-leather typical Kingston-Peterborough tussles the Limestone Locos took the third straight victory from the flying Petes on Oshawa Sateve to take a stranglehold on their Intermediate "A" group leadership. The Choo-Choos, flashing a brilliant brand of hockey went three goals up going into the last period, but in a spirit born of desperation the Peterborough attacking divisions launched an offensive that was not to be denied. Three times they swept in on a fighting Locos defence and as many times they scored tying up the pastime. From then on it was nip and tuck with the Locos McGregor firing home the winning counter with but two minutes to go. The Petes have their backs to the wall now and face the tremendous task of winning four straight from the speedy Kingstonians. The teams meet tonight in Oshawa in the fourth of the seven-game series.

• • •

JUNIORS AWAY

Belleville Bruins leave tonight for Kingston where they take on the speedy Saints of that city in the first test of their two-of-three game Junior OHA playdown series. According to Bruin officials the players' bus will leave the Hume Arena at six o'clock and there is room aboard for a number of fans. Anyone desirous of accompanying the youngsters should be on hand at the Arena at that time.

KINGSTON LOCOS BEAT PETES 6-5

Oshawa, March 11. (CP) — Kingston Locomotives defeated Peterborough 6-5 Saturday night to gain a 3-0 lead in their best of seven series for the O.H.A. Intermediate "A" Group title.

Peterborough tied the count at 5-5 late in the third period but after Harding in the Peterborough nets saved from Murphy, MacGregor recovered the puck and batted it into an empty net for the winning goal.

The local crowd was bolstered by more than 1,000 fans from out-of-town, including a delegation of several hundred from Peterborough.

HAMILTON TIGERS GAIN EDGE ON McINTYRE MINES

Win First Game of Senior O.H.A. Finals by 4-3 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

The Ontario Hockey Association's junior final starts tonight with a packed Maple Leaf Gardens at Toronto waiting for the Toronto St. Michael's and Oshawa Generals to open their best-of-seven series.

The all-Ontario senior final continues at Hamilton, where Hamilton Tigers won 4-3 over McIntyre Mines in the first game Saturday of the best-of-five series, and the O.H.A. champions found the northern pucksters worthy opponents on the Allan Cup trail.

St. Mikes and Oshawa finally meet in the junior title climax after battling fiercely to eliminate Galt Red Wings and Toronto Marlboros respectively. The winner of this series will collide with Northern Ontario's junior titlist, and Copper Cliff Redmen and Porcupine Combines now are battling in this section. Copper Cliff won the first game in the northern best-of-five junior playoff by 9-1 Saturday and they meet again at Timmins tonight.

Liscombe, Brady, Robertson and Shillington were goal getters for Hamilton, and Doran, Boyce and Hanneberry clicked for McIntyre.

Tigers took a two-goal lead in the initial stanza with goals by Liscombe and Brady. First came on a pass from Mason, and the second after Shillington and Conick had taken close shots at Brownlee to pull him to his knees. Brady lifted the loose rubber past him.

In the second period the Macmen, robbed on several occasions in the first period, finally found the target. Red Doran, with Boyce and Tomiuk assisting, rifled one past Art Childs.

That ended the scoring until the third period, when both teams scored twice. At the 5:35 mark Robertson tallied to put Hamilton ahead 3-1. At 8:10 Boyce scored for McIntyre, and 30 seconds later Hanneberry beat Childs to even the count. The northerners continued the pressure and Childs had a busy time blocking drives.

With only four minutes to go, Tigers' line of Shillington, Brady and Conick went roaring into enemy territory. Shillington parked himself right in front of the net, took Brady's pass and batted it home to break the tie.

Hamilton's second line of Robertson, Liscombe and Mason stood up well during rough going. Doug Runions came into the game in the third period to add the spark Tigers needed.

For the northerners, Doran was a standout on one front line and Moose Clouthier on the other. At times they left their positions to chase the puck-carrier. Boyce and Wilson displayed speed and were a threat to Tigers throughout the game.

INT. LEAGUE OPENS MAR. 19

New York, March 11 (AP)—The International League, only minor league organization to continue play during two great wars, opens its 63rd consecutive season Tuesday, March 19, when Syracuse is host to Toronto in the only scheduled game.

The other six clubs make their 1946 debuts the following day with Montreal playing at Jersey City, Rochester at Baltimore and Buffalo at Newark.

The schedule, released today, calls for the usual 154 games, with the season ending Sunday, Sept. 6. As in recent years, each club will make three intersectional trips.

The loop will continue the Shaughnessy play-off system, with the first four teams fighting it out for the Governor's Cup.

CAPS CLINCH CHAMPIONSHIP WEST DIVISION

Buffalo Bisons Set League Records in Disposing of Providence Reds

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals clinched championship of the Western Division of the American Hockey League Sunday night as they handed Cleveland Barons a 5-2 defeat before 8,483 home fans.

The Capitals got off to a fast start as Sid Howe netted his own rebound. Bus Brayshaw tied it up two minutes later but Cliff Simpson tallied to give Caps a lead they never relinquished. Rosy Rossignol added another late in the period and after a scoreless mid-session, Howe and Les Douglas put the game safely in the bag for Caps while Lou Trudel scored the sole Cleveland goal.

Buffalo Bisons set two league season records last night as they whipped Providence Reds 4-1 on home ice. With 36 victories and 80 points, Bisons erased the old mark of 35 victories, 78 points set three years ago. Vic Lynn, Mike McMahon, Fred Hunt and Doug Lewis tallied for Buffalo while Armand Lemieux deprived goalie Connie Dion of a shutout late in the third period.

Saturday Bisons had battled Hershey Bears to a 2-2 draw before more than 8,500 Hershey fans. Moe White and Mike Shabaga notched the Buffalo goals while Gino Rozzini and Mike McAtlee scored for Hershey.

Had Better Luck

Bears had better luck on foreign ice Sunday as they walloped New Haven Eagles 8-2 in a rather dull game before a small crowd of approximately 3,000 fans. Norm Larson and Stan Robertson paced Bears with a three-goal performance each while Harry Frost completed the winners' scoring parade with a brace of markers. Al Ritson and Roland Forget registered for the losers.

Cleveland Barons crushed St. Louis Flyers 8-3 Saturday before a capacity crowd of 10,944 home fans. Tommy Burlington fired the opening goal for Cleveland and bagged two assists to extend his league scoring record to 21 consecutive games.

Roy Kelly and Lou Trudel paced Barons with two goals apiece while Ed Prokop, Russ Brayshaw and Bill Benson netted the other Cleveland tallies. Pat McCreavy, Bill Jennings and Dick Kowcinak scored for St. Louis.

Pittsburgh Hornets and Providence Reds battled to a 3-3 draw. The Joe Klukay-Ronnie Wilson-Kenny Schultz line featured for the home team, accounting for all the Hornet goals. Armand Lemieux, Charlie Scherza and Bill Juzda scored for Providence.

Montreal, March 11 (CP) — Slogan for travel-seeking ski instructors next Winter might well be the old familiar "Go West" when plans of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association get rolling.

The C.A.S.A. plan to send a travelling ski school throughout Canada will be of great advantage to points in the Prairie Provinces especially when topnotch ski instruction often isn't readily available. The school, with qualified instructors from eastern resorts in charge, will bring the latest methods of instruction right to the enthusiast.

If the plan works out, skiing stands to get quite a boost in those parts where lack of suitable hills and more particularly good instruction has kept the sport in the novelty class.

SHOOTING HIGH.

Joe Pyle, of New Waterford, N.S., who has proved a crowd pleaser in Montreal by his slambang fighting, is aiming for Dave Castilloux's Dominion welter crown if he bests Jasper O'Hanley tonight.

SUCCESS STORY.

Dorothy Brown, currently one of Montreal's brighter junior swimmers, has plenty of sympathy from those in the gallery who know her story. Dorothy's mother was killed and her father seriously injured in a train crash when she was an infant, but she was thrown clear and landed unhurt, still wrapped in her blanket. Fans like a game kid like that.

REPARTEE DEPARTMENT

Ontario win's like this but the man said it. A Quebec Aces' fan is quoted as saying he doesn't mind if Montreal Royals trim his favorites as long as Royals win the Allan Cup. Says he: "We don't want those Ontario teams to get it—we want it to stay in Canada."

Maxie Berger, a trifle irked because the record book says he fought Dave Castilloux three times instead of the five he personally has counted, remarked heatedly "if we'd fought once more they would have accused us of being married."

West Point, N. Y., March 11 — (AP) — You can take it straight from Col. Earl (Red) Blaik that football coaches have to think and that's the reason why they have the only real full-time jobs in the college coaching . . . Before one of the teachers in another line takes a poke at Red, let's explain that the amount of thinking involved depends on the different types of strategy in the games. He's not calling anybody a dummy . . .

The United States Military Academy coach's explanation went something like this . . . in football you're always planning, trying to figure something new . . . even now we — meaning himself and his staff — can look at the pictures of the great teams we had the last two years and learn something every time we see them . . . we see mistakes the boys made, of course, and we see what the other teams were doing to stop us; things we never realized that they were doing during the heat of the game . . . on this basis we plan new strategy, new ways of doing things . . . every individual has so many assignments and so many ways he can handle them that there's no end to the planning . . . in fact, Blaik concluded, a football coach hasn't time to think about anything but football.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Partners learn lead signals to tell each other about some of the cards they have. At the same time they are able to tell each other about some of the cards they have not.

The opening leader has a quick chance of giving his sidekick a chunk of inside dope. It is the defending side's legitimate edge against the declarer. The leader should make the most of it.

It is stupid to ignore that privilege or a useless purpose. It is foolish to squander that permit on an unprofitable gamble. It is unfair to confuse partner with a lead that misinforms.

In selecting a lead, follow an order of preference. Lead first from the most desirable group. With no lead in this class, choose a lead from the group in the second class.

Thus, your lead from the second class group denies having any lead in the first class. The second class lead shows what you have in it. Also, it tells what you do not have in the first class.

In the first class group of leads are the honor cards. In the second class group of leads are the small cards. Therefore, a lead of a low card denies having any sound honor card lead.

Among honor card leads, the king is led from A K with others. The top card is led from A K alone and all sequences; K Q J, K Q 10, Q J 10, Q J 9, J 10 9, J 10 8, 10 9 8, 10 9 7.

Now, look. Suppose partner starts with the opening lead of a low card. What hasn't he got? He says he has no suit with A K and not any combination of honors in the list of sequences.

Find yourself as the opening leader with this hand:

♠K 7
♥A 8 4 3
♦8 6 2
♣J 9 6 4

You have no lead from any honor group. So, your lead is a low card. Against a suit contract, your lead in this case is the club four.

A rule lead is not always sure. But it is best most often.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 11 (AP) — Ray Milland was an extremely worried man last week. He is no longer nervous since he won his Academy Award "Oscar." But he will continue to be worried as long as "The Lost Week-End" continues to be shown on theatre screens.

The reason for his worries is his fan mail.

Ordinarily, stars are overjoyed at the number and content of the letters they receive from their admirers. The routine type of letter goes something like this: "I thought you were wonderful in your last movie. Please send me an autographed picture of yourself. Enclosed find 25c."

Since Ray's Academy Award picture appeared he's been receiving a completely different type of letter. Few stars have received letters from big business men, successful professionals, broken-hearted wives and mothers, and children who tell the tragic stories of their life or the life of someone they love dearly. Few stars have received so many appeals for help. And it is doubtful if any star has been so profusely thanked for the aid which a motion picture gave members of the public.

More tragic are the letters, written by alcoholics in a state of inebriacy.

Many of these writers ask Ray for autographed pictures.

"However," Ray said, "they don't ask for glamor-type photographs. They ask for pictures of me in my worst condition in "Lost Week-End."

Ray is convinced, after reading more and more of these letters, that "there is too much public acceptance of heavy drinking."

SAMMY SNEAD MAY BE MR. GOLF OF THIS SEASON

Although He and Partner Were Defeated, Snead Played Perfect Golf

By WILBUR JENNINGS

Miami, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Virginia's slammin' Sammy Snead, was being hailed today as perhaps the person who will become Mr. Golf in 1946, despite the Nelsons and the Hogans.

With teammate Sammy Byrd, of Detroit, Snead lost to Benny Hogan, of Hershey, Pa., and Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Tex., in Miami's $7,500, International four-ball golf tournament yesterday, but it was the Hot Springs, Va., golfer who was almost unanimously picked as the outstanding player in the 21st annual affair.

More than 5,000 Miamians and visitors will remember Snead as the yellow-shirted, serious golfer who stood before the 35th Fairway, 175 yards from the pin and two down, yesterday to send a screaming five iron shot to within two feet of the pin and sink the putt for a birdie there to take the hole and put his team back in the running.

Again on the 36th, it was Snead who on his second shot planted his ball closest to the pin and an almost sure birdie. But he hadn't counted on Hogan. The little Texas fireball stepped calmly to the ball, 20 ft. from the pin, studied it for a few minutes and then slapped it into the cup. Both Snead and Byrd were on in two and either could have made a birdie, but Hogan's three made it unnecessary for them to shoot and they were conceded the try.

The four-ball is called the greatest grind of the winter circuit, and in the semi-finals of the tournament, Snead and Byrd were forced to go 40 holes before defeating Byron Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden.

War Knight Wins Santa Anita Stake From First Fiddle

(By The Canadian Press)

A California-bred six-year-old which hadn't won a race in two years, Ethel Hill's War Knight. Flashed to the front to capture the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap by a nose Saturday from the favored First Fiddle in a stretch drive that thrilled the 80,200 fans. Wagering on the one race totalled $805,082 to establish a new State record. The win was worth $101,220 to Miss Hill, a Hollywood scenario writer. Snow Boots, which set the pace most of the way, was a bang-up third.

The winning jockey was Johnny Adams who had previously won the handicap back in 1939 with Kayak II. Johnny Longden guided First Fiddle.

Promoter Mike Jacobs was happy on his 66th birthday yesterday in the knowledge he had already received orders for $1,590,000 worth of tickets for the Joe Louis-Billy Conn heavyweight battle in New York, June nineteenth.

A bunch of N.H.L. old-timers figured in the 9-1 victory by R.C.A.F. Hurricanes against Wembley Lions in an exhibition hockey tilt at London Saturday night. Those who scored a brace of counters were Pete Langelle, formerly of Toronto Leafs; Norm Tustin, once a New York Ranger star, and Frankie Boucher, previously with New York Rovers.

The Boston Braves produced something new in baseball at Greenwood, Miss., today in the opening of a consolidated camp for ten farm clubs in which upwards of 200 players, most of them ex-servicemen, are expected to train before the end of the month. The different squads will then go into their respective camps.

Leslie MacMitchell, former New York University running star, rounded out his string of indoor victories by winning the Frank A. Brennan mile Saturday night in the Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden in 4.15.3. It was his seventh straight win. Three yards behind was Marcel Hansenne of France.

Outfielder Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox Saturday declined a $500,000 offer to quit the American League club and play in the Mexican Baseball circuit. Williams didn't even bother to find out how many seasons the offer covered before he refused.

Quebec Hockey

Sherbrooke, Que, March 11 — (CP)—St. Hyacinthe Saints copped their first playoff victory here Saturday by defeating Victoriaville Tigers 8-2 in the second game of a Provincial Hockey League semi-final contest. The Tigers had taken the opener.

Victoriaville broke into the scoring first but after that it was St. Hyacinthe all the way as the Saints scored almost at will in a game played on neutral ice due to the fact that ice was unavailable in Victoriaville.

Saint scorers had a field day as Archambault, with two goals and an assist, and Connolly and Savary, with a goal and two assists apiece, picked up three points each. Fourcier tallied twice while Bastien and Bessette each scored once and aided once.

Take 2-1 Lead

Sherbrooke, Que., March 11 — (CP)—Sherbrooke Randies took a 2-1 lead in their best of five semi-final Provincial Hockey League series with Lachine Rapides yesterday by turning in a 7-4 victory.

The Randies held the edge throughout the game, building up a long lead in the first period while each scored in the middle frame. In a high-scoring final period, the home team tallied four times to Lachine's three.

Herb Carnegie paced the winners with two goals and three assists and his brother Ossie picked up two goals and an assist while McIntyre was credited with two goals and a similar number of assists.

Tigers Never Headed

St. Hyacinthe, Que., March 11 (CP)—Victoriaville Tigers gained a one game lead in the best-of-five semi-final series for the Provincial Hockey League title by defeating St. Hyacinthe Saints 4-3 here yesterday.

The victory, making up for an 8-2 loss to the Saints last night, was gained on the strength of a pair of first period goals. St. Hyacinthe fought back, three times coming within a goal of evening the score, but Tigers never were headed.

Prefontaine scored the first goal half-way through the opening period and four minutes later Delongchamps made it 2-0 for Victoriaville.

Bastien scored the first St. Hyacinthe goal at 6:30 of the second period but 22 seconds later Bourdon again put the Tigers two goals ahead. Menard reduced the lead at 16:32 with the last goal of a period featured by 10 penalties.

Prefontaine scored his second goal late in the last period and with 57 seconds of play remaining Bastien scored again for the Saints.

HOPES BLASTED FOR ST. PAUL

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Paul's hopes of winning the championship of the United States Hockey League were blasted last night as the league-leading Kansas City Play-Mors defeated the Saints 3-1 and also increased their lead to four games over the second-place Omaha Knights.

The Saints have only four more games to play, compared to seven for the Kansas club and six for Omaha.

Joe Shack robbed goalie Doug Jackson of a shutout when he scored in 6:48 of the final period. Norm Burns and Joe Levandoski helped on the play that gave the visitors their lone tally.

Feature of Saturday's games was a Dallas-Minneapolis encounter in which Bobby Thorpe equalled the league record of five goals in one game and led his Texans team to a 10-2 victory over the Millers.

St. Paul had better luck in the Saturday game with Tulsa, defeating the Oilers 5-1 after rally of three goals in the final frame. Eddie Emerton saved the Oilers from a shutout. Omaha Knights defeated the Play-Mors 3-1 in their game Saturday with Johnny Holota scoring twice for the victors, Johnny Forbes once and Johnny Harms scoring the lone Kansas goal.

Doctors Should Never Marry

by Laura M. Walch

CHAPTER 22

A few minutes later, Gina and Timothy were in the car. It was only eleven-thirty-five. It seemed much later.

Timothy gave Gina's hand a little squeeze and chuckled a little. "Why Paul? Who's he?"

"Was that the name I called out?"

Timothy nodded. She could feel his smile, even see the flash of his white teeth in the darkness. "Isn't he anybody?" he asked, and she knew his brows were quirked up in the old familiar way.

"I don't know any Paul. Don't know why in the world I used the name."

"Purely a subconscious reaction. And a neat trick it was, too, Gina."

"I didn't stop to think. I'd seen it done in the movies like that. I guess that was why."

"Thank heaven for the movies!" Timothy said fervently. "You know, Gina, that man might have killed us. He was desperate enough. For your sake, I was about to decide to give him what he wanted; then you saved the day."

Gina still felt exhilarated. More than that, happy, sitting here beside Timothy .. as if .. as if it was where she'd always belonged, and always would. She and Timothy against the world, always together, battling against disease and ignorance, against superstition and childish fears.

It was a lovely picture, far too lovely to be true .. like most beautiful things. For an infinitesimal moment she had let herself forget that Timothy's love had been given to another girl; that it wouldn't be long now before she'd even be denied the glimpse of his face.

There remained only Patsy .. and Phil who might be able to give Patsy back to her.

They drove to police headquarters, reported the presence of the two prisoners and drove on to the hospital not talking very much.

They said good night at the entrance, Timothy taking her arm, and pressing it against him for a moment, looking down at her and saying tenderly, "A girl in a million, Gina, that's what you are. There aren't any more like you."

She'd raised her face to his involuntarily; then Timothy's face had moved nearer. Once again he'd been on the point of kissing her, but didn't. It was as if his face, his lips had been drawn toward hers like a magnet, and he had used all his force of will to draw it away again.

She had wanted that kiss with all the pent-up, starved emotion of her young body. She had needed it, the warm memory of it, to hold, to hug in her heart during all the empty weeks and months of the future ..

In the morning at breakfast Barbara said, "Phil spilled the beans last night."

"What do you mean?"

"He told us just before he left the hospital last night that you had promised to marry him .. tentatively, at least. But he was very confident."

"But I didn't .. that is, not definitely," Gina said troubled.

"He considers it quite definite. Or else he's working on the theory that if he spreads it around, it will have a sort of psychological effect."

"It wasn't nice of Phil to do that, he hadn't any right. I think he's taking an unfair advantage."

"Phil, darling, does a thing up brown whenever he gets started. But honestly, Gina, he's not a bad egg at all. He's certainly good looking enough. You can't help but admire his fastidiousness, he's good company, and even you will admit he's getting to be a pretty darn good doctor. He may be as good as Doctor Gordon some day, and he's going places, darling."

Gina was feeling disturbed. "They happen to be places where I'm not interested in going."

Barbara looked at her, studying her face carefully. "So it's absolutely no soap. Not even for Patsy?"

Gina felt a warm flush sting her cheeks, but her voice came steadily. No, not even for Patsy .. as much .. as much as I want to have her back."

Toward late afternoon, it must have been after six, Gina hadn't realized the time, Cynthia called Timothy. Gina went in the corridor to find him, saw him coming out of the children's ward. He hadn't scrubbed up, still in his whites which were decidedly crumpled. "Miss Snowden wants to speak to you," Gina said.

"I'll come at once." Gina waited outside the little office, but even at that she couldn't help hearing what he was saying. It sounded queer. For Timothy's voice was firm. "No, Cynthia, I've given my final answer."

There must have been an argument from the other end for after a minute Timothy said again, "No, Cynthia. I'm sorry." He hesitated, went on a little reluctantly, it seemed, "Anything else .. but not that."

Then he was leaving the office, his face set. He stopped on seeing Gina standing there, made an impulsive movement toward her, shook his head and went on back to the children's ward.

Gina went in and sat down thoughtfully. She couldn't help wondering what it was that Cynthia wanted Timothy to do; then her mind went to Phil, and she felt sudden tears behind her eyes. She wished she could marry him. For Patsy's sake. Patsy believed she was her mother. If Gina could get married, and adopt her, it would all come true, and she would see that Patsy always thought that. At least as long as she was so very young.

Phil came in then, looking dapper in his neat clothes. "Come on over to Harry's when you're through, and you needn't try to be angry with me. I shan't let you," he went on smilingly.

Gina looked after him. Could she marry him .. for Patsy's sake? Could she?

Barbara stopped Gina as she was leaving the hospital for Harry's. "Gina, when you said you weren't going to marry Phil, I took things in my own hands and went out to find Patsy and see if anything could be done. The house is vacant. Thought you ought to know."

Gina turned pale. "But where is Patsy?"

Barbara gave a helpless shrug. "Who knows?"

"I'll find her. I'll find her somewhere," Gina said a little desperately and went on out.

It wasn't a pleasant hour she spent with Phil. She explained to him that Patsy was lost, but that even if she were not, Gina could not marry him just because he was willing to adopt the baby. It wouldn't be right.

"The old conscience again, huh?" Phil asked coldly.

"I suppose so. I'm sorry, Phil."

Phil sighed. "I can't cope with you and your conscience. I guess I'm essentially a selfish man. So after all, maybe .. it wouldn't have worked out. I'll just go ahead with my original plan."

"To marry a girl with money?"

He nodded. "There seems to be a lot of them around loose these days."

Later when they were saying good night, Phil said abruptly, "I suppose you know Timothy left tonight."

"Tonight?" That was strange. He hadn't said anything about leaving.

"It happened all of a sudden. He made arrangements for extra gas, got Pryor to take his place. Could be a honeymoon, or .. could it?"

Gina said, feeling suddenly heartsick, "I wouldn't know."

But she was afraid she did. Timothy had been firm at first; then had given in to Cynthia; whatever it was she had wanted him to do. That was the way things appeared to have happened.

Gina found herself stumbling on her way to the cottage, and gave herself quite a talking-to "Brace up, straighten up. You're going to take this thing on the chin. You've got to."

At noon the next day Doctor Edson sent for Gina. The minute she came in his room, he said, "I have good news, I think, Gina. I knew all the time Timothy would come through. You see, there's a chemical firm in which the Snowdens are financially interested. They offered Timothy an enormous sum for his serum .. a sizable fortune. They knew of course they'd clean up a million or so."

"And Timothy refused," Gina put in proudly.

The old doctor smiled. "He did. He doesn't want the serum exploited, but wants it placed at the disposal of all doctors and surgeons at the lowest possible figure." Doctor Edson stopped and smiled. "with such a bottleneck, I don't believe we need worry any more about this marriage to the Snowden heiress."

Gina sat still, debating whether she should tell him of the rumor that was still going around the hospital to the effect that Doctor Gordon had left suddenly on a Mexican honeymoon. But if .. if it were true, it was very, very wrong of Timothy not to explain to Doctor Edson.

But she couldn't tell him about these rumors, whether they were true or false. There was so much hope in his kindly old face, it would break her heart to disillusion him. Then he was saying, his face wreathed in smiles, "It's not generally known, Gina, but Timothy will be the owner of Havenhill before long. I've bought out the interests of the other stockholders, and will turn it over to him before he goes in the army, and hope to keep an eye on it for him until he's back."

Sudden tears came into Gina's eyes. After a few minutes she left. She was remembering that Timothy had always said he was going to offer his services to the army after finishing the serum. How different from Phil. She'd asked him one day whether he'd be in the war or not at some time, and he said carelessly, "Oh, I managed that at the beginning. Have a permanent deferment."

The days went by, slowly, draggingly. Gina did her job, went to her room and to bed, did the most necessary things, let the others go. She had never been so lonely in her life.

One late afternoon after more than a week had gone by she looked up from charts in the little office to see Timothy coming. He looked tired and travel-stained. He even needed a shave. But there was something in his eyes, a light of triumph and happiness .. as if he'd accomplished something by a great effort of which he had good reason to be proud.

When she'd first looked up and saw him, her heart had given such a wild lurch, she had to wait until it was quiet before she could speak; then she tried to say nonchalantly, "Hel-lo, Timothy. I suppose congratulations are in order."

Timothy looked at her gravely, "Not for me. What about you?"

"I?" Gina even managed a light laugh; then she shook her head.

There was a little pause. Timothy seemed to be finding it hard to speak again. When he did, his voice came huskily, "will you come with me, for .. for a moment, Gina?"

She laid down the charts and rose at once.

"Take only a moment," Timothy said.

He took her over to his cottage and there .. sitting on Timothy's small single bed, surrounded with pillows, was Patsy.

In another minute Gina was down on her knees, clasping the small figure to her heart. Oh, Patsy, my precious Patsy," she was sobbing.

Timothy stood there watching. Presently Gina lifted her head, forcing back the happy tears, "I don't know where you found her, Timothy, but thank you .. thank you a hundred times."

"I had to go nearly all the way to California, but I finally caught up with them."

"To California?" Gina echoed.

Timothy explained then about Barbara telling him that Patsy was gone. He happened to have known the family living some little way down the road from the Barnett's. They told him that the Barnett's had started to California. So he simply took out after them. There wasn't any time to lose. He had caught up with them at last and it was simple enough to bring Patsy back. Then he said, "You don't have to marry Phil to keep her, you know. I can arrange it."

Gina rose. "I .. couldn't anyhow."

"Could you .. could you .. marry me?" Timothy said.

There was a silence during which it seemed as if the very air vibrated with sound. At last Gina said, "Do you really want me, Timothy?"

"Do I want you?" he repeated the words tenderly, "I've been living in a deep, dark cellar, but I've come up for light at last. As God is my judge I have never wanted any other woman, tho' it .. it took me a long time to find it out."

Gina looked at him and smiled. Part of his words had a very familiar sound. The next thing his arms were around her, and he was holding her close, his dark face against hers.

After a long moment, Gina looked up into his face. "Once ..you said doctors should never marry .. remember?"

He smiled back. "Doctors should never marry .. until they are sure they've got the right girl," he said and kissed her again.

THE END.

Seamen, Stokers Of Navy Require Grade 9 Education

Ottawa, March 11 (CP)— The navy announced today potential seamen and stokers must have a grade nine education before they enter its ranks in the future.

Disclosing an upward revision of educational standards, the navy said electrical, radio or engineering artificers would require at least a grade 11 training. General level for enlistment of ratings previously was grade eight, although a higher standard was usually sought for those in the communications branch.

In a statement the senior service said: "The instructor branch, composed of professional school teachers, which was instituted during the war, is being continued and both academic and technical subjects will be taught. Educational standards are being made to conform as closely as possible to prepare themselves for advancement towards commissioned or warrant rank or, should they wish to return to civilian life at the end of a five or 10-year period in the permanent force, they will be able to qualify to enter university or secure employment requiring matriculation standards.

WHERE 15 RUSSIAN SEAMEN LOST LIVES

This is the prow of the Russian tanker Donbass, whipped in a boiling sea off Adak, Alaska, after the tanker split in two on Feb. 17. In the background is the Soviet ship Belgorod, which attempted to take her in tow. One man was rescued from the bow section and 15 others lost their lives. This picture was made from a U. S. naval vessel, which speeded to the rescue.

PROSPECTORS' CHIEF MacMILLAN

Busily engaged these days in making preparations for the annual convention of the Prospectors' and Developers' Association of Canada on March 11, 12 and 13 in Toronto, Ont., Mrs. Viola MacMillan, president of the association, finds a minute or two to examine a piece of ore which has just arrived in her Toronto office. She has had lots of experience prospecting in some of Canada's most rugged mining country, heads an organization with a membership of more than 1,600 and a mailing list of more than 10,000 — all of them lean, strong, weather-beaten men. At this year's convention, which is attracting prospectors from Halifax to Victoria, it is planned to inaugurate a "Mining Day for Canada," an idea first conceived by Mrs. MacMillan three years ago.

VETERANS BECOME CHEFS AND BAKERS AT TRADES SCHOOL

Hotels, Restaurants and Bakery Course at Toronto Centre is the Only One of Its Kind in Canada

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 11 (AP) — Any day now the Hotels, Restaurants and Bakery Trades School at the Toronto Training and Re-Establishment Centre will be sending out its first graduates to take their places in hotels and restaurants throughout the country.

Run by the Department of Veterans Affairs for former service men and women, the school is the only one of its kind in Canada. While it gives preference to Ontario veterans, nevertheless service personnel from other parts of Canada are accepted on a quota basis.

"With the exception of British Columbia and Quebec we have representatives from every province in Canada," said Mrs. G. A. Dobson, director of the school. Formerly from Saskatoon, Mrs. Dobson at one time headed Canada's only training school for maids which was run several years ago by the Saskatchewan government under its youth training plan.

Already 84 students are attending the cooking school which opened in August. Only six of this total are women. The course, which lasts from six to nine months, includes classes in baking, pastry-making and kitchen supervision.

Just now the school is suffering in much the same manner as the average Canadian household—no sugar! It is under the same rationing provisions as made for restaurants across Canada and has 4,200 customers flocking daily to its adjoining lunch-room and tuck shop. They too are war veterans taking other courses at the centre and all of them are willing guinea pigs when it comes to sampling the delicacies the student cooks are turning out.

Place for Home Recipe.

Even mother's secret recipes have slipped into the cookery curriculum. Bruce Hollingshead, Hamilton, Ont., formerly with the Royal Canadian Navy and now on the way to becoming a chef, brought his mother's sweet potato recipe to school. And now the Hollingshead "special" often tops the lunch-room menu.

Artist of the group is George Churchill, Kelvington, Sask., an army veteran with a flare for turning out a picture-plate salad. George's parents formerly operated a restaurant in Saskatchewan and he plans to follow in their footsteps.

Adam Flowers, London, Ont., also a former army man, really started something new when he began taking the course in kitchen supervision, with an eye to eventually buying his own restaurant. Before the war he was in the hosiery business.

One of the women taking the classes is Lois Parker, Peterborough, Ont., former member of the C.W.A.C., who although she was shy of giving her age, couldn't be much more than 20. Lois said she will work in a summer resort when she graduates next month.

Jobs? Mrs. Dobson said she has received an average of two or three letters daily from hotel, restaurant and resort operators anxious to hire her pupils as soon as they have completed their courses. Many requests have come from the owners of summer resorts looking for cooks and chefs for the holiday months.

"I think however, most of the students will prefer steady year-round employment," said Mrs. Dobson.

Girl Undergoes 'Blue' Operation Dies 6 Hours After

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Sorrowing over the death of 13-year-old Isabel Douglas the parents of the girl who Saturday underwent Canada's first "blue baby" operation and died six hours later took the view today that if medical science benefited in knowledge the child's death was not in vain.

The father, Robert Douglas, paid tribute to Dr. D. W. Gordon Murray, internationally known surgeon who performed the operation and said, "it was a four-to-one chance but we took it."

Publicity surrounding the recent Baltimore operation on Gail Mitchell, a "blue baby" from Long Branch led Douglas to decide on an operation for Isabel.

"Even when Gail Mitchell died we were not deterred as I felt it my duty to do everything in my power to give my own daughter a chance to become a normal healthy youngster," Douglas said.

For four hours Dr. Murray worked in the operating room in an attempt to reroute Isabel's blood streams and restore her to normal life. Death was later found to be due to a blood clot on the brain.

Pathologists who performed an autopsy were of the opinion the operation itself was a success. It seemed successful when Isabel left the operating room and her lips were pink for the first time.

The girl's disease was a congenital defect in the arterial channels which interrupted the normal flow of blood through the lungs to the heart. With this flow retarded the lips, fingers and toes of the victim remain a bluish color and usually death occurs in early 'teens.

The operation on Isabel had barely begun before it was realized there were complications. Before Dr. Murray could get at the arteries he found it necessary to perform what his associate termed "a major and spectacular" operation on one lung which was a mass of adhesions.

C.C.L. Criticizes Drew Government Labor Policies

Toronto, March 11 — (CP) — Action of federal authorities in holding espionage suspects in seclusion at Ottawa was condemned by three labor meetings over the weekend while one convention criticized the labor policies of Premier Drew's Ontario government and demanded resignation of Ontario Labor Minister Charles Daley.

Resolutions declaring that Canadian citizens held by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Ottawa as suspects in the espionage probe should be granted all rights of legal advice and defence were passed by the Ontario Federation of Labor (C.C.L.), by Local 514 of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) and by the district four executive of the International Chemical Workers Union (A.F.L.). The latter organization's secretary, L. R. Tait, declared "Holding the spy suspects incommunicado for such a length of time is incompatible with British justice."

The Ontario Federation of Labor criticized the Ontario government's labor and housing policies and attacked Premier Drew for what it called his "do-nothing policy."

Daley Asked to Resign

Several of the delegates from many parts of the province at the federation meeting attacked recent statements by Premier Drew that labor unions should eliminate Communists from their ranks as "Red-baiting," and Pearl Wedro of the Fur and Leather Workers Union compared the speeches to those of European Fascists. "All that was missing was the anti-Semitic strain," she asserted.

Labor Minister Daley was also criticized for recent speeches on union security and union tactics, and the federation finally passed a resolution asking that Daley resign from the cabinet.

The convention endorsed the federal program of the Canadian Congress of Labor and in the provincial sphere urged a minimum wage, premium pay for night workers, provision for holidays with pay when employment is changed, provision for unemployed whose unemployment credits are exhausted, and amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act and provisions for industrial safety.

The federation further asked severance of diplomatic and trade relations with Spain, terming Spain "a grave danger to world unity and lasting peace," and called on the Canadian government to improve relations with Russia.

Wellington, N.Z., March 11 — (Reuters) — The England-New Zealand flight record was broken twice Saturday by R.A.F. Transport Command Lancastrian Aircraft. Earlier in the day another Lancastrian completed the flight in 62 hours 5 minutes, with flying time 55 hours 15 minutes.

Cuts Burma Stones In Unusual Hobby

Calgary, Alta. (CP)— F. M. Hoffman of Calgary has an unusual hobby—the cutting and polishing of semi-precious stones, and many of them he has fashioned into beautiful pieces of jewelry. Others he displays in showcases. They are not mounted in settings.

Mr. Hoffman has the stones on display in a basement room, where he has a workshop. Agates predominate, but emeralds, opals, jade, quartz and garnet crystals and tourmaline are also on display. In separate cases are petrified wood specimens and fossils collected from many parts of the world.

One of the stones Mr. Hoffman values most highly is an agate which shows a perfectly-formed floral pattern in red and black in the centre of a cloudy white square. Other agates give the illusion of sunset scenes; trees appear to be silhouetted in black against orange sunset and reflected in wavy blue water. Those known as "iris agates" show a spectrum of color when catching the light.

"Thunder eggs," properly known as goodes, are part of the collection. They contain agate of multiple shades and design when cut.

Mr. Hoffman started his hobby in 1938, his assets being an interest in minerals and one small grinder. Since then he has improvised four more machines. From the ceiling of his workshop are suspended dozens of buffers and metal polishers, wood and felt "laps", each used for a different process in finishing the stones.

The hobby has become a part of his life for Mr. Hoffman. He now is teaching the polishing of the stones to several ex-servicemen under the government rehabilitation plan.

Most of his raw material is shipped in from the United States — agate from Montana, Oregon and Washington. Jade from Burma, Opal from Australia and Mexico and tiger-eye from South Africa are also supplied when shipping is available. American mineralogists often exchange agates and semi-precious stones for fossils Mr. Hoffman has gathered from the beds of the Red, Elbow and St. Mary Rivers.

New Bid for U. S. Support Against Franco Expected

France is Expected to Give Fresh Evidence on Spain

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 12. (AP)—France is expected shortly to submit to the United States fresh evidence on Spain in a renewed bid for American support in carrying the case against Generalissimo Franco to the U.N.O. Security Council.

The original French proposal drew a formal rejection from the United States, which thereby broadened the split among the permanent Big Five members of the Security Council. Russia has sided with France in agreeing that the United Nations agency should be given a complaint against Franco, while the United States and Britain are opposed. China has taken no stand.

The incident is the latest in a long series involving Soviet-British-American relations and bringing to light sharp difference in their approaches to critical world problems.

On another diplomatic front the State Department of the United States yesterday made public a note denying Russian contentions that the United States was trying to play a lone hand in influencing the make-up of the Bulgarian government.

The Department also released last night the text of its note to France on Spain. This communication, however, left the way open for reconsideration of the United States position provided there is new evidence on which to base a case against Franco in the Security Council.

Diplomatic officials familiar with the French view, say Paris may seek to show:

1. That with approximately 2,000,000 men under arms in Spain, Franco has the largest army in relation to population of any country in Europe today, and

2. That about the time France closed the Spanish frontier recently Franco reinforced his frontier military units.

The French argue that these things are evidence of a menace of international peace and security.

The United States said it would consider any further information on the subject of the Franco government and would like to know particularly just what France has in mind for the Security Council to do.

Housing Program Will be Chief Item of Session

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 12 — (CP) — Preparations for the opening of Parliament Thursday were still going forward today amid indications the government's housing and reconversion programs will be discussed at length during the session — the second of the 20th Parliament.

Chief criticism of the programs is expected to come from members of the Progressive Conservative party, who have already said in public that the housing situation is improving "too slowly" under existing government plans.

Several Progressive Conservative party members, including leader John Bracken, have visited various parts of the Dominion during the off-session period and on their return from such tours have stated that they found housing and employment were the chief topics of discussion among the people.

Some members blamed the current unemployment on slowness in reconversion. Reconstruction Minister Howe said a few weeks ago that the reconversion program was about 50 per cent complete.

Both the reconstruction minister and Labor Minister Mitchell have expressed confidence that unemployment will begin to disappear in the spring and late summer.

It was learned that the Progressive Conservative party will ask Defence Minister Abbott for a full explanation as to why the Canadian occupation force in Germany is being withdrawn before the forces of other countries. The withdrawal of the force is scheduled to begin April 1.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and his party members are expected to join in the criticism of the housing, employment and reconversion programs. They are also expected to discuss the government's agricultural policies as related to the world food shortage situation.

Counsel Challenges Crown's Contention In Murder Trial

Walkerton, Ont., March 12 — (CP) — Defence counsel P. S. MacKenzie is to complete his address to the jury this morning and later today Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel is expected to address the jury in the case of Neil Nashkawa, 23, Saugeen Reserve Indian charged with the murder Jan. 6 of Pte. Walter Lavallee.

It is expected the jury may retire before noon to consider its verdict.

Mr. MacKenzie yesterday challenged the crown's contention that Lavallee had been sitting in an armchair rocker at the Saugeen Reserve home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. David Belsito, when killed by a bullet which came through the window.

"I submit Lavallee was not shot in this chair," he asserted. "It would have been impossible under the circumstances as outlined by the crown."

He said a blanket which covered the chair had only one hole that could have been made by a bullet and, although medical men testified Lavallee had bled extensively, "there is no blood on the blanket within a foot of the bullet hole."

Course Downward is Claim

He declared the course of the bullet through the room was downward and when it went into the chair there was no one in the chair.

He submitted that the .43 Mauser bullet which witnesses said killed Lavallee "would have blown out the whole back of his neck."

"It would not have gone through in such a way that it would leave a smaller hole than at the point of entry. I suggest this bullet was never fired until Walter Lavallee was dead, and that he was never shot with this type at all but with a bullet of modern make, whether a revolver bullet or not."

The crown's case had been based on evidence that Mrs. Lavallee and Nashkawa had conducted a lengthy affair during her husband's absence overseas, Crown Attorney J. W. Freeborn told the jury.

She stated Nashkawa had threatened to kill the husband if she revealed the affair, Mr. Freeborn continued.

Divorce Complaint Prepared For Joan Crawford

Hollywood, March 12 — (AP)—A divorce complaint has been prepared for Joan Crawford, who won top feminine acting honors from the Motion Picture Academy last week, her lawyer Neil S. McCarthy disclosed last night. Mr. McCarthy said thrice-married Miss Crawford would sue her estranged husband, actor Philip Terry, on grounds of cruelty.

Windsor Youth Served With German Navy, Gives Self up After Escaping

Windsor, Ont., March 12—(CP)—A 23-year-old Windsor youth who disappeared a year after the war broke out and was taken prisoner while serving in the German navy, John Menkle walked into police headquarters and surrendered shortly before last midnight. Police said he had escaped from a prisoner-of-war camp 36 hours earlier.

"It was my original intention when I got away from camp to see Windsor again — and I have done that" police quoted the former well-known Windsor resident as saying on surrender.

Menkle who said he had served aboard the Nazi pocket-battleship Scharnhorst added that he escaped last Saturday from a prison camp at Hansen, Ont., and that, speaking flawless English and wearing civilian clothes, he had no trouble boarding a train and eventually reaching this border city.

Clean-shaven and freckle-faced, Menkle said he returned to Germany from Windsor with his parents. He gave no details but it was presumed the family had returned to their native land by way of the United States through across-the-river Detroit.

"My parents, I hope, are still alive and in Stuttgart, and when I return to Germany and see them I shall try again to return to Windsor," he said.

Menkle was rescued from icy waters off northern Norway Dec. 26, 1943, by a British cruiser defending a Murmansk-bound convoy. The cruiser sank Menkle's ship.

"We had been lying at anchor in a northern Norway fjord when our reconnaissance planes said a British convoy was on its way," Menkle told police. "Three days later — Christmas Day — we sailed and the next day we engaged British warships.

"After we were sunk I swam around in the water for a very short time before being picked up."

Prior to Menkle's surrender here he had been sought for an hour when recognized by a Yugoslavian-born Windsor resident from whom he had asked a night's lodging. He walked away when called upon to surrender. The Yugoslavian immediately called police and it was while a search was in progress that Menkle carrying a prison-made suitcase, walked into the police station.

Menkle told police he arrived here yesterday afternoon and spent some time walking through the downtown district to gaze at familiar sights. He named two of his former school teachers and asked if they still were teaching.

Menkle came here with his parents as a child and was 16 when he left for service with the German forces.

THREE TORONTO ARMY OFFICERS SENTENCED

Colonel is Dismissed From Army While Two Captains Get Prison Terms

London, March 12 (CP Cable)—Capt. D. W. Thompson and Capt. Stanley Landell are to be cashiered and sentenced to prison and Lt.-Col. Philip Tedman is to be dismissed from His Majesty's service, Canadian military headquarters announced today, disclosing the findings of a court martial into charges against the three Toronto officers.

Capt. Thompson has been sentenced to prison without hard labor for two years. Capt. Landell was sentenced for one year without hard labor.

Capt. Thompson was found guilty of stealing two cars and eight Persian rugs and being improperly concerned in trafficking in liquor. Capt. Landell was found guilty of stealing two cars and three oil paintings and being improperly concerned in liquor trafficking. Col. Tedman was found guilty of stealing a car.

Canadian military headquarters said the findings and sentences of the court martial have been confirmed.

A court martial held in Amsterdam had inquired into charges against the three Toronto officers in connection with the operations of the Canadian army amenities control committee in Holland.

Col. Tedman is the former chairman of the committee set up to provide entertainment for servicemen on the continent.

Lt.-Col. Tedman will be dismissed from service here and will go home as a civilian. Capts. Thomson and Landell will be transported to Canada to serve sentences in military prison.

More Sugar For Industrial Users

Ottawa, March 12 (CP)— An increase of 10 per cent in the sugar quotas for industrial users was announced today by the Price Board. There was no change in the ration for household use.

The industrial increase, which coincided with a similar increase in the United States, was described as partially compensating industrial firm for the higher demand resulting from increased population.

The Board said the increase was a partial step toward restoring the former balance between household and industrial sugar users. The increase will apply to the second quarter of the year, starting April 1.

The new industrial quota rate, based on established usage in the same period of 1941, will be: Bakers, 70 per cent; biscuit and breakfast cereal manufacturers, 65 per cent and other industrial users — principally soft drink and candy manufacturers — 60 per cent.

First Bikini A-Test May Be Dramatic Flop, Others Will Test Fleet

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, March 12 (AP) — Atomic bombardiers say the first act of the Bikini tests this spring may be a dramatic flop.

The big target fleet may show little real damage.

But the men who'll touch it off suggest the explosion above the array of warships will demonstrate the dreadful versatility of the atomic bomb.

It could, they say, kill or cripple entire crews of structurally intact vessels and thus prove to be an anti-personnel weapon of tremendous magnitude.

In a sense, the atomic bomb will be mis-used in the first of the three tests—a land weapon applied against a naval target. Studies predicated on results at Nagasaki and Hiroshima where the bombs were exploded in mid-air as they will be in the first Bikini drop, indicate the possibility that few or perhaps none of the approximately 100 target ships may be sunk.

This may be especially true if the ships are anchored bow-on to the bomb burst so that the streamline character of the hulls and superstructures let some of the blast slide past.

The first test will specialize on an analysis of radiant energy produced by the bomb burst—the instantaneous burning effect of heat in millions of degrees and the effects of short wave radiation which kills men. The other two tests, one with the bomb exploded at surface and the other underwater will be essentially a test of the ships themselves.

One of the purposes of the experiments will be to determine how deep and how fast radioactive poison can seep down inside a warship "buttoned up" under battle conditions.

It is for these purposes that scientists are accumulating a tremendous collection of delicate recording instruments and putting live animals on the target ships.

QUIT MANCHURIA DEMONSTRATION IN CHUNGKING

Russians Evacuating Mukden Cannot Move Directly to Soviet Territory

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, March 12 —(AP)—Russian troops evacuating Manchuria have insufficient transportation facilities to move directly to Soviet territory, consequently must make stopovers at Changchun, the Soviet chief-of-staff official informed Chinese officials today.

A growing Chinese government force was reported in control of Mukden as the retiring Russians yielded barracks and factories of that Manchurian industrial centre.

The Chinese government meantime prepared to dispatch truce teams to halt Chinese factional strife.

Still another Chinese student "quit Manchuria" demonstration against Russia was staged in Chungking today, 21st anniversary of the death of Sun Yat Sen, founder of the Republic. About 4,000 participated. One of their banners read "Rise to Resist Encroachment."

Meantime, a government dispatch charged that Communists were violating the truce agreement in Southern Shansi Province. It asserted the Communists were tightening their siege of Kuwo and Kiangsien and entirely had cut off supplies to government forces inside the town of Wensi.

Both Chinese Communists and the government have been speeding reinforcements toward Mukden since the unexpected Russian withdrawal.

Chungking reports indicated government forces held much of the great Manchurian city, with Chinese Communists occupying only one section, at most.

Transfer of Soviet barracks and six factory buildings to Chinese government officials was reported by Central News Agency, which added that Russians had asked the Chinese mayor to take care of Soviet commercial firms there.

Fire Destroys 1st United Church At St. Thomas

St. Thomas March 12 —(CP)—The big bell of the First United Church tolled just once this morning as flames licked their way up the 70-foot steeple. A half-hour later the steeple had crashed into the street and the building was in ruins for the second time in its 73-year history.

Church officials, meeting to lay plans for erection of a new and bigger structure, said damage estimated at between $100,000 and $110,000 was partially covered by $60,000 insurance.

Originally built in 1873 to replace a frame structure the church was gutted by fire in 1895 and was later rebuilt and enlarged.

The fire, believed to have broken out near a furnace under the organ, was well under way when the alarm was given and local firemen aided by the London fire department were powerless to halt the blaze, but concentrated on saving nearby residences.

FOOD MINISTERS PLAN CONFERENCE ON SHORTAGES

New Steps Are Taken to Encourage Growing of Grain in Britain

London March 12 —(Reuters)—While a number of European food ministers prepared for a meeting in London April 3 to discuss measures to combat the food shortage in Europe, Agriculture Minister Tom Williams in the House of Commons yesterday announced new steps to encourage the growing of grain within Britain.

The government, he disclosed, had decided to increase the guaranteed prices of wheat, rye and oats for the 1947 harvest, and also is reintroducing wartime compulsory orders to ensure the sowing of 320,000 acres more wheat in 1947. The wheat price will be raised one shilling and ninepence per hundredweight while minimum prices for milk, fat, cattle, sheep, fat pigs and eggs have been fixed as far ahead as 1950, Mr. Williams announced.

The price for barley has been reduced, obviously to induce farmers to concentrate on production of food grains.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Food Minister Sir Ben Smith, as well as Philip Noel Baker minister of state and permanent British representative on the European economic emergency council are expected to attend the meeting of the council April 3rd.

One Identified As W. Manhardt, Escaped Prisoner

Riverside, Ont., March 12. (CP)—Four residents of this suburban Windsor town have identified one of two men seen loitering about the Detroit river waterfront here last week as Lieut. Walter Manhardt, an escaped German prisoner of war, it was learned reliably today. The residents, who said they preferred to remain anonymous, declined to elaborate.

It is believed the men have attempted to cross the river by boat and gain entrance to the United States. R.C.M.P. and the Federal Bureau of Investigation have been investigating that possibility since an outboard motor was stolen from a Riverside showroom last Thursday and a rowboat stolen from the waterfront here the following day.

Manhardt, one of six escaped German prisoners of war remaining at large, has been missing since his disappearance from a camp at Gravenhurst, Ont., nearly two years ago. He has been free longer than any other escaped prisoner.

Riverside police said the two men had been seen several times in the waterfront vicinity here and had asked residents if it were possible to cross the border here by any other channels than bridge and tunnel.

Possibility was advanced that both men are escaped prisoners.

A list of seven German prisoners at large was reduced to an even half-dozen when R.C.M.P. captured Heinz Wirtz, 26, in Toronto last Friday. The arrest, at a hospital where he had obtained work as an orderly, ended his fourth break from custody that came while he was working on a farm in the district about St. Thomas.

WILL PROVIDES FOR STORK DERBY, CANCER RESEARCH

Thomas Foster, Former Toronto Mayor Leaves Estate of $1,168,555; Many Beneficiaries

Toronto, March 12 (CP)— A fund of more than $600,000 for cancer research and a sum of $10,000 for a "stork derby" to be run in four instalments are features of the unusual will of Thomas Foster, colorful former Mayor of Toronto, which will be probated today.

Foster, who rose from butcher boy to member of parliament and Mayor of Toronto in 1925-27, left an estate of $1,168,555. He died last December at the age of 93.

Charwomen and newsboys, Churches and hospitals, and school-children's picnics were all beneficiaries. But to 37 relatives went no sum greater than $5,000 and the will contained a provision that if any relative protests he is to be disinherited. Altogether relatives were allotted $175,000.

The cancer fund consists of the residue of the estate, estimated at more than $600,000. It will comprise a trust fund whose income will go to the University of Toronto's department of medical research for cancer research "until such time as the problem of cancer has been solved."

And if the problem is ever solved, the fund thereafter is devised to the Canadian Medical Association or some other responsible medical body to extend to doctors and nurses "in the more remote parts of Canada, information, education and training in up-to-date medical science."

Approves of Large Families

Of all the unusual bequests in the will none attracted greater attention than the "stork derby" clauses.

It said: "As I approve of large families as such, and desire to extend some benefit to the mothers of such families, I direct my trustees to set aside a fund which with interest will provide the sum of $2,500 at the end of each of four 10-year periods; the first commencing at my death, the second three years after my death, the third six years after my death and the fourth nine years after my death."

In each of the 10-year periods, the mother bearing the most children "in lawful wedlock" will receive a prize of $1,250. There is a second prize of $800 and a third of $450, making a total of $2,500 for each of the four 10-year periods. Claimants must have resided in Toronto one year prior to the start of each period.

Other Bequests

Other bequests included: Income from $100,000 for annual picnics for school-children at Exhibition Park on condition the Mayor or some prominent clergymen make a "short speech explaining by whom and in what manner the picnic is provided;"

Income from $5,000 to feed wild birds around Toronto in the winter months, and income from $15,000 for conservation of wild animals and game fish; income from $100,000 for planting and replacing trees along highways leading into Toronto.

Grants Right to Franz Von Papen To Submit Questions to King Gustav

By DANIEL DeLUCE

Nuernberg, March 12—(AP)—Paul Koerner, intimate of Hermann Goering since 1926, told the international military tribunal today that the former Reichsmarshal intervened against the Nazi party purge 12 years ago and that he created concentration camps only to "re-educate" enemies of the state.

Koerner was Goering's secretary for many years and once was state secretary for Prussia. He testified that when the purge was carried out in 1934 Goering 'went at once to the Fuehrer and told him innocent people were being killed and it must be stopped and it was."

He said Goering founded the concentration camps, but turned them over to Himmler in 1934 on Hitler's orders. Goering also attempted to stop a Jewish pogrom in 1938, Koerner testified.

The tribunal granted defendant Franz Von Papen the right to submit to King Gustaf V of Sweden questions relative to the former Nazi diplomat's claim that he repeatedly sought the monarch's intervention in the cause of European peace.

Although the tribunal has no direct means to compel any person outside Germany to answer an interrogatory, belief was expressed here that King Gustaf woud accede.

Von Papen's attorney has asserted that the monarch could confirm Von Papen's contention that:

1. Von Papen asked the King in the spring of 1934 to tell Adolf Hitler "how dangerous in every respect an anti-Jewish policy would be and how such a policy would inevitably rob the Hitler government of all sympathies abroad."

2. While lecturing in Stockholm in January, 1939, Von Papen "begged King Gustaf as Dean of European monarchs" to argue with Hitler to change the Nazi warlike course and to abandon the persecution of churches and Jews.

3. In the spring of 1940, Von Papen wrote Gustaf from Ankara an appeal that he "use all his influence to re-establish European peace."

The tribunal opened the day with a closed session in which it was reported the justices lectured prosecution and defence attorneys about delays in the conduct of the trial.

Revenue Minister Forecasts Sharp Drop in Budget

Says Income, Excess Profits Taxes Will be Reduced

Renfrew, Ont., March 12 (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann in a speech before his constituents here last night forecast a reduction in income, corporation and excess profits tax and said the budget would be sharply cut.

"The new budget contemplates greatly reduced expenditure and probably reduced taxes," Dr. McCann declared. At another point in his speech he estimated the budget might be cut 50 per cent.

"The budget," said Dr. McCann, "will be reduced. It is hard to say how much. We cannot know until after the Dominion-Provincial conference, but it should be down some 50 per cent."

The minister added that income tax had already been slashed by 16 per cent and "we can look forward to further reductions but the tax rate is dependent on the people and the services they demand. The more social services the more taxes."

Dr. McCann described himself as Canada's biggest tax collector. His department was largely one of administration and not very romantic.

When parliament met an announcement would be made on the budget. "I think we can look forward over the year to decreased taxation but this will depend entirely on public opinion," he said.

He repeated that "if social services are increased levels of taxation will naturally be higher than without these services."

U.S. Asked to Cut Food Consumption 40 P.C. in Wheat

Washington, March 12 — (AP)—The United States, the best fed nation in the world, heard a plea yesterday to cut its food consumption by 40 per cent in wheat and 20 per cent in fats to help save 500,000,000 famine victims overseas.

The appeal of President Truman's famine emergency committee said such a mighty, volunteer effort on the part of Americans was needed for the next 120 days to tide the hungry abroad over "a terrible four months until the next harvest."

The committee offered almost two-score suggestions on how the public could co-operate in the food-conservation campaign. They ranged from a 10-per-cent cut in the weight of bakers' bread to topless sandwiches and open-faced pies.

The appeal to America to respond to "a great human cry" for salvation was issued by the famine committee last night. "The world faces a gigantic emergency of famine among 500,000,000 people due to war exhaustion of agriculture and drought," the statement said.

Three hopeful developments in the general food outlook, and one adverse one had been reported a short time earlier.

Details of Last Planes Hun Was Building Given

London, March 12. (Reuters — Details of a German four-engined long-ranged bomber—the Messerschmitt ME-264—evolved with the aim of attempting to bomb New York with a load of 4,000 pounds of bombs, are included in technical data of German progress in aircraft design appearing in the 1946 edition of Janes "All the World's Aircraft" published here today.

It is the first time since the war that such information has appeared in the book, and is likely to be the last, since Germany now is forbidden to make airplanes, and in any case, most of the aircraft listed with full addresses are mere names: they were smashed to rubble by Allied air attacks before the war ended.

The Messerschmitt described first flew in December, 1942, but was not developed sufficiently for Transatlantic bombing .

Two other machines described are the Junkers JU287 and the Heinkel HE-162 A, known as the "Salamander".

The JU-287—first heavy jet-propelled bomber to fly—had not progressed beyond the prototype stage. With wings sweeping forward about 25 degrees, it was to have been powered by two jet engines, giving it a maximum speed at sea level of 509 miles an hour and a range with an 8,800 pounds bombload of 985 miles: with the bombload halved, the range increased to 1,325 miles.

The "Salamander" fighter—also jet-propelled—was designed to employ as little possible material in short supply. Design work started Sept. 23, 1944, and the first flight took place Dec. 5, 1944.

Armed with two cannon, it had a speed of 522 miles an hour at 19,000 feet, and with maximum fuel could remain airborne at full throttle at 36,000 feet for 85 minutes.

Growth of Income Tax Collection Told by Speaker

The Men's Club of Tabernacle Church heard an excellent address by K. L. Reid, Inspector of Income Tax for the Belleville district on Tax Collection, at their monthly banquet held in the church parlors on Monday evening. Lloyd Hicks, president of the club presided and thanks were tendered to the Women's Association of the church for the excellent meal provided. A number of committees were set up to carry on the work of this progressive club.

Mr. Reid stated that tax collecting started in the time of Pharoah, when Joseph instituted a 20 per cent income tax. "Before the war" said Mr. Reid, "exemptions were high and tax rate low but with the coming of war this procedure was reversed and this caused a considerable increase of staff at the Belleville office to handle the work. The staff has grown from eight before the war to 80 at the present time. Before the war the collection was usually about $500,000 but the peak was reached during the war years when ten and one half million dollars were collected in a year."

The speaker explained the collection at the source of the income tax and claimed that the success of the new move was due to the co-operation of the employers. "In 1939," said Mr. Reid, "there were 2,500 assessable returns filed and 2,400 non-assessable and in 1943 these figures grew to 29,000 assessable forms filed and 8,500 non-assessable." Mr. Reid explained that all medical and dental receipts should be included in the returns made and these should be securely attached and any correspondence needing immediate attention should be pinned to the face of the returns. He stated that returns must be filed by April 30th but they should be filed as early as possible. The htnaks of the club were expressed to the speaker by the president of the club.

City Council Defers Action On Buying Parking Meters Until River Drive Developed

Parking Area Behind Stores Will be Resurfaced, Well-Lighted and Strictly Supervised

Installation of 250 parking meters in Belleville as was ratified in city council two weeks ago will be deferred until such time as the Riverside Drive parking area has been given a thorough trial as a means to alleviate the present congested traffic condition on Front Street.

Such was the decision reached by council members at their regular open meeting Monday evening following prolonged discussion of the matter by council members following the hearing of a delegation of city merchants protesting against the installation.

Several members of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce spoke before council in support of a Chamber resolution of last Thursday asking deferment of the meter purchase, while the voice of the newly formed Junior Board of Trade, as well as the county council, was heard in opposition to the installation of meters.

Following lengthy discussion of the matter, Alderman Harold Woodley introduced a motion recommending that "installation of parking meters be deferred until such time as the esplanade or Riverside Drive has been given a thorough trial and a considered opinion of the city planning engineer as to the meters, is received by city council."

Carried by 8-5 Vote

The recommendation to defer installation of the meters carried by a vote of 8-5 with Aldermen Armstrong, Chamberlain, Harvey, Hyde, Tice, Trudeau, Wilbur and Woodley voting in the affirmative and Mayor Follwell with Aldermen Butler, Follwell, Thompson and Clarke favoring installation of meters.

Speaking in support of the resolution passed by the Chamber of Commerce in asking deferment of meter installation, Mr. James G. Galloway, Chairman of the Retail Merchants' Division, declared that the opinion of a vast majority of experienced merchants in the city should have some logic.

"The merchants of this city contribute in a large way in the form of taxes," stated Mr. Galloway, "and they feel they should have a voice in this meter question, especially so when they would be placed almost directly upon their doorways. Sidewalks in Belleville are already too narrow and meter installation would only add to the congestion. They would also reduce parking space by about one-fifth."

Statement by a city alderman two weeks ago that city merchants by their opposition to the parking meters were trying to dictate to council, drew a rise from Mr. Galloway who declared on the other hand it appeared that it was council which was trying to dictate its will.

Recommended Development

In conclusion Mr. Galloway recommended development of the Riverside Drive as a parking area and stated this would do much to relieve traffic congestion on Front Street. "Farmers were definitely opposed to the parking meters," he said.

Speaking on behalf of the Junior Board of Trade, Mr. Bruce Lattimer stated that this organization by a four-to-one vote had shown non-approval of parking meters.

Manager of a local department store, Mr. Jack McVeigh, declared that if parking meters were progressive he would be in favor. Experience had shown, he said, that in small agricultural areas meters had proven dissatisfactory.

Ten years ago, he stated, merchants west of Front Street had been approached with the view of parking facilities being provided at the rear of their properties. A supervised parking area had been promised at the time but Mr. McVeigh charged the city had not lived up to its commitment. Solution to the traffic congestion might be to develop the Riverside Drive as a parking area and thus prevent discord with the rural shoppers.

Very Definite Opposition

Mr. T. A. Tucker added his voice in disapproval of parking meter installation and stated that a personal survey of residents to the north of Belleville had shown very definite opposition to such a measure. If meters were installed, the result might be that shoppers from the north of the city would go to Peterboro instead of to Belleville.

Enos David felt that the council was in a measure bound to abide by the wishes of the taxpayers as it was by them that council members had been elected. Taking as a viewpoint the welfare of the city Mr. David said he could not see the merit of parking meters as the city could not afford to go against public opinion.

Only Logical Says Alderman

Speaking to his recommendation asking deferment of parking meter installation, Alderman Woodley declared this to be the logical thing to do in the face of opposition which had been shown. "Protests have been received from merchants, the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Board of Trade and from county council," he stated. "Development first of the Riverside Drive is the logical answer to our problem."

Alderman Trudeau felt that the matter had not been discussed sufficiently by council and supporting opposition by merchants declared it would be these people who would be most affected by the installation of meters. Sidewalks already were too narrow, while installed meters would be offensive to the eye.

Mr. Trudeau differed with council members who held the meters would cost the city nothing as they would be paid for out of revenue collected. If meters provoked against the goodwill of district customers, that in itself would be a cost to the city He asked that police more rigidly enforce present parking by-laws.

Alderman Tice declared that as a new council member he had approached the meter question with an open mind and considered their installation would expedite traffic. In the face of concerted opposition from merchants, however, he was willing to compromise providing parking lots on the Riverside Drive were developed immediately with a guarantee of proper supervision.

He wanted the present one-hour parking by-law strictly enforced and declared that merchants themselves in some measure were responsible for the congested parking conditions on Front Street

Wants Drive Developed

Alderman Armstrong also wanted the Riverside Drive project developed as a parking area and pointed out that $50,000 had already been earmarked by council for this project.

He still had hopes that the Department of Highways would permit an entrance to be effected from the Riverside Drive onto Bridge Street and pointed out that in view of the new proposed highway being routed north of the city, it was doubtful if department opposition to the Bridge Street entrance could be sustained.

"There's no use sidestepping the issue," he declared as he pointed out the necessity for additional parking accommodation in the city.

When asked by Mayor Follwell about parking accommodation on the east side of Front Street, Alderman Armstrong stated that although there was little available in this area at the present, any time council designated that particular area as parking space, as Regional Planning committee chairmen he was ready to take action.

Recommendation to defer parking meter installation until the Riverside Drive be given a trial as parking area was then put to council and was carried by the 8-5 vote.

River Went On Rampage Ten Years Ago Today

There is a vast difference between the more or less placid appearance of the Moira River today and raging turbulent flood that inundated the lower part of Front Street to a depth of one and one half feet, ten years ago today.

Tons of ice forced by relentless pressure of rushing water jammed the lower stretches of the river. It piled in places to a height of fifteen and twenty feet in places along both banks of the river. Jagged ice floes swept ashore by the rushing flood scraped tree branches at least ten feet above ground.

From Ed. Thomas' store on Lower Front Street to the harbor, the street was completely under water. The Capitol Theatre auditorium was seat-high in icy water.

For ten days the lower section of Front and Coleman Streets was submerged beneath the flood waters. Business men and residents of that part of the city, went to and fro in boats.

Huge cakes of ice swept ashore reached points near Cedar St.

A large electric motor, housed in pit in the press room, as well as 12 other motors of this newspaper went "out" like the proverbial light, crippling production and putting an effective quietus on all operations. Rubber-boot shod editors and reporters, handicapped by the water struggled manfully to get editions out. Mats were rushed to Kingston, and in this way were residents of the city served with news of the flood.

Said to be the worst of its kind since 1918, the flood broke in all its pent-up fury shortly after two o'clock in the morning following a three-day rain. As if pushed by a giant hand, the solid fields crackled and broke up into huge pieces, jamming at the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge near Victoria park.

Behind the ice jam, rushing waters piled in huge waves over the banks, inundating large areas on both sides of the lower stretches of the river.

Occupants of houses and shops were effectively barricaded in their places of dwelling or business. On the crest of the flood anything "loose" was carried away. Furniture, wood, in fact a heterogenious collection of articles of all description was seen floating downstream in icy majesty.

Buildings at the lower part of Coleman Street were damaged at their foundations by the unrelenting pressure of ice and water.

One death by drowning was reported during the ten days of flood. It was an incident that will live long in the memories of those who experienced it.

Development of Emily St. Extension As Residential Area Seen in Sale Of Lots Mostly to Returned Veterans

Early development of the Emily Street extension as a residential area was forecast at the regular city council meeting Monday evening when it was announced that already eleven building lots had been sold in this area and that steps would immediately be taken to authorize sanitary sewers and to open the street.

Several lots in this area were recommended sold at Monday evening's council meeting, the majority of them to returned veterans wishing to build their own homes in the city. City-owned lots will be sold to returned veterans for the sum of $1 providing they give proof of active service. The usual one year building covenant following installation of sewers, covers lots sold on the Emily Street extension.

Must Be City Resident

A returned veteran must be a resident of Belleville to be eligible to purchase city-owned building lots for $1, it was pointed out.

Brief discussion on the matter was heard when it was pointed out that W. J. Lynch had purchased a lot on Moira Street for erection of a cleaning and pressing plant. When it was learned that Mr. Lynch was a veteran the amendment affording the special consideration to purchasers of building lots for business purposes, was carried by councillors.

Report of the special committee of 1945 dealing with proposed alterations to the city hall for housing municipal offices, the police and fire departments, was recommended tabled at the next meeting of council. The recommendations asked that the report be either accepted or rejected, in full or in part.

Regret Expressed

Official resignation of Alderman Robert Graham as a member of council was read before members with Mayor Follwell expressing his regret that the city had lost an able and aggressive councillor.

Following appearance of Mr. W. H. Finkle before council committee urging appointment of a joint committee for establishment of a community health and recreational program in this city, council recommended such a committee be formed. Mayor Follwell, the medical officer of health, the chairman of the Board of Education, the secretary of the Separate School Board and the secretary of the Y.M.C.A., were named to the committee.

Council concurred in a City of Oshawa resolution asking a refund of gasoline tax from the provincial government on all gasoline used by the police and fire departments.

To Make Survey of Gas Plant

The firm of Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers, Toronto, will shortly have sent representatives to the city to conduct a survey of the city gas plant as requested at the last meeting of council. Communication read in council Monday evening indicated that a firm representative would be in the city within two weeks.

Pamphlets on plans for homes will be available to returned veterans contemplating construction of their own homes in the city, it was revealed with the reading of a communication from Mr. E. H. Liddle, local veterans' officer. Mr. Liddle forwarded several pamphlets showing designs for homes stating that additional pamphlets could be procured by writing to the National Housing Administration at Ottawa.

Inquires Into Delay

Alderman Chamberlain inquired regarding the delay in placing of street signs in several localities in the city and introduced a motion calling for the remaining signs to be placed at their specified places at the earliest possible convenience.

Alderman Harvey inquired about repairs to South Foster Ave. and also asked what progress was being made in regard to the proposed community centre for Belleville. Alderman Tice replied that a representative committee had been formed and an early meeting with the town planning engineer was planned to decide on possible sites.

Under general business, Mayor Follwell stated that definite plans would soon be made regarding the proposed civic welcome for returned veterans of the city. At the next meeting of council, plans would be discussed and a committee set up to bring the program to fruition.

Fair Board Will Gather Data On Construction of Horse Barns, Committee to Visit Lindsay, Oshawa

The Belleville Fair Board at a recent meeting of its directors named a special building committee which will visit the Lindsay and Oshawa fair grounds for the purpose of obtaining ideas for the construction of new horse stables, which, it is proposed, will be erected on the fair grounds here this spring.

Included in the committee are President Elmer Sandercock, and directors, Jim Barber, Tom Walker, Fred Denyes, Harry Smith and W. D. Reid.

The new stables, which will be of modern design, will replace those destroyed by fire last year.

The committee, following its inspections of other buildings will present a report, and later, plans will be drawn up and presented to the City Parks Board for approval.

It is expected the new stables will be completed before June 19, the first date of two harness racing meets being sponsored by the Fair Board here this summer.

Monument to Sir Mackenzie Bowell Is Proposed by W.C. Mikel, K.C.

Erection of a suitable monument to the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell, one of the eleven men who have served as Prime Minister of Canada, was recommended to members of the local city council Monday evening by W. C. Mikel, K.C., as he spoke before the council body, outlining the publicity which would be received by this city should it honor the memory of a former native son in this manner.

The matter of erecting the monument to Sir Mackenzie Bowell had already been taken up by the Historic Sites and Memorial Commission of Canada, according to Mr. Mikel, with a promise being given that this matter would be taken up in due turn.

In the meantime, however, Mr. Mikel pointed out the desirability of having a local committee formed to decide as to the proper site for the monument in the city and to consider other relative matters. Already the Armouries lawn, the court house lawn, Victoria Park and the market square had been suggested as possible sites for the monument, he said.

Following erection of the monument Mr. Mikel advocated a public unveiling ceremony for which invitations would be sent to every place of importance in Canada. The unveiling, he said, would greatly publicize Belleville as very few centres have the distinction of having a former native son as premier of Canada.

Mr. Mikel stressed the value of publicity and declared that to succeed a city must have a vision before it, or it will not grow. "Publicity is the life and success of every undertaking," he said.

Another Accident to Marine

Kenosha, Wis., March 12 — (AP) — Yesterday was the day when Marine Horace Beasley, 20, was to have a cast removed after 11 months of waiting for a shattered arm to heal after a bone graft, but instead he got another cast. While walking on a street with a sailor friend, the Marine fell and broke the leg from which bone had been removed to repair his arm.

Domestic Help Problem Not Likely To Ease for Two or Three Years

.. By FRED KERNER

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The average Canadian housewife who looked to the end of the war for the return of some of the necessary "luxuries" has found that though six months have passed since war ended on VJ-Day, she still is unable to get a maid — or even part-time help to assist with the household cleaning. And, employment officials say, this situation may be the case for another two or three years.

To the shelves of groceries and the little delicatessen around the corner have returned the many foods and canned goods —"a part-time cook in your kitchen" — of prewar days. Clothes and dish-washers are in the process of being manufactured; radios, vacuum cleaners and automobiles have returned to the market — but Mrs. Housewife probably would forego any of these if she could but hire a maid.

"It's not that there are no women available who could do domestic work. A Canadian Press survey shows national employment services offices across the Dominion list hundreds of female workers in search of jobs. But these girls — many of them domestics before the war — have developed different ideas" and "are not willing to go back to this type of employment."

In the early war days thousands of maids and cooks took jobs in war factories and many joined the women's services. A majority of these, unemployment commission officials said, have shown no inclination to return to employment in private homes. For one thing, they have been used to having most of their evenings free and are reluctant to revert to a one-day or one-evening-off-a-week basis.

Salary Vital Consideration.

Though the main objection to domestic work is the long hours, the question of salary, too, is a vital one. On the average, thousands of advertisements carried daily in Canadian newspapers offer a monthly wage ranging from $40 to $70 — generally less than these girls earned as factory workers. However many girls have grabbed at domestic work despite longer hours and lower wage, in a successful effort to beat the housing shortage. Getting room and board with a job is a happy solution to one's housing problem.

Little relief in the employment picture is seen until (1) a "new generation is available which needs jobs and will accept domestic work," and (2) many of the girls who came to the cities and towns from rural areas to work in war factories will decide whether to return to their homes or seek other employment in the urban communities.

Newspaper classified ad sections carry hundreds of requests daily for domestice help. These offer wages as high as $100 monthly, "ideal living conditions," "considerable time off," and such other little inducements as private phone, private bathroom and radio — but fortunate is the woman who finds a maid today.

Not Anxious to Return.

In the meantime employment offices show that a great number of girls discharged from service and war jobs who were domestics before the war, are not too anxious to return to such employment. The girls prefer regular hours and many feel a "certain stigma" is attached to being a housemaid.

One woman's solution—a labor contract with her domestic—has given new hope to Canadian housewives. The contract, cancellable on one week's notice, calls for a base pay of $25 a week, time and a half for more than 60 hours, a furnished room, nutritious diet, use of phone, sick leave, time to attend church, uniforms and one week's vacation with pay.

By the way, does anyone know where I can find a maid?

General Strike Opens at Trieste

Trieste, March 11. (AP)— A general strike started today in the whole zone of the Allied military government in the Venezia Giulia district at the head of the Adriatic where an Allied boundary commission continued its secret hearings.

The strike was called in protest to the slaying of two persons in Servola, a suburb of Trieste, while police were removing a Slovene flag from a church. The strikers blamed the police.

Newspaper reports were barred from sources of information on the activities of the experts of the United States, Russia, Britain and France, who are investigating the Italian-Yugoslav boundary dispute.

Trieste was quiet with a Sunday-like atmosphere. All shops and businesses were closed by the strike.

The single Trieste Monday newspaper, Il Progresso, organ of the Italian-Slav Anti-Fascist Union, headlined the killing under a banner asserting, "civil police pass from provocation to assassination". The paper also announced the general strike.

The commission announced it would issue no more communiques on its investigations or plans and that no press interviews would be given by either the commission as a whole or its members.

British and United States newspapermen in Trieste conceded secrecy might be necessary in some instances to protect certain commission informants from reprisals.

Eire News Letter

By ALAN MONTGOMERY
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Dublin, March 12 —(CP)— Fifteen German naval prisoners of war, who stole a French patrol boat from St. Nazaire and sailed to Kinsale Harbor, County Cork, are giving the Eire authorities a headache.

The Germans arrived among a lot of pro-Allied people in Cork and their presence is deeply resented. They are being cared for by the local Red Cross which provides all their food and 20 cigarets a day — much more than local people can get.

It has not yet been decided what to do with them. The Germans want to be sent back to Germany or stay in Eire and French authorities want them sent back to where they came from with their stolen boat.

Peat Projects: In an attempt to make Eire as independent as possible of coal imports, the Eire government has launched a 10-year plan to develop peat production by mechanical means—at a cost of £3,870,000 ($1,741,500,000.)

Two electricity generating plants, which are to be established on the bogs, will consume 280,000 tons of peat and produce approximately 210,000 units of electricity a year.

Eire has no coal mines of any importance and before the war imported 2,000,000 tons of coal yearly from Britain.

Government Setback: Prime Minister De Valera's political party Fianna Fail has suffered its first setback since it came into power in 1932. In the recent "miniature general election," when the five by-elections were held on the same day, the party lost its first by-election in South County Mayo where the party's candidate was defeated by the Farmer's party nominee.

New Station: Eire post office engineers are working on plans for a new short wave broadcasting station, aimed at reaching Irish listeners in Canada and the United States.

Courts Martial Will be Held At Winnipeg

Winnipeg, March 11 (CP)— A member of the British forces at Hong Kong, Cpl. (A. Sgt.) John Hugh Harvey of the Royal Army Medical Corps, was scheduled to appear before an all-British general court martial to answer charges of collaboration with the Japanese.

Witnesses from England, Australia and the United States and Canadian army men will testify at the trial on charges against the 34-year-old Imperial Army veteran ranging from manslaughter to ill treatment of fellow prisoners at Oeyama prison camp in Japan, between Sept. 2, 1943 and Sept. 10, 1945.

The manslaughter charge arises from the death of a Canadian prisoner, Pte. John Friesen of the Winnipeg Grenadiers about Feb. 2, 1944.

Sgt. Harvey will answer to 29 charges alleging that he took more than his share of Red Cross parcels, improperly deprived fellow prisoners of the contents of parcels, struck an American Surgeon Medical Officer, disobeyed an order not to strike a fellow prisoner made by a British officer, as well as three charges of assault and 20 of striking fellow prisoners.

He is the first of two non-commissioned army officers to be tried by court martial here this month. The other, CSM. Markus Charles Tugby of the Canadian army, whose home is in suburban St. James, will face an all-Canadian court next Monday on 19 charges of collaboration with the Japanese, similar to those against Sgt. Harvey with the exception of manslaughter. Maj.-Gen. J. W. N. Haugh, British War Office, London, will act as president at the cour martial.

Uranium Source For Atom Bomb Still a Mystery

Ottawa, March 12—(CP)—One of the best-kept secrets of the war and still a mystery is the source of uranium for atom bomb construction in the United States.

The popular assumption has been that it came from Canada's well-known deposits on the shores of Great Bear Lake, but recent reports indicate comparatively little uranium actually reached the United States from Canada during the war.

The Eldorado mine had been closed in 1941 because the plentiful world supply of radium made uneconomical the shipping of ore to the refinery at Port Hope, Ont. The flooded shafts were pumped out and the mine re-opened when the potentialities of the atom bomb were realized by the Munitions Department. In January, 1944, the mine was taken over by the government.

Officials here are remaining mum on the amount reaching the U. S. from this source although recent reports have credited the Belgian Congo — the second major source of pitchblende before the war — with providing up to 90 per cent of the uranium used in wartime. One source overlooked in speculation has been the United States itself. In peacetime, low grade radio-active ores were not exploited there because it was cheaper to buy from high-grade sources abroad.

However, under the urgency of the race for atomic power supremacy, these deposits may well have been developed to such an extent they provided a fair proportion of the precious metal used in assembling the first few atomic bombs.

Resumed operations at Eldorado may not have contributed to the early bomb production, but likely the major share of the uranium stockpiles since accumulated by the U. S. has come from this source. The present workings near Great Bear and development of new ore bodies discovered in the last two years probably will keep Canada near, if not in the forefront, of uranium production.

Credit Policy Subject of Talk At Rotary Club

"When we, as merchants, enter credit competition in business, it's just the same as putting substandard merchandise on our shelves." Such was the feeling expressed by Mr. L. H. Wing, General Credit Manager of National Grocers when he addressed the members of the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon at the Hotel Quinte on Monday. The topic of Mr. Wing's address was "A Reconversion Credit Policy."

"Credit forms a very definite part of all business" he said "but we must decide on a reconversion policy to get rid of all its abuses and evils."

"The big thing that we must wipe out entirely is competition in credit" he continued. "It is the curse of credit. Competition in credit is just the same as competition in the community, the home in driving and even in church life. We can have no peace or harmony as long as there is the element of competition in credit."

"It is not necessary in business" said Mr. Wing. "It encourages delinquency on the part of buyers and gives them an inflated idea of the value of their accounts; it makes for unstable and undesirable citizens. People get the idea that because they are who they are they have an inherent right to credit."

Should Never Involve Customer

"We should never involve a customer in debt" stated Mr. Wing. "As you involve a person in debt, his feelings grow and grow against you. By and by, he begins to feel that he is losing his liberty as he gets 'pushed around' by his creditors."

"We must maintain goodwill between buyer and seller at all times and so keep the avenues of trade open" he continued, "by attending to due bills on due date and thereby not letting resentment show up because of unpaid accounts."

"There should be no "open" accounts in business. All business transactions should be on very definite terms. This facilitates business to no end and eliminates the practice of paying on an account every once in awhile just to keep the wholesalers and salesmen happy.

"By combining these four points, credit will be put back on a sound footing and will be extended only to those who deserve its privileges. The fault lies in the way we have been handling it. If business men and wholesalers will keep contracts, 95 per cent of the people will co-operate and we will be able to bring the offenders into line. This will take a lot of the headaches out of business and will make for bigger business with lower and lower prices", he concluded.

Mr. Wing was introduced by Russ Hachborn and thanked on behalf of the club by Jack Deacon.

Lt. Col. C. C. I. Merritt, V.C., member of parliament for Vancouver "Burrard" who is spending a few days in Belleville on his way to Ottawa was a visitor at the meeting and was introduced by Jamieson Bone.

The president, "Mac" McLean, acted as chairman.

DUTCH OPEN FIRE

The Hague, March 11 (Reuters) —Dutch police troops opened fire yesterday in a Dutch Nazi women's internment camp near Amsterdam when a riot broke out among the 25,000 prisoners, The Netherlands News Agency reported last night. Two of the women were injured slightly. The guards had restored order by last night, the agency added.

Students Form Stiffening Backbone Of Egypt's Demand for Independence

By HAL BOYLE

Cairo, March 12 — (AP)—Students from 15 to 25 years old form the stiffening background of Egypt's demand for "total independence" from British influence.

One of their most influential spokesmen is Mustapha Momen, 23-year-old architectural student at Fuad University in suburban Giza. A slender youth of medium height with a thick black beard and dark, intense eyes, Mustapha looks more like a Divinity student than a firebrand orator.

Yet he has led thousands of students in the last five demonstrations in Cairo, some of which have ended in fierce rioting and bloodshed.

Momen believes forthcoming negotiations between Egypt and Britain will fail and says that if the United Nations Organization Security Council takes no steps toward removal of British troops from this country "the students will revolt and themselves attack all British installations.

"Since 1883 the British have promised 20 times they would evacuate their troops from Egypt" he told me during an interview, "but they have never fulfilled their promises."

"For 64 years Egypt has been occupied by these foreign troops, and they always create fresh reasons for staying . . ."

"Our nation is divided into 3 main classes—farmers and workers, students and government officials.

"The farmers and workers must labor every day to earn a living and aren't well organized. Only the students are free. Therefore all movements and revolutions against British rule — in 1919, in 1935 and this year — were led by students.

"We want total military evacuation of British troops, removal of Egypt from the British sterling bloc so we can resume trading with America, Russia and other countries, and full political independence for Egypt — including the Sudan.

"And the students are ready to give their lives to get independence and the union of the Nile countries."

Momen said that to achieve their aims the students have banded into four groups, each with separate functions in event of a crisis.

"One group is taking military training," he said. "There are also a first aid group, including women students who can act as nurses; a morale group to give political talks to people in all cities of Egypt, and a fourth group to organize boycotts against British manufactured nonessential goods, such as cigarets, liquor and films."

My Headaches
Are Practically Gone"

From a letter written by a Mrs. Dunn we quote:—

"I would like everyone who suffers from headaches to try Kruschen. Before taking Kruschen, I had headaches almost every day. But since I have been taking it faithfully I have hardly had a headache, for which I am very thankful, as headaches can make one feel quite ill. For as long as I felt it was necessary, I have taken Kruschen each morning in a glass of warm water, before breakfast; and I feel so well." —Mrs. A. E. Dunn.

The reason Kruschen often gives relief from common or bilious headache, is because this saline treatment helps your system rid itself of underlying causes. Kruschen aids elimination and supplies the body with minerals which may be deficient in the diet. Take Kruschen faithfully for a month. Give this well-known saline treatment a chance to help relieve constipation and biliousness and see what it does to the headache that usually goes with these complaints. Kruschen is 25c. and 75c. at all drug stores.

Avoiding Splashing

At this season of winter's breaking up motorists have to exercise caution lest pedestrians on sidewalks paralleling the road or on crossings be splashed when cars go by. There has passed already part of the period when there is danger of a great deal of splashing but some of winter yet remains and there may be times when water or slush is lying on the roads and the operators of cars must use care to prevent splashing those who walk. In fact the unpleasant experience of being splashed can come at any time when there is a pool of water on the pavements or roadways and if a driver dashes through.

There is a law which expressly deals with any drivers who dash through pools and plaster pedestrians more or less with a coating of mud and slush and water. The penalty may be a stiff fine.

All that is required is to slow down the speed of cars at places where there is water or slush and where there are people near the roadways. The burden rests on the driver to see that no one is splashed as a result of his operation of a motor vehicle.

From the standpoint of the pedestrian, to be splashed is one of the most annoying experiences with the resultant need of changing of clothes and of having them cleaned besides the loss of time.

The law recognizes the necessity of a driver taking cognizance of the condition of the streets and of acting accordingly.

Health Plan for India

The Government of India published last week the vitally important report of the Health Survey and Development Committee presided over by Sir Joseph Bhore. The proposals of the committee, which is predominently non-official and consists of nineteen Indians and five Europeans, covers every aspect of health from safe drinking water to town planning. Besides a comprehensive long-term program, the committee suggests a short-term scheme for ten years, one of the main principles of which is that no individual should lack adequate medical care through his inability to pay. The proposals will involve in the provinces, an additional expenditure ranging from forty-two cents per head in the first year to $1 in the tenth year. Because ninety percent of India's four hundred millions are villagers, the rural population will be the chief beneficiaries.

The present Indian medical service would be replaced by new health ministries at the centre and in the provinces, with comprehensive health administration in local areas. At all levels there would be advisory committees, representing the medical, dental and other services. While respecting the wide measure of autonomy enjoyed by the provinces, there would be machinery for close co-operation with the centre, which would also provide grants-in-aid and technical assistance where needed. The committee proposes the enforcement of measures necessary to prevent an inter-provincial spread of infectious diseases similar to the control of the U. S. Federal Health Service. For each district of three million inhabitants there would be a separate district health service with smaller primary units for every ten to twenty thousand persons, each with its own health centre. Calcutta, Bombay and other large cities would have independent health organizations. There would thus be a network of hospitals and health centres from which work in maternity and child welfare, tuberculosis, leprosy, malaria, etc., would be carried right into the homes of the people.

Besides curative measures, the committee makes many proposals aimed at removing the causes of disease. It urges the inculcating of the idea that each individual is responsible for keeping well and stresses that as some measures may offend existing social and religious practices, it is essential that the health ministers appointed should enjoy the confidence of the people and be able to secure their co-operation. To achieve suitable housing conditions, the committee proposes that each province should have a housing and town and rural planning ministry working on a twenty to thirty year plan in five year stages, while large cities should have improvement trusts to deal with slum clearance and rehousing with the aid of expert town planners. This Indian-wide housing plan would give first priority to the needs of the lower income group.

The committee also recommends the development of water supply programs to give all Indians a safe drinking and domestic water supply within thirty-five years. Another recommendation is that the present output of doctors should be doubled, giving a yearly figure of four thousand for the first ten years. There should be one standard medical training and poverty should not debar suitable students. The committee recommends the formation of an all-India medical institute and the expansion of the existing Malaria Institute of India, with local control units. The Governments of India are urged to see that India is self-sufficient in essential drugs.

Finally, to deal with the serious population growth, the committee urges measures to raise the standard of living and spread of knowledge of birth control within the limits imposed by India's peculiar circumstances.

The Empire

Twice in 25 years the peoples of the Empire have followed without hesitation Britain's stand for freedom, confounding the calculations of our enemies and becoming the wonder of the world.

We dare not imperil our Empire heritage by any shadow of neglect. Rather, it must be our first duty to secure it for all time by every means within our power.

Alone, any country of the Empire might perish. Together they can go forward as the surest guarantee of freedom in all the world.

—Lord Beaverbrook in the Imperial Review.

Value of Press Recognition

Indicative of the increasing activity of the Anglican diocese of Ottawa is publication of the first issue of the new diocesan magazine "The Advancing Church." In an inaugural message, Rt. Rev. Robert Jefferson, Bishop of Ottawa writes:

"I believe strongly in the use of the press for giving information of the activities and aims of the Church. There has been in the past some hesitancy on the part of the Church to make use of this means of imparting knowledge of her aims and accomplishments. I am glad to observe this point of view is undergoing a change. . . ."

Licence to Obey the Law

In Ontario these days scores of thousands of men and women are getting driving permits, many for the first time. This is the individual licence to drive a motor vehicle, but it has its limitations.

It is not a licence for dangerous or careless driving. It is not a licence for speeding. It is not a licence to park in prohibited places. It does not give the holder as such any rights over pedestrians. It is not a licence for bad manners or arrogance. It is not a licence to take on the roads a car with tires dangerously thin, or with useless brakes, or in a state of mechanical disintegration.

It is a licence to drive within the law, a charge to obey the law.

—Ottawa Journal.

Reflects Heat

A new wallpaper which enables a room to be warmed up in one-third the normal time has been produced by English women research scientists. This remarkable fuel saver actually reflects the heat from an electric fire instead of absorbing it into the wall. This action is due to the metal decoration with which the paper is encrusted and which prevents heat being lost in the plaster of the walls.

Of safety, happiness and grace,
And keeps her children round her knee
Will ask no judge to set her free.

When two unite with heart and soul
To make the home a common goal
Where, in contentment, loved ones dwell,
They'll bear both joy and sorrow well.

When home is first in thought and pride,
And is not lightly thrust aside,
And faith is high and love is sure,
Fear not! that marriage will endure.

AFTER CHURCHILL TOUR INCIDENT

Great Britain's former prime minister, Winston Churchill, LEFT, and U. S. Army Chief of Staff General Dwight D. Eisenhower, appear not the slightest bit ruffled at Williamsburg, Va., after the horse drawing the carriage reared and backed the vehicle into the surrounding crowd. No one was hurt, fortunately, partly due to the presence of mind shown by the Virginia state policeman, RIGHT, who jammed his foot on a wheel spoke and helped hold back the carriage with his weight. Churchill and Eisenhower made a carriage tour of Williamsburg, one-time capital of Virginia, after the former addressed a joint session of the Virginia state legislature in Richmond earlier in the day.

WARNS U. S.

According to on-the-spot sources, Red Army Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Soviet commander in chief in Manchuria, recently issued a blunt warning aimed at the U. S., when he spoke at a Red Army Day banquet. He spoke of the "friendship" that exists between China and Russia, and warned that "We don't want any other country to harm this friendship, especially those people wearing white gloves and carrying gold in their pockets. If anybody puts out a hand to interfere, we will cut it off." This last was said, the report goes, with a chopping motion of the marshal's right arm.

It caters for 1,000 personnel — of which 30 comprise the Canadian quota — for periods lasting 72 hours each.

Holidayers on entering the camp are confronted with a sign announcing: "It is the Camp Commandant's orders that soldiers will not salute in this camp.".

Jittery visitors had better steer clear of the Officers' mess bar at the new R.C.A.F. Repatriation Depot at Topcliffe. Plainly imprinted on the ceiling is a conglomeration of footprints.

FO. W. R. Perkinson of Calgary says the prints are departing signatures of prominent personnel when they are due for repatriation. The officer, feet liberally smeared with shoe polish, is swung onto the shoulders of his friends to enable him to "make his mark." Soot was once used but shoe polish was found to have better wearing qualities.

DON'T IMMOBILIZE THAT LAME SHOULDER

Not every painful stiff, lame shoulder is bursitis, but that is what ails a great many people who try this and that medicine, diet or "drugless" therapy for what they or their doctors call rheumatism, neuritis, sprain, charley-horse, cervical (supernumerary) rib or something still more vague.

Bursitis means inflammation of a bursa. A bursa is a little closed sac placed between moving parts to prevent friction. The sac contains a few drops of serous fluid to serve as lubricant. One such bursa is placed between the skin on front of the knee and the kneecap (patella) bone—when this prepatellar bursa is inflamed you have "housemaid's knee"—which isn't so pretty to look at as it should be but, owing to the comparative elasticity of skin the swelling gives only mild discomfort as compared with the crying pain of bursitis around the shoulder. Crying, I say—I know, because I have cried with it.

There are several bursas around the shoulder joint—anatomists describe no less than eight, although some of them communicate with each other or with the synovial cavity (interior of the joint) itself. Inflammation of any of these bursa may cause a lot of pain and disability, but still, without these anti-friction bearings we'd suffer a great deal more pain and disability.

If you have bursitis or suspect you have it consult your physician as I did.

By now, I hope, you older readers will have forgotten what I once told you about my bursitis, so at risk of wearying you I'll mention again the salient features of my attack.

The right shoulder was affected, soon after I had driven across country in stormy weather and had to use the right arm to work the windshield wiper all day. I thought at first it was neuritis. Later I suspected I had a cervical or supernumerary rib (a miniature or half developed rib in the neck above the first rib). When the pain made me cry at night my boss called a real doctor. The real doctor recognized at once what ailed the quack. Some old philosopher said it—he who treats himself hath a fool for a patient. This applies whether you are a physician or a layman. The real doctor would give me a shot and pretty soon I'd stop crynig and moaning. I forget just how many such shots I had—maybe three or four in the course of a few weeks. Then by fortune, good or bad, good, I believe, I came through an automobile wreck with a mere fracture of the left shoulder. The orthopedic surgeon who treated that compared X-ray negative of the two shoulders and said: "Ah, I see you have had bursitis in the right shoulder." I replied "Huh?" The surgeon showed me in the picture of the right shoulder the distinct shadow from the calcified bursa. Calcification (deposit of calcareous material, calcium-salt) in the bursa is a common consequence of inflammation. Thats all. I just thought you should know I'm a poor doctor to consult if you have bursitis.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Bring Along Your Pouch

I noticed where you advised somersaults and lawn bowling to keep one from growing old too young. Now, doctor, if you'll show me how to do it. (H.K.)

Answer—Drop around to the green any of these fine afternoons for a personal lesson—but be sure to bring a well filled pouch.

Allergy

Several years ago you told of the remarkable relief from sinus trouble by potassium chloride—I used it at the time with much satisfaction Please give a "repeat" performance of the same for alleviation of sinus disorders.

(L. R. T.)

Answer—I suggested it only for relief of manifestations of allergy —in some instances such manifestations may be ascribed to "sinus trouble". For detailed instructions send a stamped self addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet "Relief for Allergy."

Beware the Pirates

Inclosed is the label from a bottle the druggist gave me when I asked for the ingredients of the prescription you gave in your column for excessive sweating.

(Mrs. C. E.)

Answer—Thank you. I know nothing about the preparation called "Brady's Perspiration Lotion.' I warn all readers to beware of any medicinal preparation purporting to be mine. I give no one the right to use my name. On written request I'll send you a pamphlet on "Sweating," if you prepay the freight.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why is a British soldier called Tommy Atkins?

Tommy Atkins is the familiar nickname for privates in the British army is applied to British soldiers collectively.

Rudyard Kipling was largely responsible for popularizing the term throughout the English-speaking world. In "Tommy" (1892) he wrote:

For it's Tommy this, an'
Tommy that, an!
"Chuch 'im out, the brute!"
But it's "Saviour of 'is country" when the guns begin to shoot,

Then it's Tommy this, an'
Tommy that, an'
"Tommy 'ow's your soul?"
But it's "Thin red line of
'eroes" when the drums begin to roll.

"Oh, it's Tommy this, an'
Tommy that, an'
"Tommy, wait outside;"
But it's "Special train for Atkins" when the trooper's on the tide.

The term arose from the fact that Thomas Atkins was frequently used as a specimen name in the service record books issued in 1815 and later.

In these manuals blank spaces were provided for the soldier's name, age, length of service, wounds received in battle, honors won in action — in short a brief resume of his whole military record.

As an aid in filling out these records, model forms already filled out were provided. The fictitious name generally used in the models was Thomas Atkins, although William Jones and John Thomas were also used.

Thomas Atkins, however, was used on all model blanks for privates in the cavalry and infantry and consequently it became the most familiar to the soldiers.

Many of these old books and blanks are still preserved in the library of the British War Office in London.

The War Office has been unable to find any evidence supporting the legend that the original Thomas Atkins was a private whose name became familiar because he dropped dead of wounds while delivering a dispatch to the Duke of Wellington during the battle of Waterloo.

Chinese officials are shown inspecting the ruins of the Akiwumei rubber factory in Mukden, Manchuria, which the Russians destroyed with demolition charges after removing what machinery they wanted. Of some 900 factories, employing more than 2,000 persons each, only three were not stripped. On Feb. 9 the U. S. State Department filed protests of the looting with the Chinese and Russian governments.

More Fullness And Freedom For Spring Styles

By ALICE FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 12. — (CP)—Fashion is soft and warm this Spring. Everything about it is so, so feminine with everywhere more fullness and freedom.

Such designers as Molyneux, Angele Delange who is dressmaker for Lady Alexander and Norman Hartnel, who designs for Queen Elizabeth, have done away with sharp angles.

This was noticeable yesterday at Toronto's first formal fashion show since the war ended. There was no escaping the delicate return to the fully feminine, the discarding of the wartime theme of bandanas, overalls and the uniform look.

It may be hard on hubby's pocket but the women who came to see Spring Fashion spread her 1946 wings loved what they saw.

Armholes were deeper, sleeves more full and drawn gently in at the cuffs, while waistline had been gathered in with modern deftness to give necessary fullness, freedom and softness without appearing bulky.

For more mature women ostrich feathers are back and maribou is the trimming for negligees while evening gowns featured a new "cold shoulder" model —a top of white jersey with black net skirt—leaving the left shoulder bare.

The English influence in hats was seen in the "Bobby"—a takeoff on the London policeman's helmet but softened with veil and ribbons. Most hats had more than the usual share of flowers.

Suit jackets were fingertip length, buttoned high with skirts about the same length as last year.

And throughout the show long dinner dresses were much in evidence—final proof that wartime austerity and severity is at last waving goodbye.

HOLLOWAY Y.P.U.

The regular weekly meeting was in charge of the Christian Fellowship group under Harry Denton's leadership. The theme of the Worship Service, "A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger", was brought to the attention of the young people in a poem read by Reta Lancaster and .. prayer rendered by Rosslyn Robertson.

The President, Maude Burke, conducted the usual business period. Arrangements were made for Fireside meeting at Max Maguire's home next Sunday evening.

As a guest of the Y.P.U., Mrs. Clarence Campbell gave a very meaningful reading, "The First Settler's Story". The theme of the reading was in keeping with the main theme of the entire program. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered her.

Rev. Mr. Perkins, the pastor, conducted a brief, but very interesting discussion in the Bible Study series.

After a sing-song of sacred choruses led by Norma Arkles, the meeting closed.

PICTON

Mrs. E. Massey, Consecon, Will be 101 on Wednesday

Picton, March 12 — Wednesday March 13 is another eventful day in the life of Mrs. Elizabeth Massey, the Grand Old Lady of Consecon village, for on this date she celebrates her 101st birthday. For several days past, cards have been pouring into her home and it is expected that those, numbering 126, which she received last year, will be exceeded.

During the afternoon there will be a party arranged by neighbors, and guests calling between three and six o'clock will partake of a cup of tea.

Mrs. Massey resides in a little grey house with her son Walter Massey who is 79. She does most of the housework though she is quite frail and has not been in the best of health during the winter.

Mrs. Massey has no particular recipe for longevity, but it may be due to the fact that she has continued to live a normal life despite advancing years. She has given up reading now, but retains the use of all her faculties to a remarkable degree. She has a good appetite and is fond of fruit and chocolate bars.

Mrs. Massey has always resided in Prince Edward County, and in the century of her life has seen many changes. When 18 years of age she was married at Consecon Methodist Church which is near her home, to James Albert Massey. The home where she resides was built by him in 1866, and she has since resided there. Mr. Massey died in 1921.

Meeting Stresses Need of Health Unit for County

Organization of a committee for the promotion of publicity urging the need of a public health unit in Hastings county has been made following a recent meeting in Foxboro when health conditions in the county were outlined before a group of interested persons.

Chairman of the new publicity committee will be Mr. Ralph Campbell of Foxboro, while on his committee will be Mrs. Ben Bleecker, Halloway; Mrs. Frank Foster, Tweed; Mrs. Sam Nicolson, Belleville R. R. 2; Mrs. Roy Bush Stirling; Mr. Seeney of Stirling and Mr. McMechan of Shannonville.

The above committee will meet in the near future to formulate their campaign to bring a knowledge of public health units to all persons in Hastings.

In stressing the need of a public health unit in the county, Mr. Campbell pointed out that in Hastings county, Belleville and Trenton, one child out of every eleven and a half died before it reached the age of one year, while the maternal death rate in Canada was one of the highest in the English speaking countries.

People of North Favor Unit.

W. J. Davis of Maynooth was quoted by Mr. Campbell as saying the people of North Hastings were definitely in favor of health units. In the district north of Madoc two doctors serve an area of 2,000 square miles, it was stated.

Outlining a proposed health unit for Hastings, including Belleville and Trenton, as prepared by Dr. Struthers, Mr. Campbell stated two full time doctors would be needed, their services to be augmented during winter months by local doctors. There would be 14 nurses and one supervisor of nurses; three sanitary inspectors and a clerical staff of three persons.

Total cost of a county health unit was estimated at $59,000 annually, the expenses of the set-up to be divided according to population. The amount for the county figures out to around 55 cents per capita per year. Belleville would pay two-thirds of its share and the county one half of its share, the balance to be paid by the province.

What Unit Will Include.

The new health unit set-up would include inoculation of all children over six months of age; communicable disease control; tuberculosis — discovery follow-up and contacts; venereal disease —discovery, follow-up and contacts; school health and supervision; maternal, infant and child hygiene; sanitation; water and food control; health education, and public health nursing. Mental and oral hygiene would be introduced as circumstances might warrant.

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S., was held on March 7, at the home of the Past President, Mrs. Clayton Wright, and was opened by the new President, Mrs. Frank Ashley. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Clayton Wright and Mrs. John Moorcroft gave a reading. Minutes were read and approved and letters read and discussed.

Mrs. F. Ashley was appointed delegate to go to Trenton to the Convention, April 4, with Mrs. John Moorcroft as the alternative.

It was decided to have a Pot Luck supper in the Orange Hall and to invite St. Andrew's W.M.S. as guests.

It was decided that Mrs. C. Wright act as librarian for the travelling library.

Mrs. Sandy McCurdy was taken by surprise when she was asked to come forward and was presented with a Life membership to the W.M.S. She very graciously thanked them for giving her this great honor.

Mrs. C. Green invited the ladies to her home to a Pot Luck dinner and to quilt a Mission Band quilt.

Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Foster Wilson and Miss Sara Wilson acted as heralds for the Watch Tower.

A duet was given by Mrs. A. Wright and Mr. Stewart, that was very much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. George Cooke gave the Study Book in a very interesting way. Mrs. Tom Emmerson and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy were asked to prepare the next program, with Mrs. John Moorcroft to give the Study Book.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

The service on "The Things that Make for Peace", was conducted by Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. Twiddy and Mrs. R. Pound.

Mrs. Trumpour gave a splendid address on "World Day of Prayer all over the World". She told of the many difficulties the people in Europe had during the war years to hold their World Day of Prayer Services. Mrs. Trumpour also told how many of these services were conducted in as many as five different languages so that all might understand.

Mrs. G. Brenton sang the solo "Sweet Hour of Prayer". During the service Mrs. Anderson presided at the piano.

BAYSIDE W. M. S.

White's District.—Mrs. George Bilham opened her home on WeWdnesday afternoon for the March meeting of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society with the President, Mrs. Glenn Meyers presiding. Four delegates were named to the W.M.S. Presbyterial in Trenton in April. Mrs. Benson Bonisteel took charge of the devotional period referring to Dr. Walter Currie, who was one of the great missionaries of Angola Africa. Mrs. Leonard Young sketched the 4th Chapter of the Study Book, "Currie of Chissamba", which told of his work at this Mission station in Africa as teacher, as doctor and as leader. She also gave an account of education in Angola dealing with the Currie Institute for Boys and Means School for Girls. An interesting story was given of a wedding in Africa. Five members paid dues, and Mrs. C. Wilson gave out a program for the year. The Rev. A. C. McCallum closed the meeting. The hostess served refreshments.

Trying to Relieve Shortage Of Women's Hosiery

Washington, March 12. (AP)—The Civilian Hosiery Production Administration is studying ways to relieve the shortage of women's hosiery, but the agency is out to keep the frills from the ladies' dresses and coats.

A C.P.A. official said Monday the agency may restore allocation controls on rayon yarn so hosiery manufacturers can get more of the available supply.

He added hosiery companies have suggested 1,500,000 pounds of rayon yarn be earmarked for them each month. The C.P.A. is "sympathic" to this request "because we want to do whatever we can to increase the supply of hosiery."

The troubles of hosiery manufacturers began when rayon allocation controls were dropped shortly after the war ended. Many of these firms had not been pre-war customers and the suppliers began to channel most of their yarn to other kinds of clothing.

This was done, the C.P.A. official explained, in the expectation that demand for nylon stockings would trim requests for rayon hosiery. The current shortage developed when nylon producers were unable to met demand.

As for the frills on women's dresses and coats, the C.P.A. said most of them still are banned under the Wartime Conservation Order which remains in effect. "But many manufacturers and retailers are violating the order," an official of the agency says. Most of the violations are of restrictions on length and fullness of garments.

Mrs. W. Sloan, 265 Hunter St., Peterborough, writes: "I have used Super Suds for years and I find it wonderful for washing clothes. Dirt comes out without rubbing. The EXTRA-SUDSY Super Suds sure proved to me that the more suds you have the less work you have to do to get things clean."

Thank you, Mrs. Sloan, for your grand letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power . . . livelier, richer suds, without hard rubbing. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

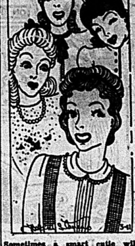
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON



Sometimes a smart cutie will produce a personality coiffure.

How about the hair-do?

High school girls are busy doing things, going places, attending classes. Few of them patronize beauty shops. They do wonders with themselves. Make-up is restrained. Nails always pretty. Hair showing cute tricks. And, do you know what? They put up those pretty tresses on metal curlers every single night, rain or fair weather. It is a storm duty. You see them running around bareheaded in rainy weather. Doesn't matter if the wool goes stringy. It will have attention at bedtime, be in a state of perfection next morning.

The do-at-homers are responsive to professional suggestions. If a girl learns anything about hair-curling technique from a beauty operator, she passes it along to her classmates who are ever grateful. Sometimes a smart cutie will produce for herself a personality coiffure, and then is she tops? She is.

The first requirement for a smart hair-do and easy management is an end permanent that is strong, flexible, has endurance. Unless the fairy godmother gave one naturally curly locks, the imitation undulation is a must.

To keep it in form you have your choice of two methods; using metal curlers that keep you awake at night, or resorting to pin curls.

The most satisfactory method for long hair is to wind the ends on metal gadgets; for short hair the pin curl is preferred by beauty shop operators. When pin curls are brushed together, then combed, the ends will be curly and there will be a pleasing undulation close to the scalp.

For pin curling you must have a sense of order. Hit and miss methods do not make for a neat result. Part the strands so that each one has an equal amount of hair. Don't stack your pin curls; each one should be close to the scalp, occupying its own territory. When making a curl be sure that the end of the strand is tucked neatly inside; if it isn't, there may be an ugly sprout of straight, lank hair.

If a permanent is strong, first class, you may be able to get along without a setting lotion. If you use one, have it in a small cup, spread it over each strand as you wind it.

Most important is to have the strands of uniform size. If the hair is coarse, you need not have so many strands. Fine slinky hair must be set in tiny pin curls if the wave is to endure.

You can wind the strand over your finger if you like; that method will make larger ringlets than would result if you started at the end, winding upward to the scalp.

Mustard Treatment Helps LOOSEN CHEST CONGESTION

"When I had a very bad chest congestion" said Mrs. Margaret Hansen of Lethbridge, "I found a mustard poultice, applied right around my body, helped to relieve the pain more quickly than anything else. We used one tablespoonful of mustard to three tablespoonfuls of flour."

Mrs. Hansen has also found mustard poultices helpful in easing the distress of bronchitis. She explained, "This winter I could hardly breathe. I used a mustard poultice, one tablespoonful of mustard to three of flour, applied for not longer than 20 minutes, every three or four hours. It certainly helped to loosen the congestion and made me so comfortable I was able to get sound, restful sleep and ultimate relief."

Mustard Treatment Helps Relieve Many Types of Pain

Everywhere you go in Canada you will find housewives rely on mustard treatments when colds, chill and grippe threaten, particularly in the winter months. They find the warming, stimulating action of a mustard bath helps to bring relief from rheumatic pains and the pains of arthritis and neuralgia. It helps bring relaxation to stiff joints and muscles and almost always helps induce sound, natural sleep. However, when symptoms are at all serious, it is well to call your doctor.

Change in Basic Chic

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS WAS A dress which caused many sparkles of the eye when it went down the runway at a Waldorf-Astoria fashion luncheon recently.

It is a lovely shade of petunia purple, and all the women who know that basic black is the surest chic, but who get restive nevertheless occasionally, saw a colorful substitute in the model.

The dress is crepe, and it is made with a smooth, sideswept drape which will do a good figure no harm, and help a less happy one a whole lot.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Answers to Etiquette Discussions and Arguments

"To settle an argument, will you please answer this question?" . . . "Will you please settle a discussion between my friend and me?" . . . "A says it's so-and-so, but I insist it's this way. . ." . . . "At a meeting of our club, this etiquette question came up" . . . I like to find in my mail questions that begin in this or similar fashion, for they show a healthful alertness to everyday questions of manners that confront all of us at some time or other, and an eager wish to learn what's what. Particularly I like the ones that begin, "At our dinner-table last evening our family was discussing the question as to. . ." A perfect meeting-ground for talking over questions about manners; keep the family's manners-awareness on tiptoe.

In the last few days my mail has been bristling with these discussion-and-argument questions. Here are a few:

"To settle an argument, please answer this question: When I address a letter to a married woman whose husband is living, should I address it 'Mrs. John Smith' or 'Mrs. Mary Smith'? I maintain that 'Mrs. John Smith' is proper." A.C.

Answer—You are right. . . . "Mrs. John Smith" is the correct form.

"My husband and I are having an argument about the correct form for our new son's name. He is named after his father, who is (let's say) Edward Peter Brown, Jr. My husband's father is dead. In this case, does my husband automatically become 'Sr.' and my son 'Jr.' or is our son '3rd'? D.R.

Answer—Since your husband's father is dead, your husband should drop "Jr." from his name (he is now the "senior", though it is not necessary for him to add this suffix to his name); and your son is Edward Peter Brown, Jr.

"My husband and I are having a discussion is to the correct procedure when ordering a meal in a restaurant. Does the lady give her order to the waiter or to her escort? We have discussed this question with several friends, and all but two agree with my husband that the lady gives her order directly to the waiter. Which of us is correct?" H. K.

Answer—You are right. . . the lady tells her escort what she wants, and he gives both orders to the waiter. The basis for this courtesy is that the lady thus makes a bow to the host-ship of her escort. Also, if the orders differ, the well-bred host mentions her order first as he relays the orders to the waiter.

"At the dinner-table last evening our family had an argument as to what should be done with the knife when it is not in use. My mother reproved my brother and me for resting the blade of the knife on the plate, with the handle on the table. What's wrong about that?" A. S.

Answer—The rule is that when you are not using your knife it is laid across the rim of the plate. Never place either the knife or the fork, when you are not using it, so that the handle rest on the table. This is what's wrong with resting the handles on the table: (1) it is unattractive to look at; and (2) this precarious position makes it easier for the knife or fork to be pushed onto the table-cloth, probably leaving food-spots.

"I have recently been married, and last evening my husband (whose family is better educated than my family) reproved me for referring to him as "Mr. Smith", when I was speaking of him over the telephone to an acquaintance. He says that I made a social error, since a woman should refer to her husband as "Mr. Smith" only to tradespeople or servants and that to an acquaintance it should be "my husband". But I thought that since this woman calls us "Mr. Smith" and "Mrs. Smith", I should refer to him by the name she calls him. Which of us is right?" W. D.

Answer— Your husband is right. Here is the rule in a nutshell: (1) to friends you refer to your husband as "Bob" and he refers to you as "Mary"; to acquaintances you refer to him as "my husband" and he refers to you as "my wife"; to tradespeople and servants, "Mr. Smith" and "Mrs. Smith" are the correct forms.

Signature Problems

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. To settle a discussion, will you please answer this question: When one sends a greeting card or a letter to a relative or intimate friend, is it necessary to sign one's last name?

2. And if only first names are signed should 'Mary and John' be the sequence, or 'John and Mary'? I may be wrong, but somehow or other 'John and Mary' seems right to me.

M. R.

1. Adding your last name to your signature on a letter or card suggests that you haven't a close connection, either of relationship or friendship, with the person to whom you are writing. If for example, you are writing to your aunt or cousin or to your intimate friend Grace, your first name is the natural signature—that name and your handwriting are enough for identification. You add your last name when it is necessary for identification, more information as to "who the writer is".

2. Although 'Mary and John' is the sequence of names customarily written, you are quite right in regarding 'John and Mary' as a correct form for you to sign . . . since it really is more polite for the person signing the names to write her (or his, if the husband is writing the signature) name last.

Announcements of Her New York Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I live in a State near New York and am planning to be married soon in New York City; a very quiet wedding, with my best friend my only attendant, and only the members of both families attending. I would like to send out announcements. Will you please tell me the correct form? My mother is a widow; should her name read "Mrs. John Brown" or "Mrs. Helen Brown?" And when should these announcements be mailed?

R. B.

Your mother's name should read "Mrs. John Brown." And the announcement-form:

Mrs. John Brown announces the marriage of her daughter
Rose to
Mr. Theodore Paul Smith
Tuesday, the ninth of April
Nineteen hundred and forty-six
New York

If you are married in church, you may, if you wish, include the name of the church in the announcements: on the line above "New York."

The announcements should be all ready to be mailed (engraved, addressed, stamped) as soon as possible after the ceremony has been performed.

Pre-Permanent Conditioning

Before each permanent, Janet Blair prepares her tresses

By HELEN FOLLETT

PERHAPS YOUR precious wool is losing its undulation, is ready for a new permanent. It looks a bit tired and sick, that glorious halo. Perhaps you have not given it the attention you should. Hair gets sulky sometimes. Haven't you noticed? Or it seems ill-natured, won't stay put, curls the wrong way. A little petting will make it well again.

The permanent wave, in its various forms, no longer makes the hair dry. Wonderful what has been accomplished along these lines. The only trouble is, that when the wave is in, the topcrest in fine form, we forget that scalp care should continue, that brushing has a vitalizing influence. All the time and attention is given to arrangement.

Prevention Now

Don't take your tresslocks for granted. They may decide any day to moult. Take a birds-eye view of the future. Do everything possible to prevent early greyness or thinning at the temples.

Once a week, for three weeks before the permanent date, give yourself a hot oil treament. Brush for five minutes, taking small strands, holding them away from the head, grooming with a rolling movement. A narrow brush can be managed better than a wide one.

Part the hair at various places, apply hot mineral oil along the partings. You can use a small brush, a pledget of cotton or a large medicine dropper. Then give your scalp a good mauling.

Thumb Circles

Place fingers and thumbs outspread over the scalp. Keep the fingers stationary, do circles with the thumbs. Work along the border lines, front, sides and rear.

Move the flesh back and forth. In a few minutes, the scalp should be warm and glowing, showing that blood streams have come out of their sleep and are dancing.

Every silky shaft gets board and lodgings from the blood streams. If the flesh is tight and thin, circulation is restricted.

Fashion Flashes

GLORIOUS WEDDING dresses add beauty to Spring weddings. At a recent ceremony the bride wore white satin made with off-shoulder neckline filled in with yoke and sleeves of Honiton lace which matched the veil. Seed pearl and crystal bead embroidery outlined the yoke. Widely-hooped hips were in contrast to the ultra-slim silhouette.

The emphasis on the soft suit is attributed to the mustered-out servicewoman who is weary of the tailored togs that she had to wear year in, year out. Softly tailored woollen in bright, singing colors are featured by the shops for Spring. Colorful tweeds, softly detailed, are especially promoted. Deep armholes and self-tie fastenings are cited, as are slightly flared skirts.

Gray clouds mark the fashion horizon. A late winter dinner dress is of gray crepe, made with long torso top having an all-over serpentine pattern of gold sequins. Off-shoulder neckline and hipline have bands of the sequin embroidery. Plain, full skirt is softly flared.

It's a joy to go shopping again for printed fabrics. A new silk print has brightly colored flowers massed together. Here and there, almost hidden by the flowers is a tiny, mounted huntsman, in hunting pink, on a brown horse.

A highlight of the Spring silhouette for coats and suit jackets is the rounded shoulder line. Smooth, rounded shoulders mark a new suit of royal blue woollen made with a narrow self belt that releases peplum-like fullness. High on the jacket are shield-shaped pocket flaps closed by novelty silver buttons. Silver buttons for the closing that starts at the high, round neckline.

A new look marks many of the new print frocks. Skirts are draped up to bustle bows in back and there are deep set-in midriff sections.

Belleville Bears Win First Game in Junior B Playdowns From Kingston Saints 10-9

Don Barrett Scores Five Goals and Whole Team Played Well Despite Lack of Condition

Sparked by Don Barrett who racked up five goals, Belleville Juniors upset the dope in Kingston Monday night when they edged out a sweet 10-9 victory over the highly-touted Kingston "Saints" in the first game of the O.H.A. Junior "B" playdowns.

The game was a real "rouser" from start to finish with both teams really turning on the power all the way. The Bears deserve a real hand for their win as they haven't been on ice in over two weeks. True, it looked for a time at the start of the final chapter as if they were going to fade due to the terrific pace but they fought gamely on to tie the score with six minutes to go and pumped home the winning margin with less than four minutes to go 'til the final whistle.

Don't get the idea that the Bears were outplayed. They weren't. They matched the speedy Saints stride for stride throughout and in doing so, turned in one of their best performances of the season.

Belleville Carries Play

The first period opened with Belleville carrying the play to the surprised Saints. At the 2:19 mark, Don Barrett notched his first of the evening after taking a pass from Jerry Mohér to beat Brown, in the Kingston cage, all the way. Fifty seconds later, Billy Holway broke away with Reeves and Day to make it 2-0 with Reeves being the marksman. At 5:45, Jack Wardhaugh added another after combining with Jerry Moher.

The Saints finally broke into the scoring column at the 12:06 mark when Ronnie Plumb combined with Ferguson and Shepherd. Barrett came right back to get his second goal of the night and make it 4-1 for Belleville just one minute and thirty-four seconds later.

At 19:32 Ronnie Plumb got his second goal of the night after taking a long pass from Bruce Woodman to end the scoring for a period in which Belleville held a decided edge in the play.

A Terrific Clip

The middle session was played at a terrific clip. At the 3:52 mark, Lorne Ferguson shot one at the Belleville net. In the resulting scramble, Plumley was caught out of position and Ronnie Plumb was "Johnny-on-the-spot" to bang the rubber into the rigging for his third goal of the game to make the count 4-3 for Belleville. Less than three minutes later, "Huck" Reeves combined with Billy Holway to increase the lead to 5-3.

The Saints came back fast and at 7.22, Lorne Ferguson took a nice pass from Ronnie Plumb to sink the disc and make it 5-4. Two minutes later, Jack Wardhaugh and Don Barrett combined again with Barrett being the marksman. At 11.37, Sammy Mulholland took a pass from Davidson and let go a terrific drive which caught Plumley on the shoulder and caught the corner of the twine to bring the Saints within hailing distance once again.

With six minutes left to go in the period, Doug Green, who was back in harness again for the first time since early in the season, passed out to Jack Wardhaugh from a scramble in front of the Kingston rigging and Wardhaugh made no mistake about batting it past Brown to end the scoring for the period in which the play was pretty well even.

A Real Thriller

The final session was a real thriller with wide open hockey throughout. Davidson opened the scoring for the stanza when he took a pass from Joyce in a scramble and caught Plumley out of position at the 1.40 mark. The Saints rushed to the attack and Joyce tied it up at 2.45 after taking a pass from Sammy Mulholland. Then the play really opened up. Kingston took the lead for the first time in the game at the 7.23 mark when Joyce passed one out from the corner to Dick Davidson who sifted one into the Belleville cage to make it 8-7. The Bears were beginning to look a little leg-weary at this point.

Halfway through the period, Cal York took the puck from behind his own net and skated the length of the ice to score one of the prettiest goals of the night to notch the count again at 8-8. At 10.28, Kingston again took the lead when Ferguson combined with Ronnie Plumb to give the Saints a 9-8 edge.

At 14.20, York led the attack again from his own net and laid over a sweet pass to Don Barrett who promptly drifted one past Brown to notch the count again.

Barrett Scores Winner.

With less than four minutes to go, Don Barrett notched his fifth goal of the game and what proved to be the winning one after taking a pass from Jack Wardhaugh.

The Kingston team really put on the pressure in the dying minutes of the game in a vain effort to notch the tying marker but the Bears hung on with grim determination to hold them at bay and skated off the ice with a sweet 10-9 victory tucked under their belts.

It would be hard to pick any particular stars for Belleville. They all played well. Art Plumley was nothing short of sensational at times, thwarting the Kingston sharpshooters time and again with phenominal saves. Don Barrett, Jerry Moher, "Huck" Reeves, Doug Day and Jack Wardhaugh looked particularly good on the attack while Billy Holway and Cal York turned in sterling efforts on the rearguard.

Ronnie Plumb, Sammy Mulholland, Lorne Ferguson and Bob Joyce were the pick of the Kingston aggregation on the attack while George Graves and Bruce Woodman played well on the defence.

The teams will hook up again on Wednesday night in Kingston in the second game of a best-of-three series.

ST. MIKE'S TAKE 10 TO 2 VICTORY OVER OSHAWA

McIntyre Mines Turn Tables on Hamilton Tigers by 4-2 Score

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto St. Mike's took an easy 10-2 victory over Oshawa Generals last night in the opener of their O.H.A. Junior A best-of-seven final series, and in the all-Ontario best-of-five senior final McIntyre Mines beat Hamilton Tigers 4-2 to tie the series 1-1.

In the north, Porcupine Combines trounced Copper Cliff Redmen 4-3 at Timmins to even their best-of-five N.O.H.A. junior final series. Winner of the round will go up against the O. H. A. junior titlist.

McIntyre Mines lost the first game against Tigers, O.H.A. senior titlists, 4-3, but their high-powered offensive plays were too much for the Bengals last night.

For the Northerners, Ladd was the star of the piece. He ran in two goals and was a stalwart on defence. Hanneberry and Prentice were the other goal getters for McIntyre.

Shillington and Mason tallied one each for Hamilton. The northern forwards, recalling the power of Hamilton's great forward line of Shillington, Conick and Brady in the opener, kept well on top of the line in the last period. Hamilton's goalie Art Childs was in no way to blame for the Tigers' defeat.

Play in Timmins

After the game Hamilton fans were forced to instal McIntyre as favorite for the series. All remaining games will be at Timmins.

Hamilton lacked the services of Frank Liscombe, injured Saturday night in an automobile accident, and went into action with only 11 men.

In the junior opener, 13,313 fans in a packed Maple Leaf Gardens saw St. Mike's roll into a 5-0 lead before the second period was half over. Generals, perennial junior contenders and traditional rivals of the hard-fighting Toronto Irish, rallied then to score two goals, but St. Mike's added one more in the second period and four more in the final frame.

Flem Mackell scored four goals for St. Mike's, Costello and Sloan each counted twice and Blute and Harrison got the others. Oshawa scorers were Bauer and Curik .

St. Mike's, which has a habit of turning on the power in the last half of a game and flashing ahead of a rival team which had outdistanced it in the first, had contested junior A circuit honors with Galt Red Wings all season and eliminated Galt in the semi-finals. Oshawa entered the final by easing out Toronto Marlboros.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 12 (AP) — The famous trotter, Greyhound, now 14 years old, will strut his stuff in exhibitions at grand circuit meetings this summer.. When tearful Hi Simmons recently resumed baseball coaching at Missouri U., he moaned: "Not only are we totally without pitchers, but we can't get bats to have enough batting practice for me to tell who our hitters are".. There was some confusion among the spectators at the Knights of Columbus track meet Saturday during the two-mile run..Forest Efaw, who was supposed to win easily, didn't.

Browning Ross, the guy who beat him (with a 150 handicap) had a sign on his back that said "E-4".... Two sets of identical twins, Bob and Bill White and Jim and Bob Hickey, are trying to crash into minor league baseball this season. The Whites, each six-feet-six and 210 pounds, have signed with Binghampton, N.Y., of the Eastern League and the somewhat smaller Hickeys will try out with Appleton, of the Wisconsin State League.

High-Level Diplomacy

Sometimes we think the lawmakers are carrying this ceiling idea too far.... A note from Rep. Harold C. Hagen of Minnesota offers the suggestion that the centre jump should be restored to basketball to slow the game enough for the spectators to follow it. He adds the proviso that centres should be limited in height to six feet.... The tall boys could play other positions, Hagen figures, and any team has at least one little fellow who'd come under the six-foot ceiling..

FIVE-YEAR RECORD BROKEN

Montreal, March 12 — (CP) — A five-year St. Lawrence River record was smashed yesterday when the icebreaker N. B. McLean completed the opening of the ship channel to the port of Montreal. Wartime secrecy prevented publication of the previous record March 13, 1941, made by the same government vessel.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

INDEPENDENT

According to Mike Rodden, Kingston sports writer, the statements emanating from Toronto that the Kingston Ponies Baseball Club, new pro squad of the Limestone City, is a farm organization under the control of the owners of the Toronto Maple Leafs, are a lot of balderdash.

• • •

"There is an affiliation — which might better be described as a mutual understanding between President Peter Campbell of the Leafs and President Nelles Megaffin of the Ponies. Each club is entirely independent of the other," Rodden writes.

• • •

According to the same source, a working agreement has been reached whereby each club will assist the other and Toronto will send players here to gain the needed experience. At the season's end the Leafs reserve the right to draft the services of the players of their choice. The services of Ben Lady, catcher, have become the outright property of the Kingston Club and Lady will manage and play for the Ponies.

• • •

Prexy Megaffin of the Ponies has received 215 applications from ambitious players scattered all over the continent, one coming from as far south as Puerto Rico.

• • •

Al Schacht, the Clown Prince of Baseball had the press boys in stitches the other day at a baseball dinner. The laugh-provoker whose diamond antics are well-known all through the circuits told the boys the story of his big league debut. Here it is as recorded by Arthur Daly of the N'Yawk Times.

• • •

"Ever since 1910 I'd waited for that moment when I'd make my big league debut," Schacht related. "That was the year when I swept out the stands at the Polo Grounds just so I could see ball games for free, watching my idols in the flesh and dreaming a kid's dream of being there myself.

• • •

"Eventually I've won the first World War for the United States and I'm back in baseball, pitching for Jersey City. And I'm going good, too. But nobody notices me. So after every game I pitch I carefully cut out the stories from the newspapers and mail them to Clark Griffith. Along with the clippers I send letters. 'You oughta grab this guy, Schacht,' I'd write. 'He's a comer.' I didn't sign my own name to the letters, of course. I'm no dope. I'd sign 'em, 'Just a Fan.'

• • •

"After a while Griff gets curious and scouts me personally. And I win for him. The next thing I know I get a telegram telling me that Washington has just purchased me from Jersey City and that I'm to report to the team in Detroit. At last it's come, that moment I've been waiting for since 1910.

• • •

READY TO PITCH

"I report to Griff. 'I'm your new pitcher, Schacht,', I tell him. 'Are you ready to pitch?' he asks. I gulp hard and tell him that I am. But I watch those Tigers in batting practice and I don't like what I see. Every infielder is hitting about .360 and Cobb is hitting about .405. But he ain't the best. Harry Heilmann's leading the league at about .412:

"I whisper to George McBride, the captain, 'How does a guy knew when he's gonna pitch?' 'Watch the ball bag', he says. 'Twenty minutes before the game Griff reaches into the bag, takes out a ball and tosses it to the pitcher.' I watch the bag and finally Griff grabs a ball and throws it right past my nose —that's a long throw, brother—to a guy named Courtney. So I relax. This won't be that day I've been waiting for since 1910.

• • •

We go into the ninth inning with a 2-1 lead. And things happen. One guy singles. Another guy triples and the score is tied with the winning run on third. I rush for the water cooler. Just then Grigg is looking up and down the bench. 'Where's that new pitcher?' he hollers. Before I know it I'm out in the bullpen warming up. Courtney has practically nothing to worry about. The batter is only Heilmann. He gets three balls on him and then—"

• • •

Mr. Schacht paused dramatically, stuck two fingers in his mouth and let go with a blood - curdling whistle.

"This," he resumed, "is the moment I've been waiting for since 1910. As I walk across the field I glance at Heilmann. I don't like his looks, particularly with all those short fences. But he gazes fondly at me, almost as if he is saying, 'Gosh, kid, you look cute. I wonder if you can only cook.'

"Gharrity, the catcher, walks out to the mound. 'You're in a spot, kid,' he says. 'You got the winning run on third and three balls on the batter.'

"'I got?' I scream. 'It was all there when I came in.'

• • •

The Height of Mediocrity

"'Howja feel, kid?' he asks.

"'I tell him, 'I'm not cool. I'm not hot. I'm er, just mediocre.'

"'There's just one thing you have to do, kid,' he says serious-like, 'and that's to get the next pitch over the plate.'

"'Is that all?' I says, kinda sarcastic.

"'Watcha wanna throw, fast ball or curve?' he asks.

"'It makes no difference,' I remark.

"'No, it don't make no difference,' he agrees with disturbing haste. 'But make sure you get the ball over.' And back he strolls to the catcher's box.

• • •

"I feel awfully alone on the pitching mound without his company, and that Heilmann is a very nasty-looking guy at the plate. I glance around the park and darned if those fences don't look as though they've moved in a little closer. All I can think of is that it had come at last—the moment I've been waiting for since 1910.

"I wind up slowly and—" Schacht paused dramatically once more. "And I got the ball over the plate."

• • •

Baseball's Clown Prince had his audience in the palm of his hand and he knew it. But then an impish gleam came into his eye. He grinned.

"That's the end of my story," he concluded. "I once wrote a book called, 'Clowning Through Baseball,' and in that book I told precisely where Heilmann hit the ball. At any rate, I'm under the showers exactly one minute later. I had only one thought in my mind. I'd finally reached that moment I'd been waiting for since 1910."

Foster's Will Recalls Interest He Took in Sport

Toronto, March 12 — (CP) — Probate of the will of the late Thomas Foster, one-time mayor of Toronto, yesterday recalled to veteran sports followers the personal interest which the former chief magistrate took in athletic youths.

A feature of Canadian sportdom in the period before the First Great War was the annual Tom Foster modified marathon, first at the 15-mile distance and later cut to 10 miles. Never known to do anything by halves, the then-controller Foster brought out an extensive prize list, all donated by the sponsor, whose brilliance attracted a great entry list.

Elwood A. Hughes, now general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, said the initial Foster marathon was staged at the Toronto fair some 37 years ago and Hughes handled the details of that contest which was won by Eugene McCormick who boasted the title of "The Pony Express."

Foster organized his race at a time when the world was marathon-minded through the prowess of Tom Longboat and other starry pavement-pounders.

In addition to his running race, Foster provided a yearly treat in his picnic for all juveniles of the city, bar none.

21 TEAMS ACROSS CANADA STILL AFTER ALLAN CUP

BASKETBALL

The ex-sailors on the Navy team in the "Y" House League are having tough luck for this week they lost their second game in a row by the narrow margin of one point, this time to the Seniors, who trotted out the best team they have had yet. The Navy led at the half 14-12 but finished up on the short end of a 29-28 score. Cooper again got the lion's share of his team's points with 15, and Hall led the Seniors with 10.

Noon Gang gave the Intermediates a bad scare in the opener, when they led 9-6 at the half. Intermediates were too much for them in the second session, when Noon's shots were rimming, and the opposition made a better passing attack to wind the game up with a win 22-15. Button, with 10 was high in this game. Battling for top honors, the Students retained their first place tie with the Intermediates by trimming the Wildcats 24-18, outscoring them by 3 points in each half. Waterhouse led Wildcats with 9 points, and Cameron had 8 for the Students. This was a hard fought battle, and play ran from end to end rapidly. The first whistle saw the Students leading 24-18.

These were probably the best evening's entertainment that this league has yet produced, each game bringing together teams that were closely matched, and no win was decided without a real struggle. Don Dolan and Bill Muirhead handled the timing and scoring.

The teams:

Seniors: .Gilbert 4, Mifflin 5, Rapino 2, Townsend, Holway 2, Snell 4, Hall 10, Walmsley, Cooper 2. Total 29.

Navy: Haggerty 2, Mott 7, Mills 2, Cooper 15, Lovering 2, Flindall. Total 28.

Noon Gang: Empey, Priest 4, R. Jeffrey 4, D. Jeffrey 4, Hubble, Grills, Scott, Ketcheson, McCreary, 1, Trumpour 2, Hazzard. Total 15.

Intermediates: Ross, Bos, Burke 2, Thrasher, Spiegel, Buchanan 6, Button 10, Bongard 2, Faulkner, McBurney 2. Total 22.

Students: Manjuris 3, McKay 2, Cameron 8, Bonnell 3, Campbell 3, Ragsdale 1, Staples 4. Total 24.

Wildcats: Waterhouse 9, Kelly, Toms 4, Reynolds 2, Cameron 1, Williamson 2. Total 18.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

The stretch drive of the American Hockey league finds Les Douglas of Indianapolis Capitals leading the scoring race with 84 points on 42 goals and 42 assists. Norman Larson of Hershey Bears is second with 79 points, one point ahead of Pete Leswick of Indianapolis.

The draw yesterday for the cup semi-finals of the English Football Association brought Charlton Athletic and Bolton Wanderers together for one contest and Derby County and Birmingham City to meet in the other, both to be played March 23.

Ernie Roderick of Liverpool, British champion, and Omar Kouidri of France, European welterweight titleholder, have been matched for a European championship bout April 23 at Albert Hall, London, it was announced yesterday by Promoter Jack Solomons.

Ontario Court of Appeal today reserved judgment on an appeal by Douglas Ness, Toronto racehorse owner and trainer, from a decision of the Ontario Supreme Court which dismissed Ness' application for a review by a supreme court judge of proceedings under which he was suspended as a trainer by the incorporated Canadian Racing Association and barred from operations on I.C.R.A. tracks.

Eddie Shore, owner of the Fort Worth Club in the United States Hockey League and manager of New Haven of the American Hockey League, said in Toronto today that "the time is coming when our hockey referees must start making decisions according to the book or else seriously injure our game. Or, we must rewrite the book to coincide with the refereeing methods now employed."

Speaking before the North American Wildlife Conference at New York yesterday, Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, retiring director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, predicted a drop in the population of fish and waterfowl just when hunting and fishing licences were reaching a zenith. In the last year 8,150,901 hunting and 8,280,232 fishing permits had been issued in the States.

SHARP REDUCTION

ReRnfrew, March 12 — (CP)— A sharp reduction in the new budget and "further reduction" in taxation were forecast last night by ReRvenue Minister McCann in an address at a banquet given in his honor in his home constituency of Renfrew south. Mr. McCann said the size of budget for the coming year would be determined to a large extent by decisions of the Dominion-Provincial Conference, but he forecast a reduction of "some 50 per cent."

TALENT HUNTERS INVADE CAMPS

By GAYLE TALBOT

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 —(AP)—St. Louis Cardinals are assured a fair-sized gallery for each of their exhibition games in Florida if they play only to the scouts of opposing National League clubs.

They say it is the first time talent hunters ever descended in such numbers on an individual big league outfit. Usually at this time of year ivory merchants either are keeping a paternal eye on their own "finds," or gumshoeing around the minor league training camps.

This year, however, they can operate with a singleness of purpose. They know the Cards will be forced to begin selling soon, and it is the scouts' duty to keep their owners and managers advised when the sales begin.

The galaxy of pitchers in the Card camp — a dozen or more of them are either proved big leaguers or brilliant prospects — find themselves toiling not only to catch manager Eddie Dyer's eyes, but to make an impression on the scouts in case they find themselves on the block.

In fact, the suggestion has been made that some rival managers, by their outspoken desire to land such St. Louis curvers as Howie Pollet, John Beazley, Harry Brecheen, Charles Barrett, Ernie White, Howie Krist, Max Lanier and the others, have come close to breaking the baseball rule against "tampering" with opposing talent.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By PIERRE LE MOYNE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 12 — (CP)— Apparently the old "kill-the-referee" theme in hockey circles is more popular with the fans than ever. In the majority of instances, the greatest victims of the enthusiasts' anger were the poor fellows forced to sweep the ice after the fans had profusely showered it with projectiles of all sorts (programs, rubbers, coppers, vegetables, hats — anything that will follow the law of gravity) to explain that the man with the white sweater was handing them a raw deal.

Things took a different turn last Sunday, however, when an irate Chicago fan turned his temper loose on none other than N.H.L. referee King Clancy and let him have it on the chin twice because he did not find the King's handling of the Black Hawks - Canadiens game quite to his taste.

It was an unfortunate circumstance but it proved once again that there is a lot of solidarity between players and referees when they both face the mob.

In the Chicago incident, the same players who may have been calling Clancy "a bum" a few seconds before, turned loose to protect the official and drove the belligerent customer out of the arena.

We recall an incident of a similar nature which took place in the Montreal Forum a few weeks ago. Tommy Gorman, genial manager of Montreal Canadiens stopped Clancy as the latter was leaving the ice after a contested game and asked him "what the heck he meant by giving a penalty to such an angel as so-and-so?"

A fan joined Gorman in the process and before Clancy had a chance to answer, Gorman turned to the fan and told him that he had no business insulting a referee, and that if he couldn't behave like a gentleman, the ushers would see that he did.

A Widely Acclaimed Move:

Two changes will be made this year in The Canadian Press National Hockey League selections as a result of a survey among sports editors of Canadian newspapers. The all-star ballot will be delayed until after the Stanley Cup playoffs and not taken in the closing weeks of the scheduled season as done in previous years. The CP rookie award winner is chosen at the same time as the CP all-stars. Individual selections will be published only when the selectors are agreeable.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 933

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Make every lead count. Each lead should convey some information to partner. Be it ever so far-fetched, a lead should tell something.

Against a suit contract, the lead of an ace says you are short in that suit. It means your ace is alone or with only one other card.

A king lead says you have the ace with other cards in that suit. Or that you have the queen-jack or queen-ten.

A queen lead says you have the jack-ten or jack-nine; not the king; maybe the ace.

A jack lead says you have the ten-nine or ten-eightspot; not the queen; maybe the king or ace; not both the king and queen; or the ace and king.

Thus, leading an honor of any kind admits having other honors in that suit, either in sequence or nearly so or both. Furthermore, the lead of an honor is preferred over any other kind of a lead.

The lead of any small card (lower than a ten) has an entirely different meaning than the lead of an honor. Among other things, the lead of a small card denies having a desirable honor card lead.

What does a small card lead admit? Primarily, it is intended to show that there are three cards higher in that suit. In other words first assume a low card lead is the fourth from the best in that suit.

Lead the diamond deuce from this hand:

♠A 8 4
♥K 6
♣7 6 5 3

That lead says you have three diamonds higher than the deuce. At the same time it says that your hand contains no sound honor card lead in any suit.

Your lead must not invite a harmful return from your partner. So don't lead with your chin.

Hollywood, March 12 (AP)—Makeup for men is a coming industry, says expert Perc Westmore, who ought to know.

"Forty new cosmetics for men have appeared on the market in the past few months," he said, "and more are coming."

The American male is "merely taking a toip from the girls" he said. "After all, why are the girls so meticulous about makeup?" he supplied the answer: "First, to attract a man; second, to get him; last, to hold him.

"Now if a guy wants to get his girl he'll also have to make the most of his face."

Westmore, who was perfectly groomed but apparently wore no makeup proclaimed that for years men have been thieving their wives' powder and foundation cream to use after shaving and also to cover up that late afternoon shadow.

"In addition," he added, "men returning from the wars with skin blemishes have been shown that certain types of face creams can make their faces appear normal."

Westmore, who is 43, placed himself under an ultra-violet light which accented his facial lines and made him appear aged. Then he applied a beige liquid. The result made him look like a high school boy, and the makeup was undetectable.

"Don't get me wrong," he interjected, "I don't foresee the day when the average man will be wearing lipstick. But he will be using more and more cosmetics to help his appearance."

Dennis Morgan's next "Cheyenne," with Wyoming locale, will be shot at Flagstaff, Ariz. . . Theatre managers may wonder why war veterans snicker at Charles Trowbridge's portrayal of a doctor in "Shock." The reason: He also played a doctor in another picture—the United States army's instruction film on social disease.

Stirling-Combines Tie Gananoque In "C" Playdown

Stirling - Marmora Combines and Gananoque fought to a 9-9 tie in the latter's rink last night in the first game of the Junior "C" O.H.A. playdowns. The game was a ding-dong affair on ice that was conducive to anything but fast hockey.

The teams meet in Stirling tonight regardless of what condition the ice is in. Stirling however, is confident that their lads can take the measure of the fast-travelling "Gans." No date has been set as yet for the third game.

Max Bentley Holding Top Spot as Scorer

Montreal, March 12 — (CP) — Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks continues to hold a commanding lead as the top scorer of the National Hockey League, as the final week of play for the 1945-46 season begins, it is shown in official statistics of the league released today.

Bentley has missed three of Chicago's 46 games this season, but in the 43 he has played, he has posted a total of 30 goals and 25 assists for 55 points. This gives him a nine-point edge over Gaye Stewart of Toronto Maple Leafs and Bill Mosienko of Chicago, who are deadlocked with 46 points each. Stewart has 33 goals — the best total in the league — and 13 assists, while Mosienko has 17 goals and 25 assists.

Two points behind Stewart and Mosienko, Hector (Toe) Blake of Montreal Canadiens and Clint Smith of Chicago are tied in 4th place with 44 points, Blake with 25 goals and 15 assists, and Smith with 23 goals and 21 assists. Best assist record is held by Elmer Lach of Montreal who has added in 31 goals.

Montreal Canadiens, who now have a commanding lead in the team standings — they need only one more victory in their last three games to assure sole control of the top spot — also lead in penalties, with 327 minutes, including one misconduct, spent by team members in the box. They hold a slight edge over Black Hawks who have 323 minutes including two misconducts, in the box. Detroit is third with 274 minutes, and of these, defenceman Jack Stewart has carded 69 minutes in minors and majors, the highest in the league.

Bill Durnan, Montreal's goalkeeper, heads the league with 91 goals against in 37 games, an average of 2,459. Harry Lumley of Detroit is second with 129 goals in 46, an average of 2.805.

PETES EDGE OUT KINGSTON LOCOS BY 6-4 SCORE

First Three Games of Series Won by Kingston Locos and They Need Only One More

Peterborough, March 12 (CP)—Peterborough edged Kingston 6-4 last night for its first win in the best-of-seven group final series in the O.H.A. Intermediate 'A' division. The first three games of the series were won by Kingston.

The Petes fought desperately to keep in the race and led all the way through, having a 2-1 edge in the first frame and being in front 5-2 to start the third. They had it 6-2 early in the third but the Locos battled back and tallied twice before the finish.

It was a good game, fast and rugged and with some smart hockey shown by both outfits. Play was rough in spots on the small surface with the Locos drawing six of the 10 penalties, Watts being guilty of three for the Kingston crew in the third stanza.

"DINA CASHMAN"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER I

"Dina, will you help me with my composition?"

"Well." Dina glanced over her shoulder, turned back to her dish pan. "What's it about?"

"She give us three subjecks," said the overgrown boy at the kitchen table. "'My Christmas Holidays,' 'What the New Year Means to Me,' and 'The Effect of the Crusades Upon the Universities of Medieval Europe.'"

Dina laughed quietly.

"I certainly wouldn't take that last one," she said. To herself she added, "I laughed then. I'll bet everything's going to come out all right."

"I don't think anyone'll take that one," said Arthur.

"Take 'What the New Year Means to Me,' Art and make it full of manly spirit and everything. Ambition, you know, and steadfast endeavor."

"Oh, garsh!" Arthur objected, appalled at this generous order. Shabby, dirty, disheveled, he sprawled over the end of the kitchen table, a stubby pencil in the large fingers whose nails were black and split; his sweater, worn into holes, his jaws moved rhythmically upon a wad of gum. "Tell me how to start it, Dina," he begged.

"Well, lessee," Dinah mused. "How about 'The New Year offers to us all a chance'— no, make that an opportunity, Artie —but you're one that's been to high," the girl broke off to remind him. "You ought to know twice as much as I do about school."

"Well, I don't," said Arthur, miserable with boredom and sleepiness. "And I wish I didn't have to go!"

"Pop wants you to amount to something," Dina said automatically. In her heart, to some power undefined, she said, "Oh, make it not true, make it not true! Oh, I'll always be good—I'll be different—I'll get a job and work and make something of myself if only you'll make it not true!"

"Dina," said a dirty-faced little girl of twelve who was writing numbers upon the pages of a battered exercise book. "Don't Pop want you to amount to something, too—"

"I guess he'd like all of us to amount to something, Dooley," Dina answered. "But I had a kind of queer time getting my schooling and I wasn't ready for second-year high when we got here three years ago, and I'm not ready yet! Pop was sick then, and I worked in Muzzy's and I had only had a quarter term's high when we left Arkansas, and then we were a whole year down near Tombstone when I couldn't get in to school, and then in Bakersfield. Then Donny was born and Mama needed me."

The children—there were four of them in the kitchen — had lost interest. Arthur, who was, at seventeen, next to nineteen-year-old Dina in age, had dropped off into a light sleep; Dooley was carrying on an altercation with a younger child as to the possession of a small hairless doll; and Myrna, fourteen, a slender, proud girl continued silently to dry dishes.

The kitchen was not a large room, but it was the only one of the four in the establishment that was available for daily waking life. The others were bedrooms.

In one there was a three-quarter bed for the accommodation of the father, John Cashman, and his wife Ethel, and a crib for Donny Cashman, aged three. In another Arthur had a cot, and his two smallest sisters, El'ner and Lou, shared a sofa bed. Dooley, Dina, and Myrna had as their chamber the third room, purportedly the parlor.

The women and girls of the family were sensitive upon the point that there was no bathroom in the house, and that the men were obliged to wash and shave at the dark, small zinc sink in the kitchen.

The Cashmans had settled in this rather grimy strip of wide, fruit-filled Santa Clara Valley less from choice than from necessity. They had not prospered on their wanderings westward, through New Mexico and Arizona and into California.

Now, some fifty miles south of San Francisco, with seasonal jobs in lumber mills, canneries, orchards all about them, with seas of fruit blooms and wild flowers in Spring, cooling fogs and winds all Summer long, Winters free of snow, they were as well satisfied as they were likely to be anywhere.

Their home was a cheaply built, dilapidated shanty. But they were as well housed as many of the families in the neighborhood and better housed than some, and they were migrants; migrants in plans, wishes, ideas, and often, as well, physically in continual transference. Any inconveniences were dismissed from consideration with the philosophical thought that the family would not be long in any place anyway.

As the most used apartment — for the bedrooms were dark, cluttered, and small—the kitchen wore a battered air that no cleaning and no attempt to introduce order ever dissipated. It had been hopelessly cheap from the beginning; it was seventeen years old now, and every day of those seventeen years had taken its toll.

Light was supplied by a solitary electric bulb dangling from the centre of the ceiling. The stove was a four-burner gas range whose three remaining legs were supplemented by a brickbat; its plates were blackened and broken; its dripping pan was burned into rusty holes.

The floor was greasy and splintered; at the window dangled two dark gray shreds of filmy curtaining; dead flies and odds and ends littered the sills.

Through the muddy bath of the lukewarm dishwater went the plates, mismatched and chipped, and odd glasses, cups with handles and cups without.

Dina was paying small attention to these details tonight. For one thing she was used to them; they seemed unimportant. What was important—or rather what had always been important until this last anxious week—was her own beauty, of which she took great care, and the interests of her own little group of friends.

Frances Tack, who worked with her in the grocery, the Mulligan boys and the Beatty boys, Ward Binn and his sister Melda, and Tom O'Connor, the nicest boy in the neighborhood, who was in love with Dina but had gone up to the lumber mills in Westwood for a time — these were her associates.

Her life, rather than being compared with any other standards, was to her successful or a failure only as it seemed good or seemed unfortunate to them.

Dina had been earning money since her seventeenth year; she always had handed most of her pay envelope over to her mother and often saw her father take it in his turn, but for some time now she had demanded of her parents tacitly—for it had never been put into words between them—that she be given certain liberties in return.

There was not to be as much questioning and criticizing as there had been, nor insulting threats of whippings or locking doors. Dina loved to dance, and there was plenty of night clubs and highway restaurants in the neighborhood where chop suey or chow mein, and music and lights were available. Home was a pigpen, acceptable and even comfortable, but still a pigpen, and work was dull and underpaid.

But nights belonged to youth and freedom, and Dina Cashman was the last girl alive to surrender them. Here was a courageous nature; she had always been a leader, in mischief when she was a child in plans, in the forming of clubs and arranging entertainments in grammar school.

Now in this underprivileged group, with its shoddy amusements, its dependence upon radio and comic papers and cheap magazines and the cosmetics of the "dime" store, its gum and gossip, its eagerness for life and thrills and change and adventure on any terms, she was a leader still. They all waited for her, listened to her, laughed at her, and with her. For until lately Dina had been always laughing.

Tonight she helped Myrna finish the dishes and turned about to look at the clock. Quarter to eight. In half an hour she could tumble the younger girls into bed, warn the older ones to be on their good behavior until Mama and Pop came home at half-past nine, and be on her way to lights and excitement and companionship.

Meanwhile, with the dishes done and the kitchen in its nearest approach to order, she must get dressed. Dina went into her bedroom, lifted her small brother Donny, three years old and heavily and moistly asleep, to carry him to his crib in his own room, and lighted the one light in the room by which to beautify herself to the best of her power.

There were two beds in hers' one full-sized and the other a cot. Dooley usually slept on the cot and Dina and Myrna in the bed. But if any girl had a fever or a cold or was coughing distressfully, she took the cot and the others the bed. There was no space for a bureau even had the girls possessed one.

Sh sat down on the foot of the bed, reaching down under it for a cardboard shoe box. In this box were an old hairbrush with the bristles pretty well worn away, a tangle of fine safety pins, several lipsticks in various stages of use, powder boxes, flat mud-colored powder puffs, wisps of tissue paper stained with nail polish and rouge, nets manicure files, curling wires, and a dozen other beautifiers.

Beside the box on the floor rested a round tin can marked "Theatrical Creme," with the price mark of 29 cents still clear upon it in black penciling.

Dina pushed her thick hair back from her face, smeared cheeks and chin and brow with the cream. A sodden towel was a part of her equipment; its limp touch and its reek of cheap perfume were essential to her dressing routine.

When she had finished with it she took a broken angle of mirror from the top of the chest of drawers and stood up under the light, carefully training her thick dark brows with a small comb, marking her lips into luscious redness, powdering thoroughly with sharp little blows of the soggy puff, coaxing the vital youth and springiness of her hair into delicate spirals and curls about her forehead.

After this she unwound the cheap cotton kimona that had been wrapped tightly about her for these operations and took a silk dress from a hook. In her hand it looked what it was — a garment cheap and badly made.

But once on the firm curves and lines of the young body it looked better, and when Dina had snapped a clasp of imitation brilliant upon it, had placed a dashing little hat upon her mop of tawny hair, had slipped her arms into a brown coat whose collar still showed some signs of having once been creamy fur, she looked like a thousand — like a million other American girls who were that night sallying from homes almost if not quite so humble; pretty, smart, happy.

Dina won a few moments of forgetfulness as she made her way between the dark shanties of the neighborhood, past the odorous dump and over the railway tracks, and so to a paved and lighted street dismal enough in itself but by contrast a glittering thoroughfare of delights.

Does Distress of 'PERIODIC' Female Weakness Make you feel miserable on such days?

If you suffer monthly cramps with accompanying cranky feelings—due to functional periodic disturbances—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound is a uterine sedative—it's one of the most effective medicines you can buy to relieve this distress.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, Oh, here's this werd again, I'm always running into it and I still have only a half hearted idea of what it really means. I mean the werd dubble talk, she said.

I think I can cleer you up on that, and so can Benny, probably, pop said, and I said, Sure, G, everybody knows what dubble talk is.

Everybody but me, apparently, ma said, and pop said, That puts you in a decided minority, and we'll try to get you out of it by a little practical illistration, wont we, Benny?

Sure, pop what shall we do, talk a little dubble talk to each other so ma can see what it means? I said, and pop said, That's just what I had in mind, professor.

And he started it, saying, Professcor, it seems that your mother has an oftentimes outlet, if I may point a blunt remark, to queeyr the resident whys and wherefores on the outstanding ifs and ands of practically each and every. Du you dubble the single variety, professor? he said.

Meening it was my tern, and I said, Why yes, professor, for instance if ma knew the single dubble situation among a far away answer and the different colors four doors from the middle of the end, then of course there would be the same difference in reckonizing the beginning from the start before it becomes partly otherwise. If Im right of course I'm wrong when the edges dont follow the time that was marked in the ferst place dont you think so, professor? I said.

Meening it was pops tern again, and he started some more dubble talk, and ma said, Now wait a minute for land sakes, I haven't made head or tale of a single werd so far.

That proves it was dubble talk, my dear, pop said, and ma said, Then that proves I'm not even clrious about it any more. Lifes too short without making it still shorter, she said.

And she started to do the bridge problem.

BLACKHEADS so quickly by a simple method that dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist, apply with a hot, wet cloth gently over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone.

Does Not Want Cost Of Conversion to Rest On Domestic Users

Toronto, March 12 — (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor (C.C.L.) has expressed approval of conversion of frequency of the Ontario Hydro-electric system from 25 to 60 cycle — "provided the cost of the change-over is not charged to the domestic consumer."

The resolution was passed at the Federation convention Sunday. Alfred Hale of Hamilton urged that the Hydro Commission bear the cost and C. F. Russell of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) said "the manufacturers will benefit in the long run and they should pay the shot."

Civic Recognition Paid Softball Champs by Mayor

Civic recognition for the honor brought to Belleville last year by winning the provincial junior softball title was received by members of the local Columbian Squires softball nine Monday evening when at the regular meeting of city council they were presented with leather windbreakers, the gift of the city.

Ten members of the ball club, together with the team manager, Jack Boyle, were on hand to receive the handsome windbreakers from Mayor Follwell who extended his congratulations. Three members of the club, Jack and Harry Wardhaugh and Dick Fitzpatrick, were unable to atten as they were playing hockey with the local junior hockey club in Kingston.

Team members receiving windbreakers from the Mayor and ex-Mayor Glen Thompson were Bob Bunton, Don Boyle, Gordon Donovan, Owen Moore, Al. Adams, Don Locke, Vernon Goyer, Clarence Culkin, Bill Stafford and Maurice Rollins.

"It is indeed a pleasure for me to present to the Columbian Squires these windbreakers," stated Mayor Follwell. "I am happy indeed to have the privilege and honor of extending the city's thanks for the honor brought this city. In face of stiff opposition you have brought the softball championship to Belleville and I earnestly hope that you will continue in your success."

"I hope that after the coming season I again will have the honor of presenting the members of your team with some token of the city's appreciation. I heartily congratulate both you and your team manager in bringing the championship to the city of Belleville."

Following presentation of the windbreakers, Manager Boyle, on behalf of his team members, expressed his appreciation for the gesture shown by the city council.

Churchill Says Good-bye To President Truman

Washington, March 12 (AP) — Winston Churchill said good-bye to President Truman yesterday addressed a luncheon of newspapermen and left for New York, whence he will sail for the United Kingdom in a few days.

Mr. Churchill's speech was "off the record," but the British information service said he later "agreed to allow publication of one question and his answer in the following form:"

"In reply to a question put to him by a correspondent about the loan agreement, Mr. Churchill said that while there were some points in it to which he objected, he personally thought it most important that it should go through, not only in the interest of Britain and the United States, but also of the economic recovery of the world."

While here Mr. Churchill completed sitting for a portrait of the "Big Three" at the Yalta conference which is being painted by Douglas Chandor, British artist, to hang in the Capitol. It shows the late President Roosevelt, with the British Prime Minister on one side and Generalissimo Stalin on the other.

Mr. Truman drove to the Mayflower Hotel late in the day to see the painting, and said he thought the likeness of Mr. Churchill most excellent.

Mr. Churchill paid a 15-minute farewell visit at the White House in the morning. He also called at the State Department next door and said good-bye to Secretary Byrnes.

TORONTO STOCKS . . . .

Toronto, March 12 (CP)—The stock market was weak and dull on the hole in the early session, only 682,000 shares changing hands in the first three hours. The mining groups and the industrials took index losses of .45 to .76 in the early session.

The steel and food stocks held strong. The Steel of Canada issues gained 1-4 to 1-2 and gains of 1-2 were showing for Canadian Locomotive and Dominion Bridge. The big oils were a bit soft.

In the gold group gains came through for Thurbois, North Inca, Sladen and Quebec Gold.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, March 12 (AP)—Buyers and sellers of stocks generally were unable to get together today and the result was a notably indecisive market performance.

Dealings were among the slowest of the last several months after a fairly active opening. Declines and advances of fractions to a point or so were visible in most departments near the fourth hour. Neither weakness nor strength was apparent anywhere.

Brokers attributed the listless shift more to what they called "lack of interest" than to any outright bearishness.

Canadians were mixed in the big board at noon. Distillers Seagrams was down one at 88, Canadian Pacific unchanged at 19 3-8, Dome Mines down 1-4 at 25 3-4.

HOGS

Toronto, March 12 (CP) — Grade A, dressed, bacon-hogs, were down 15 cents cwt. at Barrie at $17.85 delivered and unchanged at Hull at $18 delivered, in bacon-hog markets reporting early today. Stratford reported prices unsettled.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto March 12 (CP)—Prices were a shade easier in cattle trade up to mid-session on the livestock market here today. Hogs, lambs, calves and sheep were steady.

Receipts reported by the Dominion marketing service were: Cattle 500, calves 200, hogs, 400, sheep and lambs 250. Unsold from yesterday were 600 head of cattle.

Prices in the trade included:

Hogs: Dressed, Grade A $18, Grade B1 $17.60, sows mostly $15.50.

Pope Pius Marks 7th Anniversary

Vatican City, March 12—(AP)—Pontifical mass was celebrated in the Sistine Chapel today in honor of the seventh anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius.

Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian of Armenia sang the mass in Armenian in the presence of the pope, 24 cardinals and the diplomatic corps.

The pope participated in the ceremony and responded twice in Armenian: "Peace to all."

After the ceremony, the Cardinals met with the pope to offer their greetings.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY

The second period was the 4th period and the fourth period was the second—it added up to something like first period then fourth, third then second and amazingly fifth period ended up in fifth period — now you figure it out.

Anyhow assembly opened with the beautiful overture to the Mikado in place of the band which is dispersed with until the now existing turmoil subsides.

Mr. Hill read the Biblical story about the corruption of churches and we sang The Lord is My Shepherd.

The first announcement came from Mr. Hancock who asked that the sale of yellow tickets might now be promoted. Surprisingly the pink tickets have made a hasty disappearance and people seem to feel that they have taken with them the best seats. But actually the remaining seats have perfect views of the stage and the acting which is being done in the centre. Apropos the same subject Mr. Maybee told us that the Home and School Club is endeavoring to sell tickets for the Opera to all those whom we are not able to contact. After the last showing of the Pirates on Friday the 15th there is to be a dance in the gym: Admittance to be obtained by your ticket stub or 25c.

The Opera is proving to be a production into which the whole school is whole-heartedly throwing itself. Even the Library Club is going to deserve much recognition when the Opera is written down in the annals of B.C.I.'s mighty past. On all three evenings of March 13th, 14th and 15th the Cafeteria will be open for business and coats may be checked for only five cents. And this all under the capable hands of the Library Club. President Scott Denton already is planning for the far distant future. So soon nominations are open for next year's council. All of us should be preparing to give our votes a lot of thought.

Assembly concluded with a colorful picture that aroused all the "spring" instincts of vague discontent. Gaspe Peninsula would appear to be a wonderful place to explore. —R.J.W.

We regret not having the details for last week's news of the awards won by Jack Fenn of the Kiwanis music Festival. Jack was the winner of the third award in the open class for cornet, as well as the third award in the 21 years and under class, obtaining a mark of 86 in each class, and was highly complimented by Dr. O'Neill, the adjudicator. We are proud that a member of our school band has won this distinction

—M.H.H.

GIRLS SPORTS

Due to the regulation announced in Wednesdays Assembly that contributions for the Collegiate News must be in by Friday morning, we are unable to contribute much for the Girls Sports column this week.

There are only two inter-form basketball games to report. These were played on Thursday, March 7. Although they played the losers part very well, a very dejected XIA team walked from the gym Thursday afternoon—after losing their game to XID. XIDs victory was established over XIA with a 10-6 score. Points for XID were gained by Ilene and Jean Palmer with 4 points each and Dorothy Cook with 2 points. For XIA, Bonney Hetherington scored 4 of the total of 6 points, and was assisted by Marilyn Wray with 2 points. I might say that one of the baskets scored by Bonney was the first perfect long shot achieved in some time. Each team deserves credit for playing a good game. The guards of each team were right on their toes and exceptionally good guarding was shown by Barbara Theobald of XIA.

The second game was played between the Commercial XIIC's and the XIID team. At the finish of a fast, well-played game, a score of 11-7 was realized by XIIC. Scoring for the winning team were Mary Tomaso with 5 points, Isabel Shortt with 2 points and Norma and Reta Coleman with 2 points each. The score for XIID was gained by Nina Lepore with 4 points, Barbara Maxwell with 2 points and Violet Nokes with 1.

BOYS' SPORTS

Interschool basketball came to a glorious end this week for our B.C.I. seniors. First they defeated Trenton on Friday with a score of 47-24, and second they defeated Picton 25-24. Now they are biding their time waiting for the great game in Toronto.

In the first game the scoring was shared by all. George Miller starred this time with 12 points. Next came Rollins 8 Spafford 6, Watkin 6, Watson 4, Cameron 4, Garrow 4, and Ashley 3.

The second game brought a great deal of embarrassment to a certain Picton lad called Hepburn, who, not being contented in scoring 16 points for his own team, the clinching point for B.C.I. by making a wonderful shot from the 10 second line. Jimmie Watson was given credit for the basket as he was the closest man to Hepburn. The other scorers were Spafford 8, Watson 6, Lyall 4, Cameron 4, and Rollins 3.

Interform basketball, however, is still going strong.

On Monday XIC captured the eleven grade championship by defeating XIG 22-7. Massey led XIC with 8 points, followed by Lockyer 4, Galbraith Leslie 4, and Robbins 2. XIG's points came from Edwards 4, and Garrow 3.

Ninth grade basketball went to IXG. On Tuesday they defeated IXD 8-7 on points from Semark 6, and Lucus 2. Muirhead 3, Mcbride 2, Dolan 1 and Locke 1 supplied the points for the losers.

On Thursday the rematch was played between XIIA and XIIB and Rollins and Segate took 2 each.

On Friday 12A for the second time in as many days came through with a victory. This time XIC were the victims. The score was 15-11. Watkins 6, Button 4, Spiegel 3, Miller, and McBurney 1, supplied XIIA's points. For the losers it was Galbraith 5, Lockyer 4 and Massey 2.

RED CROSS

On Monday, March 4, the Red Cross meeting was held in room 218, with the president in charge. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

It was moved and seconded that we give twenty-five dollars to the Nursery in the new Bancroft Hospital.

We have another new member. If we keep on we'll have a really good-sized Red Cross.

The rest of the meeting was spent in sewing together two quilts which were started some time ago. Some of Miss Dwyer's friends are going to quilt them and we are very grateful to them.

The meeting was adjourned about 5 o'clock.

CUFF NOTES

As I sit here writing I can look out the west windows of the school and see below me an oozing quagmire dotted with slush—our campus. Each year as the weather begins to loosen up, the same thing happens, we get mired. This in itself is nothing to kill the fatted frog about but, coupled with the annual disappearance of several lower school students, it is enough to make the anti-freeze in one's old veins run hot. Nothing can be done about it and so the number of students listed as 'Missing' each year in the sprnig is a bit higher.

Last Tuesday as I was coming to school in the morning I saw a ninth grader, ankle-deep in the mucilaginous mass, screaming for aid. Of course no one paid any attention to his cries. At noon as I went home for dinner the mud had reached his knees and by the time the noon hour was ended he was bogged to the waist. His fate was sealed by four o'clock for everyone was either headed for Lattimers or Laffer... (oops) well down town, and help was beyond him. The next morning as I returned to these haunted halls (remember the ghost?) all that was visible of the unfortunate character was one clawed and clutching hand with a dirty piece of paper dangling from the fingers. When the weather gets cold enough so that someone can get out to the spot where that forlorn little scrap of paper floats on the mud maybe we will find what last frantic thoughts ran through his muddy mind. When the rugby season gets really under way next fall we may find, if the mud is pounded down far enough, a well-preserved body with its one hand up-flung in a last vain attempt to self-preservation. We may... but I doubt it. It is me. (Editors note) This manuscript was found on the campus in the spring of 1929. The body was not recovered.

Attention upper school students: The departmental timetable is now on the main bulletin board. See it and weep, fellow suckers!

By the time this conglomeration of nothing hits the streets the "Pirates of Penzance" will have gone through the final agony of dress rehearsal and the cast will be waiting heart in mouth, for the premiere. From the student point of view it will be a lot of fun and snappy songs and from the standpoint of the outsider it will be an evening well spent for the incomparable music and witty libretto of Gilbert and Sullivan are not quickly forgotten. I can say that it will be all that, and say it without bigotry or prejudice for I am in it. Horray!

When Batman sneezed in the show last week a lady in front jumped three feet into the air. Batman, a prominent upper school physicist, has perfected the atomic sneeze. God bless him. This is known as a 'personal.' No I don't know why, unless it is because they are peronal....saloon goons.

ROUTS VANDALS

Very Rev. Wilfrid J. Langlois, dean of Essex and pastor of Our Lady of the Lake Church, Windsor, scored five bullets out of six when he fired into a car driven by vandals who broke into the church. The police located the bullet-sprayed car later.

MONKEY TALK

Two monkeys one day were talking
And I heard one monkey say
I don't know what will happen
If this world doesn't change its way.

Then both the monkeys decided
Wondering what it would be like
If our government cut out the rationing
And the Unions stopped every strike.

They wouldn't know how to take it
If the riots quit in the East
Of if the great United Nations
Would be peaceful for a while at least.

Then too, they'd be quite surprised
If our government caught every spy
Or if every crook became honest
And settled down by and by.

Then one monkey said to the other
I'm glad I'm no part of this life
For I wouldn't live as those people
In this world full of sorrow and strife.

But then the other monkey decided
How simple it really would be
If the nations all pulled together
And brought to this world unity.

52 Witnesses Will Be Called In Court Martial

By E. L. WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 12 — (CP)— The general court martial of Cpl. (A/Sgt.) John Hugh Harvey of the Royal Army Corps goes into its second day at Fort Osborne Barracks here today with all but seven of 52 listed witnesses still to be heard.

The 34-year-old dark-haired native of London is charged with manslaughter as a result of the death of Pte. John U. Friesen of the Winnipeg Grenadiers in Oeyama prisoner of war camp in Japan about Feb. 2, 1943. He also faces 28 other charges alleging fraternizing with the Japanese, striking officers and other ranks, misappropriation of Red Cross parcels and refusal to obey orders.

His all-British court martial is presided over by Maj. Gen. J. W. M. Haugh of Glasgow and the listed witnesses — 38 for the prosecution and 14 for the defence — include Canadians, Americans, British and one Australian.

Witnesses yesterday testified regarding Friesen's condition before and when he was brought to the camp hospital and events that took place at the hospital.

Cpl. James T. F. Murray of the Winnipeg Grenadiers said Friesen was "fighting, shouting and yelling at the top of his voice," when he was brought to the hospital. He saw Sgt. Harvey strike Friesen once with his fist and Friesen "sort of went into a coma." He had noticed a small cut on Frieson's face when he examined him after his death later that day, he said.

Cpl. Roy Purse, also of the Grenadiers and a medical orderly at the hospital said Friesen was "very haggard looking" and weighed about 100 pounds when brought in. He saw him being put to bed but Friesen did not remain there and began to crawl about. Purse then reported to the medical officer (Surgeon Lt. Cmdr. Stanning of the Royal Australian Naval Service' that Friesen was molesting other patients.

Harvey then came to the ward and "slapped him (Friesen) on the jaw with his fist" and Friesen was unconscious a "matter of minutes."

BLACK BEARS LEAVE DENS

Fort William, March 12—(CP)— Spring is just around the corner at the lakehead, say attendants at Chippewa Park Zoo where two big black bears, 27-year-old Teddy and his lady friend, Frisco, 25, came out of their dens yesterday for the first time this season. The bears have been favorites of children here for many years.

Divergent Views For New Labor Legislation Heard

Toronto, March 12 (CP) — Divergent proposals for new labor legislation were heard from government and opposition benches in the Ontario legislature yesterday as 15 bills received third reading or passed committee stages and six new bills were presented.

The government proposals on labor were introduced by Labor Minister Daley, who proposed an amendment to the Minimum Wage Act to permit a minimum hourly wage for overtime based on time and one half. Another measure introduced by the minister would amend the hours of work and vacations with pay Act to introduce into all industry the pro rata system of paid vacations adopted last year by the Building Trades Industry.

Under the same amendment, hours of workers on a "split shift" would be more closely regulated. Mr. Daley said such shifts often call for workers to be available 16 hours, though only worked eight.

Amendments to the two Acts also were proposed by the two Labor-Progressive members of the legislature, A. A. MacLeod of Toronto Bellwoods and J. B. Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrews and by Alex Parent (Lab-Essex North). Mr. MacLeod's amendment would establish a minimum hourly wage of 65 cents and Mr. Parent proposed a two-week vacation with pay for every year worked.

Want Work Week Reduced.

Mr. Salsberg moved first reading of a bill to reduce the maximum work week from 48 to 40 hours, provide against reduction in take-home pay where hours were lowered and establish overtime on the basis of time and one half for all hours worked in excess of the 40-hour maximum.

The busy 90-minute sitting, opening the second week of the new session, also saw tabling of reports on provincial training schools, jails and reformatories by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar. Revamping of the probation system on the ground that "too often prisoners are placed on probation without proper supervision" and was recommended along with a suggestion that first offenders be placed in "some other" correctional institution. The reports noted the high percentage of repeaters in Ontario reformatories last year—70 per cent at Guelph Reformatory — and suggested "short, drastic" punishment in some cases.

"Poor homes and no control" were cited as outstanding factors in contributing to delinquency among those committed to training schols. In the period ended March 31, 1945, York County topped the province in number of commitments with 106 and Carleton was next with 37. A 16-percent reduction in admissions to the Training School for Boys at Bowmanville was noted.

Thirty-two persons were committed for murder in 1945 compared with eight in 1944, 16 in 1943 and 15 in 1942.

1,432 Appointments.

The 28th annual report of the Ontario Civil Service Commission, also tabled by Mr. Dunbar, showed 1,432 new appointments for the year ended March 31, 1945 about twice that of pre-war years. The turnover was blamed on "attraction of higher salaries" outside the service, a condition which had forced revision of salary schedules within the service.

All the labor bills were given first reading, along with a bill introduced by Premier Drew on teachers' and inspectors' superannuation. Also given first reading were a bill affecting apprentice workers and bills to amend the Public Schools Act and Separate Schools Act to enable rural schools to hold a secret ballot.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy, moving second reading of a bill to establish a wholesale fruit and produce terminal in the Toronto area termed existing facilities "totally inadequate" He said the new terminal, to be constructed in Etobicoke township, would not compete with existing markets.

Among bills given third reading were Attorney - General Blackwell's Marine Insurance Act, which standardizes Ontario's legislation along lines of that in British Columbia, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Delays Dynamiting River

West Elizabeth, Pa., March 12 — (AP) — Morgan Lewis, 78, yesterday reluctantly postponed his plan to dynamite the Monongahela River in an attempt to recover the body of his grandson who drowned four months ago. Explaining the waters were too high, Lewis said he hoped to try again Wednesday. Lewis has watched the river daily from an open shack since the boy, Charles Lewis, Jr., was drowned in a boating accident that took the lives of five playmates.

"WHAT A GAME!"
SAY OUR FRIENDS FROM THE U.S.

Hundreds every year come to Ontario to cheer their favourites. We can't always give them "blue-line seats," but let's be sure—in all our dealings with them—they get the best we have to offer. In short, let's see they have a swell time!

WHAT CAN I DO?

The answer is plenty! In the next column are some of the things anyone can do. The suggestions come from a well-known Ontario hotelman:

1. Know the places of interest and beauty spots in your district and tell people all about them.
2. When you write your friends in the States tell them about the places they would enjoy visiting.
3. Try to make any visitor glad he came.
4. Take time to give requested information fully and graciously.
5. In business dealings, remember Canada's reputation for courtesy and fairness depends on you.
6. To sum it up, follow the "Golden Rule."

IT'S EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS ... it's good business!

Worth his weight in gold! The Province of Ontario profits to almost the same extent from the tourist business as it does from the gold mining industry. It is up to each one of us to see that it goes on growing.

This diagram, based on figures supplied by the Hotel Association, shows how everyone benefits from the Ontario tourist income. Every tourist dollar is shared this way... 1. Hotels; 2. Retail stores; 3. Restaurants; 4. Taxes, etc.; 5. Amusements; 6. Garages.

It works both ways! They treat us royally when we visit them ... we can't do less than return the compliment. Remember that it costs money to take a holiday ... so let's see they get a good return for every penny they spend.

Let's make them want to come back!

Additional Charges Laid Against Ottawa Group

DECOMPOSED BODY OF JOHN SEMPLE, BRIGHTON, FOUND

Brighton, Ont., March 13—(CP)—The decomposed body of 60-year-old John Semple of Gosport, Ont., sought since Nov. 22, 1942, when his wife and granddaughter were found dead of shotgun wounds, was discovered by two muskrat trappers in a marsh near Brighton Beach yesterday, police disclosed today.

A discharged shotgun was found beside the body, so decomposed police believe it may have lain there since shortly after the slaying. A Canada-wide hunt had been launched for Semple on charges of murder after the shooting.

Mrs. Mae Semple and her 11-year-old granddaughter, Betty, were struck by a shotgun blast fired through a window of their home at Gosport, Northumberland county municipality near here. Betty died almost instantly, Mrs. Semple succumbed in hospital at Belleville eight days later.

The two were found by Everett Semple, a son, who rushed into the room when he heard a shot. A dragnet was thrown about the entire Brighton area and when no trace of Semple was found, the theory was advanced that he had committed suicide. Later, when search failed to discover a body, police expressed belief Semple might have fled the country.

Semple's body was found by Cyril McMaster and Valtif Sherman as they tended their muskrat traps in a muskrat run. Identification was made through a driver's licence found in a pocket, and by clothing. No inquest will be held.

Neil Nashkawa, Guilty of Murder, To Hang June 5

Walkerton, Ont., March 13 — (CP) — With the stoicism inherent in his race the 23-year-old Indian, Neil Nashkawa, illicit lover of Lucy Lavallee, stood before Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel and heard himself condemned to hang for the slaying of Lucy's husband.

He will Hang on June 5

If the handsome young brave felt any emotion he failed to show it when the judge pronounced sentence, yesterday, intoning the fateful words . . . "Hanged by the neck until you are dead."

Nashkawa's eyes never wavered. Nor had they wavered when, a short time earlier jury foreman John Hogg announced the jury's decision.

It was proved that Nashkawa had shot Private Walter Lavallee, also an Indian, last Jan. 6, as the soldier sat in his mother-in-law's living room on the Indian Reserve telling of his experiences overseas whence he had come only two days earlier.

Evidence at the week-long trial that Nashkawa carried on an illicit romance with Lavallee's 27-year-old Indian wife while Lavallee was overseas drew crowds that packed the court room day after day.

Not until the crowd streamed from the courtroom was there sign of emotion. Then it came from Dick Nashkawa, father of the accused who stood with tear-filled eyes on the courtroom steps and said goodbye to newspapermen he met during the trial.

According to trial evidence Nashkawa, when he heard Lavallee was returning to Canada, threatened to kill him. Mrs. Lavallee gave this testimony to the court.

Ottawa, March 13 (CP)—Magistrate Glen Strike said in Ottawa police court today that he will grant bail in the case of all four persons accused of participating in a Russian sponsored spy ring in Canada. Mr. Strike said he would set the figure of the bail later in the day.

The four accused were remanded to March 20.

Mr. Strike made the announcement after additional charges had been laid against the accused—Mrs. Emma Woikin, 25, former cipher clerk in the Department of External Affairs, Miss Kathleen Mary Willsher, 40, assistant registrar at the office of the United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, Edward Wilfrid Mazerall, 29, an employee of the National Research Council Division which developed radar, and Capt. Gordon Lunan, 30, a Canadian army officer on loan to Canadian information service.

Special Crown Prosecutor Lee Kelley said he was opposed to bail in all cases but that if it was granted it should be between $6,000 and $10,000 for Capt Lunan and $3,000 for the other three accused.

Counsel for Mazerall asked that he be released on bail of $500. Other defence counsel did not mention any figure in their applications for bail, but said that their clients were persons of modest means and that the figure should be low.

Charges Similar

The additional charges, laid under the official Secrets Act, were similar to charges laid when the accused first appeared in court two weeks ago.

Four additional charges were laid against Mrs. Woikin, who on her appearance in court Monday withdrew an earlier plea of guilty to the original two charges. Her counsel J. P. Erichsen Brown asked for a week's remand.

The new charges against Mrs. Woikin, bringing her total to six are:

1. She made confidential notes useful to the Russians.
2. She communicated confidential documents to unauthorized persons.
3. She used information for the benefit of the Russians.
4. She retained confidential notes in her control which should not have been retained.

The additional charges against Miss Willsher were that she communicated unauthorized information to unauthorized persons, and that she used information prejudicial to the state.

Miss Willsher made no plea when she appeared in court but elected to be tried by jury. Her counsel Rowell Laishley said he was ready to proceed and he made application for bail.

The original charges against Mrs. Woikin and Miss Willsher charged them with conspiring to make information available to the Russians and with having made the information available.

HERMANN GOERING BEGINS HIS FIGHT AT WAR TRIBUNAL

Tells Court He Joined National Socialist Party in 1922 After Hearing Hitler Speak

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Nuernberg, Germany, March 13 (AP)—Hermann Goering, dressed in an undecorated gray uniform with a red scarf wrapped around his neck, today began his fight against war crimes charges by testifying of a career started in the Richthofen air squadron three decades ago.

While his white-haired lawyer slowly questioned him, Goering mentioned the medals he had won and a wound sustained in fighting for the Kaiser's Reich.

The court was packed for the dramatic moment of the 3 1-2-month trial as the once flamboyant Reichsmarshal took his place before the microphone.

In a low, sombre voice, Goering identified his father as a friend of the British empire builders, Cecil Rhodes and Joseph Chamberlain. He said the First Great War left him "opposed in every way" to the Weimar Republic.

After travel abroad, Goering said he returned to Germany and at an obscure political rally in Novmeber, 1922 saw Hitler.

Hitler Declined to Speak

Hitler declined to speak at the rally, Goering recalled, but one day later he heard the future Fuehrer declaim on the Treaty of Versailles and the need for Germany to regain her strength.

"This appealed to me from the depths of my soul," said the leading defendant among the 22 Nazis on trial before the international military tribunal. He joined the National Socialist party and at the same time volunteered his services to Hitler.

Earlier today Field Marshal Albert Kesselring told the tribunal that he was "a principal advocate" of invading England in the summer of 1940 and Germany's "defensive air force" was ready for that blow:

"You recommended to Reichsmarshal Goering that the invasion take place immediately after Dunkerque" Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor asked.

"Yes, and I still represented that view later on," the witness, testifying in the defence of defendant Goering, asserted: "Yes, the invasion was only called off because there were not sufficient seagoing craft."

Kesselring said the British evacuation at Dunkerque "would have increased in catastrophe if bad weather had not kept our planes down for two days."

Justice Jackson cross-examined Kesselring closely on the witness' assertion that the Luftwaffe was a defensive weapon and the witness stated:

"Unfortunately we had a low opinion of the four-engined bomber, an erroneous belief which proved to be a mistake in later years. Its absence turned out to be extremely awkward.

Experts Say 60,000,000 Persons May Die of Famine in Next 6 Months

By DOUGLAS BROWN

London, March 12 (Reuters) — There is a world famine for the first time in history. There have always been local famines, but never before a world-wide shortage.

Nature and a world war have combined to confront the human race with hunger. It is primarily a wheat famine—bread is in jeopardy, and Europe faces the gravest peril.

The experts say the world is short of 5,000,000 tons of wheat, and 3,000,000 tons of rice, the substitute for wheat in large areas of Asia. This shortage, declares Doctor Henry Richardson, authority on soil fertilization, means three times as many people will die of starvation in the next six months as were killed in the whole of the war.

The number of potential famine victims at the end of six months is estimated at 60,000,000 dead.

It was not until the middle of January that it was realized that for the first half of this year the wheat-consuming countries would be 5,000,000 tons short of the 17,000,000 tons they need.

The delayed effects, direct and indirect, of six years of warfare, combined with nature's contribution of three years of almost universal drought, caused a relative failure of the harvest in almost every grain country in the world except the United States.

First Australia and Canada reported poor wheat prospects. Then Italy, North Africa, Greece Czechoslovakia and Rumania followed with similar news. The South American countries came next and finally India and South Africa admitted to crop failures.

Europe normally depends on the outside world for a large part of her daily bread. Even before the war she had to import 9,000,000 tons out of 51,000,000; this year she is likely to require 34,000,000 from outside. The present total exportable is 24,000,000.

Europe's own production of wheat has fallen catastrophically. Before the war it averaged 42,000,000 tons. Last year it was not more than 23,000,000.

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Shortages Farm Labor, Equipment, Finances Called Chief Problems

Toronto, March 13 — (CP) — Shortage of labor, of equipment and of finances are the principal problems of farmers, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said in a brief presented by its executive today to Premier Drew and other members of the Ontario cabinet.

The 3,000-word brief was read by H. J. Scott of Belgrave, who was accompanied by president Kenneth Betzner of Waterloo and other executive members. They represented a federation of 69 farm organizations with an active membership of 125,000 farmers and their families.

"Agriculture is faced today with the problem of securing sufficient labor, equipment and finance with which to accomplish the gigantic task with which it has been entrusted," the brief declared.

"Coupled with these requirements is the need for educational programs and marketing facilities with which to bring about equitable distribution of food products.

Farmer's Purchasing Power

"Since the purchasing power of farm people has a direct effect on the incomes of those engaged in labor, industry and services, we must raise to — and preserve at—a comparable level, the farmer's buying power," the brief declared.

"Adequate price returns must be secured to provide agriculture with a proper standard of living."

Of labor, the brief noted that farm labor should be supplied with suitable housing "and we recommend that a plan be developed by the government to assist

APPLICATION OF GOLDEN RULE BASIC SOLUTION

Eastern Ontario Regional Conference of Canadian Chamber of Commerce Held at Cobourg

Cobourg, March 13 — (CP) — Every-day use of the terms "management" and "employee" as the antithesis of one another is erroneous and misleading, an Eastern Ontario regional conference of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was told today by C. A. Massey of Toronto, a director of the Chamber.

Capital as it is commonly understood — money — was essential to carry on a business. "But there is another kind of capital," he said. "This is the capital represented by the loyalty, integrity and enthusiasm of the workers employed in a business, without which it would be equally impossible for that business to function."

Basic cause of much industrial trouble "is the glaring failure on the part of both capital and labor to recognize the fundamental truth that what is good for capital is also good for labor," he said. "Capitalists continue to exploit labor and radical laborites continue to victimize capital through unlawful strikes and wanton destruction of property."

The basic solution would be found in the application of the Golden Rule — by capital doing unto labor as it would labor should do unto it, and vice versa, he declared.

VINCENT MASSEY RESIGNS POST AS COMMISSIONER

Served in London for Eleven Years and Four Years in Washington

Ottawa, March 13 (CP)— Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, seasoned, 59-year-old diplomat, will return to Canada this spring after 11 years' service as Canadian High Commissioner in London during which he gained the respect of commonwealth and foreign missions there and won British interest in Canadian apples, bacon, wheat, lumber and other products.

Retirement of Mr. Massey from his post at Canada House was announced yesterday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who said he accepted the High Commissioner's request for return to Canada "with regret." The retirement becomes effective in May, but no mention was made of a successor or of Mr. Massey's plans.

Mr. Massey started his career in 1926, after leaving the presidency of the Massey Harris Company. He served as Canadian Minister to Washington from 1926 to 1930, was out of public life during the Conservative administration under Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and was appointed to the London post in November, 1935.

Soon after assuming the London post he inaugurated a more adventurous advertising policy which made Canadian goods

MAURICE BINDNER, RATION OFFICER, FACES CHARGE

Illegal Possession Of Ration Documents Is Alleged Against Man At Kitchener

Kitchener, Ont., March 13. (CP)—Maurice Bindner, ration officer at the Prices Board's district office in Kitchener, today was arraigned in police court on a charge of unlawful possession of ration documents.

The charge against Bindner was laid by Royal Canadian Mounted Police who also presented unrelated charges against five Kitchener and district men of infractions of Prices Board meat sale regulations.

R.C.M.P. officers declined to discuss the charge against Bindner and there were no details given in court as to the number of ration coupons involved. He was remanded by Magistrate H. R. Polson to March 27.

Bindner was arrested Saturday night and had been out on $3,000 property bail since then. Efforts were being made today to arrange bail for him until he next appears in court.

Five Other Men on Meat Charges

Magistrate Polson remanded the five men who appeared on the meat charges for one week. They were John Huck, of nearby Breslau; Phillip Hoffman, Arthur Schaff, Jacob Koch and Wendell Weiss, of Kitchener.

The charges ranged from selling meat without coupons to selling unstamped meat, slaughtering without a permit, slaughtering in excess of their quotas and charging more than maximum prices for meat.

The charges against each included:

Huck—offering meat for sale in excess of maximum prices; slaughtering without a permit; supplying meat without receiving ration documents.

Hoffman — having unstamped meat; slaughtering in excess of his quota; failing to surrender ration documents when supplying meat.

Schaff—supplying meat without receiving ration documents; offering meat for sale in excess of maximum prices.

Koch—supplying meat without receiving ration documents; slaughtering without a permit; offering meat for sale in excess of maximum prices.

Weiss—selling meat without receiving ration documents; slaughtering in excess of quota; having unstamped meat; buying pork at prices above maximum.

The charge against Bindner was laid by an R.C.M.P. officer from London, Ont., and an officer from Guelph laid the charges against the other five.

MAGNESIUM ARTICLES DISPLAYED

Toronto, March 13 —(CP)— A wide variety of articles made of magnesium, the light weight metal whose production was spurred by war, went on display yesterday. Magnesium wheelbarrows, so light that a child can easily handle them; baby carriages, washing machines and other household appliances were included. New lawnmowers and piano frames are only two of the articles which may be made of the metal.

Mysterious Lands That Swallowed Franklin Party Dared by Muskox

Perry River, N.W.T., March 13 —(CP) — Edging its way into the bleak Arctic Circle across desolate rock-strewn wastes of ice and snow, the Muskox expedition is expected here today — a week behind schedule — for a two-day stop-over on the shores of Queen Maude Gulf.

Plagued by mechanical difficulties caused by the rough terrain and slowed by bitter Arctic winds, the men of Muskox will have completed the third leg of their proposed 3,100-mile circuitous trek from Churchill, Man., to Edmonton, Alta.

Some 800 miles and 27 days out from the Churchill base and within the Arctic Circle since Sunday, they now will pit the most modern equipment Canadian science has yet devised against the mysteries of a forbidding land which swallowed the 128-man Franklin expedition 100 years ago.

Before moving on, the 10 "Penguin" snowmobiles will pick up nine tons of supplies dropped here by six R.C.A.F. aircraft during the weekend.

Led by 34-year-old Lt.-Col. P. D. Baird, the army's foremost Arctic expert, the force next will strike out for Cambridge Bay, 160 miles away across the frozen sea and the most northerly objective of the main force. During a 10-day rest period on that Victoria Island outpost, an off-shoot force of a few machines will push 120 miles farther north to Denmark Bay on Denmark Island.

Gasoline consumption has exceeded expectations. The vehicles themselves have given some difficulty in the rugged going, with frequent stops being required for repairs.

Another cause of delay has been bitter weather encountered in the earlier stages when several stops were required to wait out howling blizzards.

Officers also will be able to make numerous changes in existing maps as a result of the trip. For instance, Macdougall Lake, shown on maps as 65 miles long and 35 miles wide, was found to be "largely imaginary."

Close to Borders Of Turkey And Oil-Rich Iraq

United States Secretary Sends Sharp Note to Moscow

By JOSEPH GOODWIN

Tehran, March 13 — (AP) — Russian combat troops in full campaign kit were stated by British and other official sources today to have closed within 20 miles of this capital and to be moving southward across northern Iran close to the borders of Turkey and oil-rich Iraq.

The reports caused James F. Byrnes, United States Secretary of State, to announce in Washington Tuesday night the dispatch of another note to Moscow demanding an explanation.

Premier Ahmed Qavam just returned from inconclusive negotiations in Moscow over the continued presence of Russian troops in Iran, declared today that no agreements were reached.

Reports reaching this troubled capital told of Russian combat troops entering the towns of Mianeh, Maragheh and Miyandaus close to the southern end of Lake Urima near the Turkish and Iraq borders.

Russian troops were obligated by international agreement to withdraw by March 2. Instead, there were reports of large Red Army reinforcements moving into Iran.

Expressed in Two Phases

Russian interest in Turkey has been expressed in at least two phases. Russia has demanded that Turkey cede to Russia the Black Sea provinces of Kars and Ardahan. The Russians also are reported to have demanded bases in the Dardanelles.

Premier Qavam said in an interview with foreign correspondents that no negotiations now are under way with the Russians.

"I have protested in writing to the Soviet government concerning the continued presence of Russian troops in Iran, and made a similar protest orally to Stalin," the premier said.

The premier now is the de facto dictator of Iran since the parliament adjourned yesterday without extending its life.

NEW COUPONS VALID

Ottawa, March 13 —(CP)— Three of the new combined sugar-preserves coupons will become valid during April — S5 on April 4 and S6 and S7 on April 18, The Prices Board announced last night. The announcement said this was not extra sugar but part of the yearly plan for sugar distribution. However, it added that validation of three coupons would give some relief during the current butter shortage by allowing consumers to buy additional preserves as spreads in place of butter.

NO ONE INJURED

Brockville, March 13 —(CP)— Two Prescott citizens were taking a trial run in a used car along the highway yesterday, but decided not to buy the vehicle. The decision was reached after the right wheel flew off, the chassis disintegrated, and the other three wheels flew in different directions and the body finally left the chassis. No one was injured.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 13 — (AP) —Reports of large Red Army reinforcements moving into Iran have put a new strain on Russian - American relations and threatened a critical test of the United Nations Organization's powers to preserve peace.

The reports have yet to be formally confirmed or officially denied, but the United States has sent a note to Moscow asking what the Russians are up to and why.

Also the reports have sufficient weight to have prompted an official State Department announcement that they had been received.

The department's statement last night said its information was to the effect that "during the last week additional Soviet armed forces and heavy military combat equipment have been moving southward" from the direction of the Russian border toward the Iranian capital of Tehran and toward that country's western border.

The western border divides Iran from Turkey and oil-rich Iraq.

Frankly Puzzled

Officials here frankly are puzzled as to the Russian objective in sending more troops into a country from which it was supposed by international agreement to have withdrawn all its forces by March 2.

Speculation on what the Russians may be up to covers three possibilities. Diplomats believe they may be trying to force a pro-Soviet government on Iran, or to bring sufficient threats of force against Turkey to win territorial concessions and rights in the Dardanelles, or that they may have some designs on the Mosul oil fields of Iraq.

If any of these or a combination is the answer, it seems certain that Russian aims will be in sharper conflict with British interests and with United States pronouncements than at any time since war's end.

Top officials here firmly expect that unless the Russians change course and greatly modify their reported activities the whole issue again will be thrown into the United Nations Security Council, scheduled to open its next meeting in New York March 25.

The Iranian case was presented to the council at its recent London meeting by Iran itself with an appeal for action to end alleged Soviet infrangements on Iranian independence. The case finally was dismissed with a statement that Iran and Russia should try to settle their differences by direct negotiations. For that purpose Iran Premier Ahmed Qavam went to Moscow but failed to reach a settlement.

Reports from Azerbaijan Province indicated that a new Russian cavalry column was fanning into Iran through the border town of Astara on the Caspian Sea.

Combat troops with full campaign kit have entered the towns of Mianeah, Maragheh and Myanduab, close to the southern end of Lake Urmia, near the Turkish and Iraq borders, these sources said.

Military observers commented that the Russians last year had dug trenches, constructed roads and conducted large "post-war" manoeuvres along the Turkish-Iranian border.

Mianeah, between Tabriz and Tehran, is connected by rail and road with Russian army headquarters at Kazvin, just northeast of the capital.

DRIVESHED, BROODER DESTROYED BY FIRE

Centenary, March 13 (Special)—Fire Tuesday night completely destroyed the driveshed on the property of Jack Sargent on the 2nd concession of Sidney. The brooder in the upper part of the shed was completely ruined and several chickens were destroyed in the blaze.

Farm implements in the lower part of the building were removed without any damage.

The Belleville Fire Department extinguished the blaze which was believed to have been caused by a short circuit.

OTTAWA YOUTH WANTED AT CARLETON PLACE

Police escort from Carleton Place today will take Raymond back to that centre to face the theft charge.

DISTINCT SHORTAGE WRAPPING PAPER

If the present situation does not get any better, housewives will be carrying home their groceries and vegetables unwrapped, a commercial traveller connected with wrapping paper and paper bag firm, said today.

At present there is a distinct shortage of this kind of paper, and prospects for any increase in future deliveries are anything but bright.

"So don't be surprised if, in the near future, you should see the uncommon sight of a lady taking home a roast of beef suspended from a hook," he smiled.

Hollywood, March 13 — (AP)—Starting today, jive is on the black list at radio station KMPC.

Ted Steele, musical director, banned jive of all types — "even good jive, if there is any, because our surveys have proved that 90 per cent of all listeners prefer their music sweet."

In a memo circulated to studio executives yesterday, Steele charged jive with "contributing in a large way to juvenile delinquency, especially that kind of jive becoming so popular in Hollywood now. It's dirty, or a best suggestive, and the music itself is degenerate."

Mr. Clare Carter was appointed as representative to the Hastings' County Agricultural Committee.

Three Arrested After Break-in Of Grocery Store

At least a dozen shots from police revolvers rang out in the East Hill district after nine-thirty Tuesday evening when local police staged a successful chase through back yards and alleys in the Pine and Chatham streets area to apprehend three young Belleville men who had been surprised following an attempt to burglarize the grocery store owned by William Dennis.

The three young men under arrest and facing charges of shop breaking are Douglas Woodcock, William Archer and Rolland McGrath, all of Belleville.

An unidentified young girl passing the Dennis store shortly after nine o'clock saw the three men as they were about to break into the Dennis store and quickly turned in the alarm to the police station. Two police cruisers quickly converged onto the scene and Woodcock, acting as the "lookout" for the trio, was arrested by Inspector Clair Hayes.

Disturbed in their efforts to burglarize the grocery store, the two men inside the building emerged through the rear door and attempted to make their getaway through back yards with police close on their heels. After a concerted chase Police Constable Doherty caught up with Archer and placed him under arrest, but McGrath made a successful temporary getaway only to be arrested two hours later in a local pool room. During the chase McGrath had been recognized by police officers.

Revolvers were brought into play by officers during the chase as they were fired in an attempt to scare the pursued men into submitting to arrest. No one was injured as result of the shots.

Committee of Council Deals With Recommendations From Annual Report of Health Bd.

Recommendation of Dr. Jack Marshall in his annual report as chairman of the local Board of Health that an incinerator be built in Belleville as a measure to further protect the health of citizens has been considered by a special committee of council who have returned a favorable report to council.

After duly considering the need of an incinerator for the city, the council committee of Aldermen Hyde, Butler, Tice, recommended to council that City Engineer Charles Mott and W. R. Meadows, recently retained town planning engineer, be requested to procure all possible information and report their findings to council.

A further recommendation from the chairman of the Board of Health that action be taken to stop refuse from Corbyville distillery being dumped into the Moira River, was referred to Dr. G. S. Cronk, M.O.H. for his action.

The compelling of installation of filters in industrial smoke stacks in the city saw but little direct action from the committee as it was termed a provincial matter. A new by-law by the provincial department of health more fully covering the matter, was recommended by the committee.

The Belleville Public Utilities Commission will be requested to report to council by April 15, showing all streets in the city which do not have water service from the Utility and will also be asked to give reasons why water service has not been provided for these districts. The request came as result of a Board of Health recommendation that water be supplied to certain parts of the city where the service is not given.

Where water and sewer service cannot be given, it was recommended that the approval of the Board of Health be secured before permits for the construction of new dwellings be issued.

Approval of the special committee was also given to a recommendation from the Board of Health chairman that means be found to provide the city with a sewage disposal plant. In the opinion of the board chairman this health service was necessary in Belleville and despite the fact a by-law to proceed with the work had been defeated at the last municipal election, the council was asked to continue in its efforts to provide sewage disposal.

Committee approval was also given to a recommendation calling for a start in the very near future in a program for cleaning up of Belleville harbor. This work was declared to be a "must" for 1946.

Canada's Oil Reserves Proven Junior Board of Trade Told

Although currently producing only a very small percentage of her petroleum requirements, Canada has proven oil reserves estimated at 51 millions of barrels, the bulk of which is in the Norman oil fields and in the Turner Valley district of Alberta.

Such was the picture of the Canadian oil industry as presented to members of the local Junior Board of Trade at their first regular dinner meeting held Monday evening at the Quinte Hotel. Mr. John Ness, with the publicity department of Imperial Oil, was the guest speaker, chosing as his topic "The Search for Oil in Canada."

Oil production in Ontario had the distinction of being the first on the continent, according to the speaker who stated that eight years before drilling of the Drake oil well in Pennsylvania back in 1859, a more or less flourishing old business had been carried on in South Western Ontario.

Wanted Kerosene

The objective of these early pioneers was the recovering of kerosene for illuminating purposes, first at Oil Springs, in Lambton County and latterly at Bothwell and Petrolia. Drilling of wells in this section and refining of oil was successfully pursued until the year 1894 when Ontario reached its peak production of close to one million barrels annually.

Since the turn of the century no major fields have been discovered in Ontario to counteract the gradual decline of existing fields and Ontario production has gradually tapered off and does not now exceed 200,000 barrels per year.

With the view of reviving the ancient glories of the Ontario field, Imperial Oil Ltd, has embarked on an ambitious program of test drilling and has met with some little success north of Wallaceburg where a well is producing 25 barrels daily.

U.S. Great Producer

Approximately 50 billion barrels of oil have been taken from the ground since the birth of the industry and of this the United States has contributed almost two-thirds. Present world production approximated 2 3-4 billion barrels in 1945 of which the United States contributed 62 per cent. Canada played a very minor role with a quota of less than one half of one per cent.

In pre-war years Canada imported from 30 to 35 million barrels of crude oil annually, and to meet the war demand imports were largely increased, reaching a high of 58 million barrels per year.

In Canada today an unending search is being made in an effort to augment domestic production, this search taking place practically from coast to coast and stretching far into the Arctic.

Obtained From Turner Valley

Major portion of Canadian oil production is now obtained from the Turner Valley where the first well was drilled in 1914. In 1924 the Royalite Oil Company discovered the naphtha bearing horizons and in 1936 the crude oil development commenced. As result of the discovery of a number of shallow pools on the Alberta prairies production should shortly reach the million barrel mark per annum.

The speaker also touched on the Mackenzie river district near Fort Norman where as result of the Canol project operated by Imperial Oil in conjunction with the Dominion and United States governments, substantial production was procured at Norman Wells. There is some uncertainty as to whether there is sufficient reserve her to warrant development of transportation to bring the oil to market.

"Canadian hopes for the future," concluded Mr. Ness, "are based on the extended search still being continued throughout both Eastern and Western Canada and in the north country. There is a possibility that some time in the future the Dominion's tremendous reserves of coal, her vast resources of natural gas in the Prairie Provinces and a more economic method of extracting oil from the Athabasca tar sands, will play a leading role in the supply of synthetic fuels."

Careless Driving Charge is Laid After Accident

John Harris, R.R. 3 Madoc, is charged with careless driving as result of a head-on collision with a parked auto on Station Street early Tuesday evening when three persons received injuries and vehicles were damaged to the extent of approximately $250.

Two female passengers riding in the Harris car suffered cuts and abrasions about the face and knees, while Mrs. Bowler, sitting in her husband's parked auto, crashed her head through the windshield as result of the impact.

A five-year-old boy in the Bowler car was uninjured. Mrs. Bowler was treated at the hospital by Dr. Austin Walters for abrasions and injured knees. Occupants of the Harris car were also treated by Dr. Walters.

Capt. Cunningham On Civvy Street, Takes Old Position

Captain Alex. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Cunningham, 55 Alexander Street, is home from the wars and is back once more on "Civvy Street". He has doffed the King's uniform and on Monday next will pick up the threads of his civilian occupation on the staff of Loblaw's Stores here.

The youthful captain received his early military training with the 34th Field Battery, RCA, here prior to joining the active army in March, 1943. A capable non-commissioned officer, he was sent to the O.T.C. at Brockville graduating with the rank of lieutenant.

Going overseas in April of 1944 he was attached to the 11th Armored Division in England, and served with an Imperial regiment, the Shropshire Light Infantry.

He fought with that regiment in France and was wounded in the leg during the severe fighting in front of Caen. Leading his tank squadron in action in the Hochwald, one of his men stepped on a land mine, which tore off his leg at the thigh.

The terrific blast ripped into Cunningham's face temporarily blinding him in both eye. He has recovered from both injuries, and a recent examination disclosed that his eyes were all right.

Born in Toronto, he came here with his family when he was five years of age. He was educated at Queen Alexandra School and Belleville Collegiate Institute. Becoming associated with the staff of Loblaw's he received leave of absence to join the armed services.

COLDEN — In fond remembrance of John S. Colden, who passed away March 13th., 1944.

Granddad always watched for me,
Anxious if I was late,
In the Winter by the window,
In the Summer by the gate.
His thoughts were so full of me
He never could forget,
And so I think that where he is
He must be watching yet.
—Ever remembered by Grandson, Franklyn Garrison.

COLDEN — In loving memory of John S. Colden, who passed away March 13th., 1944.

Sadly today I close my eyes and dream
And once again, dear Dad, I see your smile,
I feel your presence near, I almost seem
To hear your voice that made life so worthwhile.
You were so dear to me, oh Dad of mine.
I often wish that you were here.
If only we could once again our hands entwine,
Life would be joyous heaven, would seem near,
But you are just a few short steps ahead,
Along that shining path that leads to life anew.
Some day along that pathway I shall tread
To where you wait, dear Dad, midst heavenly skies of blue.
"God's greatest gift, remembrance."

New Flag Design To be Submitted

A group of rehabilitated service men, some of them from this district, have designed a Canadian flag, the plan of which will be forwarded to the Dominion Government for consideration.

The new design is bare of unnecessary adornment. It is simply a gold Maple Leaf on a plain background of Royal Blue.

Some persons, the servicemen feel, will be surprised at the absence of the Union Jack. They feel that inasmuch as France and the United States have made great contributions to Canada's greatness, and the emblems of those nations are not included in the plan, people of British extraction will be willing to accept an original design.

It is essential, they claim, that the flag be one hundred per cent Canadian.

The blue field was chosen for its distinctiveness, simplicity and its ability to blend so well in the over-all color combination. The golden leaf is symbolic of Canada's wealth and glory. The combination, the designers feel, forms an artistically balanced representation of Canada which at the same time is stately dignified and outstanding.

The suggested design has not been proposed by any club, political group or other organization. It is, its designers claim, Canadian servicemen's efforts to activate their belief that enough talking has been done, by creating what they hope will be a step in the right direction.

Jet-Propelled Boat May Be Seen At Rotary Regatta

Residents of the city and district may have the opportunity of viewing for the first time the latest innovation in speedboats at the Rotary Club Regatta scheduled for Wednesday, August 7 off Massassaga Point.

A reliable authority has it that Guy Lombardo, famous Canadian dance band leader who will be here to race one of his 135 Class speedsters, will test a new jet-propelled boat, which, it is claimed can attain the tremendous speed of 135 miles per hour.

The new boat, the authority states, is in the process of tests, and is causing a bit of a mild furore in speed-boat circles.

If such is the case, arrangements will be made, it is hoped, to have Mr. Lombardo bring his new water speedster here for the regatta.

While the boat will not race, it is likely it will be tested on the official A.P.B.A. course that has been laid out off the Government Dock here.

Belleville Baseball League Defers Election of Officers When Annual Meeting Held

In order that full representation of the league be present, the election of officers of the Belleville Baseball League was laid over to next Tuesday night. This decision was reached at the annual meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday night.

Due to business and other reasons, a full representation was not present, and officials decided that it would be in fairness to all to have the annual election deferred.

President Jack McVeigh, who resigned as head of the loop, but who stated that he would cooperate to the fullest in anything but an official capacity addressed the meeting on the success of baseball revived here last year after ten years of dormancy.

He felt, he said, that considering obstacles, the first year of baseball, with its various handicaps had been a success, and that a good job had been done. "The actual objective of the new league," he said, "had been to sponsor baseball in the junior ranks of the city. Proof that this had been accomplished lay in the fact that the Belleville juniors had gone to the Ontario finals."

He expressed appreciation of the work done by all connected with the league, the managers who entered their teams and stayed by the loop until the end despite certain barriers. He congratulated the Stewart Warner Alemite company for its splendid co-operation, the fans who made the league possible and those people who subscribed liberally to the cause.

President McVeigh paid special tribute to the outstanding work of league secretary Ernie Summers, whose sterling efforts were no small factor in the ultimate success of the loop.

"The job is just starting," he said, "and there remains a lot of work to be done. The fullest cooperation is needed from all and with this in hand the league should go ahead this year to further success."

He recommended that the teams continue to develop junior talent, and not to let it get away from them. Imported players, juggling of veterans is not the way to sprout the seedlings of good baseball here. The job should be started at the bottom and only in this way can baseball go ahead and be the success here that it was in former years.

Financial reports were read by Secretary Ernie Summers and it was felt that all teams finished in a satisfactory manner as far as finances were concerned. Among the teams represented were Stewart Warner, Roblin's Dairy and Batawa.

Secretary Summers also resigned his position at the meeting as did other members of the executive. It was then decided to lay over the election of officers to next Tuesday night.

Excessive Drinking Contributing Factor In Woman's Death

Courtland, March 13 (CP) — Excessive drinking was a contributing factor in the death of Mildred Ross, 35, R.R. 1 Tillsonburg, whose body was found in a snowdrift near Wyecombe Feb. 20, an inquest jury decided today.

The jury's verdict said the woman "met her death early in the morning of Feb. 20, 1946, on the farm of Hector Buffel, (three-quarters of a mile west of Wyecombe), by having too much alcoholic drink received at a party at the home of Levi Sage, by exposure to cold, by being left there by John Henry Wapshaw, Township of Middleton."

To a five-man jury in this Norfolk County community 20 miles west of Simcoe witnesses unfolded the story of a birthday party which ended in the death of Mrs. Ross.

Thirteen persons who attended the celebration said they spent the evening in dancing and drinking.

"I suppose if somebody perfectly sober had seen us, they would have said we were all plastered," said Mrs. Jean MacGregor, Tillsonburg.

Hector Buffel found the frozen body of Mrs. Ross partially buried in a snow-drifted laneway as he set out on the morning of Feb. 20 to drive his young daughter to school.

Clothing Around Waist

County Constable Earl Dickson, who, with Provincial Constable Kenneth McLay, arrived at the scene less than an hour after the body was found, said the woman was lying face up in the snow, her clothing pushed up around her waist.

The investigators found automobile tracks but no footprints. A tobacco package which John Wapshaw, 15-year-old Middleton youth, said was his was found near the body, the constable added.

Wapshaw, witnesses said, left the party to drive Mrs. Ross home. The youth was taken into custody in connection with the case Feb. 20 but later was released. He was excused from giving evidence at the hearing.

Dr. W. J. Deadman, of Hamilton, provincial pathologist, said he found no evidence that violence or disease had caused the death of the woman.

"In my opinion, she died from exposure," Dr. Deadman said.

Five of every 10 persons would appear to be drunk with the amount of alcohol in their blood that tests had shown was present in Mrs. Ross' blood, the doctor said. Further examination revealed she had had sexual intercourse a short time before her death, Dr. Deadman added.

Square-Rigger Ready to Begin New Role at Sea

Lunenburg, N.S., March 13 — (CP)—Her aged hull still sturdy and sound, the 369-ton barquentine Cancalais rode at anchor in port at Madagascar today, ready to assume a new role in her checkered career after a three-months cruise from this Nova Scotia port.

The 131-foot square-rigger — one of the few remaining sailing vessels of her age and type still plying in trade — came through the longest voyage of her 26 years afloat when Capt. George Corkum, veteran Lunenburg skipper, sailed the auxiliary-equipped three-master into harbor after an 8,000-mile cruise from his home port.

A cable received here by Mrs. Corkum revealed the voyage had been successfully completed. The vessel that slid down the ways at La Richardais, France, in 1920, will be turned over to French government authorities in Madagascar and she will be employed in the coastal freighting trade.

Fishing on the Grand Banks off Newfoundland in 1940 out of St. Malo, France, the barquentine — square-rigged on the foremast and the main-and mizzen-masts fore-and-aft rigged — was picked up by the Royal Canadian Navy after the collapse of France. Taken to Sydney, N.S., she was changed to a tern schooner — a three-masted fore-and-aft rigged craft — and had engines placed in her hull.

The Cancalais was engaged during the war years in freighting hard coal between Halifax and New York. At the cessation of hostilities, she was taken over by the Free French and brought to Lunenburg, where ship-builders turned her into a square-rigger again.

PICTON

Assistant Parole Officer Speaks To Kinsmen Club

Picton, March 13 — Leadership is essential if juvenile delinquents are to be reclaimed and rehabilitated, declared Fl.-Lt. the Rev. P. D. Cameron, Assistant Parole Officer of the Ontario Parole Board, in an address at the Kinsmen Club here Monday night.

The speaker felt that much juvenile delinquency could be traced to lack of parental control and conditions in the home. Most juvenile delinquents have been foundlings or children who come from homes wherein there has been divorce, he said. Most of them are poorly educated.

Pointing out that juvenile delinquency is increasing, Mr. Cameron urged service clubs and others to provide needed leadership. It is essential that jobs be found those who have been paroled.

The speaker urged community recreational activity. Sport should not be organized for star players only, but for all youths, he said.

Relating the work of the parole board, the speaker said that assistance is much needed from other sources.

HOUSES RISE OVER "A-BOMB" RUBBLE IN HIROSHIMA

The Japanese city of Hiroshima, all but obliterated just seven months ago by an atomic bomb, is now the scene of a housing project to provide shelter for the unfortunate citizens there. This photo, taken in the heart of the district where the bomb struck, shows one of the new housing units (there are 600) arising from the rubble of what was once war factories.

MUSICIAN WHO LOST HIS MIND

"Horace F." attended the regular Thursday night concert at the Masonic Temple, Detroit, Mich., in company with his doctor and his doctor's assistant, who are trying to restore the mind of "Horace F." The patient is an accomplished musician and has written several complete symphonies before his mental breakdown. Music is part of the present therapy. Last week he gave a concert before several music critics.. At that time someone had to turn the pages for him or else he would play the same page over and over. Now he turns pages himself. Going to the concert (where he was photographed for the first time) he even applauded the numbers he liked. His full name is not given out nor will the doctors allow him to be photographed full face. The cure attempts continue.

Fair Board's Progressiveness

The progressive character of the Belleville Agricultural Society has been demonstrated through the past years and will be shown in the years ahead. This year it is planned to put up horse barns, a step in the right direction. A committee is going to go out and look around and see what the fair societies of Lindsay and Oshawa can suggest in the way of data on accommodation for housing horses at the annual exhibition.

Belleville Fair has many patrons who come year after year from every part of the immediate district and from many points beyond the district. The great crowds which attend are the sure and certain sign of approval of the efforts put forward by the society to expand this institution so that it rivals or equals the best. It has become a factor in the community life of a wide area and it serves the cause of agriculture in an excellent manner.

Patrons will be delighted to attend the next exhibition and view the new structure which it is expected will be put up during the spring months.

Lower Dominion Taxes Hinted

Canadian Revenue Minister McCann speaking at Renfrew hinted at the likelihood of a greatly reduced budget, a lower income tax and reduction in corporation and excess profits tax. At the same time he warned that the tax rate is dependent on the people and the services they demand, "the more social services the more taxes." At one point in the address there was a suggestion of a reduction of "some fifty per cent" in the Dominion budget. In another place he said he thought "we can look forward over the year to decreased taxation but this will depend entirely upon public opinion."

Everyone will welcome any tax reduction. In income there was a reduction of sixteen per cent in the latter part of the year 1945, which is figured out at four per cent spread over the whole of the past year.

World Needs Food

While it was realized before the war's end that following the close of the struggle there would be shortages of food, it was not expected that these would be so marked as they are today. But everyone can recall from pre-war years that even with many lands having plenty there were other parts such as China, which lacked sufficient food. Then it was a trouble of distribution for there was enough to go around.

Today the problem is real shortage.

This fact is being faced by the food producing nations making every effort to reduce consumption so as to save to give to the less fortunate peoples mainly those in Europe, where war has dragged its awful form, devastating so much that will have to be replaced or rebuilt, so much agricultural land that will have to be restored to its fertility by fertilizers and other means. Britain it was reported this week is making every effort to increase her acreage of grain crops.

The saving of food with the shipping of it to the needy poses one of the greatest problems of history. The situation is on a scale greater than ever in all recorded time and is such as to call for the full effort of all peoples.

Yesterday there was an article in the press telling of the plea that United States people cut their food consumption by 40 per cent in wheat and twenty per cent in fat with the object of helping save no fewer than half a billion persons, nearly a quarter of the earth's population and help pass over the next four months, "a terrible four months until the next harvest."

That is what the urgent appeal of the food shortage amounts to and it comes to everyone. Both state and individual in the well-fed lands can do much to alleviate the conditions brought about by the impoverishment of agriculture lands in Europe by war and the drought of the past year.

Those who have done gardening in the cause of victory in war years will no doubt carry on some gardening this year for the cause of the hungry whom they have not seen but whose situation they can easily understand. The people in hunger will be willing to receive the amount that so many overeat or waste and be grateful for any crumbs

To a land like Canada which is rich in its agricultural resources the needs of the world have come during the years since the war began and the reserves of food have been declining.

So those who can do their bit by gardening will help Canada fill her place as a great producer and will help to provide the necessities so needed where war's blight has been felt for some years.

There is heartening news from South Africa showing farming conditions and crop prospects are much brighter as a result of heavy rains and that heavy rains have fallen over one million square miles of Australia as well. But these good portents will tell for the coming harvests. In the meantime there are many millions hungry for food and they will be hungry until next harvest is garnered and perhaps even after these harvests are in.

Test Our Arctic Acres

With many evidences of increasing interest in the industrial potentialities of Canada's far north, exhaustive enquiry into its agricultural possibilities appears called for.

Hitherto, such research has been conducted on a very restricted scale. Government experts have learned that, under certain conditions and at certain points, food crops of considerable variety can be produced during the brief Arctic summer, but no over-all picture of the prospects has been composed.

When the northland is eventually opened up, on-the-spot food supplies will be of the utmost value. Whatever interests contemplate industrial development should know in advance what they can hope for in this regard.

The need for such a project is underlined by Russian research in her sub-Arctic regions.

A Moscow report tells of extensive experimentation in the growing of grain, potatoes, cabbages — and even melons.

Neither the Northwest Territories nor Ungava may ever "blossom like the rose," but if expenditure on research today reveals that they are capable of yielding generous crops of "garden truck" for the sustenance of future settlers, it will be money well spent.

Churchill and Eisenhower

The splendid tribute which General Eisenhower paid to Mr. Churchill at Richmond on Friday illustrated Eisenhower no less than Churchill.

These two very great men of the English-speaking world show an admiration for each other which is worthy of their characters and achievements.

And what a great pair they are!

Churchill, not embittered by his unmerited defeat in his home land, continues uncomplainingly to speak on world affairs with all the clarity, force and brilliancy which distinguished his utterances while he was the leader of the British Empire during the war.

Eisenhower, a great military commander whom it was the marvellous good fortune to the Allies to have when such a leader was needed, has shown himself to be an even greater man than soldier. His modesty, generosity and powerful intelligence shine in all he says.

These two, who in the war did so greatly are doing as greatly now to promote the friendship between the British and American peoples which is vital if this old world is to get to any good in the future.

Mackenzie Bids Sad Adieu To Switzerland

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Bern, March 13 — (AP) — This is au revoir, Switzerland, for we must get ahead with our job of globetrotting.

We've had a grand time, for you've been mighty fine to us and we are appreciative. Our feelings about you were well expressed by a sergeant with whom we were chatting last night — one of the 200,000 United States soldiers who've been fortunate enough to get leave for a brief tour of Alpland. When we asked him how he liked it here, he raised his right hand and declared:

"It's 100 per cent — hospitality, fine people, good food, wonderful scenery. What a change from Germany!"

It's good to meet people who think right and live right.

We like the way you cling to traditions and heirlooms.

You're modern and yet live in a setting of days gone by — combining the old with the new so charmingly that the blend is perfect.

I have spent hours among historic buildings which have grown gray from the centuries. One is fascinated by that huge, 300-year-old clock in the stone tower of Bern's ancient city gate — still faithfully recording the seconds, minutes, hours, days and months, while the life-size figure of a man strikes the hours with mighty swings of his hammer.

Then there is the quaint statue of the fat ogre about to swallow a baby, with other squirming youngsters in a bag ready to follow. They say mothers of days long past used to warn naughty children that the ogre would get them if they weren't good.

Some are inclined to brush aside traditions and heirlooms as too much out of date to be useful. But our observation is that these links with the past are part of the fibre of a nation.

We love your beautiful valleys with their lakes and streams and tiny farms — picture-book homesteads which have been handed down from father to son for generations. We've thrilled with the grandeur of your Alps. I went up just under the peak of the towering Jungfrau, among the clouds where the breath comes short and the heart hammers from the altitude. There was a fierce blizzard screaming across the heights — a fearsome sight and the bearer of death to any who got caught in it.

We went to the heart of the great glacier in which men have carved tunnels and marvelous caverns.

But even more impressive is the spirit of cordial friendliness everywhere. Let the visitor pause at a street corner to get his bearings and immediately he will have an offer of assistance.

That Iron Curtain

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

The truest and most vitally important statement made by Mr. Winston Churchill in his Missouri speech on "The Sinews of Peace" was when he drew a parallel between the present position of the Soviet Union with that of Germany in 1935 and said: "Germany might have been saved from the awful fate which has overtaken her, and we might all have been spared the miseries Hitler let loose on mankind without a shot being fired." Mr. Churchill was referring to the indifference with which his repeated warnings of the Nazi menace had been received in the 'thirties. At that time the people of the United States and most of its leaders were absolutely indifferent to what was going on in Germany, and if Mr. Churchill had dared to address an American audience on the subject he would have been howled down for his pains.

• • •

It will be recalled that in the early 'thirties Mr. Churchill paid a visit to the United States and Canada, and at that time he urged the necessity for a closer co-operation between the United States and the British Commonwealth. But he was ignored wherever he spoke, and when he came to Toronto there was only a small audience in the Maple Leaf Gardens to listen to him. He was afterwards knocked down by an automobile in the streets of New York. That may have been a pure accident, but in view of the decisive part that Mr. Churchill has since played in world affairs, there is a possibility that the accident was staged. At least we can say now that it was fortunate for the world that the accident was not fatal.

• • •

The tremendous bursts of applause with which Mr. Churchill's speech was punctuated in Missouri would seem to indicate that his proposals for a continuance of the alliance between the United States and the British Commonwealth would be favored by the American people. It is perhaps too much to expect that the Isolationists and the McCormickites will agree, in spite of the awful awakening of Pearl Harbor. But the terrible history of the past six years of war has broadened the minds of the American people and given them a world consciousness. Having emerged victoriously from a Global War, they now realize that they must secure a Global Peace.

The only hope for such a peace is in the closest possible union between the United States and the British Commonwealth. Mr. Churchill did not exaggerate when he said that "an iron curtain has descended across the continent, from Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic. This is not the liberated Europe we fought to build up," he said. "Nor is it one which contains the essentials of permanent peace."

Those are strong and deeply disturbing words, but they are only too true. When one comes to think back on those recent years of war when we regarded Russia as a sincere and faithful ally, to whom we sent at great cost in life and ships enormous quantities of war material, that "iron curtain" looms before us as a mockery and a blackout of our hopes of peacetime fellowship with the Russian people.

Bernard Shaw is reported to have said that Mr. Churchill's proposal of a British-American alliance would amount to a declaration of war on Soviet Russia. But Mr. Shaw says nothing about the enforcement by the Soviet of alliances with Poland, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Bulgaria, and the attempts to bring Iran, Turkey and Manchuria into the Russian orbit of power. In addition to all that the Soviet Government has resumed its underground warfare against the political institutions of the democratic countries. Every advantage is being taken by Russian agents and their accomplices of the freedom within those countries to spread the doctrines of Communism and even to corrupt government officials. If that is not an undeclared and sinister war by the Soviet upon the British Commonwealth and the United States, then it is for Mr. Shaw and others to tell us just what the Soviet is up to.

"We might all have been spared the miseries Hitler let loose on mankind without a shot being fired," said Mr. Churchill; and we can be spared the annihilation of a third world war by a straightforward acknowledgment of the danger of a division among the forces of freedom.

EXERCISE FOR DEAFNESS, HEAD NOISES OR SNORING

As just a casual observation, without any systematic poll or census on the question, I have never heard a singer or his wife complain of snoring. I mean a singer who works at it, not just any one who can sing a little.

Years ago I published a piece here under some such silly title as "Make a Face and Hear Better" — I can't find it in my file of back copy but whatever the title that was the idea.

Familiar to every one is the unconscious grimacing of a person who is trying to see something in a poorly lighted place. Nearly as familiar is the characteristic grimacing of a person straining to hear a speaker's words in the midst of blurring sounds or noises. One trying to hear under such conditions does not merely cock his ear or cup his hand around his ear to make an ear trumpet. He purses his lips or opens his mouth, contracts muscles about the nostrils, squints, frowns and, if not too advanced in evolution — like me, for example — even wiggles his ears.

Here is the routine. Practise before a mirror until you have learned how to do the exercises systematically without the mirror.

Contract muscles about the mouth as in a prunes smile and "whew" and hold it for several seconds till the muscles feel tired.

Then contract muscles about the nostrils in exaggeration of the natural reaction to some unpleasant odor and hold it till the muscles feel tired.

Then the same with the muscles about the eyes as tho straining to see something in dim light, and hold it for several seconds.

Then scowl hard for several seconds.

Then retract your ears or try to draw them up and back whether you can actually wiggle them or not. While holding them retracted contract the throat muscles in the position of the k sound when you say "hike," and hold everything just so for several seconds.

Warning: Better lock the door when you do the exercises — if any one surprises you in a seance you'll feel pretty silly.

Go through the routine regularly night and morning. It can do no harm, if no one catches you at it.

Your money cheerfully refunded if it doesn't improve your hearing, relieve or stop tinnitus (head noises) or cure your snoring in ninety days net.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Phantom Physiologist

You are the No. 1 food faker. Starches are digested by the saliva teeth or no teeth. Meats are digested by the gastric juices and bile chew or no chew. What dental influence are you catering to now?

(T. C. C.)

Answer — Will you settle for partly? According to my physiology books proper chewing promotes more thorough digestion of cooked starches by the saliva. Chewing of meats is less important — meat digests as well if swallowed in small chunks as it does when chewed or chopped fine.

Save Your Teeth

What causes the loosening of teeth and is there any remedy?

(M. R.)

My daughter just came from the dentist's. He told her she would lose all her teeth if she didn't drink a glass of salt water every day, as her gums are receding.

(Mrs. E. S.)

Answer—Perhaps your daughter misunderstood what the dentist told her. Salt or salt water can have nothing to do with receding gums or loss of teeth. Loosening of teeth is usually a manifestation of so-called pyorrhea. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "Save Your Teeth."

Interval Operation

Son 15, has had three mild attacks of appendicitis within a year. Doctor wants to remove his appendix now, but son wants to wait till he gets another attack.

(A. R. B.)

Answer — The doctor's advice is best. An interval operation is "clean," less hazardous than operation during acute inflammation.

Tobacco Heart

What is the meaning of tobacco heart? Can one stop smoking that has it? How long before all the nicotine is out of the system, after one stops smoking?

(Mary W.)

Answer — Irritable, too rapid heartbeat and palpitation have sometimes been called "tobacco heart." Nicotine is of questionable importance—more evidence that ill effects of smoking are due to carbon monoxide anoxia.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What determined the width of the climatic zones?

The earth is divided into five grand divisions in respect to latitude and temperature. They take their names from the prevailing climate and are known as the torrid, north and south temperate, and north and south frigid zones.

Their boundaries are parallels of latitude and their width is determined by the amount of inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic — about 23 degrees and 27 minutes.

The torrid zone is 46 degrees and 54 minutes wide and is all the earth's surface between the parallels known as the Tropic of Cancer and the Tropic of Capricorn, which are 23 degrees and 27 minutes north and south of the Equator. Because the sun is always vertically overhead at some point in this zone a warm climate prevails.

The north and south frigid zones lie between the poles and the polar circles, which are 23 degrees and 27 minutes from the poles. Here the climate is cold because the sun strikes the earth obliquely and at every point in each zone there is at least one day in the year when the sun does not rise and one when it does not set.

The north and south temperate zones lie between the polar circles and the torrid zone and each is about 43 degrees and six minutes wide. Their climate is variable because the sun is always south of the zenith at noon in the north temperate zone and north of it in the south temperate zone, but it rises and sets daily in each throughout the year.

Owing to the flattened figure of the earth the length of a degree of latitude varies from 69.407 miles near the poles to 68.704 miles near the Equator. Thus the width of the torrid zone is about 3,225 miles, and the frigid zones are each slightly more than half that width.

This classification of the earth into zones is very ancient. It is supposed that Parmenides, who lived about 500 B.C., was the first to conceive of zones upon the surface of the earth corresponding to the zones into which the astronomers had divided the heavens.

LOST HIS INSTRUCTOR

San Antonio, March 13 (AP)—Douglas Mcroy of Los Angeles, 21-yea-old student pilot at Randolph Field, was taking an instruction flight with Lieutenant Irvis Almond, Albermarle, N.C. After executing a slow roll at 4,000 feet, Mcroy looked around to find his instructor gone. Far below, Almond was drifting to earth in his parachute. The instructor, who had fallen out of the plane during the holl, landed uninjured in a tree and Mcroy piloted his plane safely back to the field.

GOT TEETH BACK

Salt Lake City, March 13 (AP)—Police spent three hours tracking down the stolen lunch box of Andrew Bennion of Murray, Utah, after an urgent plea from Bennion that it contained his false teeth. The box—and teeth—were finally found in possession of a 15-year-old boy. Bennion has his teeth back. The lunch was unrecoverable.

Russia Prepares Plans for Many Highgrade Roads

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 13 — (AP) — The Russian wants roads, hundreds of them, roads that will not only compare favorably with the best in the world, but surpass them. They want waterways. They want airways.

The U.S.S.R. must devote millions of man and machine hours to road building. A decree of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet Feb. 18, 1946, announced the creation of a commissariat of road building and road building machinery.

One of the biggest highway projects is the Moscow-Simferopol speedway, connecting the capital with the Russian Riviera on the Black Sea. This road will total more than 1,000 miles.

The highway, five or six lanes wide, will go through Kursk to Kharkov and on to Zaporozhe and the Dnieper Dam, then across the Nikopol Flats and the Crimean Steppes.

Still another speedway will be built between Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, and Rostov on the Don at the eastern tip of the Sea of Azov.

The Russians also are planning a big automobile road through Latvia and Lithuania.

Another important piece of road construction nearing completion is the building of a speedway between Yaroslavl and Vologda. One of Russia's biggest automobile tire factories is located in Yaroslavl.

Immense challenges await Soviet engineers in the possibilities of water transport, and large sections of this plan remain to be announced. One new project provides for a 375-mile canal in the Turkmen Republic. It is described as primarily for irrigation now but eventually may be pushed through to the Caspian Sea, fulfilling a dream of Peter the Great for a waterway connecting the Baltic Sea with Asia.

Another project is a 45 - mile section to connect the Volga and the Don. It was begun before the war, but work ceased with the German invasion.

After the victory over Japan, Russia regained Port Arthur, Darien and the ports of the Kuriles, affording her for the first time real sea lanes to the Pacific.

Much construction is under way or being planned at the Black Sea ports and those of the Baltic Republics.

To get at every far corner of its spacious territories, the user already is employing a large aircraft fleet carrying about 85,000 tons of mail and 350 passengers annually, but at the end of the first of the new five-year plans, this is expected to be much increased.

POLICE BLOTTER

Morton Vance, Bloomfield, was taken into custody by local police officers early Tuesday morning following a motor accident on East Dundas Street involving Vance's vehicle and a Motorways Transport. According to police Vance had been attempting to turn around on Dundas Street near Dufferin when he ran into the side of the transport. A tire on the transport and the front of the Vance auto received damage as result of the mixup.

Young boys are blamed by police for entering the Graham Cold Storage building during the night and knocking the handle off a small safe. Those responsible had apparently entered through a rear door, but outside the broken safe handle, nothing was believed touched.

A Chatham Street resident reported a small child in her neighborhood yesterday had been attacked by a dog, but there were no details of the incident. County Constable Thomas Thorne was advised.

Pension Act To be Reviewed At Coming Session

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 13 (CP)—The Pension Act, a 27-year-old piece of legislation that has rolled up public obligations of roughly $80,000,000 a year, will undergo its first parliamentary review in five years sometime after the opening Thursday of the second session of the 20th Canadian parliament.

A key instrument in care of tens of thousands of Canadian veterans of the two Great Wars and of their dependents, the act will come under study by the Commons' Committee on Veterans Affairs as one of its major considerations of the session.

Statistics alone bespeak its importance.

At the end of January the pension liability for the First Great War stood at nearly $37,000,000, representing payments to 90,000 disabled veterans and dependents. At the same time th liability for the Second Great War stood at more than $22,000,000, representing payments to more than 48,000 persons.

In 1919, the post-war year most closely corresponding to 1946, the liability stood at $17,000,000 for 59,000 persons.

Experience after the First Great War showed that it was 14 years before financial outlay reached its maxium of $42,000,000. In that year of depression 1932, 95,000 Canadians were wholly or partially dependent on pension but the largest numerical total was reached in 1940 when it hit 98,000, some of them men who had never claimed before.

Last Review in 1941

The last parliamentary review of the Act was in 1941 when, on the recommendation of the veterans committee, the Pension Act was amended to provide that veterans who served wholly in Canada or their dependents could get pension only if their disability or death arose out of or was directly connected with military service.

That is one of numerous points on which the Canadian Legion plans to attack existing legislation.

One of the Legions strongest appeals will be for a pension rate of $30 a month for every child and $40 for orphan children. The present rates are $15 for the first child $12 for the second and $10 for others with double rates for orphan children.

Administration of the Act is in the hands of the pension commission and an adverse decision on entitlement may be appealed to an appeal board of the commission consisting of commissioners who have not previously dealt with the claim.

Pension rates have remained stationary since 1920. The basic rate for a totally disabled veteran is $900 a year for himself and $300 for his wife.

Pleads Guilty To Attempted Arson Charge

Alfred Brant, aged 69, of 122 South George Street, was given one year's suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty at Tuesday morning's city police court to a charge of attempted arson.

According to police, Brant had left his place of residence last February 23rd after an unsuccessful attempt to burn the dwellings. Coal oil and matches were strewn about the floor.

In defence, counsel Jake Goodman held that Brant had been prompted to the act because of home conditions. In addition to the suspended sentence Brant was ordered to pay court costs of $3.50.

Keith Dunning and Douglas Bunnett, arraigned last week on a charge of robbery with violence, were remanded for another week at the request of E. E. Follwell, counsel for one of the accused.

Twenty cases were listed for the morning's docket, ten of which were settled out of court. Three motorists paid $2 each for illegal parking, while two others paid $7.50 on speeding charges, and four drunks enriched city coffers by $13 each.

A Montreal resident was given ten days "on the hill" in lieu of payment of the conventional "drunk" fine.

Food Situation Worst of Its Kind in History

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 13 — (CP) —Realization of the grim, horrifying fact that millions of people abroad are threatened with death by starvation has aroused local and foreign officials here to a program of action expected to reach its climax tomorrow.

Then the Combined Food Board, of which Canada, the United Kingdom and United States are members, will meet to draft what its members hope will be a definite program of allotting what food there is available for the famine areas.

"This is undoubtedly the worst situation of its kind in history," a Canadian official said. "Its political effect almost defies imagination."

General assumption here is that the main available source of increased food supplies for famine relief is in the United States and must be created by voluntary self-denial on the part of the people who now are using more food than before the war.

Self-denial, on even a small scale, can greatly increase the available cereals, fats and oils in the United States, and this, with a breaking of the transportation bottlenecks which hinder movement of wheat now available for export, will help, officials say.

But in some quarters there is a growing demand for rigorous rationing and price controls here to ensure that the United States does its full share of fending off the horror of mass starvation in less fortunate lands. This was suggested Sunday by President Donald Henderson of the Food, Tobacco, Agriculture and Allied Workers of America (C.I.O.) in a letter to President Truman.

It is understood here that Canada already is exporting to needy areas all that can be spared from surplus supplies and that a program of self-denial, over the rationing which still exists there, will be attempted.

London Letter

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 13 — (CP) — Grimy Commercial Road, artery that links London's dockland with business offices of the City, hums with activity these days as ships crawl up the Thames to load the produce of Britain's export drive.

From them come seamen of every race and color, drifting ashore with pounds in their pockets to sample a bit of fun. For many the Empire Memorial hostel, strategically placed on Commercial Road, is a haven when they can escape the sharks that dog a poor sailorman ashore, or rest at the weary end of a spree.

The big four-storey stone building — called the largest seamen's hostel in the world—rises imposingly at the corner of Salmon Lane. For a little more than a shilling a night a man can get a compact separate room. Three meals a day are served in the dining-room, each at a moderate cost.

Young energetic J.R. Beaumont has been manager for the last year, a year in which he has "cleaned up the joint" in more ways than one, cleansing the 300 cabins and other rooms with scrubbing-brushes and cleaning out the "human refuse" of pimps and panhandlers who found the hostel fertile ground.

The Empire Memorial, built in 1923 and extended in 1936, is one of eight hostels maintained in London by the British Sailors' Society, founded in 1818 to better the lot of seamen "on the beach."

Seamen of all nationalities are welcomed, and during a tour of the lounge, snack-bar or billiard room a dozen different languages will be heard. Chinese sit down to tea with dark West Indians, Spaniards essay conversation with fair-haired men from the Baltic, and the heavy whine of the Cockney cuts throught a chatter of French.

A one-legged Estonian, 30 years afloat in ships of every nationality and torpedoed more than once in the First Great War, explains:

"After you've been at sea a few years you stop being a Canadian or a Norwegian or an Estonian — you're just a sailor."

Prospectors Told Gold Price May Pass $35 an Ounce

Toronto, March 13. (CP)—Senator A. D. McRae, of Vancouver, predicts that before long the price of gold will be increased beyond the present $35 an ounce.

He made the prediction in a speech prepared for delivery yesterday at the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association. The speech was read by Kelso Roberts after the Senator became indisposed.

The convention also heard Ontario Securities Commissioner C. P. McTague call for separate codification of laws respecting mining securities and declare that enforcement activities of his department were intended not to discourage speculation but to curb the broker or salesman who made dishonest statements or fantastic prophecies.

"If we are going to get our gold production re-established and increased —not just to the 1941 production but probably twice that level—something must be done to encourage capital for the development of new mines," Senator McCrae's speech said.

"Some day. . . we will be getting more than $35 an ounce for our gold, as against any paper currency in existence. That is my prediction. That is why shares in old, well-established gold mines are selling on a basis comparable to government bonds."

The position of gold today is more secure than ever before he added.

Sells on Speculation

Commissioner McTague said a bill to permit over-the-counter dealers in mining securities to form their own association and discipline their own members may come before the present session of the Ontario Legislature.

"No one can quarrel with a broker or salesman who sells on the basis that it is speculative," he said. "It is when he begins to make statements which are untrue or prophecies about the future that he comes into collision with the Ontario Securities Act. It is when he begins to demonstrate, whether directly or by implication, that the element of speculation has ceased to exist, that he gets into trouble with the Commission."

Mr. McTague said he did not suppose it would ever happen that the policing activities of the Commission would become altogether secondary.

"As a matter of fact, I have said more than once—and I still say it—that if Bay Street (heart of Toronto's financial district) had any real wisdom it would combine to discipline its own activities.

"Some steps are being taken in that direction and it may come about that I shall lose a job—for which I would be most grateful, I assure you. However, in the meantime, we must try to do our best to administer the act as we find it."

DECIDE TO CALL OUT 50,000 IN SUPPORT

London, March 13 — (CP) — Representatives of six engineering unions decided today to call a strike of approximately 50,000 workers in more than 80 motor and mechanical plants in Coventry in support of their demands that the Humber Automobile Company pay more for piece work and rehire 550 dismissed men.

About 4,000 Humber employees already were on a strike which a company statement said was "unofficial from the outset."

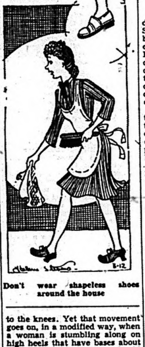
BEAUTY By HELEN JAMESON

Getting ankles in Form



Don't wear shapeless shoes around the house

To sport trim, pretty ankles is the ambition of every woman who has permitted hers to fatten or spread. She yearns for the return of long skirts, although she hates them. It would be some consolation to curtain the leg hinges.

If bulk is caused by the formation of adipose tissue, as is usually the case, remodelling can be achieved. But it is a long tough row to hoe and the candidate for slim legs might as well realize it. If bulk is due to heavy, thick bone structure, not much can be done about it, though chances are the entire body framework is large and ankles are in proportion. Make a diagnosis, if you are among those who would cultivate more favorable anatomical changes. A few pokes of the thumb will determine whether the ankle bone is close to the surface of the flesh or is upholstered with fat cells.

One way to let feet and ankles go to seed is to scurry around the house in shoes that have lost shape. No shoe should be worn that does not provide support for the waist of the foot. The busy housewife who tramps from front door to back, answering bells, from one room to another as she goes through the domestic routine, is in special need of correctly fitted shoes. Old shoes are not the dear friends we fancy them to be.

Pointing the toes outward causes a strain on the ankles. Those one-way hinges are adjusted for straight forward, and up and down movement. The reason spiked heels have such a deplorable effect upon the ankles—enlarging and weakening them—is because these heels cause a side-to-side movement that weakens the muscles and the tendons of the feet.

You can prove that fact easily enough. Place your heel upon the floor, lift the toes. All right. That is a natural movement. Place the foot flat upon the floor, turn it first on one side of the sole, then on the other. There is discomfort that extends almost to the knees. Yet that movement goes on, in a modified way, when a woman is stumbling along on high heels that have bases about the size of a dime. There should be a firm foothold always.

To reduce large ankles, ride a bicycle, if you have one. Nothing better for normalizing the legs, whether they be too fat or too thin. If you haven't a bicycle, lie on your back on the floor, lift the feet, and pedal in the air.

Lifting up on the toes and coming down slowly will strengthen muscles, order fat cells to vanish. Walking tippy-toe will normalize the musculature.

Massage is helpful, if it is heavy enough. Anoint the fingers with cocoabutter, thumb from toes to the calves of the legs, pressing deeply into the flesh.

Cooking of Cereals

Before this modern age of speed, breakfast played a major role in the daily menu. It was the heaviest meal of the day and several courses were served. Unfortunately, nowadays breakfast too often means a cup of coffee and a piece of toast. . . fare too meagre to supply the necessary energy for the day's activities.

Canadian breakfasts usually follow along pretty much the same pattern . . .fruit juice, cereal, toast, jam and beverage. But no matter what is served, breakfast must include at least one food possessing good "staying" power if that mid-morning slump is to be avoided and what meets this requirement better than a bowl of steaming hot cereal?

Of course the family may not like cooked cereal for breakfast but perhaps the fault lies in the porridge served. If it's lump, stringy or too thick in consistency no one can be blamed for spurning it. However, this culinary catastrophe need never happen in your family if a few simple rules are followed.

The Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, realizing that experimental work should be conducted on methods of cooking Canadian cereals in order to give consistently good results, asked the Household Science Departments of Canadian Universities to co-operate with them in an experimental project, six of which were able to do so.

The tests were extensive and varied the proportions of water to cereal; length of cooking time and amount of salt needed. In addition, all methods most commonly used in Canadian homes were tried out and the following methods for cooking regular and quick-cooking rolled oats were those generally conceded best.

ROLLED OAT PORRIDGE

(Using regular rolled oats)
1 cup regular rolled oats
3 cups boiling water
3-4 teaspoon salt.

Start cooking cereal in top of double boiler over direct heat. Sprinkle cereal gradually into the boiling, salted water, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Keep water boiling to prevent cereal becoming sticky. Boil, over direct heat, for 5 minutes, then cook, covered, for 1 hour over boiling water, stirring only occasionally. Makes about 3 cups.

To reduce time of cooking in the double boiler, soak cereal in the specified amount of water overnight, then bring to boil and cook over direct heat for 5 minutes and finish cooking in double boiler for 30 minutes.

If wheat germ is added, use 2 tablespoons wheat germ per cup of raw cereal.

ROLLED OAT PORRIDGE

(Using quick-cooking rolled oats)
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
3 1-2 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt

Sprinkle cereal gradually into the boiling, salted water, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Keep water boiling to prevent cereal becoming sticky. Boil, over direct heat for 3 minutes, then cook, uncovered, for 10 minutes over boiling water. Makes about 3 1-2 cups.

CEREAL CUSTARD

2 cups cooked cereal
2 cups milk
1 tablespoons molasses
1-4 cup sugar
2 eggs
1-2 teaspoon vanilla or maple flavoring or
1-4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Mix cereal, milk, molasses and sugar. Add beaten eggs and flavoring. Mix well. Pour into a greased casserole, place in pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, for 50 minutes or until set.

For chocolate pudding, blend 2 tablespoons cocoa with the sugar and a little of the milk and add with other ingredients. Flavor with vanilla. Six servings.

SPICY OAT-RAISIN PUDDING

1 cup all-purpose flour
1-2 cup sugar
3-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
3-4 cup raisins
3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk

Mix and sift flour, sugar, salt, soda and cinnamon. Add rolled oats and raisins. Add the melted fat and vanilla to the sour milk and add to the dry ingredients. Pour into a well-greased mould, cover closely and steam for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve with top milk or pudding sauce. Six to eight servings.

Questions and Answers

Q. A few days ago I bought two ounces of shredded cocoanut for 12c which is 96c per lb. I think I was overcharged. Is there a ceiling price on cocoanut?

A. There is no ceiling price on cocoanut.

Q. My grocer has been taking sugar coupons for cans of pie peaches, which contain no sugar. I questioned the grocer and he said even though no sugar was used in this product it is still classed as preserves and therefore rationed. Is this correct?

A. Your grocer is absolutely correct. This variety is classed as unsweetened canned fruit, and to provide wider distribution it is rationed.

Q. I paid $1.65 for a 50-pound bag of Maine potatoes. Was I over-charged on this purchase?

A. Yes definitely so. In the Ottawa-Brockville district U.S. No. 1 size A potatoes have a maximum ceiling price of $1.53 per 50-pound bag and the maximum ceiling price for U. S. No. 1 size B is $1.43 per 50-pound bag.

Q. Is a beauty salon allowed to charge 50c more now for a permanent wave? I had a $3.50 wave last week and said before they started that this was the one I wanted and could pay no more. When I received my bill it was $4.

A. There is still a ceiling price on such services as those given by beauty salons. The owner is not allowed to charge more than his ceiling price. If you give us the name of the salon charging the extra 50c, we will investigate their prices.

Q. I would like to know if I may send a blanket to the United States to a friend of mine who is to be married. How much duty would I have to pay and which is the best way of mailing it?

A. Sorry...but this does not come under the jurisdiction of the Prices Board. However, if you would write a letter addressed to the Director of Public Relations, Post Office Department, they would supply the information you require.

Slim Gal's Beauty Secret— A Regular Exercise Program

Yvonne de Carlo uses a bike machine for her daily dozen

By HELEN FOLLETT

Don't curl your nose scornfully at the idea of doing daily calesthenics, little one. Giving the muscles a daily workout is not only good sense, but it is fun. It is exhilarating to the spirits.

It makes the routine of work and small tasks easier. It puts ginger in the circulatory system, causes double-twisted nerves to straighten out and be calm.

Daily Bending

If you can't bring yourself to a daily period of bending and torso twisting, why not join a gym class? In every city, there are schools of physical education. You'll get your money's worth many times over, as supervised exercise will 'do away' with many figure defects.

If the fibers of the mid-section have started to bulge and sag, don't delay. In time, the waistline will be anything but neat, and there's a possibility that frocks will have to be a size larger. Then what? Worry about overweight, prospects of carrying the meal bag shape! that thought ought to scare any woman into fits.

Pretty Feet

The average girl, proud of her pretty feet that are perfectly shod, lavish with money to fling into the cash registers of beauty shops, smart of appearance, has a common defect, poor pasture.

There are many simple exercises that can be done at home that will keep muscles resilient, circulation chasing, eyes bright, complexion colorful.

An excellent one is to touch the floor without bending the knees; it acts directly upon hips and thighs. Stand stall, head balanced, chest lifted. Swing the hands high above the head, then down.

At first you may be able to only touch your ankles. As the good work continues, as your body becomes more flexible and resilient, you may be able to place the palms of your hands on the floor.

Plump girls won't find this stunt easy. But they are the ones who need it most. Let them get at it, defy Time to do its worst to the silhouette.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Procedure for Cards Enclosed with Office Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been severely criticised by my office co-workers, and I would gratefully appreciate your comments or corrections on what I did. The head of one of our departments, taken seriously ill, was sent to a hospital. When we sent flowers to him, I wrote on the card to be enclosed the names of the executives in their respective order and the main office. The criticism of my co-workers is that I should have listed about 30 on the card.

Secretary.

I believe your co-workers have a sound basis for their criticism. I judge (am I right?) that they objected to your listing the names of the individual executives and grouping your co-workers under the too-general classification of "main office". The name of every worker in the main office who contributed to the buying of the flowers, should have been listed individually, as the names of the executives were listed. Their contributions, no matter what the proportion, were as generously intended as the contributions of the executives, and they should have received the same individual recognition.

It is because of this and similar questions concerning procedure about the sending of an office gift that I think it is so sensible for every contributor to write his or her name on the card or note to be enclosed with the gift. This not only properly gives credit where credit is due, but lends to the gift a vastly more personal and well-wishing meaning.

Party for a Re-enlisting Soldier

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a friend who has been home for the past few months and is now going back into the service. I would like to give a going-away party for him, inviting seven or eight couples.

1. Are the hours from 7.30 to 11 o'clock proper for such a party? If not, what could the hours be?

2. Is it correct to have the couples arrive at least a half hour before the guest of honor?

3. What sort of amusements, perhaps games, could be planned for?

V. M. B.

1. Yes, these hours are excellent for an evening party.

2. Yes. . .if it's a surprise party.

3. Have you room for dancing, with radio or phonograph music? Would some of your guests like to play bridge or backgammon? And how about some group-singing of old songs and new. This generally makes a hit, and you might buy, as souvenirs of your party, pamphlets (for about ten cents each) containing the words of the old songs. Or have some group games, such as Twenty Questions, now again sweeping the country in great popularity; you might choose the classifications that you know would be of particular interest to your guest of honor, and then he might, as you would like to have him, win the first prize!

For the Double-Ring Ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be maid of honor at a double-ring ceremony. Some people say that it is the maid of honor who holds the bridegroom's ring, and some people tell me it is the best man. Which is it?

M. J.

It may be either it is for the bride-to-be to decide. The best man may take charge of both rings, or, as is more usual, when the best man hands the bride's ring to the bridegroom, the maid of honor hands the bridegroom's ring to the bride.

Double breasted woollen coat

By VERA WINSTON

THE TOPPER stays on top of the sartorial dress parade. The sort of little coat that can be worn with almost anything, suits, dresses, slacks or pedal pushers is too good a coat to discard. Here is a new version with which to greet spring. The fabric is something different—white woollen striped in navy. The stripes are used in divers ways for interesting effects. The outfit has a double breasted closing below the high-placed revers and the pockets worked in one with the stripes. It is worn over a plain navy woollen street dress.

The Silk Suit Revived

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS VERY pretty silk suit for special afternoons such as wedding receptions and giddy luncheon parties, teas and charity dos, is made of American silk shantung. It is a bright tobacco brown in shade, and is untouched by any other color or substance. The buttons tight to the throat are self fabric; the loops which extend the shoulders above the full gored court sleeves, are also of the shantung.

If there are still brides who prefer to marry in "going away" gear, this model, including the big natural straw hat with brown bows, is a good choice. Green orchids would add the bride costume touch.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Don't Skimp on Beauty Sleep

One is kept awake by tension, over-fatigue or mental activity

Because of the tension of the last four years, insomnia is on the increase. More people are taking sleeping medicines. Many women who have been worried sick about their men, now have no cause for anxiety, yet find they can't get back to normal sleeping. It's no fun lying awake at night.

The solution is found in relaxation, not just relaxation of the body, but of the mind, as well. If thoughts are whizzing around inside your head at a mile a minute, you can't expect the sandman to come. If you are thinking about the size of next month's grocery bill, or wondering if those dull relatives are going to descend upon you and bore you to death, then don't do it. Worrisome thoughts get a toehold at night. During the day you are probably too busy to entertain futile speculations.

If you can't sleep, you can rest. You can't rest if you twist and turn, thump the pillow. Make yourself feel heavy. Fancy yourself a log in a dark forest, or visualize yourself driving slowly along country roads, passing little villages, crossing streams. Sometimes these visions will develop into dreams, and you will sleep.

One is kept awake by tension, over-fatigue or mental activity. Use intelligence to master depressing emotions. Tell yourself; "Here I am, fretting and worrying, filling my mind with complaints and fears. Tomorrow everything may appear different. It has happened many times before. I shall be tranquil."

There is such a thing as self-hypnotism. Take long, deep breaths, inhaling and exhaling slowly. With each inhalation and each exhalation think the word "Sleep." Breathe slowly, think slowly. Don't try to inflate your lungs too much; that may keep you awake. This system has worked for others, it may work for you.

Have a quiet, lazy evening. Read a book that is not exciting, or play solitare. In that way you will get rid of some of your fatigue bugs, will feel drowsy when you pile in.

Sleep is necessary for good-looks, for preserving the appearance of youth, for maintaining health and good spirits. It is a shame and a pity to lose out on it.

Bed clothing should be light, just warm enough for comfort. There should be a current of air in the room, but it should not pass directly over the bed.

A warm bath acts favorably on some individuals, may make others even more wakeful. A bowl of crackers and milk at bedtime is recommended.

Mohawk Reserve

Mohawk Reserve — The funeral of Ernest Green, age 42, who passed away in Belleville General Hospital, took place at All Saints' Church Wednesday afternoon. For the past few years he had been in poor health, and was removed to hospital three weeks prior to his death. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Green, and is survived by two brothers, Malcolm and Linton, of Hamilton, Ont., and one brother in the United States. The bearers were Messrs. Herkimer, Enos, Kenneth and Amzy Brant, Harold Smart and Thomas Powless.

While visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Powless, Mrs. Rachael Babcock, of Belleville, succumbed to an attack of coronary thrombosis Monday evening. Mrs. Babcock was the daughter of Mr. Joseph Sero, son of the late Mrs. Sero, and is survived by her husband, Howard Babcock, four young sons, the youngest being four months old. Also by two sisters, Mrs. M. Stalkovitch, Belleville, and Mrs. T. Powless of the Reserve, and two brothers, John and Joseph Sero, of Belleville. The funeral was held at Christ Church Thursday afternoon, and was well attended.

Fashion Flashes

NOVEL NOTES mark many of the new handbags. A wishbone-shaped frame in mock shell adds interest to a large, squat pouch of black or navy calfskin, the frame conforming to the bag shape.

Coming back strong is the long evening coat of wool. Off-white woollen makes a smartly tailored long evening coat with rounded shoulders and full sleeves caught into wristlets. Gilt filagree button closing starts below the little club collar.

There's glitter in some of the new Spring frocks, but it is a more subdued glitter. An after-five frock, with flared skirt of black crepe, has a cap-sleeved top of pink chiffon with an all-over leaf design in pale pink beads outlined with tiny rhinestones.

Good use is being made of scarves to dress up simple frocks. Bright plaid taffeta scarves are used to make belts and bustle bows, while sheer pastel prints make beautiful skirt aprons or are tucked in at the neckline, held at the belt, and fall to the skirt hem to practically cover the front of a dark frock.

Just look at the neckwear for Spring and see how pretty it is. There are such ideas as a jabot and large matching cuffs fashioned entirely of white carnations in silk-like fabric.

Hands out for the new, colorful Spring gloves. Royal blue suede makes a handsome long glove that has a band of chartreuse suede starting at the tip of the forefinger and ending in a rosette at the edge of the cuff. Wrist is softly gathered.

Versatile White Fur Coats

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ONE OF TODAY'S MOST flattering, and strictly useful styles as well, is the white fur coat. If it's good, that is. Bunny rabbit masquerading as ermine, and even precious ermine itself, are strictly nocturnal creatures.

But the various types of broadtail—real, like this one, or in pin money shorn lamb guise like many another, is smart all day and all night, too. It sets off a tan (it is largely a resort item) and it looks opulently "I'm on a holiday."

This model of good white broadtail has its bulky lines belted down smartly, and its big sleeves are loosely comfortable. Lozenge buttons, full length generosity.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He Wants to Put His Money Into a Home—She Wants a Fur Coat

When a man who has had to work hard for every nickle he's ever owned, marries a girl who doesn't know the value of money, there's bound to be trouble sooner or later.

Here's a typical situation:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a young man who had loads of ambition but had to come up a rocky trail. My mother died when I was nine, and I really never had much of a home, as my father was quite a drunkard. I quit school in my last year, which was around the time of the 1929 crash.

"Things were tough then. I stepped from pencil and ink to pick and shovel, bad air, smoke and exposure. I was a coal miner. Had two major accidents on my job, besides other narrow escapes. Got discouraged many times, but never gave up the ship.

"Well, years went by, and one day, just before Pearl Harbor, my wife and I met, and we were married a few months later, a church wedding with all the trimmings. It was well attended by her side. No one came from my side. I put every nickle in the pot, even borrowed money to buy her corsage.

"We were happy during the time we went together and right after we were married. Her folks pitched in to get us started. Now something has happened, and we seem to fight very often. From the beginning, I dug in and worked and saved for our future home and furniture and rainy days. I started a bank account and bought bonds. Well, it seems that dollars are causing the trouble. She thinks I am tight. I'm looking ahead to the day when work may slow up. She wants a fur coat. I think it's better to warm your feet in your own kitchen and get things a person really needs—a roof over your head, your own place to live.

"I really haven't much against my wife, although we do fight to the point of parting and she has mentioned separating. But it seems to me she is selfish and unreasonable. We haven't the same tastes. She plays the music and I have to dance. I think there is plenty of in-law interference.

"I am really upset. It is on my mind all the time, and interferes with my work. I go out once in awhile, alone, to kind of forget, but it doesn't help much. I don't ever drink or smoke. Should I go on this way, or separate from my wife, go away and start life all over again?

"Heartbroken"

If your wife knew what many a wife has had to learn the hard way—what it means to be married to a spendthrift who never has a thought for tomorrow—she'd give thanks every day of her life for a husband who wants to give her security. You certainly deserve great credit for all you have done against such handicaps.

On the other hand, do you think it could be possible that your early hard experiences might have made you a little over-apprehensive of the future, afraid to put a little money into pleasures now and then? Do you take your wife out for a really good time, say, at least once a week; bring her little surprises occasionally, remember her birthdays and your wedding anniversaries with appropriate gifts. If you've slipped up on any of these, you might turn over a new leaf and see if it may not help straighten things out.

Try, too, to make your wife see that there should be no "in-law interference" between a man and his wife. Don't fight with her about it, if you can help it; talk it over some time when you are both in a mood to feel kindly toward each other. You still must have some times like that. Let her know you love her enough to want to make a go of your marriage, but remind her that it takes two to make a happy marriage.

Try out these suggestions for awhile before deciding to separate from your wife and let me know what happens. You may be able to work this thing out if you use your head on it as intelligently as you have used it in your financial affairs.

Eastern Ontario Baseball Moguls Here on Sunday To Discuss Senior League

Revival of Former C.O.B.L. Expected to Result From Conclave; Many Centres to be Represented

Ground work for the revival of the former Central Ontario Baseball League will be laid here on Sunday at the Hume Arena when representatives of various centres in this part of the province will go into serious conclave anent the formation and possible organization of a new senior baseball loop.

The meeting has been called by a member of the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association and thus far representatives of Kingston, Oshawa, Peterborough, Port Hope, Smith's Falls and possibly Cobourg have signified their intentions of attending.

It is hoped that Belleville will send representation and thus round out a loop that should attract the attention of baseball fans over a far-flung area.

The idea, suggested by the O. H. A. executive member a few weeks ago met with instant acclaim from most of the centres contacted. Senior baseball "died" here some years ago and other classes of the once popular summer sport in this part of the province gradually approached a stage of dormancy that was on the borderline of elimination.

Like Old Times

It might be a case of history repeating itself. Shortly after the First Great War when baseball luminaries returned from the Great Adventure and once more swept into diamond action, the game received a spirited boost and the result was the old C. O. B. L. which as old timers in these parts know produced some of the finest players seen in these parts. The league produced teams of championship calibre and a number of provincial titles adorned the clubrooms of teams of the league.

With its return to popularity and prospects pointing to a banner year, baseball talk is resounding all over the country. In Western Ontario, long famed as the breeding place of crack teams, the idea has taken firm root. Leagues are springing up everywhere. A semi-pro loop has been organized east of Kingston. So, too, the germ has taken hold in this section of the province. Last year saw a spirited revival of the game hereabouts, and this year should and will see, if all indications are true, one of the greatest revivals of the sport in history.

It is to be hoped, the O. B. A. executive pointed out that this city will be represented by a strong attendance on Sunday. Picton and Trenton air station are showing more than passing interest and no doubt will send their representatives.

ST. PAUL FAILS TO SHAKE OMAHA

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Paul failed Tuesday in a spirited attempt to shake Omaha's hold on second place in the United States Hockey League and draw the Knights into a tie for that play-off spot. Omaha counted a 4-3 victory. Meanwhile Tulso Oilers defeated the last place Minneapolis Millers 5-1. Tulsa holds down fourth position in the league.

The Saints trailed 3-1 as they went into the final period, pulled up into a tie and then bowed before Sam Kennedy's second marker of the evening. Omaha's Don Morrison scored the lone counter of the first period and Hal Brown opened the scoring for the Saints in the second frame.

Tulsa led the hapless Millers all the way, opening the scoring with two goals in 12 stands of the first frame with Scotty Mair and Bud Hellyer taking the honors. Nakina Smith scored the lone Miller tally.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

"That in my opinion is one heluva good move," quoth an old time baseball fan when he was informed today that there is definite trend to revitaminize senior baseball, or any kind of baseball for that matter, in this district the coming season.

• • •

"Furthermore," he added, "its about time something along senior baseball lines was started in this here district. We had it before and we can stand it again. I remember in the years ago, say 1920 and then on that we right here in Belleville had one of the best teams in the circuit. It was the days when the stands in the Fair Grounds were packed when Peterborough, Oshawa, Kingston and other teams played here."

• • •

""Sure," he went on wid a bit of the ould Oirish in his eyes, "there's bound to be some sort of a league here due to the sudden interest taken in the best of summer pastimes, but that's no reason why the domned city and its inhabitants can't take an interest in the same game and jine wid the rest of the boys in making sumpin' worth while."

• • •

"And sure, bejabbers, I hear" sez he, "that the laddies are thinkin' of gettin' together and formin' a sort of reincarnation of the good ould days when Penny Mills, Al. Heckman, Yammie Jamieson, Duke Dainty and the rist of the ould lads were in their prime makin' history for this district."

• • •

The old boy was right. On Sunday at the Hume Arena will be a gathering of the baseball clans from Smith's Falls to Port Hope. Included will be representatives from Kingston, Oshawa, Peterboro, Picton, and, it is hoped, Belleville.

• • •

The sound of the words — "senior baseball" may have a bit of a sinister ring to those who feel that their communities, have not the essential baseball material. That is not the idea, my dear young Christian friends.

• • •

Far from it. This corner has it, from an unimpeachable source, that the proposed senior loop, taking a carbon copy from its predecessors in 1919-20, is starting more or less from figurative scratch, with the fond hope, and rightly so, that it, like the proverbial turkey will improve with age.

• • •

Senior baseball in this district has been "deader" than last year's love affair, for some years. In fact the popular summer pastime suffered a relapse, or better a sort of brush - off, standing aside for the speedier, less scientific game of softball, since the cream of the crop went overseas. Okay, chums, softball, like a hilarious chorine is alright in its alloted slot. It's a swell game — especially when the gals play it — but last year, strange to say, saw a distinct trend of the faithful to baseball, weak as its offerings here appeared to be.

• • •

Let those who did such a swell job in bringing back the grand old game, take offense at the last remark, we might add that columnar orchids go to those fellows who did yeoman service in injecting Vitamin B. (baseball, that is) into the sports picture hereabouts last year. They did a swell job and Joe Doakes and the baseball misuss gave tribute of aprpeciation by turning out in large numbers.

• • •

Be that as it may; Cognizant of the fact that all sports are due for a tremendous boom in 1946, the buckaroos of baseball in these parts are taking Old Father Time by the short forelock and will endeavor to produce some real competition on the diamonds of the district this year.

• • •

The meeting called for Sunday as was said before will include representatives from Kingston, Peterborough, Oshawa, Port Hope, Picton, Smiths Falls, Batawa and possibly Trenton Air Force and Cobourg. The conclave which will be held under the careful scrutiny of a member of the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association, will discuss all angles and posisbilities. Junior, Intermediate and senior groups are on the egenda.

• • •

Primarily, the meeting was called for to discuss the possibilities of a senior loop or a modern edition of the former C.O.B.L. Interest in the proposed loop is such that Kingston and Oshawa, are desirous of entering two squads each—and a piece. That will be decided upon at the meeting.

It has been suggested to this pillar that the suggested senior loop is merely a spot of history repeating itself. If what we are told is right, the former COBL was organized after the last war concluded, with a plenitude — (Please, Mr. Compositor, spell that word as written) of war veterans taking up the baseball cudgels after being demobilized. (Rehabilitation was an undiscovered word in those days).

• • •

The accent is definitely on youth. True there is a sprinkling of the oldtimers who will likely spit in an antiquated glove and get out there and do their stuff after a new overhaul and lubrication job. The greater majority of the centres involved boast fairly good junior baseball squads, and the general idea is to have these teams enter a proposed senior loop with an eye to things to come.

• • •

True, the teams will be bolstered by aging veterans of the diamond, but what is wrong with that? The grey-thatched Joes will form a nucleus for younger guys who are rarin' to go, and what more is wanted. It will, at least, be a start in the right direction.

• • •

Belleville, then, should form part of the line. Last year we had a smart junior squad, that with one season's speaking acquaintance with one another went through to the Ontario finals, bowing to the more experienced Dresden team after winning one and losing the second.

• • •

There are sufficient baseball veterans in the city and district to bolster last year's junior squad. Nicky Sero, one of the best shortstops in the district, Harold Reid, pardon, constable Reid, Speedy St. Louis, and others could get out there and with their years of experience, bolster the younger fry. Let us hope that this city will send representatives to that meeting at the Hume Arena on Sunday. Lest youse guys forget, the conclave is called for two in the afternoon.

BADMINTON ONE OF MOST POPULAR CANADIAN SPORTS

Wartime Shortages of Racquets and "Birds" Put Crimp in Game

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto March 13 (CP) — Introduced to Canada in the 1890s, about 30 years after Imperial Army officers brought back the original game of poona from India to the British Isles, badminton has grown to be one of the most popular of Canadian sports.

Before the Second Great War clubs flourished in every town across the Dominion and inter-club rivalry was keen. Wartime shortages of racquets and shuttlecocks—or "birds" as they are more popularly known—put a crimp in badminton activities. But revival of world professional play has signalled the return of the popular indoor pastime.

The fact that the world professional title belonged to a Canadian—Jack Purcell—for 13 years and that two Canadians—Doug Grant and Stan Cutts—now are battling for the throne recently abdicated is indication that Canada is one of the leading countries in the sport-world province of badminton.

Now the war is over, plans for inter-club and interprovincial tournaments are well under way and one major intercollegiate tournament already has been played in eastern Canada. Plans for a badminton "Davis Cup" too are being revived.

Throughout the war years badminton did not come to a full stop; some of the larger clubs managed to carry on though smaller organizations closed their doors almost overnight. Thousands of players—men and women—joined the armed forces and official tournaments were cancelled when the goose-quill birds became scarce.

Tonight world professional honors will be sought by Canada's two leading exponents of the game. Both—Cutts of Toronto and Grant of Montreal—are strong offensive players and the British-born Cutts is one of the ablest defensive players in the world.

Grant, son of Col. C. R. Grant of Kingston, one of the top badminton and tennis stars of his day, was three-time holder of Dominion amateur honors and collected more titles in four years of non-pro play than most players do in a lifetime.

Cutts a smart showman on the hardwood court, whipped Grant 15-5, 15-6 in the first of a best-of-three series last month at Montreal. He is one of the few pros in any sport who never played as an amateur. He turned to pro ranks at 16 after expert coaching from his sport-famous uncle Charlie Cutts.

Toronto Bowlers To Play in ABC

Toronto, March 13 (CP)—Forty teams of Canadian 10-pin bowlers will take part in the American Bowling Congress tournament at Buffalo it was announced today, competing on Canadian night, Thursday, March 28. Six of the Canadian teams are in the open division and 34 in the booster division, for teams with an average of 850 pins or less a game.

Toronto is contributing 17 of the Canadian entries, Hamilton 12, Humberstone in the Niagara Peninsula seven, Winnipeg two, London one and Thorold one.

On Friday, March 29, the Canadian teams will split up into doubles and singles units and compete in the open singles and doubles world championship.

Canadian night at the American Bowling Congress in Buffalo was started after the last tournament in Columbus O., when Secretary Bert Reeves of the Toronto ten-pin association reserved the alleys for the 1943 tournament in Buffalo. However, it was postponed because of the war.

The American Bowling Congress opens March 14 and continues for about six weeks.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 13 (AP) — The way young Sidney Schwartz walloped Gardnar Mulloy and Birmingham's John Ager trimmed Elwood Cooke in the indoor tennis championships gives a hint of hard times to come for some of the older racquet swingers... Indoor tennis is hardly a true test and Schwartz is more experienced than Mulloy at the game, but it shows the kids are beginning to grow up... Word from the west coast is that Bobby and Tom Falkenburg are playing tennis like real big boys now and that Budge Patty, twice junior champion, is back from Italy looking like a young giant... England, too, has some grown-ups for this year's Davis Cup competition... A likely doubles team is Peter Hare, kid brother of former Davis Cupper Charley Hare, and Derek Hardwick, younger brother of Mrs. Hare... They won the British junior doubles in 1939 and now are 24 years old and ready to go for big things.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 13 — (CP)— It's a good bet that amateur hockey in Canada will be subjected to a face-lifting operation to rearrange a few features before next season rolls around.

Not that officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association can say exactly what changes will be made — that won't be decided until the annual meeting in Vancouver this May.

But indications are that with ice hockey expanding into the United Kingdom on a broad scale and the game getting back to normal here and in the United States, a few alterations in the present setup are bound to be made.

For one thing, the Scottish League is going to want Canadian hockey talent, and it is more than likely the C.A.H.A. will make some agreements regarding payment for players making the transfer.

With that possibility in mind, it is speculated that the National Hockey League might be asked to pay a flat sum for players moving from the amateur circuits into the big time.

Within the C.A.H.A. in the past there has been a tendency to lure the better stars to the richer clubs with such offers as good jobs or university education and many a coach has seen his brighter lights slipping away after an outstanding season.

Here, a move might be made to the inter-branch transfers of players in Canada with a price, say $200.

The meetings of the C. A. H. A. branch representatives and executives in Winnipeg last weekend dealt with two plans for amateur hockey, one proposed by Dr. Geo. Hardy of Edmonton, International Ice Hockey Association president, and the other by George Dudley of Midland, merged into one brief, the Vancouver meeting will be left to decide what will be accepted.

Meanwhile, the details are kept to C.A.H.A. members while provincial bodies make up their minds about the proposals.

Briefs From Training Camps

Miami, March 13 — (AP)—At the request of United States government officials, Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Athletics have arranged an exhibition game to be played Friday at Savannah, Ga., where the World Bank Conference is in session. The Athletics cancelled an exhibition game with New York Giants and will travel 435 miles to give their command performance. The Dodgers will travel 250 miles.

Pasadena, Calif. — Manager Jimmy Dykes of Chicago White Sox underwent x-ray examination of an ailing stomach Tuesday. Pending study on the tests, it was uncertain whether Dykes would be able to leave with his club next week when the Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates begin an eastward exhibition tour. Dykes was operated on five years ago because of similar ailment.

Havana — Roger Wolff, 20-game winner of Washington Senators, has turned down an offer of $115,000 for three years of play in the Mexican League. Wolff said he has decided to stay in the American League after weighing the Mexican circuit's proposition for several days. Outfielder Stan Spence, who received an offer from the Mexican League, also said he isn't interested.

Miami Beach, Fla. — The Mad Russian may at last have landed himself a permanent major league job. General manager Herb Pennock of Philadelphia Phillies reporting pleasure with the way Lou Novikoff has performed in 5 exhibition games, offered a contract to the husky Californian and Lou promptly signed. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Sarasota, Fla., March 13—(AP) — Manager Joe Cronin, puffed up a bit by his Boston Red Sockers' 1-0 victory over St. Louis Cardinals, popped at least one seam when Eddie Dyer, the Card's new pilot, advised him that the Yankees are considerably ahead of his charges at this early stage.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 13 —(AP) — After using 19 players, including all of his standouts, and getting only five hits out of them against Philadelphia Phillies, manager Billy Southworth vows his Boston Braves will get double batting drills daily until they break camp.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13 — (AP) — With Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller setting a hot pace, New York Yankees are looking like the Bronx Bombers of old. Jolting Joe has a .404 batting average, seven home runs and has driven in 22 runs. Keller is clouting at a .339 clip.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 934
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You can believe what you see in bridge. What you don't see, you must assume. But if you know what to look for and where, you can see much of what is not in plain sight.

Among leads an honor card is the most desirable. If it is an ace, it is a special signal. If it is any other honor, it is from a sequence of honors.

So, if the leader starts out with a small card, he denies having a sequence. Not only in the suit that was led. But in any suit.

Since that is so, the lead of a small card shows something other than honor cards. It could show that it has some cards above it. Or some cards below it. Or no cards with it.

Partner must first assume that a small card lead shows some cards above it. But rule does not leave the number of higher cards to chance. It tells exactly how many cards there are above it.

When a led small card has any cards above it, rule is that there should be exactly three such. Not more than three. Not less than three. Exactly three higher than the led card.

Put that into the form of a rule and see how it sounds. It would say: If there are any cards above it, the lead of a low card is the fourth best in that suit. Fourth best means fourth from the highest.

The hearts in a deal are in the hands as shown here:

NORTH
♥K 10
WEST EAST
♥Q 9 5 2 ♥A J 8 6 4
SOUTH
♥7 3

You are sitting east. When partner leads the deuce, you must assume he has three hearts higher than the deuce. This tells you that partner has exactly four hearts.

Does this sort of advice do you any good? You have five cards in this suit. Dummy shows up with two. There are only 13 hearts in a pack. So, you have found out that south has only two.

Perspective of a kind may often slip your mind.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 13 (AP)—One of the hottest feuds in Hollywood history is at an end. Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are buddies again and hard at the work of rebuilding their own careers.

Their squabble started last summer and was fomented by some bad advice. he boys were speaking to each other only on stage. There was talk of a permanent split and then they got back together again. One of the reasons was a sagging box office.

"Our first 10 pictures were very successful" said Lou. "Then the box office returns started dropping. So we got together with the studio and decided to make a switch."

The switch to the new Abbott and Costello is signalled by a kick in the pants which Lou gave Bud. This was nothing personal, but a part of the script of "The Ghost Steps Out." It means an end to the "who's on first?" routines. From now on they are playing not comic and straight man, but real characters.

Their reconciliation is not strictly for the public gaze either. They call at each other's homes too. Apparently Bud and Lou decided they were pretty nice guys after all.

"Forever Amber" started yesterday, but tests are still going on. Even players who don't have lines are being tested... British Peggy Cummins was allowed no manicures in preparation for that picture. They didn't have them in restoration days.. Red Skelton and wife celebrated their first anniversary by moving into their own apartment house.

Most screen meals are ordered by the prop man. But for an icebox raid by Paulette Goddard in "Suddenly It's Spring," the star was allowed to order her own meal. Her snack: Baloney, Swiss cheese, bread, butter, beer.

CARDS LOOK LIKE PENNANT WINNERS DESPITE DEFEATS

Ran Into a Yankee Team Almost Ready to Open the Season

By GAYLE TALBOT

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13. (AP)—Though St. Louis Cardinals dropped their first three exhibition games to the Yankees over the past weekend, Manager Eddie Dyer's young men still made a vivid impression on spectators.

Nothing the Cards did lessened the impression that they would represent the National League in the October series play-off.

What they ran into was a Yankee team that, with one or two individual exceptions, could open the American League campaign tomorrow. Only George Stirnweiss needs a little conditioning before he settles down at third base.

Stirnweiss' holdout gave the returned veteran, Joe Gordon, the time he needed to round into something closely approximating his old-time form and to clinch the second-base job.

The terrific task of selectivity confronting the Card pilot was emphasized at the outset of the series when a long, tall right-hander named Fred Martin held the Yanks to a lone single for three innings. Yet Martin, who played for Dyer at Houston before the war and set a Texas League record of 13 consecutive wins, is an "unknown" compared to a dozen other members of the Cards' staff.

One of Dyer's problems, at least, appeared to have been solved quickly. Ray Sanders will be back on first base.

The balance of the Cards lineup is set, with Emil Verban at second, Marion at short and Kurowski on third rounding out a crack infield. Kurowski still is holding out. Enos Slaughter, Terry Moore and Stan Musial comprise easily the finest outfield in the league. Harry Walker gives the club a fourth capable gardener.

DAN COWLEY SCORES THREE FOR WELLINGTON

Picton Vets Defeated in First Game for County Championship

Picton, March 13.—Wellington came from behind to defeat Picton Vets in the first game of the finals of Prince Edward County Hockey League, 7-5; on Monday night. The series is three of five games. Cowley starred for the winners with three goals, while Lionel Hicks got an equal number for Picton.

The Vets led 3-1 at the end of the first period, when Hicks scored twice, on passes from Seeley and Kearney. Desrocher got the third. Cowley scored on McNeill's pass.

In the second period, Cowley lost no time in scoring twice, both on McNeill's passes, while Harris put Wellington in the lead on a pass from Harris.

McNeill and H. MacDonald scored in the third for Wellington. Hicks, unassisted, and Seeley from Dunning put Vets back in the running. G. Channel scored the final counter for Wellington.

Boston Bruins Strengthen Bid For Second Place in National Loop by Downing Rangers

Faint Possibility of Tieing for Lead if Canadiens Lose Next Three Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston Bruins, who still hold a faint possibility of tieing the National Hockey League - leading Montreal Canadiens before the season ends Sunday — that is provided Montreal drops their remaining three contests — last night edged out New York Rangers 3-2 to strengthen their bid for the second place in the loop.

The Bruins now are four points behind Montreal, and three ahead of the third - place Chicago Black Hawks. With two games left, Boston could equal Montreal's present standing.

Meanwhile, the Hawks are bidding to oust Boston and with four games left on the schedule, could even creep ahead of Canadiens, again provided the Canucks lose their next three games.

This of course is more in the realm of probability than elsewhere. In the remaining four nights of play, it probably will resolve itself into a battle for 2nd place between Boston and Chicago. The final chapter of this struggle will be written Sunday night when the Bruins take on Black Hawks at Boston.

After capturing last night's contest 3-2 at New York, the Bruins will take on Rangers in a return match tonight. Completing tonight's N.H.L. schedule, Detroit Red Wings play Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit.

Roy Conacher banged in the winning goal for Boston in the last period, when he captured the puck during a New York attack around the Bruins' goal, and raced the length of the ice to score unassisted.

Boston had started the scoring in the first frame on another unassisted goal. Bobby Bauer got credit for that effort, but the lead was soon wiped out by Phil Watson who scored, assisted by Edgar Laprade and Billy Moe. Sal Gardiner gave New York the lead in the second, when he converted Trudell's pass, and the Rangers held off the Bruins for 10 minutes. Herb Cain, assisted by Pat Egan, scored the tieing goal which paved the way for Conacher's winning tally in the third.

Top Ranking Tennis Stars Fall by Wayside

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, March 13. (AP)—Any ideas that the United States will have to depend entirely on the stars of pre-war years to win back the Davis Cup already have been shattered at the National Indoor Tennis championships, first major event in the series leading up to international competition.

A singles play in the indoor meet moved into the quarter-finals today, two of the six top-ranking United States veterans had fallen by the wayside—victims of unseeded youngsters making their first splash in the big time.

Latest to bow to the exuberance of youth is Elwood Cooke, No. 4 man in the current national rankings, who was bounced rudely out of the third round yesterday by John Ager, former Duke University net star, in a straight set match, 6-1, 7-5.

Sidney Wood, former Wimbledon champion and member of the 1934 Davis Cup team was carried to three sets by Ed Jenkins in the second round. Wood again dropped the first set yesterday before disposing of Ray Antignat of Forest Hills, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

HORNSBY WARNS AGAINST JUMPING TO MEXICAN LOOP

Claims Contract Was Not Paid in Time and That He Was Paid in Pesos

By JIMMY JORDAN

Chicago, March 13 (AP) —Rogers Hornsby says any baseball player who jumps a contract in United States organized baseball to play in the Mexican league is courting trouble, financial and otherwise.

The "Rajah" should know. He's been down there. He didn't stay long, but he said he stayed long enough to find out.

"Until that league gets a contract with the National Association (which includes all professional clubs in the United States and those in Canada affiliated with leagues that also operate in the United States, a player is foolish to go down there," Hornsby said in an interview here today.

"They didn't pay off my contract on time. They paid in Mexican dollars, pesos, which have much less value than our dollars, and the player had no protection."

Hornsby, who managed the Vera Cruz team for Jorge Pasquel for 90 days in 1944, said he left when "I kept getting 'manana' (tomorrow) for an answer when I tried to collect the rest of my contract."

"Any player who jumps from organized ball while under contract in this country is barred from organized ball for five years and that's something to think about, too.

"The only way I'd suggest that a player from here accept one of those fat contracts Pasquel is offering would be if he figured he was just about washed up as an American player, or if he was a minor league player who couldn't make the major league grade. Then it should be only on a long-term basis."

Major leaguers who have joined the Mexican teams include Nap Reyes and Danny Gardella of New York Giants; Rene Monteagudo, Philadelphia Phillies; Tomas De La Cruz, Cincinnati; Alex Carrasquel, Chicago White Sox, and Luis Olmo, Brooklyn.

Big Jeff Heath Expected to Add Additional Punch

(By The Canadian Press)

Big Jeff Heath, the slugger from Fort William, Ont., is expected to add the additional punch that will make Washington Senators a dangerous threat in the coming American League race, according to the word yesterday from their Havana training headquarters. Jeff was dissatisfied in Cleveland, yet he turned in a valuable hitting performance, which was something the Senators could have used last fall when they were breathing on the neck of Detroit Tigers.

According to manager Ossie Bluege, Washington may go to the post next month with only one right-handed batter in the starting line-up, namely second-baseman Jerry Priddy.

The five-year-old Distel, champion hurdler of Ireland, yesterday added to its laurels in England by copping the £1,000 champion hurdle at Cheltenham, Gloucester. The winner, owned by Miss Dorothy Paget, finished four lengths in front of the hitherto unbeaten Carnival.

Coach of the team three seasons before the war, Jimmy Conzelman is back at the helm with Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League. For the past three years he had been identified with St. Louis Browns in baseball. Conzelman promises to put some fight into the Chicago football picture in which his rivals will be Chicago Bears of the N.F.L. and the new team to be fielded by the all-American conference.

The six-year-old Bernborough, winner of the recent Newmarket Handicap, is called the best Australian horse by trainer Frank McGrath of Melbourne, who says he could beat Ajax, Phar Lap and Amounis.

Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday announced the return to the fold of two holdouts, outfielder Pete Reiser and pitcher Ralph Branca. The National League batting champion of 1941, Reiser has been released from the army. Branca won five games and lost six with Dodgers last year.

The five-time British Open golf champion, J. H. Taylor yesterday announced his retirement as pro of the Royal Mid-Surrey County Club, Richmond, which he had occupied for 47 years.

PEP LEADLEY ILL IN HAMILTON

Toronto, March 13 — (CP) — Frank (Pep) Leadley, reported ill in a Hamilton, Ont., hospital last night from a heart attack, is one of the all-time greats of the Canadian gridiron as a kicking half whose forte was drop - kicking — long a forgotten art.

Leadley was the star of the famous Queen's University team which swept to a succession of intercollegiate senior titles and captured the Grey Cup classic 2 years in succession, 1922-1923. Before and after playing for the tricolor, Leadley was a tower of strength on the backfield of Hamilton Tigers in the Big Four.

Teaming up with the equally-famous Red Batstone in 1922, Leadley supplied the finishing touch which enabled the Presbyterians to defeat Argonauts 12-11 in the Eastern semi-final at Toronto although the Scullers were led by the great Lionel Conacher.

Leadley was credited with being able to "drop" the ball between the goal posts from even back to the half - way stripe, 55 yards from the goal line.

"DINA CASHMAN"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 2

Here were restaurants and dance halls and saloons and movies and the high school and the hospital. It was heaven to escape from the odors and the crowding, the noises and the disorders of home into this atmosphere of excitement and light. The candy store and the drugstore gushed brilliance, and many of the other stores, though closed, were lighted, and sports clothes and hats and purses and underwear were displayed in garish splendor. The opaque windows of the big downstairs swimming pool of the "Y" glowed whitely.

Dina looked at the "Y" and thought of the nice woman who had asked her to join the "Y" club in San Jose, and her heart failed her as anxiety and fear came rushing back. She had always wanted to join such a club somewhere; she had thought that she would be a great favorite if fortune had permitted her to be one of the busy, chattering planning girls of that successful organization. She would be the girl at the head of the table, the girl who made announcements, at whose words everyone laughed in approval.

Oh, well, perhaps everything would even yet be all right, perhaps she would go on in a few weeks, a sadder and wiser but no longer a terrified girl. Oh, how grateful she would be! Grateful to what, grateful to whom, she did not know, but her heart was swelling even now, in the darkest hour of her apprehension, in anticipation of that rush of weakening, overwhelming relief.

"Hello, Dina!" said a friendly voice as a squarely built boy emerged from a shadowy doorway. Dina jumped, laughed, caught his outstretched hand, and smiled radiantly.

"Tom O'Connor! When'd you get home?"

"Tonight. I was coming down to your house and then I thought your father mightn't like it, so I waited here."

"Mama and Pop went to the 7 o'clock show. How long have you been waiting?" For she knew he had been waiting, whatever the time had been, and that now his heart was beating thunderously in his breast, that he couldn't answer her because he couldn't call his swimming senses to order.

"Two months," he managed to say with a laugh.

"Oh, two months, yes," she said, stabbed again. Tom had gone away to the mills in Westwood before—before—

But she wouldn't think about it! It wouldn't happen! Everything would be all right!

They walked along the sidewalk linked together by his arm under her elbow. Tom was a big fellow but not tall, and Dina stood almost shoulder to shoulder with him.

"Do you like Westwood, Tom?"

"Sure, I like it. It's kind of like—oh, I don't know, being in the army—being in a camp or something. But I like it. I'm going back Sunday night."

"Girls up there, Tom?"

"Sure. What d'you think it is—a seminary? But I missed home at first, and lordy, I missed Ma!"

"She missed you."

"She said so. She said she kept lighting candles to Saint Joseph."

"I should think she'd light 'em to Saint Thomas," Dina said idly, thinking of [illegible] name. She was pleased when he laughed.

"They d[illegible] Saint Thomas in church," he told her. "But they always have Saint Joseph. He was the guardian of our Lord."

"Oh?" But her thoughts were not of his words. "Isn't Tom O'Connor good," she mused. "Isn't a good fellow a safe sort of thing! Well, I guess Vere Holland must be good, too. Only he seems younger than Tom—sillier, not so responsible. Oh, I wish I liked Tom—I wish I'd fallen in love with Tom!"

They went into the lighted, hot drugstore that blended a thousand odors into a general one predominantly of vanilla, carbolic acid, and coffee. Melda Binn was there with Charlie Lomax; they said the others were at the seven o'clock show and were going over to Cotta's afterward.

Dina sat on a high revolving stool at the counter and slipped a sweet drink flavored with wintergreen and looked at herself between the bright manifold signs that framed the mirror.

"Want to go to the show, Dina?"

"Oh, no; it's nearly 9 o'clock already. Let's have sandwiches or dogs or something at Cotta's and talk."

"Suits me," Tom said. They were joined in their discussion by the clerk, Len Hargess, who said he would come over to Cotta's, too, after closing.

"We won't be that late. You stay open until nearly eleven, don't you?" Tom asked. Len said maybe Gus would take over about ten. Most folks went right home after the nine; they didn't want to be out much later than that.

"Find things changed, Tom?" Len asked, swabbing the counter.

"Only Dina. She's prettier than ever," Tom said.

Dina, who had been studying her own reflection in the mirror, pushing up a curled lock, touching a tiny powder pad to her nose, smiled absently. Her appearance was not her immediate concern!

Nothing of this familiar scene seemed the same tonight. An anxious trickle of thought underran it like a tiny stream of filth and shame, breaking it slowly but surely away from its regular course, undermining everything, changing everything. Tom's flattery and her own comeliness and the homage of her little crowd meant nothing now.

Only one fact, one fearful suspicion, was significant, and until that fact was denied or confirmed she would live in a world apart from everyone.

Cotta's was an old assembly hall that had been abandoned for years until the present proprietor had rented it. He had swept its wide bleak floors, hung some limp bunting in loops under its windows, pushed a mechanical piano into one of its empty corners, arranged a group of small tables in another.

Men paid 25 cents admittance; girls came in free. Beer and soft drinks were sold, and sandwiches wrapped in oiled paper might be had for a nickel apiece.

All sorts of persons came to Cotta's. It was cheap, for one thing. Men brought queer looking women there on Saturday and Sunday nights, and they sat laughing and murmuring over their drinks until the next morning's early hours.

Sometimes absorbed groups gathered about the battered old billiard table that occupied one corner of the great space; often men played nickel poker or rummy.

Even with this furnishing there was plenty of room left. That was the great attraction at Cotta's. In the center of the hall was a dance floor large enough to accommodate a hundred couples. No crowding here. Forlorn and bare as the place was, when the piano duly began its pounding and the young feet moved on the smooth old board floor it afforded only sheer delight to the dancers from Railway Flats.

In the corner where the tables stood and where drinks and sandwiches were served some small effort at decoration had been made. Eighteen wooden columns, about seven feet high, had been set up to form a sort of arbor, twined with cotton grapevines and threaded with colored electric bulbs.

These last shed a softened light upon Dina and her intimates as they took possession of a special table and prepared themselves for an hour or two of pleasure.

Young Tony came forward in shirt sleeves and vest to take their order. He wore no collar; his pleasant face was beaded with perspiration.

"Big dinner tonight, Tony?" Dina surmised.

"Beeg? My God they say seventy and Poppa feed one hundred twanta-seex," Tony answered without punctuation.

Dina always drank pop or coke or some other soft drink. Her mother had impressed her early in life with the danger of intoxicants, and her father had contributed an unconscious yet far more forceful lesson. Tonight, sipping her dark, sweet-flavored beverage, she reflected somewhat sadly upon the irony of their warnings. It had not been drink that had brought her to her present predicament. She had not been carried away. She had loved, deeply, truly, and she loved now.

"Dance again, Dina?"

"Sure, Dunk." This time it was the older Beatty boy. Dina went around and around the hall in a dream. In five minutes she was glad to be landed back again at her place at table.

Frances Tack and Betty Lomax were the other girls with her, and there were five boys—Tom O'Connor, Ward Binn, Dunk Beatty, Willie Mulligan, and Charles Lomax. Frances Tack worked with Dina in Meyer's grocery. Frances, at 24, had had an unhappy marriage, a divorce behind her, and now a two-year-old daughter to support.

Frances was hard, brief of speech, skeptical, disillusioned. She was hopelessly in love with Tom, who was indeed the most attractive the most ambitious, steady, and best-looking of the boys. Tom's mother would rather have seen him laid in his grave than married to Frances, but as Tom was not in the least interested in the grass widow the alternative was not likely to be mentioned.

Betty and Charlie Lomax were nice but, in the parlance of the group, dumb. Charlie could bore any girl almost into a coma in 5 minutes, and Betty was a simple little fool who told everybody everything she knew or imagined she knew, babbled that her mother had an old friend who gave her a squirrel coat because she got him a new customer and that Papa was so mad he made her send it back.

Everyone knew that flighty, artifically blonde little Mrs. Lomax was as free as she was mysterious in her friendships, her engagements, her affairs of the heart, but everyone blamed foolish little Betty for prattling so innocently about it.

Betty also was in love; she was crazy about Ward Binn. Ward liked a girl he had met in Stockton and wrote her every week. Tom O'Connor had always been in love with Dina Cashman; their affair and the pairing of their names were established facts.

But Dina knew tonight that all that was over. She had never loved Tom, had never thought seriously of marrying him. The possibility assumed a new charm as it faded forever.

Little Benny's Note Book

My sister Gladdis and Harvey came over to play bridge with pop and ma, and they were all talking about different subjects, and ma said to Gladdis, Did you see that picture of Mrs. H. Linzen Woolsey in tonight's paper?

I'll say I did, what did you think of that hat? Gladis said, and ma said, That's what I meant, did you ever see anything like it?

Not on a human head, Gladdis said. You've got to admire her courage, I'll say that much, she said, and ma said Oh well, I suppose position is everything in life, and once you attain to a certain altitude you can wear a stove pipe on your head and the public response will be 3 cheers.

I hear she designs her own hats, and now I'm reddy to believe it, Gladdis said. Well she's a brave woman, I will say that, she said, and pop said, Hats hats hats, it's an inexawstible subject with a certain sex that shall be nameless.

I get around quite a lot, and I've noticed that too, Harvey said, and ma said, Oh is that so? I suppose you 2 men were discussing something very significant and weighty. Please dont let us interrupt you, she said.

Oh, we wont, we'll go right on, pop said. As I was saying, Harvey, the best time to shave is just before you take your shower bath. You dont have to bother washing the lather off your face. The shower will do that for you in its stride, and the generel effect is darn luxurious, he said, and Harvey said, I cant agree with you. I find it much more sattisfactry to shower ferst and give my face and neck a good soeping and massage, and then I shave and my face feels like a baby's, he said.

Oh, you're just trying to be funny, ma said. You couldn't of been indulging in any such a silly conversation, she said, and I said, Sure they were, ma, I heard them.

Which I did, and ma and Gladdis claimed men were werse than women, and pop and Harvey claimed that was impossible, and they all started to play bridge.

Izvestia Assails Churchill's Fulton Speech

London, March 12 — (AP) — The Russian press today printed its second strong attack on Winston Churchill in two days.

The former British Prime Minister's speech at Fulton, Mo., last week calling for a virtual British-American military alliance was "marked by an ardor which hitherto no one has achieved since the death of Dr. Goebbels," asserted an article in Izvestia, the official organ of the Soviet government.

"In the future struggle which Churchill tries to fan with all his strength, he clearly reserves first place for America and not for England," said the article, quoted by Moscow radio.

"Consequently the ideal situation which he must imagine is as follows: The Soviet Union will without fail wrong England somewhere, and then the transatlantic brothers will boil up with indignation and rush to the rescue."

The article criticized "reactionary circles" in the United States for "inducing the government to take part in supporting intervention against the young Soviet Republic" and also criticized former president Herbert Hoover for allegedly telling Japan in 1931 "that if her expansion spread north of Manchuria the government of the United States would not be opposed to it."

In a broadcast last night, the Moscow radio said Mr. Churchill is a spokesman for reactionary forces which "want to create intrigue and provocation against the peace and security of the world."

The broadcast said elections scheduled for March 31 in Greece are being rushed under "foreign patronage" in order to stifle "a really free expression of the people's will." The commentator maintained that the Greek government was determined to hold the elections on the scheduled date "on instructions from London" despite the request of Leftist elements in Greece for a postponement.

'Sheeplike' Crowding Blamed

Toronto, March 12 — (CP) — Police today blamed "sheep like" crowding on streets by pedestrians waiting for street cars for an alarming increase of traffic accidents at intersections. Officials said that so far this year 12 persons have been killed and 562 injured in 1,040 accidents, compared with 10 killed and 391 injured in 674 accidents in the corresponding 1945 period.

Don't Want it to Disappear

Ross Clarkson of Montreal declared: "We believe that our business system, free markets, rewards for energy and initiative, the right to retain the fruits of our labor and ownership of our own homes, offer the greatest incentives and opportunities for progress.

"If we believe in this system then we don't want it to disappear by lack of defence or by default. We must accept the responsibility of leadership. Business men organized in boards and chambers represent responsible business at work attempting to find solutions to the day-to-day problems."

Mr. Clarkson said a satisfactory formula had not yet been worked out between the federal government and provincial governments on fiscal matters. "It is absolutely essential that an agreement be reached so that the planning and problems of reconversion from war and the progress of improved peace-time living, particularly for veterans, may be achieved.

"It is abundantly clear that sacrifices must be made by both sides and a compromise adopted."

This country or any other country, he added, "cannot go on indefinitely with deficit financing, that is, by pyramiding the national debt."

SHORTAGES

farmers in securing adequate houses for farm labor."

On finances, the brief said that in order to finance work of the Federation of Agriculture, particularly at county levels, "we respectfully request that the Municipal Act be further amended to enable municipalities to collect by levy up to one-half mill on the rural assessment; this money to be turned over to the country unit of the Federation as membership fees.

"Lack of Bargaining Power"

Of marketing of products, the brief said: "It has been amply shown that the farmer's chief handicap has been lack of bargaining power in a world that is organized on group lines. To some, the term 'collective bargaining' is offensive. But collective bargaining properly established and properly utilized is essential if agriculture is to be maintained in its true relationship to all other phases of modern society."

Raise Quality of Products

The federation also declared that "a determined effort must be made to raise the standard of Ontario farm products, and from now on any measure of financial assistance involved in these marketing projects should be associated with quality production so that Ontario produce will be of the high standard essential in developing wider markets."

The Ontario government was urged to introduce a plan for compulsory insurance on all motor vehicles. Other recommendations included eradication of the warble fly, weed control, decentralization of industry, provincial control over haulage of milk, with all milk-trucks covered and insulated to prevent freezing, and a program of soil conservation, reforestation and farm drainage.

"It is urgent that materials and machinery for farm draining be made available," the brief said.

VINCENT MASSEY

known to exporters as they had not been known before—through the "Canada Calling" campaign which flashed Canadian information on screens, signs, newspapers and billboards.

It was not known whether Mr. Massey's return to Canada would mean his retirement from public life. Speculation in some circles was that he might accept the post of Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, soon to become vacant.

Speculation as to his successor ranged in a wide field, which included Gen. Crerar, retired army commander, whose plans have not been announced, Hume Wrong, associate under-secretary for external affairs, and Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, present Ambassador to the United States.

WILL GRANT BAIL

Later, three additional charges were laid against Edward Wilfrid Mazerall, 29, an employee of the National Research Council division which worked on the research and development of radar.

Five new charges were laid against Capt. Gordon Lunan, 30, a Canadian Army officer on loan to Canadian information service. Capt. Lunan was remanded until March 20.

Elects Jury Trial

Mazerall, without entering a plea, elected to be tried by jury and his counsel, Royden Hughes, said he was prepared to go on with the case. He sought to have Mazerall released on $500 bail.

In making his plea for bail, Mr. Hughes said that "these people are not spies and at the most they could only be called the victims of spies."

The additional charges against Mazerall were that he communicated to unauthorized persons documents which were under his control; that he retained secret and confidential notes which should not have been so retained, and that he used confidential and secret information for the benefit of Russia.

The new charges against Capt. Lunan were that he made confidential and secret notes intended to be of use to Russia; that he communicated secret and confidential documents to unauthorized persons; that he used secret and confidential information for the benefit of Russia; that he illegally retained in his possession secret and confidential documents; and that he received secret and confidential documents from Mazerall.

HERMAN GOERING

"Hitler gave me a wonderful and deep explanation of national socialism," Goering testified. "He asked me to help him organize S.A. protest meetings.

"I became commander of the S.A. to weld it into a completely reliable unit for carrying out my orders and the orders of Hitler."

Goering referred to notes held in his lap, and looked sulkily at the crowded room.

He eulogized the Brown-shirts of the S.A. as "small people—workers—who took part only for ideological reasons and who believed in the Fatherland."

"I was never a political leader, as strange as that may seem," said the man who only last year attempted to step into Hitler's place as chief of the collapsing German State, and was arrested by the Black-shirted S.S. for his pains.

"No political office was held by me in the party. The Fuehrer could absolutely depend on me. He knew I could muster all our power in the Reichstag to realize our ideals. I was his right hand man."

In a long explanation, Goering traced and attempted to justify the Nazi seizure of power in 1933. Franz Von Papen listened intently as Goering told of that defendant's bitter rivalry with Hitler for the chancellorship.

Drew's Govt. Draws Criticism On Housing Plan

Toronto, March 13 (CP)—The C.C.F. and Labor-Progressive parties had their innings in the Throne Speech debate in the Ontario Legislature yesterday, as the first night sitting was held in the drive to conclude the debate.

Housing bulked large in the opposition criticism of the policies of Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government, which commands a two-thirds majority of the 90 seats.

A. A. MacLeod, leader of the two-man Labor-Progressive party, proposed that the Dominion government appropriate $1,000,000,000 for a five-year national housing program. The Provincial government, he said, had done nothing about housing, despite its election platform promising an Ontario Housing Commission.

The C.C.F. house leader, W. J. Grummett, moved a sub-amendment to the address in reply, regretting that adequate steps had not been taken in housing, agriculture, health services and labor matters, and asserting the government had adopted an "obstructive attitude" in Dominion-Provincial relations.

Grummett's sub-amendment was to the Liberal amendment by Liberal house leader Farquhar Oliver, expressing regret the government had not implemented its election program.

Speaking in the night sitting MacLeod, member for Toronto Bellwoods, said "housing is on the black market in Canada today," and charged that returning war veterans and war workers were being "fleeced" by real estate agents.

MacLeod contended the Ontario government had done nothing about housing except to write to the federal authorities suggesting use of hutments and billeting to ease the demand for temporary accommodation. Canada had spent 18 billions in wartime and it was not too much to ask that one billion be raised from citizens "as a housing loan" to put good houses at the disposal of war veterans.

Programs Successful

"There is not another democratic country in the world today that has not undertaken a state-financed housing program," said MacLeod. "And these programs have been successful."

The government was commended by G. Chaplin (PC—Waterloo South) for re-opening Ontario House in London, England. Mr. Chaplin suggested that Joseph Meinzinger (Lib-Labor Waterloo North) should apologize for what Chaplin termed "ridiculous and impertinent criticism" of Ontario House. Meinzinger was stopped by the Speaker as he started on a retort.

Garfield Anderson (CCF-Fort William) also stressed the housing problem and urged a low-rental subsidized housing program. Anderson also spoke of the need to provide means whereby former women war workers might continue to earn a living in industry, and urged provision of farm machinery for settlers in the Thunder Bay area, a soil survey, appointment of marketing agent and establishment of courses to train all inexperienced and jobless men for industry.

In the regular afternoon session Ross McEwing (L-Wellington North) demanded that the government take steps to assure that "not one communist or atheist" should be permitted to teach in any school or college in Ontario.

Labor Minister Daley told the House that he will not resign and that he will continue to correct things "that I think are wrong." He was referring to a resolution demanding his resignation, passed by the Ontario Federation of Labor (C.I.O.), at the weekend.

Wants Conference

Grummett called for a Dominion-Provincial Conference on housing. "Private industry," he said, "will never build houses. Even now the government could give some relief by empowering municipalities to build houses on their own responsibility. There have been many inquiries, and I know that in the north they are just waiting a go-ahead signal."

The C.C.F. House leader charged the government had failed in all of its 22 pre-election points, and in housing had committed the greatest failure of all.

Mr. Grummett also introduced Labor policy with a condemnation of the Provincial government's action in sending Provincial Police to Windsor, Ont., during the Ford Motor Company strike. He said the C.C.F. favored a 40-hour week and two-weeks vacation with pay.

This brought from Labor Minister Daley his declaration that he would not resign as requested by the Ontario Federation of Labor. Daley said the workers' chief concern should not be Union security, but full-time employment. The Provincial Labor code might not be perfect but it was doing the job, and the Province had no intention of setting up a new code in competition with the Federal government which administered the Federal Labor code. If a 40-hour week was adopted, said Mr. Daley, the cry would go up for a 32-hour week.

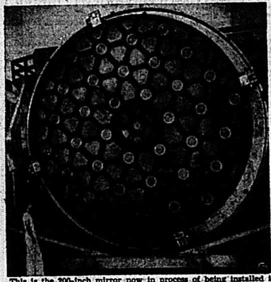
NEW "WORLD WONDER" NEAR DEBUT

About to join the big parade of breath-taking developments, such as bouncing radar waves off the moon, is the "giant eye" — the telescopic titan which is expected to be ready for use on April 8 at the Mt. Palomar Observatory, San Diego County, Calif. Dr. Max Mason, LEFT, of the California Institute of Technology, and Dr. Robert A. Millikin, Nobel prize winner in physics, are shown ABOVE beside a scale model of the world's largest telescope, which will enable man to break all records for penetrating distance with the eye. The complete instrument weighs 500 tons and is housed in a 10-storey dome.



This is the 200-inch mirror now in process of being installed in the world's largest telescope on Mt. Palomar, Calif. Made at Corning, N.Y., it has had many adventures. A special type of car was built to carry it to California and, in some places, special rail lines were laid to insure its safe transport. It took years to grind and polish and its size can be gathered by comparison with the man at LEFT.

Arab Case In Palestine Is Presented

Full Citizenship Offered to Jews In Proposed State

Memorandum Suggests Democratic Arab State

Jerusalem, March 14. (Reuters) — A 200,000-word memorandum on the Arab case in Palestine, was submitted to the Anglo-United States Palestine enquiry commission here today by the Arab higher committee.

The memorandum offered the 500,000 Jews now legally in Palestine full citizenship in a proposed Arab democratic state, it was learned from the Arab office.

An Arab office spokesman stated that in the last 25 years 500,000 Jews had gone to Palestine against the will of the Arabs.

"The Arabs now express willingness to accept those 500,000 people as full citizens of a Palestinian state and throw a veil over the manner in which they got to Palestine.

The memorandum declared that the Palestine state referred to would be an Arab state, not in a narrow, racial sense, but because the majority of the citizens were Arabs and Palestine was part of the Arab world.

"The Jews would be given the opportunity of moulding the state joined to the Arabs by links of good will and interest," the spokesman declared.

"If the Jews recognize the need for the good will of the Arabs and accept the conditions under which alone it can be obtained, Palestine may yet have peace.

"If however, they try to force their way into Palestine, they should not be surprised if the Arabs defend themselves with every means at their disposal."

Second Session 20th Parliament Ready to Open

Ottawa, March 14 — (CP) — Official Ottawa bustled with excited preparations for the formal opening today of the second session of Canada's 20th Parliament, expected to be the most colorful since before the war.

The historic, tradition-bound ceremony in the Senate Chamber launching new round of legislative activity, also marks the conclusion of the tenure of office of Canada's Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone.

His reading of the Throne Speech, forecasting prospective government legislation, was expected to be the last official act of his term which began in 1940. He and Princess Alice are scheduled to leave for Washington Saturday.

Most members of the Senate and Commons were in the capital today in readiness for the new session. Many who filtered in gradually from all parts of the Dominion during the last few weeks were joined today by a host of members from Ontario and Quebec.

Legislation forecast in today's Throne Speech will probably receive the assent of Viscount Alexander, Governor-General designate who arrives early next month.

Might Mention Bill

Pre-opening speculation on the speech suggested it might mention the Canadian citizenship bill introduced at the last session, the $1,250,000,000 loan agreement with Britain, the Canadian-United States Extradition Treaty also left over from the last session, and the work of the committee charged with choosing a design for a distinctive Canadian flag.

Other unofficial reports said the speech would announce the government's intention to appoint a separate minister of external affairs — a post held by the prime minister of the day since 1912. These suggested Justice Minister St. Laurent as health minister Claxton and State Secretary Martin possible choices for the portfolio.

Mover and seconder of the Speech from the Throne will be heard tomorrow, with formal debate opening Monday.

British Morale Is Highest in Europe

Woodstock, March 14 (CP)— Although tired and hungry, the British still have the highest morale in Europe, Dr. T. A. Waring, professor of sociology at the University of Western Ontario, said last night. He urged export of food to Britain "at any cost."

Dr. Waring said he doubted if Western Europe would ever regain the dominant position in world affairs if formerly held.

Power Production Is Big Problem Of Soviet Russia

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 14 (AP)— To make full use of new and proposed means of transportation, Russia must devote major attention to the production of power—electricity, coal and oil.

Foremost on the list is the reconstruction of the huge Zaprozhe Dnieper dam and power station destroyed during the war.

New construction in this region will also see highway bridges built at Zaprozhye below the dam to relieve the burden of traffic across its top and another at Dniepropetrovsk close by.

Russians expect that by 1950 their electric power potential will be doubled.

The Soviets have a hard battle to achieve this doubling by 1950. In addition to normal obstacles, a big program of education among the workers who man these stations must be carried out. Engineer A. A. Pavlenk, writing last year in the newspaper Trud, severely criticized the low use of hydro electric power in the country's general usage of electricity. In 1940, he said, it was about 10.6 per cent of its potential, while the United States was realizing 33 per cent, Canada 98 per cent and France 54 per cent.

Before the war the Soviet Union was second in world production and consumption of oil, with reserves of upwards of 3,500,000,000 tons.

BRITISH PAPERS CRITICIZE STALIN FOR HIS ATTACK

Call for Big Three Meeting to Improve Relations Between Russia and Allies

London, March 14 (CP)—British newspapers today criticized Premier Stalin for his attack on Winston Churchill and called for a Big Three meeting soon to attempt to improve relations between Russia and her two wartime Allies.

A foreign office spokesman said there probably would be no official comment on Stalin's statement, since Mr. Churchill has no status in the government.

Stalin's remarks, which were in the form of an interview yesterday in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, were described in a dispatch from Moscow as the sharpest attack the Russian leader had ever made on anyone except a foe during wartime.

Stalin accused Mr. Churchill of spreading "lies" in his Fulton, Mo., speech March 5, in which Mr. Churchill proposed a virtual British-American military alliance. Stalin described Mr. Churchill as a "warmonger" and said the former British Prime Minister was asking for "war with the U.S.S.R."

"Churchill now takes his stand among the warmongers," the Premier said. "There can be no doubt that Churchill's position is a war position, a call for war on the U.S.S.R."

Advocating Race-Theory

Stalin also asserted that Mr. Churchill and his "friends in England and the United States" were advocating a Hitler-like "race theory" of world domination by English-speaking peoples.

Stalin said that Mr. Churchill tried to "mislead his listeners" by urging that a British-Soviet friendship treaty be prolonged up to 50 years and added:

"But how can one take this statement while at the same time he is laying the groundwork for the war against the U.S.S.R.? This means that he looks at this treaty as an empty piece of paper which is only wanted for covering up and camouflaging his anti-Soviet activities."

The London Daily Mail said Stalin's "personal abuse of Churchill last night will be deplored and regretted. This is not the language of statesmanship. Such words can only reflect on the man who utters them."

The Times said the "moment has been reached—a little more than six months after the final defeat of the enemy—when an international agreement between the partners in victory is openly broken, and relations between them are being conducted in the naked terms of rival power."

Germs That Resist Penicillin May Make Drug Almost Useless

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

Atlantic City, N. J., March 14—(AP) — Penicillin is losing its punch so rapidly that it was predicted today this wonder drug may become almost completely useless in a few years for a number of the most prevalent diseases.

The trouble is not in penicillin, but in special strains of germs, present in many diseases, which are able to resist penicillin, and which are spreading rapidly while their fellows are being destroyed by the drug.

The prediction was made by Dr. Hans Molitor, of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research, in a report to the Federation of American Societies for experimental biology. He talked to the Pharmacological Society.

The trouble that penicillin faces is not new. It happens in most medical remedies. But in penicillin the increase in the germs that tolerate the drug seems to be extremely rapid.

In some hospitals the cures for gonorrhea by penicillin have dropped from the original almost 100 per cent to about 50 per cent. Similar decreases are going on in other diseases, but not so rapidly.

In gonorrhea more than 30 different strains of germs are known. It makes no difference to the patient which one causes the disease. But some of these strains resist penicillin.

Dr. Molitor said there were four ways in which to retard the loss of penicillin's effectiveness.

One is to give over-doses great enough presumably to kill even the resistance germs. This might be fairly safe with penicillin, since it is not toxic.

The second is to combine several other drugs with penicillin. This is done occasionally now. It is not too satisfactory, however, since the combination causes bad reactions in some patients.

The third way is to discover new anti-biotics, as penicillin is called. An example is streptomycin. But streptomycin is subject to losing its effectiveness in precisely the same way as penicillin.

The fourth way is to give chemical compounds that make the germs more sensitive to penicillin. Such drugs, Dr. Molitor said, are known. Some amino acids, for example, increase this sensitivity of the disease germs. But this method is not easy, because the same acids sometimes have the opposite effect on the germs.

END OF STRIKES CUTS 275,000 FROM IDLE RANKS

General Electric Walkout Settled Few Hours After G.M. Reaches Agreement

New York, March 14 — (AP)— The United States labor front, clouded for months by disputes which slowed the reconversion program, was bright today as settlement of two prolonged and costly strikes in the automotive and electrical industries indicated a return to work of some 275,000 employees.

The back-to-work calls were delayed pending acceptance by the strikers of settlements reached yesterday in the 113-day-old walkout of 175,000 employees of General Motors and in the two-month work stoppage by 100,000 General Electric employees.

The C.I.O. unions involved in two of the country's major disputes settled with the companies with identical agreements relating to wage increases — 18½ cents an hour.

An early return to work of the 275,000 workers in the G. M. and G. E. plants would mean a sharp reduction in the ranks of the idle because of labor disputes. From a near all-time high of more than 1,500,000 in January, the idle, now approximately 750,000, would drop to about 475,000.

Main disputes which continued to keep idle thousands included 150,000 C.I.O. steelworkers, mostly employed in fabricating plants not affected by recent settlements between the union and major steel producers; 75,000 C. I. O. electrical workers at Westinghouse Company; 40,000 C. I. O. workers in farm machinery plants and about 50,000 independent CIO and American Federation of Labor Machinists and related workers in San Francisco.

No hitch was indicated in getting the G.M. and G.E. strikers back to their jobs as quickly as possible, and approval of the agreements by the rank and file of the two unions was expected.

Express Satisfaction

Officials of both G. M. and the C.I.O. United Auto Workers Union expressed satisfaction over their agreement, which was announced in Detroit yesterday.

The union originally demanded a 30-per-cent wage increase for G. M. production workers but later agreed to a presidential fact-finding board's recommendation of a hourly hike of 19½ cents. The company, however, stood pat on its top offer of 18½ cents, (16.5 per cent).

Contract terms, in addition to the 18½-cent-hourly boost, provide additional funds for adjustment of wage rate inequalities between G.M. plants.

A few hours after the G.M. settlement, announcement was made in New York of the union-management agreement settling the work stoppage since Jan. 15 of 100,000 C.I.O. United Electrical Workers at General Electric plants in 16 States.

The strikers were among the 200,000 C.I.O. electrical workers at plants of G. E., General Motors and Westinghouse who quit work in support of demands for a $2-a-day wage increase. The 25,000 from the electrical division of General Motors Corporation ended their strike last month, after getting a wage boost of 18½ cents.

Efforts continued today to end the walkout of the 75,000 Westinghouse employees, with federal mediators meeting with union and company representatives.

RUSSIAN TROOPS ROLL NORTHWARD, HEAD FOR SIBERIA

First Indication That Withdrawal Meant Evacuation of Manchuria

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, March 14 — (AP) —A report on Sino-Soviet discussions of economic co-operation in Manchuria roused heated shouts of "sit down" at the Kuomintang (National) party Congress today as withdrawing Russian troops moved toward Siberia.

Chang Kai-Ngau, special commissioner for economic affairs to Manchuria, said president Chiang Kai-Shek told him last December not to recognize Russian claims to Japanese industrial equipment as war booty. He said he was instructed further to refuse to discuss Sino-Soviet economic co-operation before withdrawal of Soviet forces.

Chang emphasized that no agreement on economic co-operation had been reached but several times angry shouts interrupted his report.

Russian troops which last week withdrew abruptly from Mukden to Changchun rolled on northward today — ostensibly headed for Siberia—in seven troop trains. Chinese government dispatches said the remainder of the Red Army's former Mukden garrison would follow soon.

This was the first indication that the Mukden withdrawal might mean evacuation of Manchuria.

As Chang made his report, a delegation of 40 members of the Manchurian Guild arrived at the Congress Hall and demanded dismissal of Gen. Hsiung Shih-Hui, director of President Chiang's Manchuria headquarters. They charged that Hsiung is incompetent.

Previous dispatches had said the economic adviser to the Soviet forces in Manchuria had called on the Chinese mayor of Mukden to discuss future "economic co-operation" and the protection of Russian property and trade in the city.

Several thousand Chinese Communist troops were reported moving toward the great coal-mining centre of Fushun, 20 miles east of Mukden.

At the same time, means of checking further flashes between government troops and Communist forces in Manchuria was discussed in Chungking by a truce committee. The committee was made up of government Gen. Chang Chi-Chung, Communist Gen. Chou En-Lai and Lt.-Gen. Alvin C. Gillem, substituting for Gen. Marshall, president Truman's special envoy to China, now en route to Washington.

Three Soviet soldiers remained in Mukden to guard Russian military supplies. Factories and buildings evacuated by the Russians were being taken over by Chinese government authorities as additional troops streamed into the city.

49 SHIPS LOST

New York, March 14 —(CP)— A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said in answer to a question in the British House of Commons yesterday that 49 British ships were lost on the Murmansk run during the war, the New York Times said in a wirelessed dispatch from London today.

The Times quoted Mr. Alexander as stating that 19 British warships and 30 merchant ships were sunk on the northern run, while 19 other warships and eight merchant ships were damaged.

Royal Navy casualties totalled 2,055 killed and 87 wounded while deaths in the merchant marine were about 523, he said.

GOERING DECLARES HE ASKED HITLER TO HELP FRANCO

Aim Was to Prevent Communism Spread And Test Young German Air Force

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, March 14 — (AP)— Hermann Goering testified before the international military tribunal today that he asked Hitler to send help to Generalissimo Francisco Franco during the Spanish Civil War "to prevent the spread of Communism and to try out young air force experimentally."

"At that time," said Goering of Nazi intervention in Spain "I had an opportunity to see if we had the proper equipment, and I saw to it that the personnel got some experience.

"Young men continually went and returned."

He said Franco asked for aid, "particularly air aid."

Boasts of Luftwaffe in Poland

Goering, resuming direct testimony in his own behalf, boasted that his luftwaffe was responsible for the swift conquest of Poland.

He confirmed that he ordered the Nazi aircraft industry to develop a bomber capable of flying to the United States and back, insisting that they do this work "expeditiously in case America entered the war."

The lack of aluminum and technological planning caused him to forego development of long-range, four-engine bombers, Goering said.

Goering accepted "full and complete responsibility" for all anti-Jewish economic decrees which bore his signature. He told the court that although he received many written and verbal orders from Hitler to carry out anti-Jewish laws, he did "not propose in any way to hide behind the Fuehrer."

Defends Nazi Blind Obedience

Goering defended the Nazi program of blind obedience to the Futhirer with the contention: — "The Catholic church is still relying on the leadership principle. Russia too could not have survived without it and could not have met the great difficulties of this war."

He bristled when questioned about the "master race," declaring "you would never find that term in my writings or speeches. In my view if you are a master you don't have to emphasize it."

He said Hitler planned to separate the church from politics. He described Heinrich Himmler and Martin Bormann as "undesirable" so far as their attitude toward the church was concerned.

Admitting that Nazis intended to eliminate Jews from public life, Goering charged anti-Semitism was strong in Germany before the party was born.

He said the Nazis crushed the trade unions because "they agreed with the left to such an extent they did not fit into our state.

"I am convinced that only we gave the German worker real freedom."

U. S. Likely be Given Way In Selecting World Bank President

By STERLING F. GREEN

Savannah, March 14 (AP) — Choice of a president for the $9,100,000,000 world bank was reported "wide open" today, but United States officials said the foreign delegates probably would commit themselves before leaving Savannah to accept any man the United States proposes.

The question became the No. 1 topic of speculation at the International Monetary Conference here, following the tentative decision on Washington, D. C., as permanent home for the bank and the world monetary fund.

That decision—a victory for the United States over Britain, which preferred New York — came late yesterday, along with a recommendation that Russia and other tardy ratifiers of the Bretton Woods agreement be allowed until Dec. 31 to enter the international agencies on the original terms.

Both actions are expected to governors.
get approval of the boards of

When the United States names its candidate for the bank presidency, he still must be elected by the 12-power panel of executive directors of the lending institution, but such election is accepted here as a foregone conclusion.

The choice could be made before the conference closes — the wind-up now is set for Monday — but a United States informant said the present plan was to obtain a firm commitment, before the foreign directors leave here, that the United States candidate would be accepted.

The bank's funds — of which only $7,600,000,000 so far has been subscribed by the incomplete list of member countries — will be used to make loans to foreign governments needing help in reconstruction projects, or to guarantee such loans obtained from private financial institutions; also, to finance or guarantee loans for the building up of industry in countries which have lagged industrially.

Another Column Continues to Move Closer to Tehran

Russ Garrison at Tabriz Increased in Recent Weeks

Tehran, March 14 (AP)— The column of Russian troops which left Tabriz in Azerbaijan was reported today to have swung westward in the direction of the Turkish border.

Marshal Ivan Bagramian, Russian expert on tank warfare and campaigning in difficult terrain, has been in Tabriz two or three weeks, sources disclosed last night. Bagramian made his reputation as commander on the Baltic front in the Second Great War.

The Russian column which left Tabriz at first was reported moving northward toward the Soviet border. At Oarand, however, it turned westward toward Khoi, north of Lake Urmia and near the Turkish border.

Tabriz is about 40 miles directly east of the lake.

Other Soviet forces were reported yesterday to have moved south of the lake at Miyanduab, near the Iraq border.

Khoi is 80 miles south and slightly east of Mt. Ararat. This turkish landmark stands just below the areas of Kars and Ardahan, which Russia has said should be ceded back to her.

Moving mostly at night, another column was reported at Mianeh, southeast of Lake Urmia and the northern terminus of the railroad leading to Tehran. A hard-surfaced road also connects Mianeh with Kazvin, Tehran and Karaj, 20 miles north of Tehran. Soviet tanks, fuel and troops were seen yesterday at Karaj.

The Russian garrison at Tabriz, capital of the self-proclaimed autonomous state of Azerbaijan, was reliably reported to have been doubled or trebled in the past few weeks.

STATES BRITISH POSITION

London — (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared Britain would "regret any settlement between Russia and Iran which "appeared to be extracted" from the Tehran government under duress while Soviet forces are still occupying the country.

Mr. Bevin told the House of Commons that despite the continued presence of Soviet troops in Iran the British government had taken no decision to put British troops back in the troubled area.

"Nor," he added, "have His Majesty's government taken any steps to open negotiations with the Iranian government for the return of British troops."

British troops, evacuating Iran March 2 under the Anglo-Soviet-Iran treaty agreement, moved across the border into Iraq.

Reviewing the Iranian situation up to the date of the agreed withdrawal, Mr. Bevin said the British government had received the "most categorical assurances" from Generalissimo Stalin and the Soviet government that Iran's integrity would be respected.

"We were assured," the foreign minister added, "that there was

SECOND INTERIM PROBE REPORT SAID IMMINENT

Mrs. Emma Wolkin Second of Four to be Released on Bail

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 14 (CP)— Mrs. Emma Wolkin was released from custody today for the first time in a month and became the second of four persons charged with giving confidential information to Russia to be released on bail.

Her brother, John Konkin of Blaine Lake, Sask., guaranteed the $1,500 bail set yesterday by Magistrate Glen Strike.

With the three others already charged, she is slated to appear before Magistrate Strike again next Wednesday morning.

Court officials said Mrs. Wolkin, formerly a cipher clerk with External Affairs Department had not elected how she would be tried, although it had been reported earlier that she could not be freed until she did.

Meanwhile, a second interim report from the Royal Commission on Russian espionage activity, identifying new persons to be charged, was reported imminent and informed sources said they believed it would be made public either today or tomorrow.

It was believed the report would name three or four persons in addition to the four who already have been brought into court on charges of conspiracy to provide and of providing secret and confidential information to representatives of the Soviet Union.

Nine Undentified

Nine persons, all men, remain unidentified in the spy ring inquiry, which has been conducted in secret since Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced a month ago that the government had learned of the disclosure of state secrets to members of a foreign embassy in Ottawa, later identified as that of Russia.

The four persons already charged, two men and two women, were admitted to bail yesterday following their appearance in police court to hear additional charges read against them.

Capt. Gordon Lunan, 30, member of the Canadian Information Service and alleged "head" of a group of Canadian agents working under Russian direction, was granted bail of $6,000, but could not obtain his release immedi-

SMALL COLLIE PUP INJURED BY TRUCK

A small collie pup was more or less severely injured on Front Street early today when it ran out from the pavement into the rear wheels of a slowly moving truck. The pup's cries attracted a large crowd of people.

The truck driver stopped within a few feet of the spot where the incident occurred and took the bleeding puppy to the police station where it was delivered into the hands of city poundkeeper Thomas Thorne. The dog was without collar or city tag.

SPRING RAIMENT OUT OF QUESTION FOR THREE GIRLS

Three young ladies gazing with feminine interest at the latest fashions displayed in a Front Street ladies shop window, this morning were bemoaning the fact that they were unemployed and new spring raiment was out of the question, for the time being, at least.

"Jobs are hard to get in this city," mused a pert young blonde member of the trio. "I don't know what I shall do if something doesn't turn up pretty soon."

"Keep a smile on that pretty face of yours," said a companion, "everything will be all right bye and bye."

And the young ladies strolled slowly down the street.

On the opposite side of the main thoroughfare a sign had been posted on the door of a restaurant. It read, "Closed. Shortage of Help."

FIRE DAMAGES APARTMENT BATHROOM

Fire of an undetermined origin early Thursday caused slight damage to a bathroom at the Somberg apartments, 377 Front Street, it was reported by firemen today. Firemen promptly extinguished the blaze before material damage resulted.

Wednesday firemen were called to 48 Octavia Street for a pipe and chimney blaze which was quickly extinguished.

MAYORS CANNOT AUTHORIZE BINGO

Heads of municipalities or civic governing bodies have no authority to grant the authorization of games of bingo which have been considered illegal by the government, Mayor Follwell has been advised by the Ontario Attorney General's Department.

A circular letter to this effect has been distributed by the department to mayors and other municipal heads of the province.

The mayor stated today that a number of applications for permission to play bingo for charitable purposes have been received by himself and by city hall officials.

In future applications must be directed to the Attorney-General's Department, or through the county crown attorney.

Health Pictures Shown Members Home, School Club

The King George Home and School Association met at the school Monday March 11 at 8 o'clock, with Mr. M. Hackett presiding.

Plans were made for the card party next week. Miss Heasman's room won the attendance award.

The first part of the program was on health. A health picture on vitamins was shown, followed by a splendid address by the school nurse, Mrs. Watt. She told about her work in the public schools of Belleville and what she has accomplished. Mrs. Watt stated that good nutrition is necessary for a healthy child. One should insist on pasteurization of all milk, immunization against communicable diseases and physical inspection of all children.

Two more films were shown, one on the fur country around James Bay and a film on "Diphtheria."

The second part of the program was conducted by Miss Phyllis May, music teacher in the public schools.

Program:

Chorus by school children, "Were I a Bird."

Life of Joseph Haydn by Joan Hiles.

Piano solo by Bob Reid, Surprise Symphony by Joseph Haydn.

Grandmothers Dance by five students.

Chorus "Hunter's Horn," "Good Night Ladies" and "The King."

Mothers of grades III and IV furnished refreshments.

Training Plane Poises in Sky Due to Head Wind

Resembling a giant fly that had come to grief with a huge sheet of grey tanglefoot, an Avro-Anson training plane caused a flurry of excitement to city residents "on the ground" yesterday afternoon, when it appeared to poise motionless in the sky approximately four thousand feet above the earth.

The plane, as if suspended by a string, remained practically stationary in the air for nearly twenty minutes. Its engines sounded as though they were functioning normally, yet the plane made no forward headway.

At times, it appeared, and this was later confirmed, that the plane moved backwards. Crowds of curious people in all parts of the city viewed the strange sight, and waited more or less anxiously for developments.

Then the aircraft was seen to move slowly forward. It struggled against its unseen adversary then gained momentum and flew off in the direction of the Trenton air station.

Air force officials today stated that the aircraft had encountered a sixty-mile gale at the altitude at which it was flying, although on the ground, a moderate breeze was blowing. It appears the aircraft had set its speed at fifty miles per hour, and encountering the sixty-mile windspeed, hung practically motionless in the air.

COUNTY COURT

With only four cases listed on the morning's docket, three of which were settled out of court, the regular Thursday morning county police court session proved unnecessary today when the motorist charged with operating a motor car with defective brakes failed to appear.

A Belleville motorist paid $7.50 fine and costs out of court on a charge of careless driving resulting from a motor accident on No. 2 highway when he was in a sideswipe collision with a Kingston motorist. Another motorist paid a total of $28.00 fine and costs on charges of driving with improper lights and failing to "ditch" his lights when meeting oncoming traffic.

Industrial Accident Prevention Stressed by R.B. Morley in Address To Central Ontario Branch Here

Last regular meeting of the current season for Central Ontario branch of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening when R. B. Morley, general manager of the provincial Industrial Accident Prevention Association was the guest speaker.

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of George S. Stanton, chairman of the Belleville section, who announced meetings would resume in September. Fifty-two members, representing 16 firms and six centres in the central district, were present at the meeting.

Choosing "Safety—Our Moral Obligation" as his subject, Mr. Morley pointed out that throughout life people are confronted with two types of laws—enforceable and unenforceable. The enforceable laws were those as defined in the status and which also included laws of nature, while the unenforceable were those which in respect to personal safety, should be observed.

In illustration he stated there were no actual laws which compelled an industrial worker to wear safety goggles, and proper type shoes or clothing, but it was very advantageous for a worker to do so. It was the plant supervisor's duty and responsibility to instill into his workers the necessity of observing all safety precautions, he stated.

Schools May Again Co-operate With Ontario Farm Service Force To Help in 1946 Growing Season

Notwithstanding that wartime regulations pertaining to the release of students from school to assist in farm work have now been discontinued, in the light of the current scarcity of farm labor, certain students may still quit their classes to help on farms, according to a recent memorandum received by secondary school boards.

Provisions for the granting of departmental standing to certain pupils on the basis of early release from school for enlistment for farm work, had been made in the wartime regulations, but this was discontinued as of December 1945.

With the problem of food supply for Europe still being serious, it was felt that even the maintenance of the wartime standard of food rations in Great Britain will demand the greatest efforts of Canadian farmers, the Minister of Education has approved the suggestion that schools again co-operate with the Ontario Farm Service Force in soliciting the assistance of pupils below Grade XIII for the period subsequent to May 23rd, 1946, and of Grade XIII pupils for the period following departmental examinations.

Certain conditions of school attendance and of academic standing are required before students will be granted permission to enrol as farm helpers.

Following the summer vacation period the board of trustees may close any secondary school or grade under its control for a period not exceeding four weeks after the statutory date of reopening. This provision is made to permit pupils of such school or grade to assist in harvesting, processing, preserving and canning food.

IN MEMORIAM

BELCH — In fond and loving memory of our dear father, George Belch, who departed this life on March 14, 1943.

When all is still and silent,
And sleep forsakes our eyes,
Our thoughts do wander to the grave
Where our dear father lies.
The flowers we place upon the grave
May wither and decay
But our love for our father who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.

Veteran to Open Dry Cleaning Plant in City

Returned from overseas only last month, W. H. "Bill" Lynch, son of Fire Chief William Lynch and Mrs. Lynch, Church Street, is losing no time in getting himself re-established on "Civvy Street" and expects soon to open a new dry cleaning business in the city.

Mr. Lynch is starting immediately to build his own plant on East Moira Street at the corner of Olive Street, and expects to open his business around the end of April. The new plant will be of concrete block construction and will have a floor area of approximately 2,200 square feet.

The dry cleaning business is not strange for "Bill," as before the war he worked in Sudbury for four years at the business.

Enlisting in the Canadian army back in the fall of 1941, "Bill" went overseas with the Ordnance Corps in 1943 and saw service in France, Belgium, Holland and in Germany, returning to Canada in February, 1946. Born in Belleville "Bill" received his education at St. Michael's Academy before going to Sudbury to learn the dry cleaning business.

H. & S. Association Discusses Plans For Better Recreational Facilities

Mr. Reg. Hinchey, Mr. John Deacon, Miss Marjorie Lashbrook and Mr. G. J. C. Wallace brought interesting information before the members of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association at the regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night.

Mr. Stanley Hagerman, Jr., delighted the assembly with two piano solos and sixteen of Miss Isobel Morton's Collegiate students provided a treat with their excellent folk dancing exhibition. The following students took part in this section: Marion Wannamaker, Iona Carter, Ruth Palmer, Doris Kennedy, Margaret Taylor, Gloria Morris, Joan Wright, Dorothy Bishop, Louise Pattrick, Carole Licence, Mary Lyall, Inez Forster, Barbara Miller, Dorothy Dobbs, Lois Flindall, Shirley Bunnett.

The dancers were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Calvert. Miss Morton gave a very interesting introduction to the dances by explaining the origin of the dances and the value of this training to the young people.

Band Training Needed.

Mr. John Deacon, in reporting for the Cultural Aids Committee, spoke on the importance of teaching musical instruments in the schools and the value of playing "ensemble." Mr. Hinchey enlarged on this subject stressing the value of musical interest as a hobby and as means of combatting juvenile delinquency. Quoting an old adage "Teach a boy to blow a horn and he'll never blow a safe." Mr. Hinchey drew attention to the importance various police forces placed on band training for boys. He cited an outstanding instance in Guelph where a group of boys were causing considerable trouble, the police decided to organize a band and their troubles disappeared. Chatham police also organized a band of 45 boys. He spoke of having conducted a boys' band in Utica, N.Y., which was sponsored by the Utica Civic Association as a community project.

Mr. Hinchey pointed out that it might be possible with the co-operation of the Home and School Association and other interested bodies to have in Belleville a band trainer for the public schools combined with the municipal band master .. so that each school could have its own band and the children carry on under the same director from school right into the city band.

Mr. Deacon was appointed representative to confer with other interested bodies and keep the Home and School Association informed until such time as further action might be required.

Mr. Anderson called attention to the boys' band which was disbanded at the offset of the war and paid tribute to their director, Mr. Alfred Cooper for the excellent work he had done.

Physical Fitness Vital.

Speaking on the National Physical Fitness Act, Miss Lashbrook stated that attention had been sharply focussed on national fitness during the war years, which demanded so much of men and women. A nation's capacity for accomplishment is really dependent upon the physical fitness and mental alertness of its people and physical fitness and recreation are closely associated, because, through recreation, physical fitness can be acquired easily and pleasurably.

For some years there was an alarming tendency towards spectatorship in sports rather than actual participation but at the moment there is a great deal of talk about community planning of recreational facilities. National fitness has become a matter of governmental concern and in 1943 the Federal Government of Canada passed a National Physical Fitness Act, with the object being to promote physical fitness through the extension of physical education in schools and industries, to train teachers, lecturers, etc., and to organize sports on a nation-wide scale.

Sports Important

There is an ever-growing consciousness on the part of welfare groups and service clubs of the need for recreation for people in their spare time. Many adults today are unskilled in swimming, running, team sports because they were not taught them in their best skill-learning years, 8 - 11.

Besides teaching children how to play games, and become proficient in running, catching, jumping, etc., games are an excellent way of teaching children how to work successfully and get along with others. The danger must be recognized of emphasizing brawn over brain.

Complete fitness, moral, mental and physical, must be the ultimate goal. Increased facilities for recreation and physical education in elementary schools, a planned community recreational program under trained leadership, would appear to be goals worthy of striving for.

Need Proper Direction.

Mr. Wallace, in speaking on "Recreation, Past and Present," told of the lack of recreation programs in his own youth, and how the youngsters would divide into teams and improvise their own games. But now, in playing games such as cowboys and Indians, the children feel they need real "props" and come to school with real guns and butcher knives. If regular recreation was planned, and hockey, baseball and football teams were organized the dangers of the other games would be eliminated. In Queen Alexandra School sports are carried on as far as possible and, under Mr. Wallace's direction and supervision, hockey teams were organized as well as skating for girls and boys on certain days. Mr. Wallace felt that recreation should be for all and not for a few specialists. A teacher should be employed with the sole duty of supervising and planning these activities for the students, as is done in high schools. One of the main difficulties in carrying out a sports program is finances but Mr. Wallace hoped that in the future recreational guidance would become a regular part of elementary school life. He expressed his appreciation to Mr. Anderson, Mr. Fowler, Mr. Fradette and the H. and S. Association for their splendid co-operation, and expressed the hope that a sports committee be formed in the association to give further assistance when needed.

Committee Appointed.

Following Mr. Wallace's address a sports committee was formed and voted an initial budget of $25 to aid in the schools' immediate recreational program. They were detailed to study the situation and to present a resolution to the School Board to th effect that a full time trained physical director be procured for Belleville to carry out a recreational program in the public schools.

This committee is composed of Mrs. E. A. Goodier, Mr. H. P. Holway, Mr. Gordon Barclay, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cameron, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, Mr. Batchelor and Mr. A. Wilkes, along with Mr. Wallace and Mr. Anderson, principal.

Mrs. H. R. Gibson, program convener, announced that Miss Moore, Toronto, Director of Public Health Nursing Services for the Province of Ontario, will be the guest speaker at the April meeting at which the new health unit plan will be discussed. Sh stated that this would be an open meeting with special invitations to all H. and S. Associations.

Mrs. Gordon Barclay reported a sympathetic response had been received in response to a plea sent to the Ontario Board of Health last month for more adequate medical and nursing facilities in Belleville. Miss Lashbrook's room won the award for the best attendance.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Gilbert Scott, president of the Queen Alexandra H. and S. Association.

NOT BIGGEST 'LUNGE

Sudbury, March 14 (CP) — That 58 1-2 pound maskinonge caught in nearby McGregor Bay isn't the world's biggest. The largest ever caught weighed 61½ pounds and was taken in Lake of The Woods three years ago, Sudbury experts said today. The McGregor Bay fish was caught last July 13 by the 13-year-old son of Reuben Green, tourist camp operator.

A Little Current item yesterday said it may have been the world's largest. McGregor Bay was the spot where the late President Roosevelt fished on his holiday trip to the Manitoulin Island area in 1943.

Recent Winners At Kiwanis Music Festival Heard

Recent winners at the Kiwanis Musical Festival at Toronto and sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of this city were heard at the weekly luncheon of the club at the Quinte Hotel on Tuesday. Reg. Hinchey in charge of music acted as chairman for the recital and explained to the members the signal honor that was brought to the city by these young artists. He expressed the hope that the club directorate would assist in every possible way the advancement of music among the younger element of the city and that it was planned to form a boys' band in the city the equal of anything in the Dominion.

To say that the concert given was delightful would be putting it mildly. Each artist gave the number that was performed at the festival and the members marvelled at the technique and quality of each number. The thanks of the club were most ably expressed by Mark Vanner the president, who thanked Alec Gordon, John Green and others who in any way assisted in the developing of the talents.

The program

Bob Stebbings gave an euphonium solo "Twas a Very Happy Day" by Briston, while Ronald Elmy gave "The Harvest Song" by Baynon accompanied by Alec Gordon. A trombone solo was played by Bob Blakely "Morning Glory" and incidentally this artist won the $100 scholarship at the festival. Stanley Hagerman was delightful in his piano rendition of Chopin's Polonaise in C Sharp Minor. The brass quartet of Bob Stebbings, Don Charlton, Jack Fenn and Bob Blakely played "The Siege of Rochelle." Dave Branscombe, who also competed was introduced. Mr. Green conducted the quartet.

Achievement Report

The achievement report for the past year was given by Eddie Logan and it was an outstanding report and one that any club might be proud of. The report was prepared by Cliff Baragar and entailed a considerable amount of work by the chairmen of the various committees. Mr. Logan is chairman of the committee this year and urged that chairmen make report returns at their earliest convenience.

It was shown that since the Roblin Lake property came into possession of the club the sum of $14,171 has been spent on renovation of the buildings and added equipment. Also donated to the cause was the sum of $2,157 by the citizens of the district for the fresh air camp and 300 children from 10-15 years were given a well deserved holiday. The club advanced Ki-Y hockey and softball and boy scouts and girl guides. The sum of $400 was paid for treatment for one girl and several others were assisted in getting proper medical care. The blood donors clinic had a most successful operation during the war years while Jack White and his committee put on the biggest clothing drive of any city in the Province of Ontario.

Sick Visited

The sick at the R.C.A.F. hospital at Trenton were taken for numerous drives while war brides were given transportation to their homes by the Kiwanis members. A total of 5,670 boxes of magazines were collected and sent to the troops while chocolate bars and candies were distributed in large quantities. The club entertained 200 returned personnel at their luncheons during the year and a chest clinic was operated where 1,000 were examined. The old people of the County Home were entertained and money contributed to many projects besides scholarships. "This is a record to shoot at" said Mr. Logan in concluding the report.

A party will be held for the club members and their wives on Tuesday, March 26 with Aubrey Coe and Mrs. Vera Creeggan as chairman and co-chairman. Charlie Hyde collected the fines and Bill Navin presided at the piano.

Muskrat Yield Heaviest in Years

Mild nights that entice Mr. Muskrat from his winter quarters are proving a boon, financially, to trappers of the district.

Said to be one of the heaviest "yields" in years, the rats are being trapped in large numbers, and the trappers are happy.

One veteran of the marsh runways said today that his lines yielded twenty-eight fine specimens yesterday and after his morning run today he had fifteen more.

"Why, there's hundreds of the furry cusses in the marshes and rivers," he said adding that in his opinion this year would see the richest harvest garnered by muskrat trappers in years.

Attracted by the financial returns, a number of people, who have never trapped before, are securing licenses, according to issuer Ed. Thomas. He had to send a rush order to Toronto to secure four additional books of licenses to satisfy the local demand. "It's been the heaviest call in ten years," he said this morning.

Sgt. J. Harvey Freed of Charge Of Killing Patient

By E. L. WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 14 — (CP) — Freed of a charge of killing Pte. John U. Friesen of the Winnipeg Grenadiers in a Japanese prison camp, Cpl. (acting sergeant) John Hugh Harvey of London, England, today faced a general court martial on 29 other accusations including collaboration.

The court was the same as that which acquitted him yesterday of a charge of administering blows which caused Friesen's death on Oeyama camp hospital about Feb. 2, 1944.

The place also was the same — a former C.WA.C. recreation hut at Fort Osborne barracks here.

The court took only 10 minutes yesterday to consider the evidence against Harvey, 34-year-old army medical corpsman with a record of 15 years service, before finding him not guilty. He was immediately returned to detention to await today's proceedings.

During his manslaughter hearing witnesses testified — and the defence at no time denied—Harvey had struck Friesen several times in the camp hospital the morning the Canadian was brought there as a patient. But the defence claimed Friesen was delirious, acting violently, molesting other patients.

Attempted to Calm Patient

As senior medical orderly, Harvey said, he had attempted to calm Friesen, first by urging him to "get hold of yourself" and then, by striking him lightly on the jaw with his fist. But a few minutes later Friesen was reported again acting violently and Harvey returned, this time striking other blows. A short time after, the Canadian died.

Witnesses testified the camp's medical officer, a Surgeon Lt. Cmdr. Stenning of the Royal Australian Naval Reserve, had later announced Harvey was not responsible for Friesen's death and if there was any responsibility to be borne he himself would assume it.

They said too the hospital — a mud-plaster building which one witness termed "dirty, filthy, stinking" — lacked drugs and medical supplies. Harvey himself testified there were "absolutely no" sedatives available the morning Friesen was brought in although occasionally the Japanese provided ineffectual drugs of their own.

In the Farthest North

News is that the Muskox expedition is now moving into the Arctic Circle area with which is associated a tragedy that which befell the expedition of Sir John Franklin about a century ago when his entire party of one hundred and twenty-eight men were lost.

Franklin saw action with the Royal Navy at the battle of Copenhagen in 1801 and two months later he was appointed midshipman to the Investigator and showed amazing ability for nautical observations on a voyage to Australia. He took part in the battle of Trafalgar in 1805 and two years later he joined the Bedford and in this ship he sailed in the expedition against New Orleans in the year 1814 when he was wounded. In 1818 he was appointed to command the Trent and made a voyage of discovery in the Arctic accompanying Captain Buchan. He became a fellow of the Royal Society in 1821 and in the years 1825-27 he was engaged in exploration of the Arctic regions and on return to England was knighted. In recognition of his service to geographical science he was honored by the University of Oxford and the Geographical Society of Paris. From 1836 to 1843 he was Lieutenant-Governor of Van Diemen's Land, now Tasmania.

It was in the year 1845 that he took command of the Erebus and Terror in an expedition in search of the Northwest Passage to the Pacific. He never returned and in spite of many search parties there was no trace for some years of the ill-fated company. In 1859 a document was found that gave information to the world for the first time as to what had happened. The paper stated that Sir John died on June 11, 1847, that the ships were abandoned in April, 1848, and that the crew had started for the Great Fish River. None of the party survived but relics of the expedition were recovered.

Franklin showed the existence of the Northwest Passage and his work resulted in the discovery of a second Northwest Passage in 1850.

The numerous expeditions with which explorers sought to find the northern route to the Pacific were admirably prepared and varied with each age in which they set out.

The Muskox expedition is modern to the last minute and is mechanized as no previous expedition could have been. Every modern invention is used and the plane plays no small part in bringing in provisions for the trekkers crossing the great wastes of winter lands.

The Northwest Passage was a dream for ages. Columbus had thought to find a way to India and later navigators were inspired by the same thought to find a western route to the Orient. Navigators of the sixteenth century were interested and the search was maintained for many years until 1905 when Roald Amundsen in the ship Gjoya sailed from the Atlantic to the Pacific by way of Davis Strait, Lancaster Sound and Behring Strait. The passage naturally is not used as a commercial route. There are other means of communication between the Atlantic and Pacific, by train, by motor, plane and by the water route through the Panama Canal and by the route about the south of the continent of South America.

The Muskox expedition is on no such mission. It is doing exploration to gather information of Canada's northerly lands and is testing modern mechanization in the largely uncharted country.

For Cancer Research

One of the most munificent gifts ever made to medical science and discovery is that provided by the will of a former mayor of Toronto, Thomas Foster, who died last December at the age of 93 years. It sets up a fund of no less than $600,000 for cancer research. Mr. Foster left an estate of $1,168,555.

Science is hard at work seeking to solve the mystery of cancer and when such is achieved, there can be no doubt that one of the greatest boons to the human race will have been found. In all parts of the world the war against cancer goes on and research is pitting its effort to learn the secret which will mean the control of the dread disease.

Ex-Mayor Foster had lived a long life and his laying of so great stress on the importance of medical research indicates his realization how great a future there may be when the secret of this dread enemy of human life is revealed with the result of attainment of added means of battling that scourge. Observation, examination, operation and rays are the means at present, of combatting cancer and have saved many lives when cases are taken in hand in time. Any new knowledge of the disease which may come from research cannot but add to the protection given humanity.

With very many people this must have been the chief thought as they read details of the will of the former chief magistrate of Toronto.

In the wording of the will in reference to the fund for research, there is the expression of hope. The will mentions the income of the more than the estimated $600,000 that will go into the fund and go to the University of Toronto's department of medical research "until such time as the problem of cancer has been solved." If the problem is ever solved the fund is thereafter to be devoted "to extend to doctors and nurses in the more remote parts of Canada, information, education and training in up-to-date medical science."

A provision of the will which will attract much notice is of course that of "some benefit" to mothers of large families. This is because as he stated he approved of large families. So he made provision for awards.

Income from $100,000 will go to provide picnics for school-children. Charwomen and newsboys, churches and hospitals are to benefit from the will. There is provision for the feeding of wild birds around Toronto in the winter months, for the conservation of wild animals and game fish and for the planting and replacing of trees along highways leading into Toronto. Relatives were allotted $175,000.

The will is a unique one. Thomas Foster must have taken much interest in planning the distribution of the estate.

Airplane Parts From Paper

Manufacturers are turning out in Britain a series of aircraft parts from ordinary paper reports the technical journal, "Aeronautics." They include undercarriage fairings, wing tips, air intakes, hot air heating ducts, instrument covers and numerous accessories. The parts are being used extensively by the R.A.F. The material is a specially milled paper which, in conjunction with certain adhesives, is placed layer by layer on formers of wood or plaster. After drying, the component, which is known as Pytram, is sanded to a smooth finish and covered with fabric. Pytram has proved an ideal medium for the production of complex mouldings, and has the outstanding features of extreme lightness, the ability to withstand tropical conditions, low cost of production and resistance to fatigue under vibration.

Best Cutting Time is 4 P.M.

In my boyhood days on a Minnesota farm, a neighbor used to claim that his hay was better because he never cut in the forenoon. We called him crazy. Now come Cornell University scientists with a declaration which indicates that he was right. Flowers, too, they say, will last some ten hours longer if cut about 4 p.m. than if cut in the morning. The reason appears to be that plant leaves make sugar only when the sun shines and the higher the sugar content, the better they keep. This fact likely explains why putting stems in a dilute sugar solution tends to keep flowers from wilting.

REMOVABLE BRIDGE

So skillfully the thing is made,
So beautiful to see,
One should not be of it afraid
As is the case with me.
'Tis sad to think the dentist lies
Who tells you with a grin:
"You'll find it perfect, shape and size,
When once it's settled in."

Both nurse and dentist with delight
And eyes aglow with pride,
Insist I'll find the proper bite
If with it I'll abide.
"Be not too quick to take it out,"
The two of them declare.
"In time, beyond the slightest doubt,
You'll never know it's there."

Now, hissing on my way I go,
And whistling as the trees
When winds of summer gently blow—
A fellow ill-at-ease.
That span of metal, gum to gum,
So lovely to the eyes,
I tell the dentist has become
A mighty bridge of sighs.

UNRRA to Choose Successor To Herbert Lehman

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 14 (CP) — The fate of the world's greatest single humanitarian project—the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration—will be decided in a large measure at the fourth council session opening in Atlantic City Friday.

Either the administration will be empowered to operate beyond the time now set for its liquidation of its duties and staff will be taken over by some branch of the new United Nations organization.

The task of relieving and rehabilitating the victims of the wars in Europe and China will not have been completed by the end of this year, when U.N.R.R.A. is to end operations in Europe, or by March 31, 1947, when the Far East zone is tentatively scheduled to conclude its work.

No agenda has been published but it is known that one of the first tasks will be to appoint a new director general, Herbert H. Lehman, who has been director general since U.N.R.R.A. was set up at Atlantic City in November, 1943, resigned suddenly on Tuesday, because of ill health.

The six-nation central committee, on which Canada serves with China, France, Russia, the United Kingdom and the United States, will recommend that the council accept the resignation and appoint the committee's unanimous choice of a successor. That choice, which must be unanimous, is expected to be made by the time the council sessions begin.

The meetings are expected to be occupied with the problem of displaced persons, the food procurement problem and the matter of extending the life of the administration which would mean new contributions to swell the approximately $5,000,000,000 voted so far by contributing nations.

Canada will be represented by Ambassador L. B. Pearson who is chairman of the Standing Committee on Supply and Canadian representative of the Central Committee.

Neither Russian nor the Soviet Republics of Ukrainia and Byelo-Russia have named delegates.

CALLS FOR PROTESTS

Toronto, March 14 — (CP) — ReRv. H. H. Bingham, general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Convention of Ontario-Quebec, in a speech here last night called for a general protest against inclusion of drinking scenes in motion pictures.

Paper, 114 Years Old, in Family All These Years

There is no mention of the atomic bomb, the Big Three, strikes, murder, or possibility of war in the almost white paper of an edition of the "Christian Guardian" brought to this newspaper office yesterday by Mr. George Tice of this city.

The edition was published on Wednesday, May 30, 1832 at King Street, east of Yonge in York (Toronto). It is in a splendid state of preservation and was handed down to generations of the Tice family by the late Mrs. Jane Tice, a former resident of Allisonville, Prince Edward County, a grandmother of the ex-mayor of this city.

The paper, a four-sheet edition, was edited by the late Egerton Ryerson, in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church and was devoted to "literature, morality, religion, science, commerce, agriculture and general intelligence."

Editors of those days did not attach much importance to news items which in modern newspaper offices would reach the front page if not headlines. In the Guardian, tucked away in a remote corner in very small type, is the account of the straying away of two young children, "who were permitted to go into the woods in search of flowers, and strayed off from home. The younger was found on the 11th day. The other, three years of age has not been heard of."

Account of Death

In direct contrast to modern publicizing of milady's fashions, is a story that carries the account of the death of a Sunday School teacher caused by "tight lacing." The young lady complained of indigestion, was carried to the fresh air where she 'lapsed into a state of insensibility. An attempt was made to give her relief by cutting her stays which were found to be very tightly laced—but she expired almost immediately. An inquest was held and the surgeon found that the heart was considerably enlarged and the liver twice its size. He gave his opinion that death was caused by the extraordinary compression to which the vital organs had been subjected by tight lacing. The jury returned a verdict of death by visitation of God."

No Ceiling Prices

There were no ceiling prices in those days, and the black market was a thing unheard of. Market quotations disclose that in that era eggs sold at 16 cents the dozen; butter 24 cents; cheese, 12 cents; beef 11 cents per pound; and firewood $3.50 per cord.

They took their elections seriously in those days, it appears. An account of a civic battle in Montreal's West Ward reveals that the winning candidate was elected by 4 votes. "Several persons were killed and wounded during the violence of the party contest. The parties mutually blame each other for these lamentable proceedings. The return will be contested," the account read.

Aim to Raise Standard of Radio Technical Service

Members of the Bay of Quinte Radio Electronic Technicians Association, representing centres as far distant as Port Hope, Picton, Napanee and Campbellford, met in Belleville Tuesday evening for their regular monthly meeting when service problems affecting the trade were discussed.

Harry Evans, long associated with the Stewart Warner Alemite Corporation and familiar with the various servicing problems at the factory and in service departments, was the guest speaker for the evening and gave an interesting and constructive address of radio servicing.

Helpful hints on methods of better service to the customer were given together with the suggestion that shop owners prominently display their service equipment in order that the customer may know the shop is equipped to do efficient work. Mr. Evans also pointed out the benefits to be gained through organization and closer co-operation with manufacturers.

Advantages of a standard scale of charges for the protection of radio servicemen, were discussed during the business meeting, as were ways and means of eliminating trade evils, such as unfair charges; discouraging of so-called "handymen" attempting repair work without sufficient equipment and offering to the public "free" services to be charged for in the total bill. Use of inferior replacement parts was also frowned upon by the members.

Aim of the association was expressed as to raise the standard of radio service in the view of the more intricate electronic equipment which radio technicians are being required to service.

The guest speaker was suitably thanked by Mr. Fletcher of Picton.

DON'T JUST GET STIFF — DO SOMETHING

I'm sorry, folks, but having dragged my own bursitis into the conversation I must complete my report of the case for your information. As I explained, the real doctor called in to stop my moaning and crying gave me a shot of something—he did so perhaps three times in the course of several weeks. Then when I sustained a fracture of the other shoulder in an accident the X-ray films of both shoulders (made for comparison) revealed calcification of the bursa in the uninjured shoulder—and this is the common consequence of inflammation of the bursa.

By that time, I no longer had any pain in the shoulder, but I did have considerable stiffness and limited motion—and any attempt to use the arm more freely gave what I suppose some people would call pain.

At that time and for months afterward my chief complaint, so far as the bursitis was concerned, was the difficulty of finding a position in which I could rest nights without constant ache, I'd call it, from that blamed shoulder.

The first thing one with painful, lame, stiff shoulder must understand is, then, that a diagnosis is necessary to begin with, and for that a real doctor, not a trick healer or a part-time quack, is the one to consult.

The next thing to keep in mind is that the shoulder must be used, if necessary only passively—that is, manipulated by another person—very gently at first, and gradually more freely day by day, from the time when the acute inflammation subsides. If this is not done, the shoulder is likely to become permanently limited in usefulness.

Punishment, yes, I know. But, speaking as a former sufferer I assure you it is better to take such punishment daily for a few weeks and come out of it with a good shoulder than to baby yourself and be handicapped for the rest of your life with a crippled shoulder.

The passive movements or manipulations of which I speak should be given by the physician, the physical therapist under the physician's direction, or by a member of the family under such direction.

I found a half hour or so of diathermy to the shoulder just before the daily manipulations made them less painful—seemed to limber up the tissues.

The third thing one with bursitis must recognize is that along with such passive movements or manipulation of the shoulder active movements or exercises are necessary to supplement the treatment and restore full function. These active movements or special exercises should be prescribed by the physician to suit individual conditions. In any case the movements are to be gradually increased in extent until the full range of motion is regained.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Grinding the Teeth

My husband, 44, grinds his teeth so much while he is asleep that it wakes me up, and he doesn't know he is doing it.

(M. K.)

Answer—This is just my theory—I believe grinding the teeth in sleep is usually a manifestation of tetany—send a stamped envelope, bearing your address and ask for pamphlet "Adult Tetany and Growing Pains." Supplementing the diet with calcium and vitamin D has seemed to correct the trouble in many instances. I say seemed — of course I don't know whether Old John J. Coincidence takes a hand in it.

Not Losing

I want to thank you for your teachings about respiratory infection. I have raised six children and always kept them at home from school when they had running noses, sore throat or cough. None of them is afraid of cold, drafts or weather. But it is a losing fight—because all my neighbors send their children to school no matter what they have, and they think we are queer.

(Mrs. H. R. T.)

Answer— Your neighbors and their children and the school children and teachers who are exposed to what they happen to have, are losing. You and your children are winning. All but the more backward schools now send children home if they come to school with such obvious signs of infection as running noses, sore throat, cough.

Mind and Ambition

Please accept my thanks for your Iodin Ration instructions. In less than two months I have had a most satisfactory improvement in health, particularly in my state of mind and ambition.

(Miss M. M. R.)

Answer—A lot of people suffer from iodine deficiency, and low spirits or melancholic outlook and dullness or sleepiness are common manifestations of iodine deficiency. Send a stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet which tells you how to get your iodine.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Are timothy and clover seed used in making dyes?

The frequency with which this question pops up indicates that there is a widespread but erroneous belief that large quantities of timothy and clover seed are used in the manufacture of vegetable dyes.

At the present time no dyes are made of timothy and clover seed.

"Many references to such use of these and various grass seeds," wrote the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry some years ago "have reached this Bureau, but in spite of every effort to trace this information to some reliable source it has been found impossible to do so."

The U. S. Bureau of Chemistry and Soils also investigated the subject at that time and was unable to find a single manufacturer who utilizes timothy or clover seed for such a purpose.

Vegetable colors are generally very fugitive in respect to light and washing.

There is some evidence, however, that clover seed was at one time used to a limited extent in dyeing cloth, especially calico.

A grain dealer suggests that the popular notion that timothy seed is used for coloring purposes may have arisen from the common practice of preparing seed for the market by mixing new seed with old to brighten up its appearance, a process known as "coloring seed."

Dealers who purchased seed "to color up their stock" may have created the impression that it was to be used in the manufacture of dyes.

Ashley called for the various reports. There were 11 members and five visitors present. Fifteen calls were made on sick and shut-ins. Mrs. J. Adams was appointed vice chairman on the 'Post War Work committee'. The Supply Secretary, Mrs. H. Palmer, reported the request from the Presbyterial Secretary for one quilt. PLAINFIELD W.I.

Plainfield.— The March meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hall with the President, Mrs. Elliott, presiding and opening the meeting. Community singing followed led by Miss Lena Latta. Miss Annie Hamilton acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Hazzard, who is ill.

Letters of thanks were read for honey sent to England last year.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. Gow for plant sent her while ill. A committee was appointed to look after the banquet and gifts to be given all the boys who have served in the Armed Forces from this community.

The committee consists of Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Hazzard, Mrs. C. Beatty, Mrs. Clayton Hall, Mrs. E. Emerson, Mrs. Clarence Hall, Miss Annie Hamilton and Mrs. Arthur Hall.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S.

Stirling.—The members of St. Paul's W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. H. C. Martin, Front St., on Tuesday afternoon of this week. Following the opening exercises, the routine of business was dealt with.

Presbyterial meeting was announced for April 4, in Trenton and Mrs. Herbert David was appointed delegate.

Mrs. George Luery reported eighteen calls made and four birthday cards sent.

Mrs. A. E. Armstrong speaking on temperance said all eyes were turned on the Ontario Legislature now in session. At the present time, new breweries are being built and distilleries enlarged, and everything points to liquor control instead of government control of liquor. Each of the secretaries present gave encouraging reports and Mrs. C. Macklim, treasurer, gave a statement of finances.

The afternoon program was in charge of Miss D. Caldwell and committee. The leader stressed the value of the Missionary Monthly and read several short articles on various subjects from its pages.

Mrs. Harold West sang as a solo "Lord I Want to be a Christian", a meditation and an article entitled "An Appeal by a Negro Poetess", were given by Mrs. O. Stapley and Mrs. A. M. Laverty.

The Study Book chapter, "The Ministry of Healing and Social Welfare", was well given by Mrs. A. Armstrong. This chapter told of the different contributions that medical missions had made to the Africans in Angola. Each doctor was fitted by sound and scientific training to minister to his people. Some of the most common diseases are malaria, goitre, leprosy and malnutrition. Sixty per cent of all children die in their first year, and very few of the people live to be 60 years. Ignorance in child feeding was one of the main causes of infant mortality. One grandmother had been known to feed a two hour old baby corn meal mush and boiled beans. The medical missionaries are slowly but surely teaching the Angola natives the rules of health by short courses and demonstrations.

One of the outstanding features of the afternoon program was the group of three ladies who presented a short but delightful musical program. Mrs. Ott of Batawa, gave two much appreciated solos and Mrs. P. Hubble and Mrs. Orr of Stockdale, delighted their listeners with a duet.

Following delicious refreshments, Mrs. R. B. Duffin voiced the appreciation of the members to the hostess, the visitors and all who took part in the afternoon program.

Audience Thrilled by Beauty, Perfection of 'Pirates of Penzance' Portrayed by B.C.I. Glee Club

If Mr. First Nighter had left his Little Theatre off Times Square to attend the opening performance of "The Pirates of Penzance", he would have been thrilled, as were hundreds of Belleville first nighters, by its beauty and utter perfection. Such finished performances are seldom see elsewhere than on the professional stage and much credit is due the musical and dramatic directors for their training of the young actors.

Belleville has come to expect excellent acting from the Dramatic Club and beautiful singing from the Glee Club, and was delighted to find both acting and singing combined by the cast of this well-known Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, the first of its kind to be presented by the Collegiate. Bill Bankier endeared himself to the hearts of his hearers with his excellent portrayal of the fussy, precise old Major-General and Edna Moore, as Ruth, the pirate maid-of-all-work, presented the part with a great deal of skill. The excellent make-up was especially noticeable in this role, in which it transformed the pretty young teen-ager into an ugly old woman.

The parts of the hero, Frederic, played by Gordon Bankier, and the heroine, Mabel, played by Barbara Joan Houston, gave these two young singers opportunity to display their brilliant voices to the best advantage.

Clowned Way Through

Gordon Watkin turned in a wonderful performance as the Pirate King, and Percy Marcus, as the Sergeant of Police, clowned his way through the operetta, much to the delight and amusement of the audience. Samuel, the efficient pirate lieutenant, was very ably portrayed by Don Beavis, who showed his merit by stepping into the role at a late date and giving a polished performance.

The bevy of beautiful maidens, rugged pirates and stalwart policemen presented stirring choruses throughout the operetta. The costumes were beautiful as were the two settings, against which the story was unfolded.

Although all songs were delightful perhaps the most outstanding were Bill Bankier's solo, "I Am the Very Model of a Modern Major-General", the finale of Act I, "O Men of Dark and Dismal Fate", the beautiful duet of Mabel and Frederic, "Stay, Frederic, Stay", and the hilarious policemen's chorus, "When a Felon's not Engaged in His Employment".

A full house was present for the opening night and complete sell-outs are expected for the remaining two nights of the operetta.

The Cast

The complete cast is as follows: Major-General Stanley, Bill Bankier; The Pirate King, Gordon Watkin; Samuel, (His Lieutenant), Donald Beavis; Frederic (The Pirate Apprentice), Gordon Bankier; Sergeant of Police, Percy Marcus; General Stanley's Daughters: Mabel, Barbara Joan Houston; Edith, Ruth Hicks; Kate, Isabel Richardson; Isabel, Joan Hunter; Ruth (Pirate Maid-of-all-work) Edna Moore.

QUINTE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Quinte Women's Institute held a very interesting monthly meeting at Mrs. Fred Mitchell's home on Tuesday with around twenty-five members in attendance. The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. D. Atkins followed by prayer by Mrs. J. Donaldson.

Mrs. Atkins read some very appropriate poetry in memory of Miss Beatrice Jones, a very dear member who has been lately called away to her reward, after her many years of kindly service to all. Two minutes of reverent silence were held in her memory and respect, after which "Faith of Our Fathers", was sung with Mrs. F. Parrott, as pianist for the day.

Some discussion on child delinquency took place, led by the President, Mrs. Atkins. Plans were made for the health lecture demonstration at Front Road hall on April 2, at which Melrose, Tyendinaga East and Quinte W.I.'s are to meet and hear Miss Grace Hamilton from the department address the meeting on "Community Health Through Communicable Disease Control".

From the W.I. funds $10 was voted to the Amps' Fund, and $10 to the Red Cross.

Some discussion on sewing for the hospital took place and plans were made to have some sewing given out at the next meeting.

The need of help and work for the Red Cross was stressed by war work convener, Mrs. H. Grills. This work will not be called war work but will be mostly war relief work.

The convener of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Eric Leeming, took charge of the program.

Mrs. G. Conners gave a splendid paper on "How the Federal Government can Help the Farmer", which brought forth animated discussion.

Reading, Mrs. D. Leeming, "Mother's Quiet Weekend". Solo, "Old Rugged Cross", by Mrs. H. Grills. Contest, Mrs. Fred Mitchell, and prizes were given the winners and losers.

Mrs. Leeming spoke of the thanks and appreciation given Canadians by the English for the cocoa being given to each child at school, for the sewing, and for the boxes sent by their friends here. She also spoke of the importance of dried eggs, in the homes there, where there is such a very limited number of eggs available.

Mrs. Atkins thanked Mrs. Mitchell for opening her home and all who had assisted in the program.

At the last meeting it was decided to invest the Red Cross money on hand in a baby's layette to be given to the Red Cross. This layette was on display and Mrs. M. Ryan gave a very fine donation to the layette, a hand knit sweater, bonnet, mitts and booties, which was much appreciated.

The District Annual will be held at Plainfield, May 30, and all were asked by the District President, Mrs. A. Mitchell, to send in their reports of the year's work, at an early date to the district convener.

Next meeting will be at Mrs. W. Gray's.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and conveners.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

How's Your Popularity Rating?

What's your popularity rating, folks?

Judging from the letters a lot of you write me, I'd say there are a good many who think far too little of themselves. At any rate, to hear them tell it, they're tormented by doubts of themselves, by self-consciousness, timidities and fears—all the assorted disabilities that go into the making of a full-blown inferiority complex, which is a far from comfortable thing for anyone to be lugging around.

Listen to these few extracts from the morning's mail, typical of countless others that come to my desk every day:

"Whenever I'm with any group of people, I'm tongue-tied." That is a young man talking.

"I'm so lonesome. Everybody seems to have a good time but me. Sometimes I think nobody likes me." She's a teen-ager.

"How is it some people always know just what to say, and others like me, always seem to say the wrong thing?" At 31, the woman who writes this letter is thoroughly discouraged with herself and the kind of life she leads, stays at home more and more because she feels she "always makes a mess of things" when she goes out socially.

"I'd like to have a nice girl to go steady with, but I don't seem able to talk to girls, and I always think they're making fun of me." This man has reached the age of 42, wants to get married and have a home of his own, but has always been too shy to make friends with the other sex.

"If I go to a party, I feel like a dummy because I can't kid and wisecrack like the others do. What can I do about this?" This girl is 20, an age when she ought to be having a wonderful time.

And so it goes. I could use up a whole newspaper page quoting from the letters of people young and old, male and female, who long for social companionship but instead feel themselves "different"; who would give a couple of years of their lives to be gay and lively conversationalists, yet the more they want to, the more silent and "dumb" they seem to get. In other words, they want—as who doesn't—to be popular, liked and sought after by other people, and feel they never can be.

Of course each one believes his or her case is hopeless. That's part of the trouble. And that's the first thing they ought to get out of their heads, substituting the cheerful thought that no case of shyness and self-consciousness is hopeless. Something can be done about it. Perhaps not always quite as much as you would like, but enough to make you less self-conscious, more comfortable in company, more able to enjoy yourself with others.

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. The "pain cry" should have instant attention. For the feverish distress due to gas on stomach or bowels or those common digestive upsets, give Baby's Own Tablets at once. Mrs. May Mundy, of Toronto, finds they work every time.

"I am the mother of nine children, three of them prize babies, and Baby's Own Tablets have been my only medicine in raising them to the healthy children they now are. As soon as my children became a little feverish I at once gave them Baby's Own Tablets and in a very short time the fever disappeared and the children were normal again."

[illegible]ally effective for constipation, upset [illegible]ch, teething troubles and other minor [illegible]ents of babies.

Quickly effective. Sweet-tasting—easily crushed to a powder, if desired. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Get a package today. Sickness often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

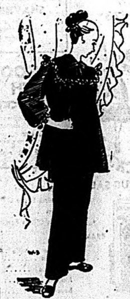
Important Complements

By ALICE ALDEN

AN OUTFIT is just as good as its accessories, which is why fashion-wise women select dress complements with great care and taste. Lovely Frances Greer, soprano star of the Metropolitan Opera Company likes to wear them with her personal wardrobe. She is very keen on American-designed and made clothes as befits an American singing star. Here she wears a new American fashion, an evening glove considerably shorter than those wont to be worn with evening gowns. Of black suede it has a "bracelet" of gold and stones. Her bag is of gold mesh and the pearl circlet that adorns her hair-do is finished with a jeweled pendant.

Interior Decoration

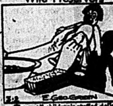


Smart Lounging Outfit

By VERA WINSTON

LOUNGING AND boudoir clothes get prettier all the time. Concealed beneath this pretty little black sheer coat is a black crepe bra which matches the black crepe trousers. The jacket is nice for wear over a black nightie as well as for lounging purposes. White lace outlines the square yoke and edges the bloused push-up sleeves.

Wife Preservers



The small children's stuffed dolls and animals which might be injured by a water soaking may be scrubbed on the surface with thick soapsuds, rinsed with a cloth wrung out of clear warm water, and wiped dry.

GOOD MANNERS

Who Pays Wedding Expenses

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I am entirely at sea as to who pays what expenses for my wedding, which is to be in June. For instance, doesn't the bridegroom pay for the flowers for the church? And who pays for the reception and the wedding cake? Who is supposed to pay for the attendants' costumes and for their bouquets? Thank you if you will help me.

A. C. D.

It is the bride's family, not the bridegroom, who provides the flowers for the church, who pays for the reception, and who provides the flowers for the bridal attendants (each attendant pays for her own costume.)

Plans for After-Wedding Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

My best friend, a war bride, was married suddenly. And although she had a large formal wedding, it was all planned on only a week's notice. Because of this shortage of time, it was impossible for me to give her the bridal shower I had intended. Now that her husband is discharged from the service and they are planning their own home, would you think it proper for me to give her a "household shower", perhaps calling it a "going-into-housekeeping shower," in place of the pre-marriage shower I had planned?

S. S.

Yes, this would be proper. But since I imagine she received many wedding presents for her large formal wedding, I think it would be wise for you to find out from her family just what classification of presents she most would welcome and choose that for your shower-designation. It might very well be a "kitchen shower". And also, if her friends have already given her wedding presents, their budgets might welcome the suggestion of a less expensive shower than would be indicated by "household" or even a "going - into - housekeeping" shower.

Or, for a more general party, you might like to wait until the couple are in their new home and then invite a group of the bride's intimate friends to join with you in planning a "house-warming shower" (perhaps, a surprise), to which both men and girls could be invited.

Dress For Usherettes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I would like to have your opinion about one of our class affairs. Our junior class is giving a play in the evening, and nine other girls and I are to be usherettes. A few of the girls would like to wear street-length dresses; the others would like to wear formal gowns. Which, in your opinion, is correct?

S. F.

For me to give an opinion about this would be entirely out-of-order. The group of usherettes should get authoritative direction about this from the principal of à 7$tma... it |s.... the school, or from your junior class adviser, or from the director of the play. It is for them, not for you girls, to make the decision.

PROTECT LOCAL PLUMBERS

Woodstock, March 14—(CP)—Woodstock Public Utilities Commission decided Tuesday night to refuse licences to plumbers in the city who were not actual residents within the city limits.

The Commission explained that the ruling was designed to protect local plumbers against competition from non-resident plumbers.

BACK TO THE BUSH

Sydney, Australia (CP)—Alexander Solomon of Gulargambone, the first full-blooded aboriginal appointed to the New South Wales Aborigines' Welfare Board, resigned after three months and went back to the bush. He said he lost too much money travelling to Sydney for board meetings—375 miles each way.

Unveil Honor Roll At Special Service

Stirling—The unveiling and dedication of the Honor Roll, took place on Sunday morning last at a special service held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, in recognition of the members and adherents of the congregation who enlisted in His Majesty's forces.

The Honor Roll was designed by S. Murphy who also inscribed the names thereon.

The service was in charge of the pastor, the Rev. W. H. V. Walker, who welcomed the large congregation and especially the Veterans of both wars who occupied the front seats of the church. Flt. Lieut. J. A. Koffend, a former minister of St. Andrew's, brought a very timely message to all. In his remarks, he emphasized the importance of placing Honor Rolls in the churches that the patriotism of our men and women may be remembered and as a fitting tribute to those who offered themselves, at the call of duty, for active service in the defence of home and country. He made reference to the post-war planning along sound democratic lines. Following this appropriate address, Major Edgar Matthews, a veteran of both wars and a member of St. Andrew's, read the names on the Roll then lifted the Union Jack to display the beautiful Honor Roll. There followed the dedication of the Honor Roll by the minister. A full choir sang the anthem "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus" with Mrs. R. H. Williams at the console of the organ and Mr. R. A. Herniston accompanying with the violin.

The church was patriotically decorated with flags and flowers. Two large Union Jacks crossed in front of the pulpit with a photo of His Majesty King George VI in the centre. Of the twenty-eight members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church who offered themselves for King and Country, no casualties had occurred for which great thankfulness was felt by all.

Churchill Places Wreath on Grave Of Roosevelt

Hyde Park, N.Y., March 14 — (AP) — A wreath of white carnations was placed on the rose-garden grave of Franklin D. Roosevelt Tuesday, by his friend and ally of the war years, Winston Churchill.

The stocky former British Prime Minister, who had motored from New York with his wife and daughter, stood with head downcast, a slight frown on his face, for two minutes of silence beside the grave of the man whose name and destiny history has linked with his.

Near-by, dressed in black, was the widow of the late President, and beside her stood Mrs. Churchill.

In addition to Mrs. Churchill and their daughter, Mrs. Sarah Churchill Oliver, Mr. Churchill was accompanied by John G. Winant, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James's.

Mrs. Roosevelt's son, Elliot, and his wife, the former actress Faye Emerson, also were present.

Walking carefully over the spongy turf, which had thawed under a bright sun, Mr. Churchill placed the wreath atop the grave. It was a large wreath, heavy with Rhododendron leaves, and he adjusted it carefully so it would not slip.

Mr. Churchill and his party were Mrs. Roosevelt's guests at a luncheon.

Mr. Churchill later went to Albany for a visit with Governor Dewey. He was accompanied by Col. Frank Clarke of Quebec, his host in the United States. They will stay overnight at the executive mansion and return tomorrow to New York City.

The purpose of Mr. Churchill's visit to Albany was not announced. The Governor's office said a meeting between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Dewey was requested by the Earl of Halifax, retiring British Ambassador to the United States. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Dewey never had met before Tuesday.

Mrs. Churchill and her daughter returned to New York City from Hyde Park.

Stokowski's Wife Discontinues Her Mother's Allowance

Mexico City, March 14—(AP)—Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski says she has decided to discontinue an allowance to her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, "because I am certain she can work as she has done in the past and as I am doing at present."

Mrs. Stokowski, wife of conductor Leopold Stokowski, said in a statement last night that she was giving the money formerly supplied to her mother "to blind children and to help feed children who are homeless and starving in many countries." She said she had established a foundation for this purpose.

She issued the statement after Mrs. Vanderbilt was quoted in New York as saying an allowance awarded her by the courts before her daughter came of age had been cut off by Mrs. Stokowski.

Dear Sirs:

This year I have used your "Miracle" Chick Starter and I want to let you know the results I have had.

I received 430 chicks. They are New Hampshire Reds. I have only lost five, two of which were killed because they were crippled, and the others died from natural causes.

The chicks are strong and healthy, well feathered and growing fast.

They like the feed tremendously and clean it all up.

I am more than pleased with the results.

Yours truly, M. P.

Farmers' Night At Rotary Club Big Success

Picton, March 14—The food situation in the world today is critical and many people, especially children, are starving to death," said Dr. W. C. Hopper, Principal Agricultural Economist, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in an address at the Rotary Club here Tuesday night when farmers' night was observed.

"A lack of transportation is partly responsible for this condition in which the densest populations are suffering the most, especially in China and India. The United Kingdom, by great sacrifice, is doing its best to feed the world and Canada is doing a noble part, but we could do even more," Dr. Hopper stated.

"We must realize that hunger carries with it international jealousy and envy; that most wars are bred through economic differences," said the speaker, who outlined the aims of the F.A.O.

"According to those who have studied world conditions, if modern science and technology could be applied to all resources of the world, it would be possible to give every member of the human family of about two billion souls sufficient food, clothing and shelter to meet their needs adequately. That would be the great assignment to the United Nations, food and agriculture organizations. The F.A.O. must succeed," said Dr. Hopper.

"There must not be a recurrence of the 1930's when food was destroyed. We must distribute food through an international arrangement," said Dr. Hopper.

"Elimination of food waste is important. It is estimated 30 per cent of food produced in the U.S.A. is wasted.

"Trade barriers are a great obstacle. We must be prepared to lower these barriers.

"The F.A.O. has a tremendous program and it will take many years to reach final conclusion, but if all nations think in terms of the world as a whole, food problems can be solved. If we fail, civilization may be destroyed," Dr. Hopper concluded.

F. J. Webster introduced the speaker who was thanked by G. A. Welch. Warden E. Brummell expressed appreciation of the hospitality shown the farmer guests.

Thoughts by the Way

—By Helen B. Anderson

MARCH TWILIGHT

A twilight hush pervades the land,
No wanton breezes wander by
To stir the trees, a silent band,
So like grim sentinels they stand clear-etched against a crimson sky.

The ice-bound lake in winter's thrall
Gives no assuring signs of Spring,
But as the twilight shadows fall,
And wings of dusk encompass all,
We hear a robin sing!

O sweet this season of repose!
The quiet hush of twilight time!
When colorful in gold and rose
The sunset flag a glamor throws
Inspiring thoughts sublime.

—Helen B. Anderson

On my return from a delightful drive into the village of Wellington on Tuesday, March 12, I was elated to hear the familiar song of the robin—and there he was in the old plum tree singing with all his might and responding to my call as in the days of the past summer. For I am certain, escaping death, they return year after year to their accustomed haunts. What a big, gay fellow he was—he revealed no ill effects of a tiresome journey.

New hopes and aspirations are stirred at the song of the first robin. Tropical climes, although escaping the ravages of winter, are deprived of the pleasure of witnessing the miracle of Spring and the coming of the birds

"Robin, Sir Robin, gay, red-vested Knight,
Now you have come to us, Summer's in sight;
You never dream of the wonders you bring,
Visions that follow the flash of your wings;
How all the beautiful by-and-by Around you and after you seem to fly."

A SONG OF ERIN

Oh! let us sing of Erin,
The Green Isle of the sea—
A land held by her children
In loving memory;
Though far away they wander
Across the ocean foam,
Their hearts are ever turning
To Ireland and to home.

They hear the curfew calling,
They see the turf-fire glow,
They see the greening moorland
Where bright the shamrocks grow;
But though they dream of Erin,
To this new land they bring
A spirit, strong, courageous
And hearts to laugh and sing.

—H. B. A.

On St. Patrick's Day, thoughts of Irishmen world over, are turning to Erin, the land of their birth. To those of us, who know Ireland only from the pages of history, it is a land of strife and dissension, but to the native born, no matter how far away they may roam, it is the fairest land on earth. If we are to believe what we read in Irish song and story, this love of the home-land is a characteristic of the Irish race. I recall a sad story my mother used to tell of an Irish youth who came to Canada in pioneer days to make his home near the present village of Wellington, and having become homesick, wandered away into the woods and died. His body was found by some children playing.

And I am sure that the late Archie McFaul, one of Wellington's most enterprising settlers, held his native land in kindly remembrance, when he named the commodious residence that he built in East Wellington, "Tara Hall" after the home of the ancient Irish Kings. Did he dream of becoming a ruler in this new western land?

O Tara Hall, did thy builder dream
As he planned each turret and tower and beam
That an Irish King might reign in thee
As in old Tara across the sea?

Among the native poets who have sung Ireland's praises we find Thomas Moore, Oliver Goldsmith, and W. B. Yeats. But no one has sung sweeter songs than our Canadian poet, the late Norah Holland. We quote the following from "A Song of Erin"—

One by one her children leave her—stalwart sons and daughters fair,
Straining eyes grow dim with anguish as her hilltops melt in air;
Bending from her cliffs she watches, drinking deep of their despair.

Yet she showers her gifts upon them—gifts of laughter and of tears;
Gives their eyes the vision splendid, fairy music to their ears,
Weaves around their feet her magic—spells that strengthen through the years.
So her children, unforgetting, howso'er their footsteps roam,
Turn their hearts forever westward, longing for the day to come
When once more they see her stooping from her heights to call them home.

I have before me an invitation to a Saint Patrick Party, printed on green paper and decorated with shamrocks, the party to be held in Melville School Saturday evening, March 16. A pot-luck supper and a lively program. Surely the spirit of the Emerald Isle is abroad!

LABOR AND SOCIAL SECURITY FEATURE HOUSE DEBATE

C.C.F. Member Says Provincial Labor Organization Totally Inadequate

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—The overwhelming majority of workers in Ontario consider the provincial labor legislation "totally inadequate," R. H. Carlin (C.C.F. Sudbury) asserted Wednesday night as the Ontario legislature held its second night sitting in a drive to conclude the debate on the Throne Speech.

Other night speakers were G. C. Elgie (PC—Toronto Woodbine) who urged the government to "cut the ground from under the feet of our extremists" by leading in broad measures of social security and J. M. Newman (Lib.-Lab.-Rainy River) who asked for development of the Rainy River district.

Labor legislation and social security had also highlighted the regular afternoon sitting when Joseph Meinzinger (Lib.-Lab.—Waterloo North) appealed for legislation that would overcome what he called "abuse and exploitation of workers."

And Mr. Meinzinger stoutly defended the "innocent pastime" of bingo . He said Kitchener residents were "bingo fanatics" and he didn't think much of efforts to "stamp out vice" by cracking down on bingo games and pinball machines.

Provincial Treasurer Frost remarked that the ban is a federal law and must be enforced by the province.

The provincial police had seized 48 pinball machines in Kitchener, said Meinzinger and his delegation went to see Premier Drew about it but "we never did get near him." Yet the machines were "flourishing" in other parts of Ontario—Galt, Guelph, Hespeler, Hamilton and Toronto.

Criticized Expenditures

Mr. Meinzinger's two-hour address contained a plea for "enlightened" labor legislation and criticism of expenditures on Ontario House in London, England. He asked a minimum wage for men, without loopholes. There was a minimum wage for women, but in Kitchener girls worked for as low as $7 or $8 a week.

Increased old age pensions and mothers' allowances were also suggested by Mr. Meinzinger. Old men and women came to his office weeping; the only possible course was to send them to houses of refuge. Of the present allowances, he said "they don't liquidate them; they starve them to death."

Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development, replied to critics of his department by outlining its activities and said he does not believe it is the government's function "to legislate industry into one place or another," nor to provide grants to municipalities.

New Industries Established

Porter said several new industries had been established in the province, and 125 inquiries of a definite nature had been received from other nations as to industrial possibilities here. "The great need of the moment is not for lavish government spending, but for planning," he declared.

The Minister chided Garfield Anderson (CCF-Fort William) for criticising information bulletins put out by the planning department. Mr. Porter said he had received a letter from Mr. Anderson in the latter's capacity as Mayor of Fort William terming the circulars useful and instructive.

Claims He Never Saw Letter

Mr. Anderson said he had never seen the letter and Mr. Porter quoted from the letter which he said was signed by the city clerk. It said "His Worship the Mayor wishes me to advise you that he wishes to have his name retained" on the mailing list for the circulars.

"You can take my name off now," Mr. Anderson retorted.

In the night debate Mr. Carlin said those who contend that Ontario's labor laws are the best in the world should study the Wagner Act in the United States, which entitled American workers to things for which Ontario workers have to fight.

"The issue is not whether workers are reds, pinks or blues," said the Sudbury member. "The issues are a 40-hour work week with the same take-home pay, two-week vacations with pay and maintenance of membership.

Workers Have a Fight

"In Canada workers have to fight for these things. I say they are entitled to them."

Many workers in Ontario toiled for the "scandalously low wage of $9 or $12 a week."

Union security was another vital issue. "We ask — and we ask now — that if we show a majority of workers in a given plant, then the right of check-off and closed shop should be ours for the asking," Mr. Carlin said. "It is the duty of a government under the process of democracy to see that these things become ours."

Mr. Elgie also spoke of union security. It was a question hedged about with controversy. The Toronto member said he thought it was the government's duty to indicate how far it wants to go on union security before the issue proves a threat to industrial peace.

Should Not be Duplicated

Mr. Porter, speaking of his department, said in rehabilitation, it had participated in conferences at North Bay, London and Belleville last June. But rehabilitation grants, pensions, counselling services and other items were included "in the Dominion scheme" and should not be duplicated by other levels of government.

Conferences on river valley development had been held at London and Kingston and in southern Ontario to provide for a conservation program. A detailed hydraulic, soil, forestry, wild life and recreation survey had been conducted in the Thames River valley near London and 16 gauging stations established on larger rivers in southern Ontario.

Mr. Porter took issue with an editorial in a Toronto newspaper (Daily Star), declaring the editorial quoted Dr. George Langford, former secretary of the department, as saying that it planned to spend $100,000,000 a year for 10 years.

Porter said the editorial was "untrue" in associating him with such remarks and he said he did not think Dr. Langford had made any such statement.

"Why did Dr. Langford resign?" asked A. A. MacLeod, (Lab-Prog. Toronto Bellwoods.)

"That's another matter," said Mr. Porter.

Overseas Closeups

With Canadian Forces Overseas, March 14 (CP)—An Army Quiz Group, formed to instruct service personnel of the British, Canadian and American services about the United Nations, visited units of the Canadian Army Occupation Force.

Questions about the general assembly, the trusteeship council and the international court of Justice were answered by the American member; the economic and social council was the concern of the British member, and the security council was the charge of the Canadian member, Capt. R. T. McKenzie of Vancouver.

From helping displaced persons to lending money to destitute European aristocrats, is all in a day's work for personnel of R.C.A.F.'s 120 Transport Wing, says Sqdn. Ldr. C. G. Harville of Los Angeles, Calif., veteran pilot of 437 R.C.A.F. Squadron, Odiham, Hampshire.

Sqdn. Ldr. Harville recently flew an English-born Austrian countess from Prague to London. To enable her to reach her English friends, who were not aware of her arrival, a Canadian member of the crew contributed £1 ($4.50) to pay her taxi fare. But duties performed by aircrew of the all-Canadian transport wing vary from carrying freight to operating a shuttle service of civilians, displaced persons and service personnel between the Continent and the United Kingdom.

Among recent batches of R. C. A. F. personnel being repatriated to Canada were two leading lights of the newspaper "Canocc"—publication of the R. C. A. F.'s 126 Wing, near Uetersen, Germany. They were Cpl. W. T. Williams, Toronto, editor-in-chief and LAC. W. D. (Herb) Herron, Calgary, staff writer and production manager.

Cpl. Williams, who before the war worked in the Toronto office of The Canadian Press, helped found "Canocc" last year with Group Capt. G. R. McGregor, Montreal and Flt. Lt. Gerry Anglin, Toronto. LAC. Herron was on the paper's staff almost at its inception.

Sqdn. Ldr. P. G. Evans, Ottawa, newly-appointed secretary of the R.C.A.F. Benevolent Fund Overseas Claims Committee, says the fund has distributed large sums to members and ex-members of the R.C.A.F. overseas, their families and dependents.

Maintained by voluntary contributions from servicemen and outside helpers, the committee tackles anything from a loan to help an ex-airman over a difficult financial situation, to arranging payment for medical expenses in an airman's family. In many cases the committee is instrumental in arranging financial aid from proper governmental agencies.

---

126 Wing's "Canada Club" run by Canadian Legion War Services, did a lot for R.C.A.F. personnel in its first three months.

Under Supervisor Charles M. Norman of Olds, Alta., the club has already fed hungry Canadians with 30,800 sandwiches; 21,120 glasses of Canadian fruit juices; 12,300 dishes of fruit and 120,000 pastries.

Entertainment supplied includes 30 "live" shows, attended by 24,000 men and 52 movies, attended by 40,000 men.

Picket Lines Prevent Crew Boarding Ship

Ecorse, Mich., March 14—(CP)—Picket lines at the Nicholson Terminal Company dock here prevented the crew of the 6,000-ton freighter 'Sierra' from boarding the ship to outfit it prior to another season of lake shipping. As it was 13 members of the crew were on board and couldn't get off the ship.

But the problem was solved Tuesday when two tugs of McQueen Marine Limited at Amherstburg chugged across the Detroit River and towed the "Sierra" to a Windsor, Ont. dock where the additional crew members joined the ship and started outfitting operations. The stranded crewmen came over by car. The ship will be ready for its first 1946 lake voyage in ten days.

Deportation Order Will be Suspended Pending Appeal

Ottawa, March 14 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced Wednesday action under orders-in-council for the deportation of some Japanese in Canada will be suspended pending the outcome of any appeal to the Privy Council from a Supreme Court judgment confirming the government's authority to make the deportations.

Mr. King said the government would facilitate any appeal to the Privy Council.

(The co-operative committee on Japanese Canadians announced in Toronto last month the Supreme Court ruling would be appealed.)

A statement from Mr. King's office said:

"In the meantime, the Department of Justice will proceed with arrangements to assist any Japanese who wish to leave Canada to do so at an early date.

"Mr. King made it clear that notwithstanding the fact that the orders-in-council are under review, any Japanese persons who wish to go to Japan will be accorded the terms provided for in order-in-council P. C. 7355, which allows the removal of the value of all property and assets held in Canada, and which provides for minimum financial credits and government assistance in needy cases.

"Persons leaving under these arrangements will be accorded free transportation for themselves and their families and for whatever baggage allotment is allowed by shipping conditions."

MET BY RELATIVES

Fort Erie, March 14 (CP) — June Veronica (Judy) Buckley, 17-year-old English girl who reached Boston as a stowaway on an American ship, arrived last night to be reunited with Mr. and Mrs. Rhys Edwards, her uncle and aunt, with whom she will make her home at St. Thomas. The girl had been granted permission to enter Canada after being held by United States immigration officers.

HITS STAGE CRITICS

Maxwell Anderson, prominent Broadway playwright, raises a storm in New York theatrical circles by challenging the right of newspaper critics to decide whether a play is good or bad. In paid advertisements he announced the closing of his production "because the critics didn't give it a chance to find its audience." He said critics as a group, have power which they are not qualified to exercise "either by their training or by their taste."

Tells of Beatings In Internment Camp

Montreal, March 14 (CP) — Margaret Burns, Montreal Salvation Army Adjutant, who spent three years in a Japanese internment camp at Singapore, said in an interview here following her arrival from overseas, "Never trust a Jap—not a single one of them is decent."

Miss Burns, who suffered a spinal injury eight months after her internment, spent the rest of the three years on an iron cot, her body encased in a plaster cast—the same one because the Japanese refused to give British doctors any more plaster.

She told of the indignities, the torturings, the daily beatings and slappings suffered by her friends. She also told how life was made bearable by the gallantry, kindness and cheerfulness of her fellow internees.

She said babies were born, but that nearly all of them died within a few days or weeks, their bodies buried with those of internees, who died with appalling regularity.

Meals consisted of three servings daily of ground rice and "sludge" — a kind of soup. Rice was served in the bottom of tin cups which the Japanese sold their prisoners who used the cups for eating, drinking, cleaning their teeth and a multitude of other purposes.

Miss Burns, who said the Japanese women and children were not too bad, added that the men, now they have been conquered, are planning ways and means of hitting back.

"If the Allies are not careful, the Japs will turn on them. They are not to be trusted," she said.

Miss Burns, who went to Singapore in 1935 to open a home for unfortunate girls, was interned by the Japanese, in February, 1942.

First Contingent C.A.O.F. Leaves Europe March 22

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Aurich, Germany, March 14 — (CP Cable) — The first contingent of the Canadian Army occupation force is expected to start pulling out of the Canadian sector of northwest Germany March 22 en route to England for repatriation to Canada.

The initial force to leave will be the 7th Brigade group of about 3,500 troops commanded by Lt.-Col. J. N. Medhurst of Toronto, the group includes the occupation battalions of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles, the Regina Rifles and the Queen's Own Rifles, of Toronto.

The 7th Brigade group will be followed by the 8th and 9th Brigade/groups in that order and while it is officially announced that it is expected to take four months to move the C. A. O. F. from Europe, some authorities forecast the move may be completed by early June.

It now is believed that British troops will take over from the Canadians in their area rather than troops of the 1st Polish Armored Division, as was tentatively planned.

Diamond Industry Expects Big Year

Johannesburg (CP)—A new record in 1946 for the South African diamond industry, which last year produced approximately £24,000,000 ($108,000,000), is predicted by authoritative sources in the Union's second largest mineral interest.

The estimate for 1945 was £4,000,000 more than the previous peak in 1943, and the outlook for diamonds is considered to be better at the moment than for several years.

Extension of international diamond agreements for a further five years has stabilized the diamond industry and South African mines will be worked to full capacity with the assurance that everything they produce will find a market.

Sis Ernest Oppenheiner, mine director, said recently there is no intention of departing from the war-time policy of the Diamond Trading Company of keeping prices for diamonds slightly below the index of general commodity prices in the United States, Britain and South Africa.

"No "exploitation" policy is envisaged to try to meet the present boom in diamond demand although the Premier Mine near Pretoria and the Jagersfontein deposits near Kimberley may soon be brought into production again. The demand will, apparently, still exceed the supply.

Speculative Demand

In diamond shares, as in gold, there is a big speculative demand in South Africa, with the small buyer playing a considerable part in the market.

The marketing side of the diamond industry is being put on a new footing. The Diamond Trading Company will still handle all sales of gemstones in the rough (possible about £16,000,000 a year at current prices from all sources in South Africa, present and potential) but a new company is being formed to handle sales of industrial diamonds.

Detailed figures of employment on all South African diamond fields are not readily available. But the general manager of the De Beer's Company in Kimberley gives figures which indicate the trend of development.

During 1939 De Beer's employed 1,058 Europeans and 1,409 natives compared with 2,760 Europeans and 5,607 natives in 1945.

Kimberley will give no authoritative report on the future prospects of the diamond industry, but it is thought there that the employment figures are a good augury for the industry's expansion.

GIVE FIREMEN TROUBLE

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—Youths who started a series of grass fires in the north end of suburban Mimico last night climaxed their pranks by attempting to hnder Fire Chief William Spindler and his men in their efforts to extinguish the blaze. Chief Spindler asserted there were "hundreds of youths lighting fires a block ahead of us as fast as firemen could put out other grass fires."

NEW COUPONS VALID

Ottawa, March 13 —(CP)—Three of the new combined sugar-preserves coupons will become valid during April — S5 on April 4 and S6 and S7 on April 18, The Prices Board announced last night. The announcement said this was not extra sugar but part of the yearly plan for sugar distribution. However, it added that validation of three coupons would give some relief during the current butter shortage by allowing consumers to buy additional preserves as spreads in place of butter.

The President acted at Mr. Pauley's request. He said Mr. Pauley's defence of his "good name" has been "valiant and conclusive."

In a letter, Mr. Truman told Mr. Pauley that he "met the challenge" of his nomination "with facts" and added:

"You answered prejudice with a complete and forthright resume of your career and with an amazing patience under continued misrepresentation."

The action wound up six weeks of controversy which boiled up at one point in the explosive resignation of Harold L. Ickes as Secretary of Interior. Mr. Ickes had criticized the nomination.

COLD GOT YOU ALL STUFFED-UP?

Do This Quick for Relief!

If you are sneezing and snuffling from a cold . . . all stuffed-up, with your nose and throat raw and sore—combat this distress, as thousands do, by gargling with new Pepsodent Antiseptic.

The reason it's recommended is this: Standard laboratory tests prove new Pepsodent Antiseptic kills millions of germs that go with colds. The very type of germs that many medical authorities say often heighten the misery and prolong the effects of a cold.

Isn't it only common sense then, to gargle with new Pepsodent Antiseptic at first sign of a cold! What better way to combat millions of germs that swarm on mouth and throat surfaces as far back as you can reach . . . back where illness often strikes first!

So treat a cold this sensible way: Get plenty of rest, avoid exposure, dress warmly, drink plenty of liquids...and gargle frequently with new Pepsodent Antiseptic. See if you don't relieve discomfort almost at once!

Kingston Saints Rally to Defeat Belleville Bears in Second Game of Playdowns by 7 to 6

Jerry Moher Given Match Misconduct Penalty for Arguing Decision

Coming from behind in the last five minutes to score four goals, Kingston "Saints" put on a real "Frank Merriwell" finish to edge out Belleville Juniors 7-6 in Kingston Wednesday night to tie up the best-of-three series at one game apiece. After outplaying the Saints for fifty minutes, the Bears folded in the last stanza and the speedy Kingstonians were quick to take advantage of the lapse and after tieing the score, sank the winning margin with less than two minutes left to play.

For Belleville, it was a tough one to lose. The Bears were riding high as they took the ice for the final chapter and perhaps this had something to do with their lapse. With elimination staring them in the face, the Saints really went to work in the last ten minutes and much could be said about their "never-say-die" spirit. For them, it was a sweet victory.

Moher Given Match Penalty

The Bears offered no alibis. One thing that did hit them hard however was the "match misconduct" penalty to captain "Jerry" Moher midway through the middle session. Referee 'Yip' Radley gave Moher the penalty for questioning a decision. We have always been under the impression that the team captain was certainly within his rights to question a decision. According to Moher, and incidentally, we believe him, he did not use abusive language to the arbiter. Nevertheless, in spite of what we may think at times, the referee is always right, right or wrong, and so the Belleville aggregation played the rest of the game without Moher, a very valuable member of the team.

The first stanza opened with the Bears carrying the play to the Saints. When the period was but four minutes old, Billy Holway opened the scoring for Belleville when Jack Wardhaugh laid out a neat pass from behind the Kingston net.

Wardhaugh Put in Clear

At the eight-minute mark, Barrett and Jack Wardhaugh rushed with Barrett carrying the puck. He drew the defence over very nicely and as he fell, slipped a pass to Jack Wardhaugh who was in the clear and made no mistake about making it 2-0.

Jack Wardhaugh drew a penalty for "tripping" and while he was off, the Saints ganged up on the Belleville defence. York broke away during the ganging act and waltzed right in on Brown in the Kingston cage all alone only to be turned aside by the canny Brown.

At 14.50, Moher and Barrett combined to make it 3-0 with the latter being the marksman.

The Saints finally clicked with only three minutes to go in the period. Al Rogers rifled a hard one at Plumley and Ronnie Plumb picked up the rebound to bat it in the cage to finish the scoring for the period in which Belleville had a distinct edge in the play.

Kingston pressed hard at the start of the middle canto and seemed to have the Bears momentarily bewildered. Moher missed a royal chance to score when he took a pass from Barrett and walked right in on Brown only to be outguessed.

At the 5.20 mark while Ronnie Plumb was serving his second penalty of the evening, "Huck" Reeves made it 4-1 when he slapped Harry Wardhaugh's rebound into the rigging.

Offenders Escorted Out

The game was held up at this point because of the discussion on Jerry Moher's "match" penalty. The discussion didn't do any good however and the play went on. Then came another hold-up in the game when the Kingston fans saw fit to throw bottles and paper on the ice when Joyce was penalized. The long arm of the law reached out however and the offenders were escorted to the door without even a rain check.

The play had just started again when one of the players leaned up against the boards at one end of the rink a little too hard and two or three of the boards promptly assumed a horizontal position until such times as the repair men arrived on the scene to nail them back in place again.

At 13:55, Lorne Ferguson picked the puck up in the centre zone and went in all alone to bulge the twine and make it 4-2 on a very pretty rush. With two minutes left to play, Cal York rushed with Jack Wardhaugh and the latter took the pass and beat Brown cleanly to make it 5-2 for Belleville at the end of a period in which the play was well even.

York Serves Penalty

There were many anxious moments for the Belleville supporters at the start of the final session especially while York was serving a penalty for falling on the puck. Art Plumley however, was hotter than the proverbial firecracker and managed to hold the fort.

At 9:12, Sammy Mulholland made it 5-3 when he slapped in a loose puck from a scramble in front of the Belleville citadel with Davidson and Joyce drawing assists on the play. At 14:20, Don Barrett got his second tally of the game when he broke away with Dick Fitzpatrick.

At this point it looked as if the Saints were going to hang up their gear for the season. Coach "Squeak" Reason, throwing caution to the wind, sent on five forwards in a last attempt to even the count. It certainly paid off. At 15:19, Ferguson and Mulholland combined to make it 6-4. Spurred on by this success, the Saints swarmed in on the Belleville zone in waves and eleven seconds later, Mulholland made it 6-5 on a pass from Ronnie Plumb. The Kingstonians continued to press the attack to the withering Bears and at 16:45, Bob Joyce rifled home the equalizer with Davidson getting the assist.

Goalie Hurt on Play

With only one minute and fifty-five seconds left to play, Ronnie Plumb carried the puck the full length of the ice to notch the winning counter unassisted.

Art Plumley was hurt on the play and after taking the allowed "ten minutes for repairs", Dick Fitzpatrick donned the pads and played goal for the remaining two minutes of play.

The Bears fought hard to tie it up but it just wasn't their night.

For Belleville Don Barrett, Jack Wardhaugh, Dick Fitzpatrick and "Huck" Reeves looked good on the attack while Billy Holway, Cal York and Doug Green played well on the defence. Art Plumley played a magnificent game "between the pipes", turning in his best performance of the season.

Sammy Mulholland, Lorne Ferguson and Ronnie Plumb were the pick of the Limestone City aggregation "up front" while Al Rogers turned in a fine effort on the rearguard.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

THE SEED IS PLANTED

It was regrettable that due to circumstances, a full turnout of officials and representatives of the Belleville Baseball League was not apparent at the annual meeting held in the YMCA. The attendance was such that officials decided to lay over the annual election of officers until next Tuesday night when a special meeting has been called for that purpose.

• • •

There was little to the meeting outside of the reading of financial reports and a swelegant speech by Prexy Jack McVeigh. The estimable John, who accepted the skippership of the baseball barque destined to sail on an unknown, uncharted sea, came through with flying colors and it is in no small measure due to his qualities of leadership and the co-operation of his executive that baseball history was made last year must go down in the archives as an unqualified success.

• • •

Starting from scratch with numerous obstacles in front of them, officials, executive and team managers put their shoulder to the wheel and a co-operation born of good feeling and fellowship resulted in a lifting of baseball from the doldrums in which it has rested for the past decade. Prexy McVeigh, with typical modesty placed the accolade of success on the shoulders of Secretary Ernie Summers, an amiable cuss, and the team managers. True, they did a swell job, and it is hoped that the thread will be taken up where it was severed last fall.

• • •

Both McVeigh and Summers have signified their intention of resigning, with a rider attached to the effect that they will co-operate to their fullest extent in anything but an official capacity.

• • •

That is not good news to baseball fans. It is hoped that both gentlemen will suffer a change of heart and go back into the offices which did so much to revive the summer pastime last year. However, if they cannot see their way clear to act again, they leave behind a monument to their activities that will stand as a distinct reminder of what hard work, despite handicaps, can accomplish.

• • •

However, managers of teams, the executive and others interested in the league should make all effort to attend the meeting next Tuesday night. It is important that a full representation turn out so that a proper executive can be elected and plans for the coming season laid down. It is only fair to the officials of last year that all should be on hand for the election of officers. So let's make it an all-out attendance job and get the 1946 Belleville Baseball League rolling on the first leg of its long seasonal grind.

Retort Courteous

The other day in a German city the Fritzes and Jerries, post-war style, went into spasms of joy when a German football team defeated a squad composed of British service men.

One young deflated superman laughed uproariously. He picked out a young British Tommy standing nearby and between guttural guffaws, shouted, "See Tommy, we've beaten you at your national game."

The Tommy looked up at the Jerry. "That's right, mate," he retorted. "But remember, we've beaten you at your national game twice."

AND HE DOESN'T NEED RELIEF

Down in Sanford, Florida, the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp, the 'Bums' have a rubber arm pitcher. It's a machine like a millimetre gun that never gives a base on balls or hits a batsman. Moreover, it throws a nifty sinker.

It's rigged up in an empty lot across the road from the ball park and operates much after the manner of a slingshot. The ball is released by a rubber band.

Cookie Lavagetto, was playing around with the contraption, loading it with ammunition when the gun backfired and caught his right hand in the mechanism, bruising it badly. The veteran third baseman had the injury X-rayed and the pix revealed a partial fracture. He will be in drydock ten days.

AIN'T HAY, BROTHER

Down in Mexico, the land of hot tamales, warm, vivid senoritas and tequila, the baseball moguls aren't fooling when it comes to laying "mucha dinero" (simoleons, bucks, iron men, that is,) on the line, to bring the summer pastime back to their land in unprecedented style.

Behind the Mexican League is said to be 50 million dollars not pesos. The owners and their estimated wealth include: Mexico City, Pasquel Brothers, $30,000,000; Peubla, Castor Montota, $3,000,000; Tampico, Mexican - USA capital, $6,000,000; Monterey, Aurelio Ferrera, and others, $12,000,000; San Luis Potosi, Dr. Quijano, $1,000,000; Nuevo Laredo, Longorio, Bros., $10,000,000; Torreon, Jose Ortiz, estimate unavailable.

The Mehicos are dangling tempting dollar bait before crack American players—and not a few have fallen for the lure of the southern bucks. Bob Feller, ace Cleveland Indians hurler recently refused an offer from the Mexican League for $400,000 for three years. But the speedball artist intimated that he might be interested in a barnstorming tour of Mexico next winter.

• • •

Ralph McCabe, Cleveland Indians rookie from this town had his first taste of major league baseball the other day when he pitched the first three innings of an exhibition tilt with the Boston Red Sox. McCabe, walked four, struck out one, allowed three hits and poked out a neat single that drove in a couple of runs.

Speedboat history may be made here this summer at the Rotary Regatta, if Guy Lombardo, who, it is reported, has been tinkering with a jet-propelled speedboat of the 135 class and which can idle over the waves at the speed of 135 miles per hour, brings the new craft here for test runs. The famous dance orchestra leader has entered his other craft in the various regattas of the circuit, and he alone should prove an outstanding drawing card. Of course if he could be persuaded to tote along his Royal Canadians, to dispense some of the "sweetest music this side of Heaven," then the picture would be complete.

• • •

There should be a long-awaited reunion take place here when Lombardo arrives. He is a former schoolmate of Tommy Mascaro, genial manager of the Capitol Theatre here who hasn't seen his former buddy since he cribbed his eighth grade exams over the Lombardian shoulders years ago up in London (in the bush).

Stirling-Marmora Combines Enter Second Round

Defeat Gananoque at Stirling 7 to 3 and Win Round by 16-12 Margin

Stirling, March 14 (Special)—Stirling - Marmora "Combines" earned the right to advance into the second round of the O.H.A. Junior "C" playdowns when they defeated Gananoque 7-3 in Stirling before a crowd-packed arena Tuesday night and so took the round 16-12.

The two teams played pretty even hockey in the initial stanza and as a result, the score was 2-2 when chapter ended.

The ice was in bad shape when the second period got under way and the Combines started to pour the coal to the attack. They rang up three counters in this session while holding the visitors to one.

Stirling completely dominated the play in the third period and added two more goals to their lead.

Lavender was the star of the attack for the Combines, scoring five of the seven counters. Cousins and Trumble notched the other ones. Atkins, Woods and Jackson notched the Gananoque counters.

Stirling will meet Whitby in the next round.

Stirling-Marmora "Combines": Goal, McInroy; defence, Utman and Whitehead; centre, Cousins; wings, Trumble and Lavender; alternates, Bastedo, Stapley, Courtney, Wright and Desjardins.

Gananoque: Goal, Brennan; defence, Jackson and Grue; centre, Lasha; wings, Atkins and Wood; alternates, Anderson, Hudson, O'Brien, Compeau, Munden and Fair.

Referee: "Toots" Holway, Belleville; Linesman, Walt Gerow, Belleville.

Winnipeg, March 14—(CP) — It's a week since Billy Rose captured the Dominion curling championship for Alberta, and the 1946 competition is fast becoming a memory garnished by a smattering of second guessing and post mortems which are still making conversation among the followers of the roarin' game.

A thought for next year's Brier is that the British Columbia entry, whoever that will be, is going to have to travel right across Canada to take part when the 10 provincial rinks meet in Saint John, N.B.

By train it will be a long jaunt —one of the present disadvantages of shifting the venue of the event around each year.

For that matter, there were a few thoughts directed toward the four-day trip made by Maritime rinks who attended the Saskatoon bonspiel.

All of this started some talk of the convenience of holding it in Toronto annually as was done up to 1940. Some favor was expressed but others didn't care much for the idea, suggesting airplane travel as an alternative. Anyway, if such an arrangement does come about, it won't be until each province has had the opportunity to play host at least once.

The word among officials in Saskatoon seems to point to Toronto for the 1948 competition, then Calgary the next year.

In the hockey world, Fort William Royals can boast a high-scoring forward line that is as consistent as they come. Ed McIllrain's record of four goals a game in three successive encounters was something to talk about. The even dozen tallies was almost half his team's 25 goals total . . . in Prince Albert the city dentists and doctors got up a team and took 4-3 decision from the city fathers. We'll bet the medicos knew just what nerve to poke those butt ends at for the best effort . . . Literally packed with color is the squad from Kenora, Ont., which arrived in Winnipeg to take on the city's midget hockey champs. Every boy on the visiting club is a full-blooded Indian. They represent the Presbyterian Indian Reservation school . . . Regina senior and junior hockey aggregations which didn't fare so well in the league play this year, are due for overhauling jobs. There are rumors afoot that the junior Abbotts and Commandos might unite. The city has three junior clubs this season.

BADMINTON PRO TITLE OF CUTTS

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—Stan Cutts of Toronto, who became a badminton professional at the age of 16 and never played the game as an amateur, last night was crowned as new world professional badminton champion, succeeding his club-mate, Jack Purcell of Guelph, who held the title for 13 years and retired undefeated last year.

Cutts, playing in the second match of a best-of-three series, trounced Doug Grant of Montreal 15-0, 15-2. A month ago in Montreal, the 33-year-old Toronto pro scored a 15-5, 15-6 victory.

The new champion relied almost solely on a defensive play and allowed Grant to force the play and make fault upon fault. After running up a love count in the first game, Cutts led 5-0 in the second before Grant scored his first point of the evening.

Born in the Fulham district of London, Eng., Cutts played soccer and tennis at school. At 16 he became tennis professional at the Queen's Club in London and that year was introduced to badminton by his uncle, Charlie Cutts, who now is professional at the Hamilton, Ont., Thistle Club.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 935
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A palooka has as many brains as a bridge expert. All the tyro needs is an understandable set of rules that he can learn to apply. After all, an expert is only a palooka who has learned something.

The lead of a small card is first assumed to be a fourth best. It is the fourth from the highest card of that suit in the leader's hand. Leader has three cards higher than the card he has led.

Such a lead, however, does not deny lower cards of that suit in the leader's hand. So, how does partner learn if the leader has any lower cards in that suit? Or if they are in some other hand?

Partner simply looks at his own hand and dummy. What he does not see there will be in the hands of the leader and the declarer. It narrows down to that.

To see what I mean, look at the hearts in these hands:

NORTH
♥9 6 4
WEST EAST
♥Q 10 7 5 ♥A 8 2
SOUTH
♥K J 3

The opening lead from your partner in the west is the heart five. Sitting in the east you asume partner has three hearts higher than the five. But has west any hearts lower than the five?

You can see the heart four in dummy. You can see the heart deuce in your own hand. Only the heart trey is unseen. It must be in the west hand of your partner or the south hand of declarer.

On that first trick, you play your ace. When south drops the trey on that trick, you have seen all the hearts lower than the five. So, you have discovered that west started with exactly four hearts.

You now know that west had four hearts. You saw a total of three hearts in dummy. You had a total of three hearts. This tells you that south had a total of three hearts to start with.

Such simple things make an expert look brilliant. Bridge is full of such expert methods that even a palooka can learn.

You probably knew it all the time.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 14 (AP) — Now that he's wearing clothes, Johnny Weissmuller is getting ideas—he names Hollywood's 10 best-dressed men.

Until recently, Weissmuller's usual screen attire has been a cutdown loin cloth with a belt in back. Now he is playing a civilized role in "Swamp Fire" and the giddiness of wearing real clothes has prompted him to nominate the town's 10 males who dress most tastily. Okay, Tarzan, take it away—

1. Walter Pidgeon "tops on my list. The personification of fashion."

2. William Meiklejohn, Paramount talent head. "He has executive taste in clothes, never dresses flashily."

3. Don Ameche "always has a 'shine' look."

4. Clark Gable "always looks dressed for the occasion, but never too deliberately."

5. Adolph Menjou. "Always a fashion plate."

6. Robert Cobb, restaurateur. "One of the neatest men in appearance I've ever seen."

7. Cesar Romero. "I've never seen him carelessly dressed."

8. Mitchell Leisen, director, "always looks perfectly comfortable."

9. Cary Grant, "first to wear the Windsor tie knot in Hollywood. A choice dresser, never too extreme."

10. Bing Crosby. "You may think it funny to include Bing, but actually he is one of the best dressed men—on any race track."

R K O. is going "south of the border" to shoot much of "Honeymoon" with Shirley Temple and Guy Madison at the Churubusco studio in Mexico. Eight roles will be filled by Hollywood actors and 12 by Mexicans.. Carmen Miranda, returns from New York to start her last for 20th-Century Fox, "That's For Me."..George Jessel and his long-time date, Tommye Adams, have broken up.. George Raft, back at work in "Mr. Ace and The Queen" after his illness, has to have his temperature taken on the hour, every hour, regardless of the shooting schedule.

HAMILTON TIGERS GAIN EDGE ON McINTYRE MINES

Score 6-1 Victory After Being Held Even in Two-Game Series in Hamilton

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers, the O. H. A.'s senior champions, smashed their way into a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five all-Ontario senior hockey final last night by crushing the McIntyre Miners 6-1 at Timmins. The result was all the more surprising after McIntyre's gallant showing to take the second of the two games played earlier at Hamilton.

The juniors, Toronto St. Mikes and Oshawa Generals, resume their best-of-seven O. H. A. final in Oshawa tonight. St. Mikes took the opener by a 10-2 score Monday. In Sudbury the N.O.H.A. junior final turned into a 2-1 advantage for Copper Cliff Redmen over Porcupine Combines after Copper Cliff edged out a close 6-5 decision in last night's game, third in a best-of-five series.

Playing their first game on McIntyre ice, the Tigers last night disorganized the N.O.H.A. team's defence and shook the hard-playing northern forwards out of their customary smooth style.

Dillon Brady and Johnny Conick each collected two goals for Tigers and Mason and Robertson scored the others. Defenceman Roy Hawkey netted McIntyre's lone counter, after Hamilton had rolled up a 5-0 lead in the first two periods. A crowd of more than 4,000 fans was on hand.

McIntyre had lost the first game at Hamilton 4-3 but won a 4-2 victory in the second game, after which Hamilton fans had installed McIntyre as favorites because the remainder of the series will be on McIntyre ice, resuming on Friday night.

In the N.O.H.A. junior final which will determine opponents for the winner of the O.H.A. final at Toronto, Johnston of Copper Cliff scored the winning goal at 10.30 of the last period. Copper Cliff had won a 3-2 margin in the first period and led 5-4 going into the final, only to see Porcupine tie it up at 5-5 after 3:32.

Copper Cliff's other goal-getters were Prete, with two, Smrke, McClellan, Cooney. Mesich scored twice for Porcupine, other goals were notched by Casanato, Bariiko and Lamarche.

"People Are Funny"

Radio fans who have been splitting their sides at NBC's unique audience-participation program, "People Are Funny," will now be able to see Art Linkletter and his gang make merry when Paramount's movie version comes today to the Belle Theatre. The Picture stars Jack Haley, Helen Walker, Rudy Vallee, Ozzie Nelson, Philip Reed and Frances Langford. Reports indicate there's enough radio and screen talent in the cast to provide a thoroughly enjoyable time for all.

This is definitely, according to reviewers, a sit-back-and-relax film bouquet of choice entertainment picked to please any and every audience. By using a laugh meter during one hundred broadcasts of "People Are Funny," producers Pine and Thomas selected the five most riotous stunts and incorporated them into the film. Seven tuneful numbers are rendered, including the ever-popular "I'm In the Mood for Love," sung by Frances Langford.

"The Unseen", Thrilling

"The Unseen" is one of those chillers which come along every so often to test the movie-goer's fortitude. Principal characters in this Paramount film, announced as the second new feature attraction on the same program are Gail Russell, Joel McCrea and Herbert Marshall. All three do their share of providing the mystery and suspense which characterizes every scene, according to reports.

Lewis Allen directs "The Unseen" and his name is fast becoming associated with suspense pictures which carry that electrifying shock so important to really successful mystery thrillers. Allen, a former director of Broadway plays, started off on the right foot in Hollywood by turning out a masterful production, "The Uninvited." It was this picture, incidentally, which proved Gail Russell was one of the up-and-coming actresses of the film capital — she's hit stardom since.

"In a Musical Way," is the title of an excellent "Speaking of Animals" novelette to be presented on the same program.

CHICAGO HAWKS TROUNCEDETROIT; BRUINS BEATEN

Chicago Club Can Win the N.H.L. Championship by Winning Three andCanadiens Losing One

By The Canadian Press

Chicago Black Hawks, than which they'll tell you in Chicago there is no better All Star Team in the National Hockey League, can still do it—wind up the season in first place.

Currently Johnny Gottselig's Hawks, winners 9-4 over Detroit Red Wings last night, are in third place a point back of Boston but—and this is important—they have three games to play where the Bruins who lost 5-3 to New York Rangers last night, have only one more regular go this season.

Not that the Chicago threat is so very great to Dick Irvin's league-leading Montreal Canadiens, five points ahead of the Hawks. Canadiens also have three games left.

Defeat at the hands of Rangers left Boston a perilous second and dashed any hope the Bruins may have had of ending the league season on top. To the end of the second period, and for a bare two minutes of the third, Bruins looked all right. They led at that point by three goals over the last place Rangers.

Then Rangers went to town on goals by Grant Warwick, Ab Demarco, Gardner and Alfie Pike and drowned out any hopes of Boston victory held by 13,900 Boston fans.

Score Six in Second

Six second period Chicago goals proved too much for Detroit Red Wings who never looked at any time as though they should worry Hawks too greatly.

Chicagoans, who fancy this edition of the Hawks, came to watch to the number of 16,395, bringing seasonal attendance to 440,049 and showing that in Chicago at least there is general agreement with the tub-thumping of Joe Farrell, the Hawks' publicist who would have nobody look farther than this very team for all star selections.

Mr. Farrell: "It's pipe— the Bentleys and Bill Mosienko, nobody close to them for the forward line. Put Mike Karakas in goal, he's as good as the rest of them and has played more games than any other goaltender of the league. For defence let's have Johnny Mariucci and Reg Hamilton. And that's not all. For the various trophies the Hawks nominate Max Bentley for the Hart Trophy, George Gee for the rookie of the year and the Calder Trophy, and Clint Smith for the Byng Trophy."

The magnanimous Mr. Farrell then delivers a handout—not to be confused with a publicity blurb—to the poor starving (first place) Canadiens: "We'll give the Vezina Trophy for goaltending to Bill Durnan."

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks, scored a goal and assisted in two others last night when Black Hawks defeated Detroit Red Wings 9-4, and increased his total at the top of the National Hockey League scoring column to 58 points—31 goals and 27 assists. His nearest competitor is his teammate, Bill Mosienko who has 17 goals and 30 assists for 47 points. Clint Smith of Chicago Black Hawks added a goal and an assist, and climbed into a tie for third place with Gaye Stewart of Toronto Maple Leafs, with 46 points. Smith has 24 goals and 22 assists, while Stewart has 33 and 13. Ab Demarco of New York moved into fifth place with 20 goals and 25 assists for 45 points.

"DINA CASHMAN"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 3

It would have been restful at least to marry Tom, go up to the lumber mills in Westwood, and take possession of a little cottage, be one of the young wives of that world. There would be a small Tom, a May for his mother, a John for her father. Tom would always be kind and good and provide for them all, love them always.

She put the thought away with an unexpected touch of heartache. She wasn't going to be sentimental, surely, over Tom O'Connor!

"Ever see What's-his-name, you know, that Holland boy — Vere Holland, any more?" Frances was asking idly.

"Who's he?" Tom wanted to know.

"Kid that came in here one night with a lot of Burlingame stiffs," Frances answered, her mouth full. "Awful nice kid."

"When this happen?" Tom demanded, instinctively jealous. Dina kept her eyes lowered, moved the straw lazily back and forth in her drink, but she was trembling; she was hot and cold with fear.

"Oh, some time in October, wasn't it, Dina?"

"About then," she managed a yawn. "He came in here with two girls and another man—a guy named Freddy Lippincott, you know whose sister was stolen from a sorority house somewhere in the East," Dina said rousing herself.

She must meet this situation; she told herself there was nothing to be afraid of. "Remember, about three months ago?"

"This kid came in with them," Frances took up the story. "He came over to where Dina and I were sitting with the Beatty boys—you were there, weren't you, Dunk?"

"Looking for a pickup?" Tom asked grimly.

"No; he told the boys it was his birthday and wanted us to drink his health," Frances explained, "and he introduced himself to them and asked to be introduced to us. And then he sat down—"

"And fell for Dina like a ton of Coos Bay coal," Duncan Beatty said in his deep voice. Every one laughed.

"I'll bet he did," Tom said. "Ever see him again?"

"Oh yes!" Frances said in apparent innocence. Dina knew that Frances would be glad to say anything that might upset Tom's devotion to herself. "He came into the store lots of times, didn't he, Di? And he's been here evenings."

"Awfully nice," Dina said with an air of dispassionate concession. "Vere Holland. His mother's Mrs. Cutler Holland. Father's married again, somewhere back East."

Tom turned to her his kindly, big-brotherly smile.

"You know quite a lot about him, don't you, kid?"

"Oh, he's one to tell you everything!" Frances said. "He'd sit here and talk away by the hour. I like him—plenty."

"Did you like him, too, Dina?" Tom asked.

"We—we all did," she said, angry because her voice was suddenly so faint.

"Well, say, I'll have to find out more about this feller," Tom said with an air of good-natured disapproval. "Where is he now?"

"At home in—Hillsborough it is, I guess," Dina answered.

"What's he do?"

"Studying law. It's a long course, you know." Someone had put a nickel into the piano; a waltz thundered forth; couples began to move out upon the floor.

"Come on," Willie Mulligan said. Willie had a blue, hard-shaven chin; he was thin, black-headed, nervous, and wiry. "Tom don't know that you were nuts about that feller!" Willie said as they danced.

"What Tom doesn't know won't hurt him, and it's none of your business, Willie!" Dina said. She started the sentence with something of her characteristic spirit, but her secret knowledge, her secret fears weakened her anger halfway, and she ended it on a little girl's note of misery and appeal.

Willie had her in his arms; her tawny soft mass of hair, her firm, straight, tall body, her blue eyes were close to him. Her knees touched his as they danced; her warm hand was on his shoulder. He spoke thickly:

"I've always— you don't know how much. I've always liked you, Dina," he said huskily.

"You've always been kind to me—ever since that day the boys took away the ladder and I was stuck on the chicken-house roof," she answered gratefully.

"Well, don't you double-cross Tom! There isn't a girl alive good enough for Tom."

"I know that!" she said quickly.

"He isn't our kind, Holland isn't," the big boy went on. "He was an awful nice feller, I'll agree to that. But chances are we won't ever see him again."

"Oh, but we will, we must—I must, I must!" she screamed in her heart. Aloud she said nothing, and they finished their dance in silence.

Back at the table she found Tom next to her again, and for a while they murmured, Dina with her elbows on the crumpled checked cloth her chin in her hands.

She had not known Tom was coming home from the mills for a week; he had taken her by surprise, and although she knew that all his hopes of winning her had gone down in the wreckage of her own happiness he didn't know it, and, being Dina, she still could not help turning upon him the full battery of the charm against which he was helpless.

"And is your foreman — this Bill Williams—nice, Tom?"

"Well, he's always swell to me." Tom drew her a little diagram of the plant on a card from his pocket.

Here was the river, the sawmill, the veneering plant where they made ply board, old Hudson's house, the general offices, the recreation hall, the rows of bunkhouses.

Oh, how pleasant this security, this dancing and flirting and gossiping would be if time might go back and everything be as it had been only a few months earlier!

How simple, how uncomplicated life was when its only worries were poverty and hard work and the disorder at home and the aching ambition to do things and go places and be somebody! She could manage all those disadvantages, she could solve all those problems so easily now; they would be nothing, nothing; if she might only go back to them!

She, Geraldine Cashman, to be thinking these thoughts, to be obliged to think them! She, who did not drink, who never had allowed any boy to take the usual liberties with her, who hated necking and wooing and all the other forms of license which some of the girls she despised permitted so easily!

"You're tired," Tom said.

"I must be a little tired," she admitted, wishing her eyes were not so ready to fill with tears. The others were tired and sleepy too; they gathered up wraps, paid their check, stumbled out into the cold, sharp dark. Dina drew the mangy fur of her collar about her throat, tightened her hand inside of Tom's arm.

Tom and Dina picked their way cautiously along the stretch of plank sidewalk, followed the railway ties for a space, veered off to lumps of cement sidewalk that long neglect had buckled and broken into an irregular stony pathway.

"Can I come in?" Tom asked when they reached the Cashman kitchen door.

"And wake Pop?" the girl countered in a whisper.

"I'll be quiet!"

They fumbled their way in; Dina found the switch, and the grimy interior of the kitchen was revealed.

Tom lighted a cigarette, and Dina rapidly reduced the room to something a trifle less chaotic.

"You'd think Myrna or Dooley would clear up," Dina complained. "But I guess Mama and Pop came in and sent them to bed," she decided on second thought, "and Mama—"

"Don't you ever get mad at your family, Dina?" Tom asked, his infatuated eyes never leaving her.

"Mad at them? I'm always boiling at them," Dina answered. "No, I don't blame Mama," she added after a moment. "She's had an awfully hard break. My father's never had regular work. That's why we left Arkansas. Mama's had 10 children in 20 years—I had a sister named Grace, you know, next to Art, and then there was little Johnny who died just after we got here. There was a Dorothy too, in between El'ner and Donny. Dorothy was drowned."

"Lord, what things mothers have to go through!"

"Don't they?" Her face paled a trifle; a stab of realization brought all the misery and fear back again. She had forgotten for a moment of peace; now peace was gone.

"Are you going to marry, Dina?" Tom asked suddenly, oddly.

"Am I—? You mean— am I ever?"

"No." He laughed gruffly, cleared his throat. "I mean are you going to marry me."

"Oh, Tom, I don't know!" she stretched out her hand and his fingers closed on it eagerly. "Even if everything goes all right—even if I'm worrying myself to death, for nothing," she thought, "I can't marry Tom; I can never marry Tom!"

Tom's devotion, his sympathy were so precious Dina could not refuse them tonight; she clung to his hand, and the blue eyes that smiled into his were wet with tears.

"Look!" he said. "Why shouldn't we get married? I've been sending Mom 25 a month, but she doesn't need that any more, now that Nellie's going to be married and Frank's got a job. I could send that to your mother.

"We could have one of those little cottages up at the mills," he went on, encouraged by her silence, "and we could fix it up little by little, it only costs 15 a month!

"We can get secondhand furniture too, and the company'll lend you money for a stove and a refrigerator. They're glad to help. You'd like your own home, wouldn't you, Di?"

"You know I'd love it," she answered very low and in a hesitant manner.

"I've been thinking about asking you to marry me ever since you first came here; you know that, don't you, Dina?"

"I don't know why! If we weren't the original emigrant train!" the girl said nervously, forcing a little reminiscent laugh, determined to carry the conversation to safer ground. "The old green jalopy with mattresses and bedsprings roped on top, and the truck we borrowed. I'll never forget the rain, and the coldness of this house, and your mother sending us over a pot of hot coffee and a tin of cookies."

"I saw you that night. 'Member that it stopped raining about five, and the sun was breaking through the clouds, and you came out to the gate to call the kids in for supper, and I came over?"

"I remember thinking that I was about as filthy as a person could get and not be arrested."

"You were beautiful. But you weren't as beautiful as you are now," Tom said.

STOMACH UPSET; HAD PAIN IN BACK—POOR APPETITE

Tried Many Different Things, Got No Relief. "Feel More Like Myself Since Taking Syntona," He Says.

MR. GEORGE SMITH

Nearly every day you can read in the paper of someone who has obtained good results by taking Syntona Herbal Compound. This medicine has brought relief to many hundreds of local men and women who formerly suffered from disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, nervous irritability, rundown feeling or rheumatic aches and pains.

Mr. George Smith, 208 Fennell Avenue, Hamilton, Ont., has good reason to be pleased about his recent experience with Syntona.

"For more than a year I suffered with stomach troubles," said Mr. Smith. "Gas, indigestion and acid risings followed even the lightest meal. I often got dizzy feelings and spots before my eyes. I work nights and usually when I got up from my sleep I didn't feel like doing anything, because my stomach left so sore and my back was lame and sore. I had a poor appetite and my nerves seemed all on edge.

"I tried a good many different things without getting any relief, but since I have taken Syntona I feel more like myself. I eat better now and my food doesn't cause all the gas and acidity like it did before. My sleep is more restful and when I awake I don't have that soreness in my stomach or back. I wish to thank you for the good results Syntona has given me."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. They will gladly tell you all about this grand Herbal Medicine that has helped so many local men and women.

WASTE LAND

Nearly half of the world's land area is largely uninhabitable because of deserts, mountains, ice or tundra.

It Was Just a Robin

One of the telephones in the editorial room of this newspaper jangled shortly after eleven o'clock today.

A lady's voice trickled musically over the wire. "I saw one, only a few minutes ago. It came out of the bush."

"You saw what?" queried the city editor.

"A rabbit," came back the more or less excited voice.

The city editor grabbed his trusty pencil, and copy paper.

"Where did you see it?" he inquired quietly.

"It came out of the bush. It had a vivid scarlet breast and hopped about the ground like a Spring lamb."

"It what?" gasped ye editor.

"It jumped all over the place, turning its bright eyes upwards every once in a while. Then it started chirping."

Two reporters picked up ye editor and gave him a glass of water. His eyes brightened and he manfully reached for the phone.

This was a phenomenon. One for the book.

"What was it a jack, or a cottontail?" he asked.

The voice at the other end gasped in turn.

"I don't know what you are talking about. I'm merely trying to tell you I saw a robin this morning."

"Oh, a robin. Pardon me, lady," the editor smiled, "I thought you said rabbit."

And peace reigned once more in the workshop.

no intention of taking aggressive action against her (Iran)."

Red Policy Unclear.

"It is very difficult for His Majesty's Government to understand the present policy of Soviet Russia in this matter," Mr. Bevin said, "and even more difficult even to believe that all their assurances are not going to be fulfilled."

Mr. Bevin made his statement in reply to a question by Anthony Eden, acting Conservative leader and former foreign minister. Mr. Bevin said Britain had agreed in the United Nations Security Council for Russia and Iran to settle their differences by direct negotiation "on the clear assumption" that existing treaty obligations would be fulfilled.

"His Majesty's Government," he said, "would regret any settlement which appeared to be extracted from the Iranian government under duress while the Soviet government were still in occupation of part of Iran."

The cabinet received a full report from Foreign Secretary Bevin on Iranian developments. Mr. Bevin was understood to have told the cabinet it was urgent that Britain should make known her attitude.

Previously a foreign office spokesman had emphasized that while reported Red army movements across northern Iran towards the borders of Turkey and Iraq made the situation "more grave" Britain's "major consideration" still was Russia's failure to pull her troops out of Iran on the date specified.

Mr. Bevin told the House of Commons that Britain had protested to Russia the "breach" of the British - Russian - Iranian treaty of 1942 which provided for withdrawal of the Soviet troops from Iran. He said the British charge d'affaires in Moscow had been instructed to seek an early reply.

STOCK PRICES FIRMER

Toronto, March 14 — (CP) — Moderate accumulation was in evidence on the Toronto Exchange in today's early session, following yesterday's nervous selling and prices staged a considerable rally in spots. The comeback was chiefly apparent in the cheaper gold group. Gains of 5 to 20 cents were scattered through the gold list at noon.

Trading volume tapered off on the rise but the action was good in the first hour, resulting in turnover of 515,000 shares, an increase of 94,000 shares over the first-hour trade of Wednesday.

Traders appeared hopeful that yesterday's scare over relations with Russia which started the selling, would blow over and cautious buying developed from the opening.

EXCHANGE

New York, March 14 —(AP)— Scattered stocks leaned toward recovery in today's market although many leaders backed down when a first hour buying flurry failed to follow through.

Dealings, active, at the opening, slowed later and trends were well mixed near the fourth hour.

Principal bullish handicap, brokers said, was apprehension over the Russian push in Iran and growing doubts regarding earnings and the maintenance of dividends.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 14. (CP)—The cattle offered were cleared at steady prices on the livestock market here up to mid-session today. Butcher steers traded at $11.25 to $12.50, common to medium butcher cows $8 to $9, canners and cutter $5.50 to $7.75 and a few fed yearlings $12 to $13.25.

Hogs were steady to 25 cents cwt, higher at, dressed, Grade A $18 to $18.25, Grade B1 $17.60 to $17.85 with sows mostly $15.50.

The few calves offered were steady at $10 to $17.

ately because he had not elected how he wished to be tried or entered a plea.

Bail of $2,500 was set for Edward Mazerall, engineer in the National Research Council, who is alleged to have supplied Lunan with secret radar documents. Mazerall was released after payment of his security.

Reporters visited Mazerall at his home, 4½ miles south of Ottawa last night. He received them cordially, but declined to comment or make any statement on his case or his confinement since Feb. 15 when the Royal Commission was first announced.

Bail for the two women — Mrs. Emma Wolkin, 25, of Blaine Lake, Sask., and Miss Kathleen Willsher, 40, — was set at $1,500 each, and it was expected this would be paid sometime today.

Five new charges were preferred yesterday against Lunan, four each against Mazerall and Mrs. Wolkin and two against Miss Willsher. Laid under the Official Secrets Act, they were broader and more detailed than the original accusations.

The four accused were remanded until next Wednesday.

Strike Called Off In Disputed Zone Venezia Giulia

Trieste, March 14 — (AP)—A general strike which had halted work throughout the British-American zone of disputed Venezia Giulia province was called off Wednesday as a four-power Allied commission continued its on-the-spot investigation of conflicting Italian and Yugoslav border claims.

The strike had kept the city in a state of high tension, which was increased by a surprise demonstration yesterday when nearly 100,000 persons paraded past the commission's headquarters.

The parade was staged in connection with a public funeral for two persons killed Sunday in a clash between demonstrators and civil police.

The marchers filed past, chanting "Tito" and "Yugoslavia" and hurling angry cries of "fascist" at mounted civil police who rode through their ranks.

China's Position On Open Door Clear, Says Liu

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, March 14 — (AP) —Russia has not yet informed China when the withdrawal of Soviet forces from Manchuria will be completed, vice minister of foreign affairs Liu Chieh said Wednesday.

He told a press conference the Chinese government had received no information that the Soviet evacuation of Mukden denoted the start of a general withdrawal from Manchuria.

Chinese dispatches reported government troops were streaming into Mukden and said the Russians had withdrawn from points east of the railroad town of Tiehling, about 50 miles north.

These dispatches gave the impression that part of Mukden was in Communist hands but chronicled no large-scale fighting. Ten government policemen were reported killed and more than 70 others taken prisoner in a clash with the Communists in the northern suburbs.

Liu said China's position on the principle of the open door in Manchuria and the Soviet removal of industrial equipment had been made clear in her reply to the United States note on the subject.

(Portions of the Chinese reply made public by State Secretary Byrnes of the United States declared Soviet claims to Japanese enterprises in Manchuria "far exceeded the scope of war booty as generally recognized by international law" and expressed opposition to Russian proposals for joint Sino-Russian operation of various enterprises.)

(Associated Press correspondent Spencer Davis, from northeast China command headquarters at Chinchow, 150 miles southwest of Mukden, reported the Russian withdrawal from Mukden was complete except for rear echelons and that Chinese government forces were taking over in orderly fashion.

(Telephone conversations with the Manchurian metropolis, said Davis, offered no confirmation of reports of street clashes between Chinese Communists and government troops there or of large fires reported in the Chinese press.

(Davis quoted headquarters as saying it was not worried about Communist infiltration on the heels of the Soviet withdrawal. Meanwhile, Communist forces estimated at 110,000 to 120,000 men commanded by Gen. Lim Piao were reported within a one to 3 mile radius of Mukden.)

FRED ROSE, M.P., ARRESTED FOR ESPIONAGE

Four More Named In Second Interim Report

48 Witnesses Already Examined By Commission

Intermediaries Mentioned In Commission's Report

Ottawa, March 15. (CP)— The second interim report of the Royal Commission on espionage, made public today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, linked four more persons with the activities of the Soviet spy ring operated in Canada.

The Commission, which said 48 witnesses had been heard in the month-old enquiry, identified four as:

Dr. Raymond Boyer, assistant professor of Chemistry at McGill University, Montreal, who since 1944 has been engaged in secret research on the super-explosive RDX.

Harold Samuel Gerson, employed from 1941 to 1944 by Allied War Supplies Ltd., a crown company which supervised the construction of chemical and explosive plants and later the production of these materials.

Sqdn. Ldr. Matt Simons Nightingale, whose work with the R.C.A.F. dealt with land lines communications on the east and west coasts and the Gander Airport project.

Dr. David Shugar, a native of Poland, who from 1941 to 1944 was an employee of Research Enterprises Ltd., Toronto, a crown company engaged in Radar and other scientific work, and who later joined the navy and worked on research in connection with "certain equipment used in anti-submarine detection."

The 5,000-word commission's report, which detailed at considerable length their activities with the Soviet-inspired ring, did not indicate when or whether they would be charged in court.

No Mention of Fred Rose.

The report made no mention of Fred Rose, Labor Progressive member of Parliament for Montreal-Cartier, who was taken into custody by R.C.M.P. officers last night.

Previous unofficial reports said the four men identified in the commission's second interim report would be charged in court today. Four others previously identified now are before the courts on charges of conspiracy and providing secret information to Soviet representatives.

The commission said the Order-in-Council under which it is conducting the inquiry requires it to report not only "upon which public officials and other persons in trust or otherwise have communicated, directly or indirectly, secret and confidential information," but also on "the facts relating to and the circumstances surrounding such communications."

What Evidence Disclosed.

It continued:

"The evidence discloses that one of the circumstances is that other Canadians, who are not government officials, have been the intermediaries through whom secret and confidential information has reached the Russian Embassy, as in the case of Dr. Boyer.

"As the evidence develops we shall be in a better position to deal with these intermediaries at a later stage.

"In conclusion we may add that we regret not having been able to complete, as yet, the hearing of evidence with regard to the 5 other persons who are detained under the provisions of P. C. 6444, passed on Oct. 6, 1945, but we hope that we will be able to do so shortly . . .

"In a case of this nature where the evidence has revealed the existence of an organization constituting at least a threat to the safety and interests of the state, as evidenced by the fact that some witnesses holding strategic positions have made the significant statement under oath that they had a loyalty which took priority over the loyalty owed by them to their own country, and for that reason they acted as they did, and would unquestionably have continued so to act had they not been detected, we are of the opinion that should these persons be allowed communication with outsiders or between themselves until their activities have been fully investigated, some of the basic purposes of this enquiry would be entirely defeated."

The report was signed by the two Royal Commissioners, Mr. Justices Robert Taschereau and R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Appropriate Action Taken Says King

In a brief note appended to the report Mr. King said that "appropriate action has been taken on the basis of the report."

The commissioners said that since their first interim report Feb. 28 they had heard a "great deal of evidence without as yet having been able to hear all the witnesses whom it will be necessary to hear to complete the investigation with which we have

IRANIANS READY TO FIGHT TO LAST MAN FOR COUNTRY

War Minister Says Conflict Will Come If Russians Commit An Overt Act

Tehran, March 15 (AP)—Gen. Ahmed Sepehbod Amir Ahmedi, War Minister, said yesterday the Iranian army was "ready to fight to the last man" if Russian troops move toward Tehran from Karaj, 20 miles northwest of here, where he said trainloads of troops and ammunition are arriving nightly.

"Iran has shown to the world it is a peaceful nation, but if Russia commits an overt act, not only every soldier but every boy and girl in the streets will fight to defend their capital," the general said in an interview immediately following an audience with Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, Shah of Iran.

The Shah, he said, plans to present the Iranian question again to the United Nations Security Council, which will meet in New York City later this month.

Garrison Increased.

Ahmedi said the Russian garrison at Karaj had been "increased fourfold" and that there were "three times as many Russians in Azerbaijan as a month ago."

He termed the reported concentration of troops and equipment a "definite threat to Tehran" and added that all necessary precautions were being taken to meet it.

The general said that Iranians would not "go out to meet the Russians or even erect fortifications outside the city."

"Iran's intentions are only peaceful, but our national security is at stake," he added. "Tehran will be defended to the last man—even boys and girls will help—if this extreme and unlikely measure becomes necessary."

The general said the Russians have "only partially evacuated Semnan, Shahrud and Meshed, towns in northwestern Iran, where they announced they had begun evacuation March 2," and that he had recalled to Tehran an army column which Soviet troops turned back at Garmsar two weeks ago.

Desire Only Peace

He said he considered it "hopeless for our forces to sit out there on the plains awaiting the pleasure of the Russians."

He repeated an earlier statement that the country desired "only peace" and said the Shah was "trying his utmost to maintain friendly relations with the Russians, but at the same time he is pressing for immediate evacuation of Russian troops as agreed under the 1942 treaty."

GOERING ANGRILY DENIES HE LOOTED ART GALLERIES

Repeats Nazi Claim That Belgium Agreed to Set up Defences on Maas R.

By WES GALLAGHER

Nuernberg, March 15—(AP)— An angry Hermann Goering today denied to the international military tribunal that he was a looter of Europe's art galleries, declaring that he paid for all he received and was "cheated" in many deals.

He testified that Hitler made him produce photographic copies of all confiscated art objects whose Jewish owners had fled. Hitler took first choice for the museum he planned at Linz, he said, and left Goering only "seconds."

The former Reichsmarshal has freely admitted many prosecution statements concerning his part in Nazi Germany's aggressions, but he showed indignation at French charges of his part in the rifling of Europe's art treasures.

He claimed that he planned to make reparation for all art objects by establishing a benefit fund for families of Frenchmen killed in the war, but he admitted this had never been done.

Referring to his dealings in the open market in France, Italy and other places, he said "I was cheated. As soon as it was known I was interested 50 and 100 per cent were added to the price."

Law Concerning Reprisals Argued

A large part of the morning was taken up with a legal argument on international law concerning reprisals when Goering attempted to explain how the actions of partisans, guerillas and underground fighters on German soldiers provoked overt acts in many cases.

"I do not wish to dispute in any way the prosecution contention that things took place that violated international law or that were in every way excessive," he said.

Goering explained the 1940 invasion of the Low Countries as due to the French general staff receiving Belgian permission to occupy that country and because The Netherlands could not maintain neutrality against "British pressure."

Testifying for the third straight day before the international military tribunal, the No. 1 defendant said the "neutrality of Holland and Belgium was always in doubt, since most flights by war planes from England against Germany crossed over the two countries."

"When France fell we found information that (Gen. Maurice Gustave) Gamelin and (Admiral Jean) Darlan (French army and navy leaders) had demanded the occupation of Belgium for the safety of France," Goering said.

MOVE TO RESTRICT VISITS

Frankfurt, March 14 — (AP)— In a move to restrict visits by German girls to the United States Army headquarters compound here, army authorities yesterday imposed a 10 p. m. curfew, effective tonight.

R.C.A.F. OPENS WAR CRIMES TRIAL AGAINST GERMANS

Marine Pleads Innocent of Shooting Winnipeg Flier With Intent to Kill

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Aurich, Germany, March 15 (CP Cable)—FO. Rudolph Roman of Winnipeg told the opening session of an R.C.A.F. war crimes trial today that a German marine, after taking him prisoner, had told him to put up his hands and then had shot him twice through the body.

Standing in the witness box, the Canadian airman who parachuted from his blazing bomber in October, 1944, after a raid on Wilhemshaven, pointed across the court at Johann Neitz and said: "That's the man there."

Earlier, Neitz had pleaded innocent to two charges of shooting FO. Roman with intent to kill and of wounding FO. Roman Oct. 16, 1944.

When the Winnipegger pointed at the prisoner, Neitz eyes flickered to the floor and then back to the 26-year-old airman.

The trial, second major Canadian war crimes trial, opened here today. It charges four Germans with killing or injuring R.C.A.F. prisoners of war.

Neitz' case is one of at least three before the court, which is sitting in the former German naval barracks here where S. S. Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer was convicted last December by a Canadian army tribunal of responsibility for the shooting of Canadian prisoners of war.

McBurney President

The cases following that of Neitz involve the murder of two Canadian airmen while prisoners of war. Air Vice-Marshal R. E. McMurney of Montreal, Saskatoon and Ottawa is president of the court and other members are: Group Capts. W. F. M. Newson of Montreal and Victoria and N. W. Timmerman of Kingston; and Wing Cmdrs. W. F. Parks of Regina and M. G. Brown of Montreal.

Wing-Cmdr. Pat Durdin of London, Ont., prosecutor, said Neitz took FO. Roman from a lighthouse where he sought shelter and shot him twice in the side. FO. Roman did not receive medical treatment until sometime later when he was taken to a naval hospital.

Neitz, tall and gaunt with thinning hair and a black mustache, looked bewildered as the case proceeded. An old ear injury made it difficult for him to hear.

Paul Bornert, a lighthouse keeper, recounted how FO. Roman had arrived and told how he (Bornert) went ashore in the morning and returned with a German soldier whom he identified in court as Neitz.

Bornert said as they approached the lighthouse Neitz said to me: "I am not going to take him back to shore at all. I am going to bump him off on the way.' I tried to dissuade him and told him that Roman was not armed and was injured."

FOOD PRODUCTION MAIN CONCERN OF NEW SESSION

Increased Exports To Ravaged Countries Predicted in Speech From Throne

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 15 — (CP) — Formal opening of the debate in reply to the Throne Speech and the tabling of a second interim report of the Royal Commission investigating the activities of a Russian-directed spy ring in Canada are expected to feature business in the Commons today as members settle down to the work of the 20th parliament's second session.

The debate on the address will be moved by Capt. Ernand Viau (L — St. Boniface) and seconded by Lt.-Col. R. H. Winters (L — Queens-Lunenburg) after preliminary business, including a farewell address to the Governor-General, has been dealt with.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced in the Commons yesterday, shortly after the formal opening of Parliament, that he hoped to be in a position to table the espionage commission's second interim report before Capt. Viau begins his speech.

Mr. King made the announcement to the members after they had heard the Speech from the Throne which contained no reference to the espionage inquiry.

World Reconstruction

The speech, read by the Governor-General who leaves here Saturday at the end of his term, said that many of the measures parliament will be asked to approve will be concerned with world reconstruction and the establishment of an enduring peace.

While no details were given, it was expected these measures would deal with encouraging food production and with increasing exports to war-ravaged and famine-stricken countries.

Domestic legislation forecast was considered by some parliamentarians as not of an outstanding nature. It included ratification of the recent $1,250,000,000 loan to Britain, redistribution of representation in the Commons, and the making of provision for Canada's peacetime navy, Army and air force.

Churchill Speaks Tonight in City Of New York

New York, March 15 (AP) — Winston Churchill today put the finishing touches to tonight's speech in which he is expected to reply to critics of his Fulton, Mo., address and possibly to Premier Stalin's denunciation of him as a "warmonger."

But the former British Prime Minister clamped a complete news blackout on the speech's actual content, and a member of his staff said that the only copy of the talk in existence is the one Mr. Churchill will use in its actual delivery from 10:30 to 11 p.m. E.S.T. at an official city dinner.

Divergent Views Held on Truman's Position in A-Energy Legislation

By JACKSON S. ELLIOTT

Washington, March 15 (AP) — The path of atomic energy legislation developed new bumpiness today as divergent interpretations sprang up over President Truman's position in the civilian-vs.-military control fuss.

Mr. Truman steered clear of the major point at issue — an amendment to a pending control bill. But he told his press conference yesterday that he still believes the military should be consulted, with primary control left to a civilian group directly responsible to him.

The president had been asked specifically about action of the Senate's special atomic committee which earlier in the week voted to set up a military board to consult with and advise the civilian atomic control body.

In saying he felt a civilian commission, responsible to him, should have primary control, Mr. Truman said this should in no way hamper the military because the President is Commander-in-Chief of the United States armed forces and hence charged with national security.

The senate atomic committee, meanwhile, looked forward to completing action on the control bill early next week. Upon Senate approval it would go to the House of Representatives which has a measure pending setting up another type of commission. Under this measure, there is no auxiliary military board, but military personnel would not be precluded from membership on the control commission.

Muster Full U.S. Aid to Feed Starving Millions of Freed Lands —Truman

By ALEX SINGLETON

Atlantic City, March 15—(AP) —President Truman, hailing the work of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration as evidence that "co-operation for peaceful ends is possible," pledged today that full United States aid would be mustered to feed the starving millions of areas freed from war—but not from hunger.

In a message to U.N.R.R.A.'s 4th international council, he said that "in this country, our efforts are now solidly behind an emergency food economy program intended to release as large as possible a proportion of our food supplies for export to the starving peoples of the world."

Then he added:

"As to the great work which UNRRA has undertaken, I know of no more encouraging evidence that international co-operation for peaceful ends is possible than the record of UNRRA's achievements.

"Despite many obstacles and frustrations it has given clear proof that where the will of the United Nations is clearly expressed; prompt and effective action can be taken . . .

"I realize that now above all things U.N.R.R.A.'s needs must be met if the promises of the United Nations to the liberated countries are to be fulfilled . . .

"I trust that the high achievements of U.N.R.R.A. will encourage the United Nations to regard U.N.R.R.A. and the other international organizations which are now being created as an integral part of the machinery of the peace we are striving to ensure for the world."

His exit from U.N.R.R.A.'s activities already announced, Director General Herbert Lehman combined a greeting and a farewell to the delegates in a short message.

Labor Progressive Member Arraigned In Montreal Court

Accused Enters No Plea, Bail is Set at $10,000

By GEORGE BURMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 15 — (CP) — Fred Rose, Labor Progressive Member of Parliament for Montreal-Cartier, was arraigned in Court of Sessions here today on a double charge of violation of the Official Secrets Act and of conspiracy with Dr. Raymond Boyer, McGill University professor, to commit the indictable offences named in the complaint.

Appearing before Judge Gustave Perrault, 38-year-old Rose entered no plea and was remanded for preliminary hearing March 22. Bail was set at $10,000 and Joseph Cohen, K.C., one of the defence counsel, said he expected bail would be posted.

Rose was arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers at his Ottawa apartment late last night, after he had attended open ceremonies of the current session of parliament during the afternoon.

Collected Information

The arrest warrant, sworn out in Montreal yesterday before Mr. Justice Perrault by Rene J. Noel of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, stated that Rose "did unlawfully for purposes prejudicial to the safety and interest of Canada, obtain, collect, record, publish and communicate to other persons, sketches, plans, models, articles, notes and other documents and information which were calculated to be and intended to be directly and indirectly useful to a foreign power, to wit, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

Rose was accused of having communicated "sketches, plans, models, articles, notes, documents and information" which had been entrusted to him in confidence owing to his position, to an unauthorized person, and of using information in his possession for the benefit of a foreign power, Soviet Russia.

The accused allegedly communicated documents and information relating to munitions of war to Russia, and "in other manners prejudicial to the safety and interest of the state."

Dr. Boyer, assistant professor of chemistry at McGill, named in the second interim report of the Soviet spy ring inquiry made public in Ottawa today, was mentioned in the charge as a person with whom Rose had entered into conspiracy in committing the offences enumerated in the warrant.

Rose appeared calm but not unconscious of the excitement which seemed to pervade the small, crowded courtroom. He looked straight ahead as photographers' flash-bulbs popped on every side, but as the flashes continued from unexpected corners, he broke into an embarrassed laugh and shrugged appealingly to the photographers.

After reading of the charge, Defence Council Cohen told the Court that "in order to protect the future legal rights of the accused," he refused on behalf of his client to submit to the legal jurisdiction of the Court.

Mr. Cohen then asked that Rose be released on personal bail "and even parole", stating that "because of the position of the accused and his standing there cannot be the slightest doubt but that he will appear at the enquiry. He said the great publicity given the case and the importance to the accused of clearing his name made it doubly certain that he would be available when required.

F. B. Brais, K.C., prosecutor for the Defence Department, objected and demanded substantial bail.

Constantly Accused.

He denied that "great publicity" has been given the government's spy investigations. On the contray, those charged with conducting the inquiry were constantly accused of keeping the matter too secret. Secondly, he said that early in the war police had to search for three months at a time they wished to locate Mr. Rose. Also, at the time of the accused's arrest last night, it was learned that he had gone to Ottawa in an automobile bearing a Michigan licence.

He did not explain why he had been sought early in the war.

Defence counsel argued that members of parliament were required to attend the parliamentary sessions and were not restricted as to the use of "a car bearing a Michigan licence."

The fact was that Mr. Rose was at Ottawa and would be in court when required.

R.E. Clarke, 84 Years Old on 17th; Was Noted Cyclist

One-time alderman and for 35 years in the grocery business in this city, Mr. R. E. Clarke, 255 Foster Ave., on Sunday, March 17 will celebrate his 84th. birthday. Mr. Clarke is an elder brother of Alderman H. J. Clarke, with whom he makes his home.

Born in Belleville back in 1862 Mr. Clarke early in life decided to enter the grocery business and after serving some time learning went into business for himself in 1894.

Years later the call of the West beckoned to Mr. Clarke and he became associated as travelling salesman for a Vancouver, B.C., wholesale grocery firm, having the Northwest Territories as his district. Later he moved to Jersey City and then to South Carolina where he became store manager for a druggist firm. Seven years ago following the death of his wife, the former Miss Olive McCall of Trenton, he returned to Belleville to live with his brother.

During his younger years and some time before the turn of the century, Mr. Clarke was actively interested in bicycling, a sport then rapidly gaining popularity. Captain of the then local bicycle club, Mr. Clarke toured all parts of Ontario with his club members and participated in the frequent "bicycle concerts" on a track on Queen Street between William and Ann.

Every Tuesday evening during the summer months the "bicycle concert" races were held with participants "wheeling" around the track on their high wheeled steeds. During intermissions foot races were staged, headed by Alderman H. J. Clarke, then a star athlete and foot runner.

Mr. Clarke is past master of the Belleville Lodge No. 123 A. F. & A. M., being master of the local lodge when he was 30 years of age. He is also a member of Bridge Street United Church.

F. Ward Donates Playground Space In Foster Ward

Mr. Frank Ward, Foster Ward grocer, has donated the use of part of his property for the purpose of constructing a children's playground, to the City Parks Board, it was disclosed at a meeting of that organization Thursday night.

The new playgrounds will be constructed along the lines of that built last year at the head of John Street, known as the "Hillcrest Playground."

The new grounds is some distance from rail, highway and water, and will be fenced in to ensure the safety of the children. It will contain modern playground facilities and will be under the supervision of an expert. Work on the new grounds will start immediately, the Board decided.

Members of the board of directors of the Belleville Agricultural Society were present at the meeting. They had made a tour of fair grounds in such centres as Peterborough, Oshawa and Lindsay in company with City Engineer Charles Mott. They had studied the construction of buildings at these points and plans will be drawn immediately for the construction of new horse barns in the Agricultural Park here.

The new barns, which are being erected to replace those destroyed by fire last year, will be of modern design and will be so constructed as to house both race horses and those for exhibition at the annual fall fair. They will be built on the same location as the former buildings.

The new slate of officers of the Parks Board, elected a few days ago includes president, Cleo B. Colling; secretary treasurer, Orland Pinkston; Exhibition Park chairman, Harry Rollins; Victoria Park chairman, Maurice Callaghan; Horticultural chairman, Charles Symons, and Playgrounds chairman, A. B. Baird.

Program—Cam Snell, chairman; Jack Hegan, Andy Thomson, Jim Rapino.

Finance—Ivan May, chairman; Dick Kirby, Ron Walmsley, George Bell.

After a short period of good fellowship, the members, other than the executive, retired from the room, to await induction by the executive who had been previously inducted. After the induction ceremony was completed, some of the members retired to the gym floor for basketball. The next meeting will be at the "Y" on Wednesday, March 20th at 8 p.m.

CONSECON

Mrs. E. Massey Honored On 101st Birthday

Consecon—A gentle little lady, frail and sweet in a black satin dress with cream lace collar and cuffs, bright eyes agleam with excitement, extended cordial greetings and spoke individually to guests at the celebration of her 101st birthday on Wednesday.

A colorful contrast to the black of her dress was a corsage of red roses and a cameo brooch.

She is Mrs. Elizabeth Massey of Consecon, "grand old lady of Prince Edward County". She sat in the majesty of grand old age receiving with courtly grace the felicitations of a host of friends of the community and district.

In the grey-thatched home of her son, seventy-nine year old Walter Massey, she greeted her numerous friends at a birthday luncheon.

Surrounded by beautiful floral commemorations of her natal day, Mrs. Massey, heard addresses of eulogy to a life long and nobly lived. She recalled from a remarkably retentive memory, incidents of the past. She smiled as she spoke of the house in which she sat, one built by her late husband before he took his bride across its threshold many decades ago.

Asks Benediction

In a gentle but firm voice, and in reverent manner, she bowed a silver head and quietly asked the blessing of God on the gathering, and the food.

Luncheon was served to seventy-six guests seated at small tables. Adorning the table at which Mrs. Massey, her son, Walter and her daughter, Mrs. H. Tyler and husband sat, were two beautiful birthday cakes. One made by Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Gleason bore 101 lighted candles. The other sent by Trenton friends, was inscribed with "To Mrs. Elizabeth Massey, 1845-1946" in silver candles.

Pleasure and appreciation were evident in the brightly gleaming eyes of the guest of honor. She swept a keen glance around the rooms as the luncheon was served.

Enhancing the beauty of the luncheon setting were colorful bouquets of daffodils and roses from Dr. and Mrs. R. Thompson, Wellington; Red roses and sweet peas from Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Gleason; African violets, from Mrs. C. Jenks and Mrs. J. Larue; Pink petunias from Mrs. Fred Chase, Carrying Place. Among the many gifts received by Mrs. Massey were slippers and handkerchiefs from friends in Batavia, New York.

Many Called During Day

The Massey home was the centre for a large number of friends estimated at 100, who called during the day to offer their felicitations. Approximately 200 birthday cards were received as well as boxes of candy and baskets of fruit.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the luncheon were Dr. and Mrs. Thompson, Wellington; Mrs. Chatterson and Miss Helen Green, Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Copsy, Toronto; Mrs. Tweed, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tyler, Trenton. Telegrams bearing best wishes and congratulations were received from Dr. Fielding, Patterson, N.J.; Dr. and Mrs. Vanluven, Kingston and Mrs. Hutchison, Oshawa.

Among those who made brief addresses at the luncheon were Rev. W. H. Bartlett, Consecon United Church, Mrs. Ross Bush, Little Kingston and Dr. Thompson of Wellington.

Russia Unlikely To Seek Early Entry Into Bank

By STERLING F. GREEN

Savannah, Ga., March 15 — (AP)—Most United States delegates to the International Monetary Conference see small likelihood of an early entry by Russia into the world bank and fund.

Some hold that Russia, hard up for funds for reconstruction, might require assurance of loans totalling $3,000,000,000 or more before she would think it worth while to put up her $1,200,000,000 subscription for the bank.

Fred M. Vinson, chief United States delegate, is reported more optimistic of Soviet co-operation, but others believe Moscow will wait until the tense international situation clears up before investing in international institution.

At best they believe Russia is unlikely to join until shortly before expiration of the Dec. 31 deadline by which signers of the Bretton Woods agreement must apply in order to keep their standing as original members.

As for the international monetary fund, Russia has small need of it. The funds intend to stabilize currencies of the world and thus remove one risk and deterrent to world trade. The ruble is stable under Russia's controlled economy, and Russia's normal exports are small.

Kiwanis Music Festival Winners To Give Concert

Belleville contestants in the recent Kiwanis Musical Festival held in Toronto will offer their talents in a combined program of instrumental numbers and organ music at an organ recital to be held Sunday evening at Bridge Street United Church in aid of the "Save the Children Fund".

The program will be sponsored by S. Alec Gordon, who will present "The Green Quartette", composed of Jack Fenn, Ronald Blakely, D. Charlton and R. Stebbings, all of whom contested in the instrumental classes in the recent Toronto musical carnival. Other young local talent to be heard during the program will be Davey Branscombe, silver-voiced Ronald Elmy, and Stanley Hagerman, piano virtuoso.

In addition Mr. Gordon will be heard in several organ numbers, including "Crucifixion and Fruition", by Edmundson; "Irish Folk Tune", and "Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre".

Each of the solo contributors to the program will play the test piece which he played in Toronto at the Kiwanis Music Festival, where they all obtained high marks for their performances, and showed outstanding ability. The boys playing the wind instruments are taught by Mr. Jack Green; Stanley Hagerman is a pupil of Mrs. Mary Deacon, and Ronald Elmy is coached by Mr. Gordon.

Proceeds of the concert will be turned over to the Save the Children Fund, which purpose is, to preserve child life wherever, or however, menaced. In Britain the fund is used to maintain 38 nurseries, while in Egypt and Switzerland it helps to care for thousands of refugee children from all parts of Europe.

Roads in Northern Part of Country In Bad Condition

Unseasonable weather and an early break-up in conjunction with recent rains has left parts of the county roads system in a hazardous condition.

Reports from the northern part of the county today disclosed that the road running south from Bancroft to Madoc is in a bad condition. Soft spots are apparent in various stretches of the highway and frost boils and other aftermaths of winter conditions, have left the road in a condition that is slowing down traffic to a minimum.

Present conditions call for careful driving on the part of motorists and truckers. County Engineer W. L. Langlois stated the other day that truckers have been requested to watch their loads carefully and intimated that half-loading regulations would be applied in the immediate future.

Club Enjoys Mock Broadcast

One of the most novel programs ever presented by the Christ Church Junior AYPA was enjoyed at their last weekly meeting, as the members took part in a mock "Club 580" radio broadcast.

Based on CKEY's teen-age favorite program, members were interviewed, quizzed, given souvenirs (slightly ancient records) and prizes (choice of new books). Most of the evening was spent in listening to "transcribed melodies" and to parodies on commercials.

The evening opened in the usual manner with a devotional period and a short business session. The meeting was then turned over to Ronald Button, who asked the bewildered members to file out of the room. As they returned, they were given numbers for the "Lucky Draw." Lloyd Gladwell acted as master of ceremonies, and Ed Waterhouse as announcer, getting the program under way with a theme song and a rousing introduction. Among those who received prizes were James Wright, Betty Holway, Frances Delong, Harry Fry, Dorothy Strudwick and Mary Allen.

After this portion of the program, the members joined in a short period of social activity and the meeting was closed with a few words by the rector on Lenten boxes and with a prayer. The evening was planned and conducted by Group Leader Ron Button, assisted by Fellowship Committee Chairman Lorraine Gladwell.

Sod is Turned For New Wesleyan Methodist Church

During the noon hour on Thursday a number of members and adherents of the Wesleyan Methodist Church of this city gathered on the site of the new Wesleyan Methodist Church located on Everett Street to witness the turning of the first sod. The Rev. J. S. A. Spearman, the pastor of the local congregation, offered prayer after which the Rev. S. W. Blanchard, Conference President, turned the first sod. A lovely bouquet of red roses was presented to the pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Spearman, as a token of the esteem in which they are held. The presentation was made by Miss L. Prindle. IN MEMORIAM

BENSON — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Pearl May Benson, who passed away one year ago today, March 15, 1945.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all;
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear mother, of you.
—Ever remembered by daughters and grandchildren.

BEDELL — In loving memory of Flt.-Sgt. Lyle E. Bedell, missing after a raid over Nuernberg, Germany, on March 16, 1945.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
—Ever remembered by Dad, Mother, Sister and Brothers.

Frontier Country Is Fashion Theme

Canberra, (CP)—Latest fashion craze with Australian women draws its inspiration, not from Paris, New York or London, but from Australia's frontier country, the Northern Territory, where men are still men, and women few and far between.

Slim-hipped, casual trousers of hard-wearing cotton, topped by easy, open-necked, checked shirts, long sleeves rolled above the elbow, near-uniform of the outback stockrider have been introduced to the city, and are making friends fast.

Belts with pouches of solid, lasting leather, trimmed with silver and reminiscent of long and carefully polished saddles leave hands free, while plaited kangaroo skin, soft and supple makes belts to accentuate the positive waistline of wide, cowgirl skirts, flared and then pleated. Handbags are being modelled on the flap-over saddle-bag, while shoes seek the elegance of soft, shining brown riding boots.

CHURCHILL MEDITATES AT ROOSEVELT GRAVE

A figure immobile, deep in meditation, is that of Winston Churchill as he stands at the final resting place of his old friend and wartime partner — Franklin D. Roosevelt. The former prime minister, now in New York for a brief stay before departing to England, paid a visit to the Roosevelt home in Hyde Park, N.Y., and placed a wreath on the grave of his old comrade.

CORRESPONDENTS HALTED AT MUKDEN

American correspondents and accompanying Chinese army officers are stopped at the gate to Mukden arsenal by Russian guards who refused them entry. The correspondents were making a tour of the Manchurian industrial city without Soviet permission and gathered documentary and photographic evidence of the stripping of the machinery from nearly all the factories. This act was obviously in violation of any existing agreements or pacts, and the U. S. State Department, in Feb. 9, filed vigorous protests with the Chinese and Soviet governments.

Women's Army Corps Won Many Decorations

Ottawa, March 15 —(CP)—Defence Headquarters today gave the Canadian Women's Army Corps a pat on the back and told how the girls now are being replaced by men and released for service on the home front—reversal of the process which prevailed during the war.

Disbandment of the corps is expected by Sept. 30, 1946.

In a press release the army listed the countries from which C.W.A.C. recruits had come—the United States, Australia, England, Poland, the West Indies and Russia — in addition to all provinces of the Dominion. One girl hitchhiked all the way from California to volunteer her services in the fight for democracy.

The C.W.A.C. became a melting pot in which Chinese, Indians, Negroes and other girls of almost every race, creed and color were fused into an efficient and hardworking military unit.

Outstanding acts of heroism or application to duty won the C.W.A.C. many decorations from appointment as officer of the Order of the British Empire to mention in despatches.

The corps attracted women with unusual qualifications and a glance at the wartime roster shows Lieut. Molly Lamb of Galiano Island, B.C., the only woman artist with the army historical section; Pte. Jean Lamb of Toronto, only girl to qualify as an armorer; Lieut. Mary E. Dignam of Toronto, who served at the India headquarters of Lord Louis Mountbatten, Supreme Allied Commander in Southeast Asia.

Others which [illegible] Russian-born Anne Waschuk of Brantford, who came to Canada in 1938 and speaks 10 languages fluently; Polish-born Anna Marie Madej of Liverpool, N.S. the first war guest to join the C.W.A.C.

Talented C.W.A.C. singers, dancers and comediennes travelled to all war theatres and did a fine job of helping keep up the morale of Canada's fighting men.

FAILS AGAIN

Chicago, March 15 — (AP) — Claude D. Noble, amateur magician, called the spirit of Clarence Darrow on the Lagoon bridge in Jackson Park Thursday. "There was no sign at all," Noble said. OUTBREAKS IN HAND

Regina, March 15 — (CP) — Saskatchewan health department officials said Wednesday lack of reports from northern points where outbreaks of influenza had been reported and medical aid sent by plane, indicated the outbreaks were well in hand. Penicillin was being used by Dr. R. B. Ketcheson to treat persons affected at Spiritwood where he was flown from Regina last weekend.

BANCROFT

13-YEAR-OLD GIRL STRUCK BY CAR, BADLY INJURED

Delbert Puffer is Arrested Charged With Leaving Accident Scene and Dangerous Driving

Bancroft, (Special) — Ronda Seymour, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seymour, Bancroft, was struck down Thursday evening by a hit-and-run motorist on Highway No. 62 within the village and is in Bancroft Red Cross hospital suffering from a broken leg, a possible fractured hip, and from shock.

Ronda, along with other school children, was roller skating on the highway when struck by the car which did not stop, the driver continuing on northward out of the village. Provincial Constable S. W. Palmateer with village constable Roy Robinson, set out in pursuit and stopped all cars three miles north of Bancroft, finally apprehending Delbert Puffer of Huntsville as he was returning to the village.

Puffer was arrested and charged with leaving the scene of an accident and dangerous driving. A quantity of liquor and beer was reported by police found in the car and was confiscated by police officers.

ABSENT MINDED

Arkansas City, Kas., March 15—(AP)—Milton Lundquist massaged shampoo into his hair until properly gummed, and turned on the faucet. Not a drop of water dripped from it or any other faucet in the house. Lundquist dashed to his office, washed out the shampoo and called the water department to his home to turn on the water. Lundquist tarried outside his house to talk to the water man. When he went in the house was flooded. He had left the faucets on.

ORDER DOGS TIED UP

Windsor, March 15 — (CP) — For the third time in several years, authorities have ordered dog owners in the city and throughout Essex county to keep their pets tied up as a precaution against an outbreak of rabies. Two dog owners have been fined $50 each for failing to obey the order. Officials say prospects are the edict will be in effect all thru the coming summer.

DIVISION HEAD: Leonard R. Bangs, recently named superintendent of the Trenton division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will have jurisdiction over an area extending from Kingston, Smiths Falls and Renfrew on the east to Leaside on the west. For two years previously he was assistant superintendent of the division and has been a railroader since 1918.

Germans must be out of the area. The War Department recently demanded an explanation of reports that frauleins were permitted to live in the compound with American officers and civilians.

Mr. Massey Retires

In May the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey will retire from the office of Canadian High Commissioner in London, a post he has filled with distinction for eleven years. It was his destiny to be in office in one of the most important periods in history. He has filled the post with satisfaction to Britain and to Canada. He has been a good representative of the Dominion and through him Britain has been able to appreciate the spirit of Canadians.

During the war with greatly added duties of office he served Canada and Britain in a way that will not be forgotten. He will leave behind him the finest results of his long service in Britain and coming back to Canada he will be welcomed by many a Canadian who knew his hospitality and courtesy overseas in the time of war when they were in Britain on their imperial mission.

Canada recognizes the devoted service which Mr. Massey and Mrs. Massey have given the Dominion overseas and they will have the best wishes of the people as they return to Canada after their faithful performance of duty in Britain.

This Mild March

The second March in a row with weather even warmer than that which tempered last March has come, set a new record of warmth and has made the weather news of the first rank. Birds of spring have returned at dates ahead of their usual itinerary from the winter resorts of the South. Rivers have opened their way from the shackles of ice, delivering many communities from the dread fear of floods. Snow and ice which often deck the landscape even weeks later in the spring month of April have gone. Tree branches seem to thicken as budding time, usually considerably later in other years, gives hints it may soon begin.

Interest in the weather is more than casual for the world hopes and prays for good crops that will help to ease the threat of famine which casts its shadow over so large a part of the world. At no time therefore have the people been so attentive to the weather's vagaries for it has been so often stressed how much depends upon condition of the seasons for the success of crops and harvests.

At the same time people cannot but enjoy these unusually mild days almost reaching ordinary summer heat.

Looking Very Far Ahead

Those who help to make the annual Christmas festival what it is work almost a year ahead and perhaps longer than that. Spring is not yet here but the annual American toy fair has opened in New York City with already more than 2,500 dealers attending and possibly 4,000 to attend before the fair closes. It gives a forecast of Christmas.

Dealers always have the first look at toys for it is they who bring them to every part of the country. The children are the last to see them.

It seems a long way off, it is more than nine months away, yet the plans go forward already for another great midwinter festival. New York Times reporting the toy fair says the general public will not get a chance to view most of the toys until late autumn or winter but "until the holiday season, however, boys and girls can dream. They can picture themselves sailing through the streets on stream-lined aluminum scooters, light as feathers, or speeding down icy hills on aluminum sleds or skimming the sidewalks on roller-skates that are aluminum even to the wheels. They can dream of a new stuffed animal kingdom, with walking pandas and floating ducks and luminous dogs and cats."

"It is a safe bet that children will own cars before their parents do," the Times writer says.

There are dolls with moveable eyes and with voices and doubledecker cribs in which to rock them as well as such long-absent doll house furniture as teak tables, hurricane lamps and andirons.

Next Christmas little boys can have sand diggers to yank up the earth, 'atomic' planes to zoom around their rooms, miniature walkie-talkies, scooters looking like bombs and sets that will teach them the fundamentals of electricity. Miniature musical instruments, farm machinery, cowboy costumes and gardening equipment as well as a variety of metal, wood and cardboard games and hobby activities such as clay sculpture and tapestry weaving are exhibited.

However materials are still scarce, exhibitors say. Textiles for doll clothes are hard to get as well as real hair for dolls' wigs.

Steel shortage may limit production for many months.

Anyway playthings of rubber, metal and a bevy of toys of peacetime put in an appearance.

Parents and children should feel grateful to those who plan far ahead in looking to Christmas. While people at large enjoy the present season, there must go on the steady task of planning for the designing, the making, wholesaling, distributing and the selling of such things even as toys. To all these persons engaged in this great industry the people must feel thankful for in due course of time, the season comes, though it is now and seems far far away.

Tulips on the Graves

Oosterbek is about three miles from Arnhem, the Dutch city which was so much in the news when the British airborne troops fought such a gallant fight for the bridge. Many a man was killed in that brave battle.

Each child in Oosterbeck has been given two graves to end. They have planted tulips on each grave and the cemetery is given loving attention. It is kept trim and neat and the flowers will be living memorials to the dead.

The Dutch will not soon forget the British and Canadians, who wrested their country from the Boche and freed the people from slavery under the Germans.

The work of setting all the cemeteries in order is proceeding. They will be kept as beautifullly as the cemeteries of the last war were tended between conflicts.

—W. L. Clark, in Windsor Star.

A Necessity

The fact that it has been found necessary to fly cats from England to Berlin to deal with a plague of rats in the British zone of the city underlines the lack of appreciation which puss has suffered in Germany in recent times, says The Manchester Guardian. According to an approximate census of animals made a few years before the war, there were only 450,000 cats in the whole of Germany. In some parts of the country they were so comparatively rare that a Frankfort journal published an appeal for the "rehabilitation of the cat," deprecating the prejudice against the animal alleged to be generally prevalent in Germany, and pointing out, among other arguments in its favor, that cats, especially kittens, make splendid playmates for the young.

Breakfast-Table Comment

We can imagine no declaration better calculated to stir the sympathies of well-fed Canadians for hungry Britishers than the breakfast-table comment of a British civil servant just arrived in the Dominion capital.

Accompanying his words, we imagine, with a sigh of satisfied repletion, the Britisher described the morning repast as his "first good, solid breakfast in seven years."

Those with a proper appreciation of breakfast — we scorn the toast-and-coffee contingent — will realize more deeply than ever before what Britishers have endured—and still endure.

Russia Plans Big Development In Vehicles

By EDDIE GILMORE

Moscow, March 15 —(AP)— Russia, developing one of the greatest rail, highway, airway and waterway systems in the world, is driving forward likewise in production of the vehicles to make it useful.

If her plans in the automobile field are achieved, she may well rival North America, not only in domestic production, but in the foreign field as well.

By the beginning of the war with Germany the U.S.S.R. had three large, modern plants in Moscow, Gorky and Yaroslavl. At that time Russia was fourth in the world in automobile making, second in the world and first in Europe for the output of trucks.

Factories are being built at Dniepropetrovsk in the Ukraine, Kautaisi in Georgia, Minsk in White Russia and Novosibirsk in Siberia.

Existing plants are being enlarged. The Gorky intends to double its output to turn out 1,000 cars daily by 1950.

The machinery of these factories is being modernized progressively on an almost day-to-day basis with a view to going over completely or almost completely to automatic machine tools.

Three types of trucks have been made in the Soviet Union, but six new models now are rolling over the roads of Russia, ranging from one to seven tons with the most powerful engines yet seen in the U.S.S.R.

Passenger cars are planned to match anything in North America. The new Zis 110 is a flashy job, something between a Buick and a Cadillac. There is also the Victory, comparable to the Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth.

There is also going to be a midget car called the "Moscovich," a four passenger sedan which will travel a little more than 60 miles on slightly more than a quart of gasoline. Moscovich models already are on the capital's streets. The factory which is expected to turn out 200 daily now is almost finished in Moscow. Similar factories are to be put up in other cities.

Most interesting perhaps of the new auto plants is the one at Dniepropetrovsk, which will contain more than 7,000 automatic machine tools and presses, and cover 500 acres. The current is to be supplied by the plant's own heating power station.

SAYS CITY DUMPING GROUND FOR UNWANTED CATS AND DOGS

London, March 15 —(CP)— Everybody with a cat he doesn't want takes it to London. That was what Rev. A. A. Trumper, chairman of the London Humane Society, told city council last night as he appealed for a larger grant for the society. "London is made a dumping ground of unwanted dogs and cats from Middlesex and adjacent municipalities, and we know that from our own observations," he declared.

Tenders for Car-Passenger Steamer are Called For

Kingston, March 15 — (CP) — The Ontario Department of Highways has called for tenders for the building of a diesel twin-screw automobile and passenger steamer to operate on the Wolfe Island-Kingston ferry round trip. It will replace the ferry steamer Wolfe Islander which has served for more than 40 years.

Provincial Air Service Prepares for Season

Sault Ste. Marie, March 15 — (CP) — Engineers, pilots and hangar crew at the provincial air service headquarters here are preparing aircraft for the summer season which starts May 1 with the departure of pilots for their bases throughout northern Ontario.

Doctor Demands Permissive Law On Sterilization

Brantford, March 15 (CP)— A law permitting voluntary sterilization of feeble-minded persons is vitally necessary in Ontario, Dr. W. L. Hutton, Brantford's Medical Health Officer, said last night.

Brant County Board of Health earlier yesterday endorsed Dr. Hutton's request to the Brantford General Hospital to permit sterilization of a feeble-minded woman. Dr. Hutton then asked the Brant county council and the Brantford city council to join in the endorsation. The woman in question was said to have borne two illegitimate children and was about to have a third, and had agreed to an operation.

Sterilization of the same woman in 1937 had been dissented to by the Brantford hospital. Dr. Hutton told the Board of Health: "She had eight living children and they live in indescribable filth in what is more like a pigsty than anything else."

The Ontario Medical Act does not ban sterilization, nor does it permit it "and there are doubts as to the legal responsibility of a surgeon performing such an operation on request," said Dr. Hutton. He was opposed to compulsory sterilization.

Dr. Miles G. Brown, medical superintendent of the Hamilton General Hospital, said sterilization operations are allowed at his hospital if the attending physician is satisfied it is necessary. It is necessary for both the woman and her husband to sign a declaration of willingness. Such operations are performed only on Protestants, he added.

Dr. J. E. Davey, Hamilton's Medical Health Officer, said his department recently had refused the request of a man who wanted to be sterilized. In the case of a male such an operation would appear illegal, he added.

Court-Martial Hears Evidence Of Two Witnesses

By E. L. WILLIAMS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 15 — (CP)— Testimony continued today in the general court martial of Cpl. (acting Sgt.) John Hugh Harvey of the Royal Army Medical Corps accused of 29 offenses ranging from collaboration with the Japanese to assault on Allied prisoners of war.

Only two witnesses — Maj. H. M. S. G. Beadnell, R.A.M.C. and Pte. J. J. Tandy of the Winnipeg Grenadiers — were heard yesterday as the all-British court resumed after acquitting the 36-year-old native of London, England, of a manslaughter charge.

Fifty two names are contained in the list of witnesses and possible witnesses and although all are unlikely to be called, Capt. F. W. Christie of Winnipeg, prosecuting officer, said he proposed to summon a considerable number.

Maj. Beadnell said he arrived in Oeyama prisoner of war camp in June, 1944, and had been given to understand by Harvey that a four-man committee had been set up to maintain discipline. The committee, answerable to the Japanese, was composed of three British and one Canadian non-commissioned officers, a RSM Dean, QMS. E. C. H. Rogers, Harvey and CSM. M. C. Tugby of the Winnipeg Grenadiers who now is awaiting a general court martial on 19 charges including collaboration and assault.

The committee's discipline, he said, was less severe than that of the Japanese or of Harvey himself.

Pte. Tandy, one of the men Harvey is accused of assaulting, said he had been struck by Harvey after being caught stealing Red Cross parcels. It was his second offense, he said, and Harvey had come to him and said "You wouldn't learn a lesson the first time," and then knocked him down. When he got up he again was knocked down.

He admitted Harvey had done him many favors and that he had heard a story of how Harvey, while at Shamshuipo prison camp near Hong Kong, had succeeded in obtaining medical supplies from a Japanese civilian doctor and brought them into the camp. The supplies had saved many lives.

PAPERS DELIVERED BY PLANE

Sudbury, March 15 (CP)—The Sudbury Daily Star yesterday used an airplane to deliver its papers to the Espanola area, 40 miles southwest of here, after officials of the Ontario Department of Highways ordered a 20-mile stretch of the Sault Ste. Marie-Sudbury highway closed to traffic.

Pilot Hal McCracken landed on a lake near Espanola and found the ice solid despite an early thaw. The papers were taken overland from the plane to Espanola and distributed from there.

Highways Department engineers said the highway between Worthington and McKerrow was impassable because of frost boils, washouts and soft shoulders.

IT IS ABSURD AND DANGEROUS TOO

I believe that it is downright absurd, and dangerous too, as I shall explain presently, for any one in any circumstance to worry about the chance of getting pneumonia, rheumatism or any other illness from exposure to cold, dampness or extreme changes of weather, exposure for a few hours or exposure throughout any number of winters in the worst climate we have in North America. Moreover my conviction about this applies to every human being, infant, growing child, youth, adult or oldster—I apologize for the term oldster but I can find no other word for it or even a short descriptive phrase—perhaps some reader will suggest one, some oldster, I mean.

Lest any one assume that of course I don't mean exactly what I say but merely that exposure to cold, dampness or sudden changes is not the main or direct cause of pneumonia and the like but just a contributing or predisposing cause, I'll state my belief here as clearly as possible:

1. Exposure to cold, wet, dampness, draft, sudden changes of temperature or weather causes no illness.

2. There is no scientific evidence that exposure predisposes to or contributes to any illness.

3. The experience of people who know what exposure means — soldiers, sailors, woodsmen, hunters, fishermen, surveyors, arctic explorers—outweighs any fancies of fireside philosophers about this, and these people are unanimous about it—I'll rest my case on their verdict.

That's all. Try and twist that into the undignified facetiousness which too many of you benighted old timers pretend to find in my teachings about exposure.

Under all ordinary circumstances I'm a tolerably quiet and harmless case but that is only during a lucid interval. If you want to witness a scene just come at me with any of the old timers' favorite posers, such as—

"Then why do I take cold almost every time I get my feet wet?" "Why are colds so common in the winter time and so uncommon in the summer time?"

"How do you account for the fact that there is so much more rheumatism in this climate than there is in some climate far away from here?"

"What makes doctors warn patients to keep well under the covers or to dress warmly when going out or to wear belly band or chest protector?"

I can still gnash a fair number of teeth but lately I have had to relinquish tearing my hair owing to the shortage of raw material, so, if you have a question, a sincere question, and not a phony like the rheumatism question above, take your place in the line and I'll answer you when your turn comes.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

What Do You Mean, Resistance?

Would like to know if a program of breathing pure oxygen will build up the resistance of the system particularly. body generally and the circulatory system particularly. (L. T.)

Answer—If by "resistance" you mean strength, vitality, vigor, functional efficiency, vite, I'd say no. Whether inhalations of oxygen for a few seconds daily or in any quantity a person could safely breathe would have any effect upon immunity, I don't know, but I doubt it would affect any specific disease. Please understand I'm not being academic about this—I just don't know what "resistance" means, apart from immunity.

Bedtime Snack

Is it unhealthy to have a light lunch at bedtime? (L. W. F.)

Answer—For most people it is a good habit. It is natural, normal and physiological to eat before you sleep. A bedtime lunch helps many to sleep better. The popular prejudice against eating at night is based on the ill effects of excessive eating, drinking, smoking and excitement, and also on drinking coffee late in the evening—that will keep almost any one from sleeping well.

Making Blood

Please tell me whether milk or port wine aids in making blood. Doctor said I am anemic. Friends suggest port wine. (Mrs. K. L.)

Answer—Milk, yes. Wine, no. Send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "Blood and Health."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is an Admirable Crichton?

Any person of unusual or precocious attainments is called an Admirable Crichton (pronounced "KRY-tun").

This is the epithet of James Crichton (sometimes spelled "Creighton"), a Scottish intellectual prodigy, who was born in 1560 and who claimed royal descent from the Stuarts.

He was also famous for his beauty of person and physical prowess.

At the age of fifteen he took the degree of Master of Arts, and before he was twenty he was said to have "run through the whole circle of sciences," mastered ten or twelve languages and perfected himself in all the knightly accomplishments.

As the result of a quarrel with his father, who had become a Protestant, Crichton went to France. According to one story, he debated in twelve languages at Paris and won an easy victory over the entire faculty of the college of Navarre in the Sorbonne.

After that he spent a year or two campaigning with the French army. Everywhere he went on the continent he became known for his beauty of person, his elegance of manners, his astounding memory and his intellectual accomplishments.

He astonished the Doge and senate at Venice with his eloquence and oratorical grace. At Mantua he was appointed tutor to Vincenzo di Gonzago, heir to the dukedom. Here he distinguished himself as a swordsman and killed many of the best swordsmen in Italy. His brilliance made other men envious, and Crichton is said to have supplanted the prince in the affection of his mistress. One evening, supposedly in 1582, he was attacked in the streets of Mantua by three masked men. The Admirable fought so well that the leader of the party was forced to unmask to save his life. It was Gonzago himself!, The Scot fell on his knees and apologized to his pupil, at the same time handing him his sword. But the ungrateful prince immediately ran him through with it, and so died at twenty-two one of the most famous of all prodigies.

The earliest known use of the epithet "The Admirable" occurs in John Johnston's "Heroes Scoti" (1603).

In "Edwin Morris" Tennyson wrote:

I call'd him Crichton, for he seem'd
All-perfect, finish'd to the finger-nail.

Bakelite Superior To Wood or Metal For Plane Skis

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 15 (CP)—Exhaustive tests of the "drag" of aircraft skis have shown that a special polymerized bakelite is superior to wooden or metal sliding surfaces.

G. J. Klein, National Research Council mechanical engineer, reported the results of studies at Ottawa and Sioux Lookout, Ont., to the N.R.C. Science Association.

Introduced as an international authority on snow, Mr. Klein served during the war as military consultant on snow vehicles, adviser on certain aspects of the Allies' proposed iceberg airfield—"Habbakuk Project"—and designer of special apparatus being used by the Muskox expedition to study snow conditions in the Arctic.

The importance of ski-equipped aircraft to transportation in Canada's northland led to the investigation. The best possible design for aircraft skis was sought because existing types sometimes showed such resistance to sliding that aircraft were unable to reach flying speeds. The "freezing in" of skis of parked aircraft was another major problem.

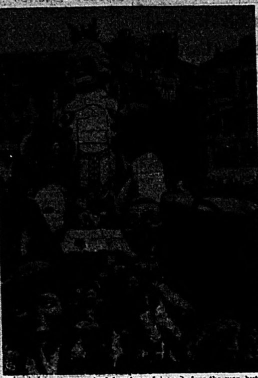
Among materials tested were brass, duraluminum monel metal, stainless steel, linseed oil-treated white ash, various types of varnished wood, rubber and seven grades of bakelite.

Mr. Klein said it was found that resistance to sliding was due to four factors. They were:

1. Formation of a rut—roughly equivalent to climbing a small slope equal to the depth to which the ski sinks.
2. Dry mechanical friction near the front of the ski which increased with lower temperatures.
3. Viscous drag which increased with the wetness of the snow and with the size of the surface of the skis.
4. Surface tension caused by dragging a multitude of tiny drops of water along the ski surface.

Bakelite was chosen as the best material because it "froze in" less and presented a highly-polished surface. Generally, better results were obtained with long narrow skis having an angle of about 20 degrees at the front and absolutely flat in cross-section. The greater the weight on the skis, the better the performance.

FIRST POST-WAR CARNIVAL



Maybe it wasn't as colorful and carefree as before the war, but the annual Nice, France, carnival was gay enough when it was resumed in March after five years of war. Here is a view of the giant figure that represents the king of the carnival as it was borne in the parade. Other papier mache figures are in right foreground.

Italy Seeks Entry To World Bank, Monetary Fund

By STERLING F. GREEN

Savannah, Ga., March 15 (AP) —Italy has asked admission to the world bank and monetary fund, it was learned Wednesday, and the United States plans to support her bid for early entry.

Fred M. Vinson, chairman of the boards of governors of the International Monetary Conference on Wilmington Island, informed the membership committee of the Italian request yesterday, a United States delegate revealed.

A majority of the United States group favors opening the doors to Italy, another delegate told a reporter, on the theory her economic plight is so grave that her rehabilitation is a worldwide responsibility.

Opponents of this view hold that the self-same economic distress makes it unlikely the Italians could meet their responsibilities—that is, repay their borrowings from the $9,100,000,000 bank and $8,800,000,000 monetary fund—and should for the present remain a relief recipient.

In the background is the consideration that if Italy's economic future is shaky, the United States would like other countries to share the liability for any of her defaults.

The contest over a permanent site for the twin economic agencies grew into a three-ring, instead of two-ring, contest, as Chicago joined the group of candidate cities, along with New York and Washington.

Court Costs Reduced In Alimony Action

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow in weekly court of Osgoode Hall said an order of W. C. Mikel, local Master at Belleville, for payment of $2,254 as preliminary expenses in an alimony action is "the most extraordinary order I have ever seen."

He reduced the amount to an advance of $35 for normal disbursements and payments of costs for examination for discovery. The suit was brought by Helena Hamilton against her husband, Charles Clayton Hamilton. The local Master ordered payment of $90 a month interim alimony and Mr. Justice Barlow reduced this to $25 after evidence showed that Hamilton's income was only $106 a month.

The local Master also allowed counsel fee of $500 for the first day of the trial and $300 for each succeeding day. Mr. Justice Barlow said this was "highly improper even if there was material before the court to show that counsel had been retained." Normally counsel fees did not exceed $50 a day.

APPROVES SCHEME

London, Ont., March 15—(CP) —Board of governors of the University of Western Ontario yesterday approved a scheme of compulsory military training for first and second year students. Western and Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph this year made military training compulsory for all first year students except war veterans. Veterans will be exempt from training at Western next year, as will others who have taken training "of a satisfactory nature."

Principals Deny Statement 'Gang Fights' Occurred

Preston, Ont., March 15 —(CP) —Principals of Preston Public School and St. Clement's Roman Catholic School denied a joint statement Thursday that pupils of the two schools engaged in rival "gang fights."

The statement was in reply to a police report Wednesday which claimed that gang fights had resulted in a Separate School pupil being stabbed in the arm with a jack knife in the hands of a 12-year-old public school boy.

Principals Marshall McQuorquodale and Sister Mary Lius said the fight mentioned by police had occurred last Monday and was "between two individuals and had nothing of the gang fight about it."

"There have been no series of gang fights, gang battles or epidemic of fights between children of Preston public and Separate schools," the statement said. "The most cordial relations exist between the two staffs and the two student bodies. When misdemeanors between the pupils occur, the most understanding communications are made between the two schools in an endeavor to stamp out discord.

"There are no gangs among our pupils. Fights do occur occasionally as they will in any community, but a constant watchfulness is maintained to cultivate the two student bodies. They harmoniously skate on the rink on the public school grounds, play in the same bantam hockey league teams."

A school boy involved in the reported stabbing appeared in police court today on a charge of being or becoming a juvenile delinquent. He was sentenced to a strapping in his home under supervision of a Preston police officer. He was remanded in custody of his parents to appear in court in two weeks.

Commenting on the case Magistrate Hugh Polson said: "Boys do not fight that way with knives and such a practice cannot be countenanced."

THREW CAT ON LIVE COALS

Milton, Ont., March 15—(CP)— Eighteen-year-old Robert Henry of Milton, who admitted tossing a cat atop live coals in an incinerator, will be sentenced next Wednesday on a charge of cruelty to animals.

The cat was rescued by its owner, Gordon Trimble, and escaped with burned paws and scorched hair. Trimble said he followed three boys who had picked up the cat and was attracted to the incinerator by the cat's cries.

Similar charges against two other youths in connection with the attack were dismissed after they claimed they took no part in the action.

Prof. Haushofer And Wife Suicides

Bad Toelz, Germany, March 15 —(AP) — Hitler's "geopolitical" theorist, Prof. Karl Von Haushofer, 76, and his 69-year-old wife took their own lives Sunday near their home at Hartschimmel, it was learned here.

Both took poison, authorities said, but Mrs. Haushofer was found hanging from a tree, while the professor lay face down on the ground.

Rudolf Hess was one of Haushofer's most devoted pupils and called Hitler's attention to Haushofer's ideas, many of which were reported to have been incorporated into Nazi military plans.

Hess' flight to London in 1941 also was attributed to Haushofer's influence.

Massey Praised By London Times

London, March 15—(CP Cable) —The Times of London, in a lengthy eulogy, Thursday referred to the retirement of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey as Canadian High Commissioner in London, as the loss to British public life of an eminent and popular figure and called him "the father of the Canadian diplomatic service."

"During more than half of his term of office, Great Britain and Canada jointly were engaged in a supreme struggle for the defence of their common ideals and it fell to Mr. Massey to become head of the Canadian community in and out of uniform that quickly formed on British soil."

The Times said Mr. and Mrs. Massey both had labored constantly and successfully to promote the welfare of Canadian men and women on war service in the British Isles and had entered fully into the life of Britain in peace and in war.

The newspaper described Mr. Massey's war speeches as an inspiration in dark times which would be remembered as a Canadian interpretation of the faith by which Englishmen and Canadians are united.

Mr. Massey's retirement after 11 years in London was announced in Ottawa Tuesday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. He plans to leave for home late in May.

"A Six Million Dollar Sugar Bowl!"

Unfailingly each spring the sap courses upward through countless maple trees—and with taps, kettles and firewood, the sweet yield is garnered and refined and brought to market, where it brings a $6,000,000 yearly income to Canadian farmers.

This six million dollar sugar bowl refills itself with maple products each year because the men who operate it understand the powerful significance of the word "Conservation". Do you realize how vital that word is when applied to the vast forest resources which provide a large part of Canada's wealth?

If these forests are to remain the basis of our third largest industry, they must be protected from fires, insect depredations and unwise cutting.

They can only be protected by an awareness on the part of every Canadian of the needs and methods of conservation.

By joining The Carling Conservation Club you can learn the part you can and should play in the protection of Canada's vast natural heritage. *Membership is free and will bring you interesting and authoritative information on conservation as it becomes available. The Experts Say

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 15. (CP)— A serving of liver once a week is not only recommended by Canada's Food Rules, it is also a good meat coupon extender. It requires no tokens and is rich in flavor as well as nutritional value.

Beef, calf and pork livers are all good though they vary in flavor and price, say the agriculture department consumer section experts.

Beef and calf liver may be recognized by their size, being larger than pork and having a smooth, glossy surface. The pork liver has a pebbled-looking surface and is reddish brown in color while calf liver tends to be yellowish brown. Tog liver has four lobes, beef and calf have two.

In preparing liver of any kind wipe with a damp cloth if it is sliced or, if it is whole, wash in cold water and dry. Slice and remove the skin and any tough fibres. The liver may be scalded in boiling water for a minute or two before removing the skin and it will peel off more easily.

Liver should not be overcooked or the flavor and texture are apt to be impaired. Calf liver, because of its delicate flavor and tenderness may be broiled, but beef and pork should be braised or sauteed. Lamb liver may also be used, but because of its stronger flavor is not generally as well liked as the other livers. Many people like it braised in a savory sauce.

If liver is to be ground before cooking, as when it is used in meat loaves or patties, it should be scalded in boiling water for several minutes first to make it easier to handle.

If the members of your family profess not to like liver, you can serve them Savory Spaghetti and have them ask for a second helping. Don't tell them it is a liver dish and chances are they won't know it is. The dish resembles Italian spaghetti with meat sauce.

For six servings you will need 3-4 pound liver, 1-4 cup chopped onion, two tablespoons of fat, one teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one tablespoon of chopped parsley (optional)), two cups tomato juice, eight ounces of spaghetti.

Scald liver in boiling water for five minutes; drain and grind. Brown onion in fat, add liver and seasonings and cook slowly ten minutes. Add tomato juice, simmer 20 minutes. If sauce becomes too thick during cooking, thin with a little water. Meanwhile cook and drain spaghetti. Pile spaghetti on a deep platter and pour sauce over it.

In the good old days you might have been told you had spring fever due to the shortage of some necessary foods during the winter months. In this age of rapid transportation and food-processing methods you can get the right foods the year round but even so a lot of people show a springtime decrease in haemoglobin with accompanying lassitude.

The answer is to step up your intake of iron foods. Choose darker green vegetables and dark cereal. If you have a choice eat potatoes rather than macaroni or spaghetti; green celery rather than white celery; cooked prunes rather than apple or other fruit sauce; oatmeal or cracked wheat rather than cream of wheat; whole wheat bread rather than white.

He spoke of the appreciation for the many acts of kindness, Mrs. Kennedy had performed and of the excellent hotel she had maintained for many years. This address was signed by Mr. Wiggins, Mr. P. A. Kellar, reeve of Bancroft, Mr. Gordon W. Jones, ex-president of the Board of Trade, and Mr. F. J. Follis, president of the Lions' Club.

She was presented by Miss Alice Mullett with a purse and a beautiful bouquet of red roses; after which Mr. Oswold Fuller read the complimentary address to Mrs. O'Neill following which she was presented by Mrs. G. W. Jones with a beautiful black plastic purse.

Following the presentation Mrs. O'Neill on behalf of her mother and herself in a few well chosen words expressed their thanks to all. Later Mrs. Kennedy and her daughter served dainty refreshments to those present.

Cheese Dishes

To stretch her food dollar as far as possible and yet give her family all that is required for daily, happy living, is the goal of every enterprising homemaker. Her best friend in this regard is cheese. It is a concentrated and truly economical food, with which there need be no waste, for every crumb is edible.

From time to time an appetizing tangy cheese dish is welcomed as the main course served at luncheon, supper and even dinner. Canadian cheese has a characteristic flavor, which appeals to most people and makes easy the preparation of meatless dishes.

There are many different ways in which cheese may be incorporated into the daily menus. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggest that it be used in sauces, croquettes, omelets, souffles, escallops, rarebits and other supper dishes as Cheese Fondue or Macaroni and Cheese.

To off-set the concentrated nature of cheese it should be served with bulky foods such as fruits, green leafy vegetables, bread and cereals. To retain that fresh flavor and texture, store cheese in a cool, dry place—either in a covered container or wrapped in heavy waxed paper. Never allow cheese to freeze.

In cooking, use only low heat, sufficient to melt the cheese. Excessive temperatures will give a toughened product.

POTATO CHEESE SOUFFLE

1 cup grated cheese
2 cups mashed potatoes
1-3 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-8 teaspoon mustard
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites.

Mix grated cheese with potatoes and blend thoroughly. Add milk, melted butter, and seasonings. Beat until mixture is smooth. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored, add to first mixture. Fold in egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff, but not dry. Turn into a well-greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 40 minutes. Serve with a crisp salad. Six servings.

MACARONI SOUFFLE RING

1 cup macaroni, in 1-inch lengths.
1 tblsp. mild-flavored fat
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup top milk
1 cup grated cheese
1-2 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
3 egg whites

Cook the macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Melt fat and add with bread crumbs, top milk, cheese, salt and slightly beaten egg yolks, to the macaroni. Beat the egg whites until stiff, but not dry and fold into first mixture. Pour into a greased casserole and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, for 1 hour. Serve with well-seasoned tomato sauce. This mixture may also be cooked in a ring mould, and the centre filled with creamed mixed vegetables. Six servings.

When a green salad is served for luncheon or supper, luncheon cheese cakes, as an accompaniment make a substantial main course.

LUNCHEON CHEESE CAKES

2 cakes compressed yeast
1-2 cup lukewarm water
1 tablespoon sugar
1-4 cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 1-3 cups grated cheese
1 1-2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 3-4 cups all-purpose flour

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water and add sugar. Cream shortening and salt together. Add eggs unbeaten, one at a time, and beat well after each addition. Add grated cheese and beat until thoroughly blended. Add dissolved yeast. Sift together the mustard and flour and add gradually to first mixture. Beat well. Drop a heaping teaspoonful into greased muffin pans or onto a greased baking sheet, allowing about 2 inches space between each. Let rise until light and spongy, about one hour. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, for 20 minutes. Makes 24.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Attention 'Lonesome Teen-Ager!' —Here Are Some Suggestions For You!

Remember "Lonesome?" She wrote a letter two or three weeks ago asking how she could get her mother to let her have some fun. She had to scrub, wash and iron and do all sorts of other chores at home, and was never allowed to attend high school dances or other events. Her father was willing for her to go, but her mother wasn't.

Well, several interested mothers who read her letter have written in with some suggestions. Here's what one says:

"Dear 'Lonesome':

"Believe me, I sympathize with you. Miss Fairfax suggested that you talk to Dad and get him to help Mother understand. I do not think so, because Mother might not understand.

"I'm a mother of grown children, and I went through the same problem. I did not win all I wanted, but I got half, anyway, so it's worth the try. Here's what I'd do, if I were you.

"I should get as calm as I could, and make up my mind I was not going to shed any tears or get into an argument. Then I would take both Mother and Dad in a room and say: 'I know I'm young, but would you listen to my side of the story?' Then I would explain what I would like to do, saying: 'If you let me do these things, I would never destroy your faith and trust in me.' If your mother should say: 'I do trust you,' then say: 'Thank you, Mums, and since you do trust me, will you let me go one night to basketball, and one night a week with my friends?' Say frankly whether the friends you want to go out with are boys or girl, and if Mother raises objections to boys, say: 'Mother, I'm promising you, you can trust me.'

"If any mother refuses a request like this, when it's given with honesty, than I say such a mother is just plain selfish and cold-hearted, if she won't either agree to your proposal or suggest a substitute plan. Good luck to you, and I hope you win, and I hope you keep your promise!

"S. A. Y."

That sounds like something very worth trying, don't you think? And here's another mother's suggestion:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Judging from 'Lonesome's' letter, she is a wonderful girl and a big help to her mother in the housework.

"I would suggest that 'Lonesome' have a heart-to-heart talk with one of her understanding teachers at school and enlist her aid. Maybe she could venture so far as to bring the teacher home, and have her ask the mother why 'Lonesome' isn't at the parties and games. If the mother has no logical reason for refusing to allow her daughter to go to these 'socials,' I think it would probably embarrass her to a point where 'Lonesome' would be allowed to go out more often. Further, as you also suggested, a good heart-to-heart talk with her Dad may be beneficial.

"Although I am just a young mother (26), I have three daughters (8 1-2, 6 and 1 year.) I know freedom to a teen-aged is most important for a happy life. The teen-ager next door has asked my advice on several things, and has seen my point every time. She knows I will not side with her parents if they are wrong, but on the other hand, she does not resent my agreeing with them when they are right. Having helped this teenager, I thought maybe my letter might help 'Lonesome'. I wish her lots of luck.

"Betty".

There you are, "Lonesome!" Go ahead and see what you can work out with these good suggestions. And all the rest of us wish you luck, too!

Fashion Flashes

SOMETHING NICE and new in rainwear is the two-piece outfit. Made in gleaming black plastic, the mandarin-collar jacket has a front yoke, full sleeves, set-in belt and gilt buttons. With it is a skirt of the same waterproof fabric, one-piece side-drape skirt that ties and buttons.

Color rises in Spring hats. A softly tailored little sailor of light blue Swiss straw is trimmed with large clusters of pink carnations. It is swathed in purple veiling.

The place to see really beautiful lingerie and lounging wear is in the trousseaux shop. We admired a lounging ensemble with a below-the-knee length fitted tunic of sheer lace over yellow crepe. It was made with curved hem and worn over yellow crepe trousers. Tunic has full sleeves that can be pushed up.

Devotees of the print frock are happy again as the shops concentrate on this American favorite fashion. Pink crepe with a shadow print of carousels and figures in black makes a pretty frock fashioned with a snug bodice that closes with a long row of tiny black buttons. Draped pockets accentuate the hipline.

Young things are mad about the battle-jacket suit. Ready for Spring is a black and white checked woollen suit, the cardigan-neckline battle-jacket bound in black woollen with black buttons at the set-in waistband. Skirt has simulated fly front.

New lines emerge for Spring coats. Navy blue bengaline is used for an attractive topper made with melon sleeves and a soft swing back. The hem is delicately flared.

NEW AND different touches give an entirely fresh look to Spring clothes. Crocheted sleeves and yoke lend interest to this casual navy blue wool suit made to be worn with or without a blouse. From the extended flange shoulder come the gathered-in crocheted sleeves which terminate in tight fitting wrist bands. The general effect is like that of a jerkin suit. The skirt is gored.

A Double-Siren Suit

By PRUNELLA WOOD

REMEMBER Mr. Winston Churchill's famous siren suit? (He does; he wore it off and on during his vacation visit to Florida this winter, during his painting excursions.) This pale blue pure Irish linen one-piece slack suit is awfully like it. . . allowing for sirenish feminine dispensations, of course.

It is a part of Clare Potter's resort collection, and like every other model Clare creates, it has many resort seasons ahead of it, both in quality and fashion. . . for her clothes are always classic.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Beware of fixed ideas concerning dress

We hear a good deal about types of femininity. A woman is practical and tailored; or she is athletic; or she is a fluffy one, must be ruffled and ribboned. They must dress in character, some say. But doesn't that sort of thing put them in a sartorial rut? And what if they are not the types they think they are? It strikes your good-looks reporter that it might be a delightful and exciting diversion to change one's type. That doesn't mean changing one's activities.

Take the dowdy women whose features are plain and who seems to be totally lacking in the dress sense. Must she go on being a frump all her life? The idea is silly. Somebody should take the poor dear by the hand, lead her to a smart dressmaker, shove her into a beauty shop for a general going over, whisper in her ear that, if she can't be beautiful, she can be chic. We all know ugly ducklings who have been transformed into swans. Some of the movie stars were not prize winners when they started their screen careers. They had a build-up.

Plain women are those who do not know how to make themselves good-looking, or won't try. They may have undiscovered beauty assets.

To the woman who is leaping over pulchritude hurdles, the biggest obstacle is the fixed idea. A favorite stationary notion has to do with colors. A woman will stick to cold greys and dismal browns because she's always worn them. The result is that nobody bothers to notice what she has on; she always looks the same. Her attire is taken for granted.

Let this woman go on a shopping binge, directed by a good friend who understands sartorial problems and who will explain tactfully that she needs a bit of gayness in her make-up. She'll cause a sensation in the family circle when she flaunts her new draperies. The neighbors will say: "My! my! Have you seen Mrs. Grey? Moth turned butterfly. Isn't it lovely to. she has come to her senses?"

"I have to wear a side part, and my hair just so," Mrs. Customer explains to the hair stylist. "I will not follow fashions that are not becoming."

This woman should go on a shopping binge with a friend who understands sartorial problems.

"Pardon, Madame," says Charles or Harold or Henry, "but anything that is out of date is no longer becoming. It sets one back years. It means that one cannot have the youthful appearance. Permit me to create for you an innovation." So he does. She may accept it and enjoy it, or she may be as stubborn as a mule and not have a thing to do with it.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Many Showers . . . So Should She Give a Dinner?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear friend of mine is to be married in two months, and I would like to entertain for her in some way. So many showers are being planned for her that I just don't care to give another shower. A cocktail party in also "out". What do you think about my giving a dinner in my home? If I did this, I would have to limit the number of guests to eight. If you approve of the dinner-idea, please tell me just who should be invited, and if at such a dinner guests would suppose they should bring gifts.

T. R.

Giving a small dinner in honor of the couple would, of course, be proper and delightful, but having to limit the number of guests to so few (only four, with the engaged couple and you and your husband) would naturally present a problem as to who "the four" should be. Incidentally, guests at such a dinner would not be expected to bring gifts to the bride-to-be.

Since giving a dinner is more expensive and more "exclusive" than giving a more general party, my suggestion is that you give a tea in honor of the couple, say from four to seven on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon. The customarily simple, inexpensive tea-menu (small sandwiches, cakes, tea and/or coffee) would mean that you could include in your hospitality many guests, girls and men, also members of the couple's families, if you wish. And such a party, quite generally given in honor of a couple, does not mean that guests are expected to bring gifts.

Her Daughter's Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is marrying a Navy Officer next month, and since she has been married before, we are planning a simple afternoon wedding and she is to wear a street-length dress.

1. They are to be married in a chapel. Is it correct to have her father give her in marriage at this, her second wedding? How about attendants for both the bride and bridegroom? And how should the wedding party enter the chapel?

2. When should I, her mother, enter? And with whom do I enter?

E. H.

1. Yes, it is correct for your daughter to have her father give her in marriage. At a bride's second marriage, it is best taste for her to have only one attendant (she need not have any, if she prefers not to), and the bridegroom usually has a best man. If your daughter has one attendant, she walks down the aisle first, alone; and your daughter follows, on her father's right arm. The bridegroom and his best man enter from the room at the right of the chapel.

2. You, the bride's mother, are the last person to be seated in the chapel before the bridal group starts down the aisle. If there are to be ushers, an usher escorts you to your place in the first pew on the left of the aisle; if not, you may either walk alone, or with some members of your family.

Match Misconduct Penalty Definitely Unwarranted Says Writer Covering Hockey Game

The Belleville "Bears" are offering no alibis for their defeat at the hands of the Kingston "Saints" Wednesday night. They are all of the opinion that they should have won the game but they didn't and that's that.

One thing that did play a part in the defeat was the "match misconduct" penalty to captain "Jerry" Moher midway through the second session. We suggest that the penalty was definitely unwarranted. Here's the story:

Towards the end of the first stanza, Moher was bodychecked into the boards at the Kingston end of the rink. Both he and the man who checked him fell in the corner. Always a hustler, Moher tried to get up but was held by the Kingston player. When he was part way on his feet, he swung his stick in a final effort to get clear of the Kingston player. Referee "Yip" Radley who hadn't noticed the "holding" episode, saw Moher swing his stick and promptly sent him to the penalty box. Jerry didn't protest but went to the box.

Almost Same Thing.

About halfway through the middle session, almost the same thing took place at the other end of the rink except that it was a Kingston player who did the stick swinging. Moher was not involved in the play. There was no penalty. He skated over to the arbiter and asked him if it wasn't the same play that he had been penalized for in the first period. Radley didn't say a thing. Moher asked him again and was given a ten-minute "misconduct."

He went on to explain that he was captain of the team and was of the opinion that he could question a decision as long as he wasn't abusive. For this, he received a "match misconduct" and so the Belleville aggregation was forced to play without Moher for the rest of the game. This, to say the least, was disastrous.

Might Have Been Different.

We're not saying that Belleville would have won had Moher played the entire game but it might have been a different story with Jerry in there in the final period when the Saints were hot.

We would not have questioned Radley's decision if Moher had been abusive. If such had been the case, we would have been heartily in accord if Radley had had him suspended for the rest of the season. Dirty and abusive language should not be tolerated in a junior hockey game.

However, on Radley's own admission, Moher did not swear at him, and so we think that Mr. Radley was a little "high-handed" when he dished out the "match misconduct" penalty.

We sympathize with the officials in any sports contest. They take an awful beating at times and we agree that in some cases, the abuse is not justified. Yes, a referee's job is a tough one even at best.

Nevertheless, we question Mr. Radley's decision in the above case. It's too bad that play-off hockey of the calibre that the current Belleville-Kingston series is providing has to be marred by such hasty high-handed decisions.

Furthermore, we don't believe that the Kingston fans condone such action either.

Clare A. Ridley Elected President Skating Club

Clare A. Ridley was elected president of the Quinte Skating Club at the annual meeting this week. Other officers elected include 1st Vice-President, Roy Ridley; 2nd Vice-President, Jack Dickens; Secretary Treasurer, Ken Smith; Directors, Archie Leslie, Tom Fluery, Stan Kerr, Geo. McNally, Doug Bews, Gordon Davies, Ossie Hales, Doug McBride, Lillian Sprackett, Enos David, George Wishart, Mrs. Ken Smith, Mrs. B. Weese, H. Fox, Mrs. DesCarats, M. Williams, W. Fox.

The club has enjoyed the hearty support of the citizens of Belleville for a number of years and it is hoped that the new officers and directors of the club, will receive the same hearty support and cooperation.

There was much discussion concerning the erection of a covered rink due to the fact that the present facilities are considered inadequate for the number of club members. There were over one hundred members this season and in order to allow for expansion of the club, additional space is needed. It was felt that a covered rink would also lengthen the season.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

The highest-priced rookie in the Florida baseball camps was reported yesterday from Tampa as outfielder Bobby Brown of New York Yankees who was understood to have been paid more than $35,000 by president Larry Macphail for his signature. New York Giants tried to get Brown at a higher figure, but too late. Another to get a five-figure bonus for signing is pitcher Lou Kretlow of Detroit Tigers, former semi-pro ace from Oklahoma. Tigers got him after St. Louis Browns had dangled $25,000 in front of his signing hand.

Third-baseman Grady Hatton, former Army man, was reliably reported to have picked up $25,000 for signing with Cincinnati Reds between seasons.

Byron Nelson, foremost golfer of the United States last year, yesterday cancelled his proposed tour of South Africa, it was announced at Johannesburg.

The ninth annual meeting of the United States Trotting Association at New York yesterday elected Henry Knauf, Ladd, Ill., as president. The Association decided to fuse its three offices into a single headquarters at Hartford, Conn.

The Clan Forbes, 7,500-ton cargo ship, was scheduled to leave Birkenhead, England, today for South Africa with 11 race horses which occupied specially-built box stalls for the voyage.

Penicillin Works in Toronto

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Toronto physicians said today that no case of gonorrhoea which could not be cured by penicillin has been found in Toronto clinics. They were commenting on a report of Atlantic City, which said Dr. Hans Molitor has found penicillin had "lost its punch."

Dr. Molitor's report said penicillin gonorrhoea cures had dropped from 100 per cent to about 50 per cent. But in Toronto penicillin has been found 100 per cent effective.

FEAR "FALSE SPRING"

Hamilton, March 15 — (CP)—Fruit growers in this district are expressing renewed fears of a "false spring" which might harm orchards. Last year buds and blossoms appeared during an early mild spell and then were nipped by cold weather.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

The Belleville Bears arrived home the other dawning in two kinds of fog. One was the thick natural soupy kind, that slowed down speed of transportation and the other was a mental haze that settled over the Bruins after the alleged unfairness of referee Yip Radley who tacked a match misconduct on Jerry Moher.

• • •

The loss of Moher was felt keenly by the Bruins, and the incident may have meant the margin between victory and defeat. It is claimed by those who purport to know, that Moher, who is the captain of the squad argued with Radley about a former penalty. This was perfectly within the rights of the player inasmuch as he is the skipper of the team. Radley promptly tacked on a match penalty but, he omitted to skate to the Belleville bench and inform Coach Holway of the punishment.

• • •

The penalties were much too severe for the alleged "talking crime", the Bruins' management feels, and they stated today that M'sieu Radley can referee his games from the rinkside from now on as far as their team is concerned. Efforts will be made to secure two neutral referees for the third "crocial" game which is slated for the Kingston Arena on Tuesday next.

• • •

The Peterborough Intermediates must produce or peter out at the Kingston Arena tomorrow night when they meet the fancied Locos in the fifth game of their finals series. The Jim Ellis gang face the herculean task of winning three games in a row if they want to cop the title, and although they did manage to knock off the Haynesmen at Omemee the other night, it looks right now as if the Choo-Choos were the favored squad. However, the Petes, always a fighting team will not say uncle until the last pooch is suspended, and if they manage to pull out with a victory tomorrow, they'll be back in there for the sixth joust with added determination.

• • •

However, if Locos cop, it's the showers for the Petes, and they can hang up their official gear for the season. It's an ill wind that doesn't dry somebody's washing and if the Petes are rubbed out, it will mean an end, or at least a temporary suspension of the phonographic monotony of the broken-stick episode.

• • •

Additional dope on the forthcoming meeting of Central Ontario baseball moguls, is that junior squads will be given serious consideration in the pattern of the pastime, which it is hoped, will be woven at the Sunday conclave in the Hume Arena. Special mention was made of the fact that a Belleville junior team bolstered by a few veterans would be more than welcome in the proposed loop. The fact that they are entered will not affect their junior rating and they could go on in the playdowns, plus a lot of valuable experience gained by playing in the higher company.

AND HOW THE MALES HOWLED

The genus homo had a field day, or night, up around London way the other evening when members of London ladies basketball team and Hamilton's Golden Girls, took off their figurative gloves and before the surprised and amused glances of the spectators indulged in some spirited fisticuffs that had the males of the specie howling with glee before the pugilettes called off hostilities.

• • •

It appears a London gal in a moment of temper fired the ball at an opposing player. The Golden Gal promptly retaliated and the battle was on. Fists flew right merrily and before officials could get the feminine fighters separated some of them had indulged in the old-fashioned custom of hair-pulling. The fur flew literally and figuratively for a few hectic minutes, and London beauty salons did a land office business the next day. Ditto Hamilton.

• • •

Mentioning the fact to Coach Ed Shortt of the Belleville "Y" girls squads, we intimated what might be in store for his teams when they hit that Toronto tournament in April. Ed closed a wise optic. "Not scared in the least," he cracked. "I've got two or three sweet young things who can handle the boxing gloves in a strictly scientific manner. They don't look for trouble, mind you, but they can take care of themselves. However, Ed added, "my girls play basketball the clean way." (Be sure and wipe off the lipstick after that remark, Eddie m'lad).

CHIPLETS

According to Sixardee basketeers, the Picton report that its MacFarland's basketball team played a 46-46 tie game with the air chappies the other night just "aint so" . . . The Sixes claim they won the tilt by a good margin . . . Speedy St. Louis, who is much in demand these days as a hockey referee, has been doing a spot of arbiting in the Prince Edward County League . . . The other night in Wellington, the hockey and baseball veteran emerged looking very much like the pup who had been chucked in the lake . . . The ice had plenty of miniature pools on the surface and Speedy got "ducked" every time there was a scramble . . . Aside to officials of the Ladies Softball League, Eddie Schrieder, and Company: there's a number of inquiries regarding what's doing in ladies softball circles this coming summer . . . Seems to be a lot of interest, so how about a bit of organizing, or something . . . Winners of the Belleville Bears - Kingston Saints tilt will meet the victors of the Scarboro - De La Salle jousts in the next round of Junior "B" hockey . . . An aftermath of the Queen's-McGill football game popped up in Montreal the other day when the McGill Board of Governors acknowledged a gift of $200 from the Queen's University Alma Mater Society to compensate for the damage the victorious Queen's students did to Molson Stadium . . . Queen's grads likely thought the win was cheap at the price . . . . Harry Lumley, Detroit Red Wings' goalie had his purse containing $240 snatched in Madison Square Garden last Sunday night previous to the game with Rangers. "Don't worry, son", commented Jenial Jawn Adams, "if we win I'll make it up to you . . . Rangers won the game, and Lumley is still out 240 bucks . . . Western hockey fans are raving about the hockey ability of Metro Prystal, husky centre ice star for the Moose Jaw Canucks . . . . Prystal scored four goals in one minute and seven seconds against Prince Albert Black Hawks in a recent game. Trenton Fliers start their second Intermediate 'B' playdowns against Bobcaygeon in Oshawa tonight.

O'NEILL FRETFUL ABOUT TIGERS' COMPETITION

Claims Detroit Will be Better but Afraid of Yankees and Red Sox

By GAYLE TALBOT

Lakeland, Fla., March 15—(AP) For a man whose club won the world championship only five months ago and who will have a much stronger team going for him in the coming American League race, manager Steve O'Neill of Detroit Tigers is putting on an extremely fretful front these days.

"We'll be better, but those Yankees and Red Sox are a whole lot better, too, and don't make the mistake of overlooking Washington," said O'Neill. "In my opinion the Senators will be right up there again. The St. Louis Browns could make a lot of trouble."

The Tigers pilot is thoroughly aware, of course, that he won last year in a wartime league, and that the coming scramble will be different. Perhaps the most significant part of O'Neill's brief size-up was the fact that he did not mention Cleveland Indians despite their potentially strong pitching.

The Tigers, except for their fine mound staff headed by Hal Newhouser, will bear slight resemblance to the ragged outfit which struggled through to beat Chicago Cubs in the seventh game of the last worlds series.

The only surviving regular of that club — playing his same position — will be Eddie Mayo at second. To make way for the wealth of returning outfield talent, Hank Greenberg has been shifted back to his old post at first, and Rudy York has gone his way to the Red Sox. Paul Richards, the cagey veteran whose catching and timely hitting featured the '45 play-off, finds himself relegated to second string behind the returning Birdie Tebbetts.

WHISTLING SWANS APPEAR

Brantford, March 15 — (CP) — Whistling swans, among the earliest of migratory birds, have appeared over Lake Erie. A dozen flying in a straight line went over the nearby village of Port Dover this week and residents said they probably were headed for Jack Miner's sanctuary at Kingsville, one of their stopovers. In past years many of the swans have been caught in the swift current of the Niagara Iver and have been swept to their death over Niagara Falls.

TRENTON FLIERS BEAT BOBCAYGEON IN FIRST GAME

Best-of-Three Series in Int. "B" Playdowns Will Continue at Oshawa

Trenton R.C.A.F. "Fliers" took one step closer to the O.H.A. Intermediate "B" crown when they defeated Bobcaygeon 4-3 in the first game of a best-of-three series played at Lindsay Wednesday night.

The officials came very near to calling it off before the game because of the horrible condition of the ice. The rink looked more like an indoor swimming pool than a hockey cushion. However, the game was played on the spa, regardless of its condition. Needless to say, this wasn't condusive to excellent hockey.

Johnny Perras with two goals, was the outstanding man on the pond while "Mac" McNabb and Dan Cowley accounted for the other two Trenton tallies. According to reports, big "Robbie" Robertson played an outstanding game in the Trenton twine and was largely responsible for the Trenton victory.

The second game will be played in Oshawa tonight.

RETURNED VETS BOOST THE RACE FOR ALLAN CUP

Playoffs From Coast to Coast Attracting More Attention Than in Wartime

(By The Canadian Press)

Returning servicemen have boosted the race for the Allan Cup and the Canadian senior hockey title back into national prominence. Most of the 20 teams now roaring down the title stretch feature players back from the wars and the play-offs from coast to coast are attracting more attention than they did in the lean wartime years.

Play-offs for a trophy — for which there was no competition last season — are in the final or semi-final stage in most sections of the Dominion.

Deadlocked in the best-of-five Maritime final are the young, fast-skating Halifax Navy entry and the Saint John Beavers, a mixture of youngsters and newcomers. The Navy roster includes Doug Smith, former Hamilton and Kitchener football player.

The Ontario championship could be settled tonight in Timmins where the Hamilton Tigers, Ontario Hockey Association champions, carry a 2-1 edge into the fourth game of their best-of-five series with the McIntyre Miners, the Northern Ontario titleholders.

The six teams in the contention in the Ottawa Valley are Cornwall, Thurso, Pembroke, Perth, Ottawa QMC and Buckingham. The Pembroke team boasts five strong players back from overseas. Two are former National Hockey League players Roy (Gus) Giesebrecht and Thain Simon. The other war veterans are Roy's three brothers.

Raymond Playing Well

Two teams are contending for the Quebec senior title — Montreal Royals and Ottawa Senators. Jean Paul Lamirande, an Army veteran, is going great guns on the Royal defence. Two Air Force veterans formerly with Montreal Canadiens in the N.H.L., Marcel Raymond and Pete Morin, are playing useful hockey and the scoring stars are Gerry Heffernan, Floyd Curry and Rip Riopelle. Outstanding ex-servicemen with Aces are forwards Eddie Emberg and Herman Gruhn and defenceman Phil Renaud.

The Manitoba - Thunder Bay series shapes up as all-war veterans battle. The Thunder Bay champions — Fort William Legion — are all veterans except for playing coach Ross Knowles who was reinstated in amateur ranks this year after a year in pro hockey.

Ex-servicemen dot the lineups of the Edmonton Flyers and Calgary Stampeders, engaged in a series for the championship of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League which embraced teams in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

In British Columbia Nelson and Trail are playing for the Kootenay Senior League title and the winner meets New Westminster for the provincial championship. The Vancouver Canucks, favorites to win the provincial honors, voluntarily bowed out of the Allan Cup contention when the play-off dates assigned them conflicted with their Pacific Coast Hockey League play-offs.

GERMAN PRISONERS ARRIVE

Southampton, England, March 14 — (CP Cable) — The liner Aquitania arrived yesterday from Halifax with 2,978 German prisoners of war — the largest number yet brought from Canada. The prisoners, guarded through the voyage by members of the Veterans Guard of Canada, will do farmwork in Britain.

IN "FAIR" CONDITION

Brantford, March 15 — (CP)— The condition of Senator W. H. Taylor of Norfolk late yesterday was described as "fair," following an emergency operation. The Senator suffered abdominal injuries at his farm at nearby Scotland, when struck by a loose board which a cow had kicked.

IKE HILDEBRAND OF OSHAWA GENS. SCORING HERO

Junior "A" Playdowns Tied Up as Oshawa Defeats St. Mikes 8-3

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto St. Michaels, winners of the Memorial Cup and the Canadian junior hockey championship a year ago, suffered an 8-3 defeat at the hands of the Oshawa Generals last night. Oshawa's victory on their own ice avenged a 10-2 St. Mikes victory at Toronto last Monday and tied up the O.H.A. junior final at one win each in the best-of-seven series.

Either St. Mikes or Oshawa will meet the winner of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's final in an all-Ontario junior title clash. At Sudbury tonight the Copper Cliff Redmen and Porcupine Combines resume their best-of-five series, with Copper Cliff leading 2-1 in games.

Ontario seniors also resume their struggles tonight at Timmins, where Hamilton Tigers lead McIntyre Mines 2-1 in a best-of-five series. If Hamilton wins tonight the O.H.A. senior champions will have won the all-Ontario crown.

In the junior play-off at Oshawa Ike Hildebrand of the Generals turned in one of his best performances, scoring three goals and assisting on two others as the Generals evened it up with St. Mikes. Lowe scored two, and Marshall, Gray and Curik each scored singles.

Tod Sloan scored twice for St. Mikes and McKay got the other.

The Oshawa defence was checking alertly and clearing smartly as the forwards carried the game to the Irish. Pat Boehmer in the St. Mikes' nets had one of the busiest evenings of the winter as the General forwards broke in repeatedly.

Louis Crowdis in the Oshawa nets was well protected as most of the St. Mikes attacks were broken up at the blue line or shoved harmlessly to the corners. Only seven penalties were imposed, all for minor infractions.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, March 14 — (AP)— It's a sure sign of spring when Cliff Bloodgood drops in to leave a few copies of "Who's who in baseball" and Ray Dumont checks in with his "non-professional baseball annual" . . . Cliff admits he had the biggest task in years to decide on who's who for this season . . . First he had to dig out records of dozens of returning servicemen and reinstate them to the book, which jumped to a new high of 96 pages as a result . . . Then there were athletes who "retired" then changed their minds and those who really did retire.

For instance the name of Paul Waner is missing for the first time since 1927. Joe Cronin finally was dropped along with Bob Johnson and Larry French and Tommy Bridges, both of whom had only a few games to go to reach the mark of 200 pitching victories . . .

Picture this—

The New York Rangers, who have been last in hockey for too many seasons, are the first to use movies the way football and basketball coaches have done for years . . . The Rangers shot films of Tuesday's game and will take some more Sunday . . . Coach Frank Boucher will study the films to see what he can learn about the mistakes his boys have been making . . .

POLICE CONDUCT RAID

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Raiding a house in Toronto's Chinatown early today, police arrested two Chinese on charges of keeping a common gaming house and 26 persons, whom police said were mostly Japanese, on charges of being found in.

The two charged as keepers were Wong Tur and Hue Hun. All the prisoners were released on bail.

Briefs From Training Camps

Havana, Cuba, March 14. (AP) —Outfielders Jeff Heath twisted his ankle yesterday as Washington Senators beat the Cuban All-Stars, 13-6, in an exhibition baseball game. The Fort William, Ont., native blasted a two-run homer over the right field fence in the first inning, but turned his ankle rounding first base.

Lakeland, Fla. — Eddie Lake, Detroit Tigers' shortstop acquired in a trade with the Red Sox, agreed to terms today and will join the Bengals in Spring training here Tuesday.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Shortstop Marty Marion has reported to St. Louis Cardinals' training camp.

Mexico City.—Mickey Owen, Brooklyn Dodgers catcher, probably will play for Mexico City this year, President Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican League said Wednesday.

Daytona Beach, Fla.—Southpaw Pitcher Joe Matten has signed his Brooklyn Dodger contract and is en route from his Oakland, Calif., home to the team's training camp here.

Pasadena, Calif.— Injuries and ailments continue to plague Chicago White Sox not only as Manager Jimmy Dykes still sidelined with an as yet undiagnosed "misery" in his abdomen, but Big Frank Martin, a pitcher, still is in the hospital because of complications which followed a tonsilectomy last week.

Sarasota, Fla.—Thanks to the rain, Boston Red Sox had an easy workout yesterday and Manager Joe Cronin has promised them another light one today.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—If Manager Billy Southworth's actions speak louder than his words, he has made up his mind about four of his Boston Braves' regular berths. Johnny McCarthy will be his first-baseman, Connie Ryan his second-sacker, Johnny Hopp his centrefielder and Bama Rowell his left-fielder.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—If Phil Marchildon, Canadian war veteran, "can pitch the way he did in 1942," says Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, "I'll be glad to tear up his contract and give him more money."

Avalon, Calif.— Bill Fleming and Johnny Schmitz were named by Manager Charlie Grimm to share the pitching duties for Chicago Cubs in an exhibition game with St. Louis Browns at Los Angeles today.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — They're beating the drums in Hamilton now for track and field competition. The mountain city, long a hotbed for the sport, is setting the pace for its post-war revival in Canada with the nation's first big indoor meet since the war and is laying plans as well for the Dominion championships there next July 6.

The indoor meet is a renewal of the historic event sponsored by the 91st Highlanders. It is to be held in the armories Wednesday, March 20, after a lapse of six years due to the war.

One outstanding feature is a university relay race between McGill, Varsity, Western and Hamilton's McMaster. Tommy (Hamilton Spectator) Moore reports that McMaster, long a doormat for intercollegiate sport, may demonstrate that it can hold its own. This feeling is due largely to the addition to the team of a Hamilton boy, John Crerar, a capable runner in distances up to one mile. Mart McKinnon, McMaster physical director, believes Crerar will become one of Canada's outstanding runners.

But the piece de resistance of the indoor meet is the appearance of Les MacMitchell, the great New York miler, looked on by many as the only current competition in the Americas with even an outside chance of running the fabulous four-minute mile — not that anyone expects him to achieve that miracle on the Hamilton track for which the mile record is 4:16.6, set by Glenn Cunningham in 1935. Other U. S. track stars are expected, including Stella Walsh who is to compete in a 60-yard dash.

Oh Brother

Another hot brother combination is shining in Western Ontario hockey circles this season in the McTaggart boys — Howie, Clarence and Alex — with the Alvinston junior C Yellow Jackets in the Ontario Hockey Association. Alex, nicknamed Big Maggie, is a goaltender, Clarence a defenceman and Howie plays centre ice. Howie is a prolific scorer and he tallied eight in a recent game. Their father, husky and jovial Gordon McTaggart, is a prominent Lambton county livestick dealer.

Look Ahead

Faced with the sombre facts of elimination from the National Hockey League play-offs for the first time since the Maple Leaf Gardens was built in 1931, ardent followers of the Toronto Maple Leafs are looking hopefully to another year. Their optimistic viewpoint is chiefly inspired by: Gaye Stewart, high-scoring left wing; Syl Apps, hot as a firecracker since he was shifted from centre ice to left wing; Bill Ezinicki, who was sent down to Pittsburgh this season because his energetic play was bringing penalties and then came back to play rousing penalty-free hockey. Ezinicki has received high praise from Conn Smythe himself, who says "that boy has a lot of heart." Bill, a mild-mannered character off the ice but a firebrand in action, is said to play a major part in future Leaf plans.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 336
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Don't despise the lead of any card in bridge. Whether it is a big card or a small card, it has a definite meaning. To be a good player, you must know the meaning of the lead of any card.

With no desirable honor card lead, the only lead left is a low (smaller than an honor) card. When a low card is led, it is first assumed to be the fourth from the highest in that suit.

This means that the leader of a low card shows a suit of four cards or more. At any rate, a low card is first assumed to be from a suit of not less than four cards.

However, there are times when a lead is made from a suit that has less than four cards. If there is no desirable honor lead in it, the only lead left in that suit is a small card.

Consequently, you are sometimes confronted with a small card lead from a suit of less than four cards. Such a suit has no more than three cards. So, it has no fourth best.

When a suit of three cards or less has only small cards, which card should you lead? The highest. In other words, lead the highest of a suit of three cards or two cards or one card.

For convenient grouping, any suit of four cards or more is put in a class of long suits. Any suit of three cards or less is known as a short suit for group identification.

So, it has come to pass that a low card lead may be from either a long suit or a short suit. If from a long suit, it is the fourth best; if from a short suit, it is the highest.

Lead from the hand you see here:

♠K 8 4 2
♥9 5
♦8 6 2
♣J 9 6 3

From clubs lead the trey; fourth best. From diamonds, lead the eightspot; highest. From hearts, lead the nine; the highest.

Yes there are times when you start out in your shorts.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 15 —(AP)— In the first act of "Yes is for a Very Young Man", Gertrude Stein's new play which had its world premiere at the Pasadena Playhouse last night, a character remarks "I don't understand" 8 times within a few minutes. The actor had nothing on the audience.

The main Stein song seems to be a hymn of praise to the French resistance, but unfortunately the needle got stuck. Such a line as "I stay, stay here, stay in France" is typical of the Maquis story Miss Stein has turned out.

In her introduction, Miss Stein says she remembers her mother telling her stories of families divided by southern and northern sympathies during the war. And during the occupation of France she was struck by the resemblance of the broken families with the bitterness "and yet the natural necessity of their continuing to live their daily lives together, because after all that was all the life they had, besides they were all the same family or their neighbors and in the country neighbors are neighbors."

She presents not collaborationists as the antagonists, but silly aristocrats who merely tolerate the Nazi regime.

Often the Stein prose shows clarity as, for instance, "governments should leave civilians alone protect them from their enemies and not cost too much."

The acting couple, Canadian-born Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy, arrived back from a vacation trip to the Bahamas with an adventure tale which sounds like the plot of an adventure film.

The couple and two other tourists chartered a plane to fly over the islands. It developed engine trouble 160 miles from Nassau and was forced to land on one of the uninhabited Exumas Cays. A small plane spotted them and dropped food and water, but it wasn't until five days later that one large enough to remove them was sent to their aid.

Montreal Canadiens Capture N.H.L. Title for Third Year In Row; Wings Beat Hawks

Habitants Secure 2-2 Draw With Toronto Leafs After Coming From Behind

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Canadiens last night won the National Hockey League championship, not so much by their own efforts, but rather because of Detroit Red Wings' 7-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks. The Canadiens came from behind to force a 2-2 deadlock with Toronto Maple Leafs. It was the Habitants' third season to capture the title.

Even with the one point the Canadiens collected from last night's tie with the Maple Leafs, they still were within range of the Black Hawks, if Chicago won all its remaining games. The result of last night's games eliminated possibility of any team overtaking the Canucks.

Max Bentley of Black Hawks was good for three assists — one in each of Chicago's goals, and he increased his position at the head of the N.H.L. scoring column by 61 points. He now has 31 goals and 30 assists. Bentley served up assists to Clint Smith, Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley for Chicago's three goals.

For Detroit, Bill Quackenbush captured the scoring honors, rapping in two goals and assisting on a third. Fernand Gauthier, Adam Brown, Jack Stewart, Flash Hollett and Pat Lundy scored other Detroit goals.

Played Tight Defensive Game

At Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs played a tight defensive game and after setting up an early lead, seemed to be all set to hold on until the end. Gus Bodnar, teamed up with Bud Poile, scored the first goal for Leafs, but Maurice Richard swept back with Glen Harmon and Toe Blake to tie up the score.

Bob Goldham, taking passes from Poile and Bodnar, restored Maple Leafs to the lead mid-way through the second period, and the Leafs closed in to protect the lead. A breakaway by Blake, Richard and Elmer Lach a little more than three minutes of the final bell, paid dividends, with Blake batting home the tieing goal.

The curtain will ring down on the current N. H. L. season Sunday night. Five games are left on the card, Chicago at Montreal, and Detroit at Toronto Saturday night while Canadiens are at New York, Black Hawks at Boston, and Maple Leafs at Detroit Sunday.

GOOD FISHING

Portland, Me., March 15 (AP)—Ernest Ross, smallboat fisherman, received $355.10 for his catch. He landed 4,100 pounds of mixed fish for which he was paid $355. What about the extra dime? He found it in the throat of a cod.

Golf Ball Shortage Over by June 1st

Jacksonville, Fla., March 15 —(AP)—The golf ball shortage will be over in the United States by June 1, ending an era which saw pre-war pellets sell for $5 apiece, the touring pros on the winter golfing circuit agreed today.

During the scarcity, some of the top-notch money players frequently paid $60 for a dozen natural rubber balls, figuring the extra liveliness was worth the difference. Slammin' Sam Snead played the entire 72-holes of the recent $10,000 St. Petersburg open with one ball and collected second-place money.

Some of the new synthetic rubber balls, costing less than a dollar, have proved satisfactory in tournament play, said Fred Corcoran, tourney boss of the Professional Golfers Association. But most of the pros prefer the natural rubber pellets.

"They still remember Jimmy Thomson's record 445-yard drive in a San Francisco tournament several years back," Corcoran said.

Plenty of first-grade clubs, both woods and irons, also are expected to be available by summer.

The touring pros, minus Byron Nelson, last year's top money winner, are scheduled to tee off today in the initial round of the $10,000 Jacksonville Open. Rain delayed the start yesterday. Eighteen-hole rounds are on tap for today and tomorrow, with the 36-hole final Sunday.

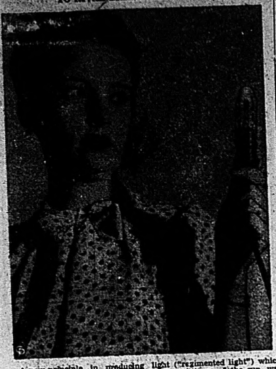
TO RIVAL BRILLIANCE OF SUN



A new principle in producing light ("regimented light") which promises some day to rival the intrinsic brilliance of the sun, was demonstrated publicly for the first time in New York. Eileen Parsons holds the concentrated arc lamp. At present the instrument, no larger than the smallest radio tube, emits from a crater of molten metal, a tiny glow that is one-sixteenth of the sun's brilliance The crater of metal is only three one-thousandths of an inch in diameter. The rays thus produced were so powerful that dark glasses were necessary to view them.

"DINA CASHMAN"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 4

"Ah-h-h-h!" Dina laughed a little sadly. This talk in the garishly lit kitchen, had all the uncomfortable quality of a dream. Tom did not know what she was thinking; he did not know what she was fearing; he could not have said one word of all this if he had known. He had not even met Vere Holland; Vere, whose simplicity and charm and niceness won everyone's friendship instantly.

"Oh, Vere," she said in her soul, "where are you? Why aren't you here? You could make it all right. He may walk in tomorrow," she thought; "everything may be all right this time tomorrow. I may be laughing about all this tomorrow. But me, I'll never laugh about it—"

"You are tired! You're not listening!" Tom said good-naturedly. Dina came to herself with a little start.

They were standing, she wavered a little, swaying toward him, and he put his arm about her and looked down at her with infinite affection and sympathy.

"You do too much, Dina. At the grocery all day, cooking and cleaning here for the whole crowd of them, and then dancing at night!"

"The dancing at night is the only thing I could cut out, Tom, and it's my only fun. Unless it's the pictures, and they give me a sort of headache if I've been indoors all day."

"Well, will you think about it, Dina? After all, I can't do any more than ask you."

"And I love you for asking me," she said wearily and unsmiling "I'm not good enough for you, Tom—and I'm tired— and Pop tried to borrow some money today and couldn't get it—"

"How much money?" His wallet was out instantly. But Dina shook her head. "Don't begin that," she said, her eyes suddenly beginning to swim. "You know my father. Or rather you don't know my father!"

"It's just one of the bad times in your life, Dina," Tom said hearteningly. "You're bogged down with the family and no money and rain and dishes, and it's damned unfair! But Art ought to get a job pretty soon, and things'll straighten out, and you'll come up to a nice little four-room cottage up at Westwood, and we'll paddle our own canoe. Oh, listen"—he interrupted himself to reassure her as she suddenly drew back with widened eyes—"I don't mean that we won't carry on! We'll have Myrna and Dooley with us, or we'll take El'ner for a term. It isn't that. But I mean you'll be out of the main mess."

"It sounds good!" the girl whispered, as if to herself.

"Well, you think about it, won't you?"

"As if I could help thinking about it!" But she knew herself to be deceiving him; she accepted his good-night kiss apathetically, resting her head for a minute against his cheek, angry at herself because tears were coming again.

"Get as much sleep as you can."

"I will!" She locked the door when he was gone, considered ablutions. But the boiler was cold; the kettle was cold; the house was draughty and dark. Dina undressed by such gleams of the corner street lamp as crossed the bedroom obliquely and crawled in beside Dooley.

• • •

Vere Holland had come into Cotta's on a warm October evening, now ten weeks in the past. A tall boy with fair hair and the consciously audacious manners of a favorite to whom everything will be forgiven, he had obviously been the court jester for his group of four long before Dina and her special friends noticed him.

They had been at an adjoining table; two girls from San Francisco's debutante group, whose attitude toward Cotta's had been one of amused superiority, and another man somewhat of Vere Holland's type. The four had been not so much entertained as in the mood for entertainment; they had danced, had sat smoking and drinking for an hour, and then Vere quite suddenly had come over to Dina's table, had introduced himself and been introduced with great easiness and laughter.

Ward Binn had gone back with him to his table, and presently they had all been talking and sharing drinks and sandwiches at the two tables pushed together. There were nine in the party now, and everyone had danced with everyone else, and Dina Cashman had experienced the most bewildering, the most breath-taking sensations of her life.

For it had become instantly noticeable that Vere Holland had had eyes for no one else, and Dina had never known anyone like Vere. His sleek golden hair his round friendly face, his fine clean hands that had never done any hard labor, though they were well browned and looked athletic; these all would have marked him as different from all the boys Dina had known, even if every word he said, his clothes and the way he wore his tie, the gesture with which he had jiggled a cigarette out of his silver cigarette case and offered it had not done so.

He was good-natured, amusing, and affectionate. He made them all laugh, he paid for everything, and when one of the other boys said somewhat gruffly that the check ought to be split two ways he looked genuinely surprised and said, with a pleasant readiness to grasp names and personalities that was characteristic of him, "Oh, shut up, Dunk! Or I'll come around to the machine shop tomorrow and poke you into the furnace."

While the others danced he sat with his chair pulled about, so his back was turned to the room, and murmured to Dina. He could not seem to hear enough about her.

A migratory worker's daughter? Oh, she was not! And Myrna, hey?—and Dooley? What the dickens was the real name of a girl called Dooley? Julia? Then for heaven's sake why not call her Julia?

"It sounds rough to have you say you room with Dooley," he had told Dina. "Your name's Geraldine, is it? All right, I'm going to call you that. And when are you coming in to town to have dinner and go to a show with me? What's your telephone?"

"We haven't one. And if you came and saw where we live, you'd know why. Nobody has a telephone there. The nearest one's the drugstore, over on Thirteenth. We live in Railway Flats."

To this he had listened respectfully, evidently impressed. But he was too kind, he was too much of a gentleman, she had perceived, to show any pity.

He had written down the name of Meyer's grocery carefully, and had asked her seriously if she wouldn't go to dinner with him, and Dina's heart had sung paeans of joy. Then the others had come back, and she and Vere had danced again; danced, as far as the girl was concerned at all events, into a world of sheer ecstasy.

"Looky," he had said in a businesslike way, when the moment of parting had come, "this is Friday, see? I'm going duck shooting tomorrow: be back Monday. Looky, I'll see you Tuesday, hey?"

But he had not come in on Tuesday nor Wednesday either, and Dina had been in a fair way to recover from the dizzying sensations the opening of their friendship had caused her, sensations that had washed over her like smothering waves, when on Thursday, glancing over her cashier's desk in the grocery, she had seen him studying the soup shelves with absorption.

Her heart had given a suffocating spring.

The smell of fresh vegetables and wet clothing had been strong in the place that day, a wet-day smell forever to be associated in Dina's mind with the irrational wild delight of seeing him again.

"Excuse me, Miss! Miss!" he had said loudly, half turning his head over his shoulder. "Have you any onion soup with the cheese already in?"

"I—don't—know — that we have," Dina had answered thoughtfully. Frances could take the register for a moment; Dina had walked across to stand beside him and look at the shelves. "How do you do?" she had said under her breath.

"Hello, my dear!" Vere had returned almost inaudibly. "I hate so to mess with grating cheese!" he had added aloud. "Now here's turtle; that's nice."

"We have the cheese ready grated," old Meyer, hovering about, had suggested.

"We have the cheese already grated in bottles," Dina had repeated seriously.

"Then suppose I take two onion soups, two mushrooms, and two bottles of cheese and sort of slumgullion them all together," Vera had decided brilliantly.

"That ought to be good," Dina had agreed. With him beside her she had returned to her desk, had rung up his money.

"How soon are you free?" he had asked.

She had glanced at the clock.

"Ten—seven minutes."

"I'll wait. I'll wait in my car. Right across the street."

That had been all. Dina had concluded her share of the day's business in a daze. The store would stay open for another hour, but young Ben Meyer always took over at five-thirty, checking up accounts, straightening out the books.

Dina merely operated the cash register, handed change from the drawer, reached under the counter for bags, and tossed the empty market baskets back into the pen.

If there happened to be a line of waiting customers with their filled baskets when half-past five arrived, Dina always stayed to serve them; on this particular afternoon there had been such a line and she could make no exception.

So that it had been 15 minutes after the promised time when she had stepped out into the swiftly descending dusk, half hoping and all fearing, and had loked across the road to see if Vere's patience had not been exhausted.

The lemon bars of dazzling light that had crossed the west at the end of the wild wet day had disappeared now. Twilight and Winter had held the shabby street. Shops had all been closed, except the drugstore and the candy store and Mullins and Dave's up at the corner.

But the dark-blue rakish roadster with the canvas top and the white-and-red wheels had been waiting, and Vere had sprung out to escort Dina around to the seat beside him before returning to his own. They had sat close together, laughing at first and then not laughing. Six o'clock had rung from Saint Augustine's—half-past six, and Dina had said dreamily that she must go home. Her mother might or might not, have started dinner preparations; her father would certainly be angry if she were much later.

Then Vere would drive her home. But the girl had objected, that it was only two long blocks across the track and beyond the dumps, and the street outside the house was a mud bath. Then good night.

He had framed her face in his young, hard, big hands and kissed her. Not her first kiss from a man — boys had kissed her now and then—but the first one that had been important, the one never to be forgotten.

After that Vere had come to the store every two or three days. She had gone to dinner with him at a pleasant French restaurant, a family place far too respectable and quiet to be of interest to Dina's usual group but that was infinitely thrilling when she was in Vere's company.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was opening her mail at breakfist, saying to pop, Well, Marks and Marcus's are inviting me to open a charge account with them. Well, considering that I've never dealt with them to any extent, I think that's very trusting of them, William. I'm rather flattered, she said.

Bern that letter and dont mention it to a living sole, pop said, and ma said, Why William, why?

Because more charge accounts mean more bills, and more bills mean more detts, pop said. I'm a man who likes to keep his budget in a state of constant equilibrium, or if it must swing one way or the other, I prefer to have others owe me money, but according to my latest check up, I owe 2 hundred and 50 dollers at this very moment, he said, and ma said, Now William, have you any idea what the national dett of the United States government is?

No doubt it's a tidy sum, pop said, and ma said, I was just reading an article about it, and it's 2 hundred and 62 billion dollers.

By gollies it's an untidy sum, pop said, and ma said, Just to give you an idea of the enormity of such a figure, this article went on to explain that if 2 hundred and 62 billion dollers was converted into single doller bills and layed end to end if anybody could ever have the patience they would extend from a certain city in South America, I forget which, all the way to the outer fringe of Australia, or was it Siberia? Anyway, compared to that, what does 250 dollers amount to? she said.

I'll tell you exactly, pop said. Two hundred and 50 dollers would buy enough beefsteaks to feed 9 thousand prisoners of war in a Japanese concentration camp for 92 years and eleven days even if each prisoner was given twice the average meat ration handed out by the Japs, he said.

Now William, if you're going to get redicculissly statistical, we might as well drop the subject, ma said.

Which they did.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 15 (CP) —The price tendency was upward in quiet trading in the early session on the exchange. The industrials led with a gain of 1.17 and smaller gains were netted by the base metals and the golds. Western oils took a loss of .67. Volume was comparatively small at 816,000 shares for the first three hours.

Prices were stronger for the liquors and miscellaneous issues and the papers were a bit heavy.

Nickel was a gainer to the extent of 3-4 and other base metals posted only minor changes. The stronger gold issues included Lake Shore, MacDonald, Negus, Pickle Crow, Giant and Conwest.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, March 15 (AP) — Assorted stocks, led by aircrafts, steels and motors, jogged into the recovery ranks today after a stumbling start.

The buying flurry, which came before midday, was attributed mainly to the idea that the list had been oversold and was due for a technical revival.

Dealings, rather active for a brief interval on the upswing, soon slowed and top gains running to around 2 points — there were a few wider jumps—were reduced near the fourth hour.

On the big board at noon among Canadian stocks which were mixed Canadian Pacific was up 1-2 at 19 1-8, International Nickel up 5-8 at 36 1-4, Distillers Seagrams down 1-2 at 87, Dome Mines down 1-2 at 24 and Hiram Walker up 2 at 106.

48 WITNESSES

been charged."

Forty-eight witnesses have been heard in some 44 different sittings of evidence which affects an additional number of persons concerning whom we now report."

The report said Dr. Boyer had been engaged, under an oath of secrecy, in secret research under the National Research Council, th "most important part of which concerned the making, by a process different from that previously employed anywhere else, of the explosive known as RDX."

The project resulted in the building of a substantial plant in Canada where RDX was manufactured "in substantial quantities." Large quantities also were manufactured in the United States.

The commissioners said Dr. Boyer told them that beginning early in 1943, and continuing in 1944, "he gave for transmission to the Soviet Union, full information with regard to his work which he himself admits was secret."

Dr. Boyer said that with this information "competent persons" would be able to "design a plant to produce the material in quantity."

Reports Still Secret

All the reports on the progress of the project, most of them written by Dr. Boyer, were secret reports prepared for the National Research Council and still are secret, with their distribution limited to a comparatively few persons.

The report identified Gerson as assistant to the head of the production control department of Allied War Supplies, Ltd., and later secretary and chief of the records division of the ammunition production branch of the Munitions Department. Last november he joined the staff of War Assets Corp., another Crown company.

It said that "on all the evidence, including certain admissions made by Gerson himself, it is clearly established that the latter has communicated, over a considerable period, secret information to the representatives of the Soviet Union in violation of the Official Secrets Act and we so report."

ANTI-BINGO LAWS TO BE ENFORCED SAYS BLACKWELL

Toronto, March 15 (CP)—Attorney-General Blackwell, speaking in reply to references to provincial enforcement of Federal legislation on bingoes, raffles and lotteries, yesterday reaffirmed in the Ontario legislature his intention to carry out the law as long as I am the responsible minister"

The legislature also heard F. O. Robinson (C.C.F. Port Arthur) urge immediate appointment of an Ontario Forestry Commission, particularly on behalf of "forest-conscious" districts of northwestern Ontario, and A. Chartrand (Lib. Ottawa East) criticize the government for failing to consult opposition leaders on Dominion-Provincial matters.

In a statement preceding resumption of debate on the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Blackwell answered references made Tuesday night by Joseph Meinzinger (Lib.-Lab. Waterloo North) concerning the ban on "the innocent pastime of bingo." Mr. Blackwell listed statistics he said showed there was "no politics' in enforcement of anti-gambling laws.

Mr. Blackwell said the Waterloo North member had stated the provincial police seized gambling machines in Kitchener because Mr. Meinzinger, then mayor of Kitchener, was a Liberal. The statement, the attorney-general added, was "irresponsible."

At the time, Mr. Blackwell continued, Kitchener had "an illegal by-law" permitting operation of pin ball machines. The provincial police, which had authority to enforce gambling laws if municipal authorities failed to do so, seized 38 "gambling devices" in Kitchener and made 38 prosecutions.

Received Phone Call

Mr. Blackwell said he then received a telephone call from Mr. Meinzinger and later the Waterloo North member visited his office in company with a man the Attorney-General described as a "rackateer."

There had been "innuendo" in Mr. Meinzinger's statement that the provincial police had seized gambling machines because Mr. Meinzinger was a Liberal, Mr. Blackwell said.

The Attorney-General quoted statistics he said showed uniformity in prosecutions. There had been 35 prosecutions in Essex county, 76 in Welland, 185 in York, Ontario and Peel, 16 in Sudbury and 13 in Carleton and Grenville, among others.

Mr. Meinzinger rose to say he had told the Attorney-General his visit to Mr. Blackwell's office was in connection with collection of licence fees by his municipality.

Mr. Blackwell replied he did not think that was the reason.

Mr. Blackwell's statement drew a reply from opposition leader Farquhar Oliver that "as far as I know" politics had not been played in Ontario law enforcement.

Earlier in the day two bills were introduced for first reading. One provided for creation of a department of travel and publicity and the other would authorize a reform institutions department to govern all places of correction under provincial jurisdiction.

Provides Tighter Regulations

Still another bill, to be known as the Tourist Camp Regulation Act, 1946, provides for tighter regulation of all Ontario tourist camps and classification of camps according to "prescribed standards."

As Throne Speech debate resumed, Mr. Chartrand reminded the government that the 24 opposition members in the legislature represented 175,000 more persons than the government's 66 members. The combined opposition had drawn 956,554 votes compared with 781,345 for the Progressive Conservatives, he said.

Government members, he said, appeared to constitute "a mutual admiration society."

Mr. Chartrand described the government's 22-point pre-election program as "a shameful intemperance of language designed to intoxicate the electors of Ontario to vote Conservative."

Deploring the government's failure to consult opposition leaders on Dominion-provincial matters, he said he "regretted extremely" that no effort had been made to obtain from the opposition opinions that would have been of "great assistance."

He asserted that the Dominion-Provincial conference must not be allowed to fail.

Free Enterprise on Trial

Mr. Robinson, opposing "huge concessions" to private enterprise in Northern Ontario's timberlands, said free enterprise now is on trial.

"We have seen cut-throat competition in the newsprint industry lead to all sorts of unsound cutting practices in the woods. We have seen companies, interested only in one species or type of tree, butcher the trees in which they were not interested."

Mr. Robinson contrasted the "drabness of life" in Toronto with the open spaces around Port Arthur and said perhaps that accounts for the political thought of some members.

Labor Minister Daley said yesterday he does not believe conditions in Ontario lumber camps are "too bad" considering their location in the "heart of the woods" and the type of work done.

He was replying to J. B. Salsberg (Lab.-Prog., Toronto St. Andrews), who said he had been advised by a union representing lumber workers that Canadian workers lived in camps less comfortable than those provided for German prisoners of war.

"When prisoners moved in the camps were made comfortable," Mr. Salsberg said. "Everything was painted and some had showers installed. Obviously two standards prevail — and the standards for Canadians are lower than those for prisoners of war."

Mr. Daley said it might "truly be said" conditions in some camps might be as Mr. Salsberg described, but it must be remembered prison camps conformed to standards prescribed by international law.

Point Traverse

Point Traverse—Fishing craft have been launched and commercial fishing operations from the Point Traverse colony are under way for the season of 1946, marking one of the earliest opening in many years.

Waiting for many days owing to local ice conditions, Clayton Dulmage and Burton Branscombe, commercial fishermen, left the harbor Monday forenoon loaded with fishing gear.

The lake was tranquil, which facilitated the setting of nets in ice-caked waters.

Commercial fishermen have an optimistic outlook that a good run of whitefish will be netted this coming season. Many yards of new whitefish net have been purchased by the fishermen, and it is their conclusion that lifts will be fair, at least.

Picton Vets Awarded Game By Default

Picton, March 15—When Wellington refused to play at Picton last night, as agreed upon the evening previous, the game was awarded to Picton Vets. This was to have been the third game of the finals of Prince Edward County Hockey League. Each team had won one and the default gave Vets two. Originally it had been planned to award the trophy in a three-out-of-five game series. It is now understood that Picton Vets will be awarded the championship. This will be definitely decided at a meeting of the league executive this weekend.

Wednesday night's game at Wellington was played on soft, wet ice and proved a rugged affair. Vets led 2-1 at the end of the first period, 4-2 at the end of the second and 7-3 at the end. Scorers for Vets were Hicks, Kearney, Desrocher (3), Frederick, Dunning; for Wellington, McNeill, Young, L. Channell.

The local arean reported all seats reserved for last night's game. No reason was given by Wellington for defaulting.

300 Casualties in Munitions Blast in Berlin

Shatters Alexander Kaserine Building In Midtown Berlin

Explosions Spread Debris Over Area of Several Blocks

Berlin, March 16 —(AP)— Three explosions of ammunition today shattered the Alexander Kaserine building in midtown Berlin, occupied as a headquarters of Russian military and German civilian police, causing more than 300 casualties.

At least one person, a German policeman, was known to have been killed, and authorities said there probably were more fatalities. A police hospital reported that 100 of the casualties were injured seriously.

Many of the casualties were persons living in the neighborhood or traversing the streets. The explosions spread debris over an area of several blocks.

A German policeman said he believed the explosives were in a Red army ammunition dump.

The blast rocked the entire area around the building, which is on Alexanderplatz in the Russian sector of the city, and within a few moments dozens of persons streamed from surrounding lodgings, many with lacerations from shattered glass and splinters.

Numerous bomb ruins in the region were tumbled by the explosion and one German who suffered minor injuries said "it was just like a wartime bombing raid, with glass and splinters flying and walls caving in."

Red army soldiers and German police cornered off the area and emergency aid stations were established.

Seal Off Area

Red Army troops and civilian police sealed off the blast area, near the Alexanderplatz in the Russian sector. Public safety officials of other occupying powers were barred, as were reporters. British and United States units sent ambulances and offered hospital facilities.

Four hours after the blast the Russians and police still were digging in the debris.

The explosions apparently were accidental. One version said a German policeman demonstrating some old German ammunition stored in the courtyard accidentally touched off a grenade and ignited other explosives.

The first two explosions were small, but the third was a tremendous blast heard for miles. Many persons scurried for cellar shelters at the first blast and this was believed to have been influential in holding down the number of casualties.

75TH ANNIVERSARY

Viroqua, Wis., March 16—(AP) —Mr. and Mrs. George Turner observed their 75th wedding anniversary today in the two-storey, two-room log cabin which they built with their own hands in 1871 and which has been their home ever since.

Turner, who will be 96 years old June 13, and his wife, 92 June 14, have rejected Viroqua's plans to "do the thing up well" in celebrating the couple's diamond anniversary.

They said "going places" just never appealed to them. They planned to observe the day in their cabin.

Says He Wounded Canadian Because Orders Not Obeyed

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aurich, Germany, March 16 — (CP Cable)—Johann Neitz, former German marine accused of shooting an R.C.A.F. prisoner with intent to kill, today told the R.C.A.F. war crimes court trying him that he had shot FO. Rudolph Roman of Toronto after taking him prisoner near Wilhelmshaven because the Canadian officer did not follow orders.

Neitz is one of four Germans accused of wounding or killing R.C.A.F. prisoners.

The tall, thin German gave his evidence in a long written statement made under examination several months ago and read in court today by Wing Cmdr. Pat Durdin of London, Ont., prosecutor.

Neitz said in his statement he did not intend to kill FO. Roman. It added that Neitz and Roman arrived on shore after a walk over mudflats from a lighthouse where the airman had taken refuge when his bomber had crashed the night before.

Neitz said he took FO. Roman prisoner in the light house and took him ashore. his statement said, the airman said he did not want to go any further.

(Paul Bornert, lighthouse keeper, and FO. Roman both testified Friday that the Canadian had injured his leg in parachuting from his plane.)

"I told him to go on but he did not and I had to use my weapon," Neitz' statement said. "I shot at him. One shot I fired into the water to scare him and then I fired another shot which hit him in the side."

Spoke in German

Neitz said he spoke in German and was not sure the Canadian understood him. He denied telling lighthouse keeper Paul Bornert—as Bornert testified yesterday—that he would kill FO. Roman on the mudflats.

Earlier today evidence of a lighthouse keeper named Ulferts was presented to the court. Ulferts' testimony said that Neitz had treated FO. Roman "very rughly" after taking him prisoner.

King, Peasant Leader, Communists Dominate Election Scene in Romania

Bucharest, March 16 (Reuters) —Three main factors dominate the political situation in Romania today as the country prepares for its first general election since 1938.

They are 24-year-old King Michael, Dr. Juliu Maniu, the veteran leader of the National Peasant Party, and the Communist Party Central Committee.

Date of the elections is not yet fixed, but the latest statement by Dr. Petre Groza, the Prime Minister, indicated that polling is not likely before end of the summer.

Romania has 15 political parties and may have many more before the elections. But 11 out of the 15 are of little importance, and the average Romanian tends to regard personalities as more important than parties or programs.

King Michael is seen as the safeguard of Romania's national independence, the man who can prevent the country from falling completely under foreign influence. From this comes the importance—and the danger —of the King's position in Romanian politics.

Juliu Maniu, National Peasant leader and the biggest political personality in the country, is a more enigmatic figure. His critics call him "Sphinx of Badacin" —Badacin being his home village.

Maniu grew up in an atmosphere of opposition to authority. To many Romanians, who are uninterested in party politics but who rightly or wrongly fear that Romania may be swamped by Soviet political and economic influence, Maniu is the symbol of national self-preservation.

The prominent Communists include Anna Pauker, middle-aged, grey-haired widow with three children; Emil Bodnares, a former Romanian army officer who deserted and spent some years in Russia, and Gheorghiu Dej, former railway worker, who spent much time in prison before the war for his labor activities.

A genuine coalition would probably be the best solution for Romania today. But observers say that in view of the intense mutual distrust and even hostility between Maniu and the Communists, it is extremely doubtful whether such a coalition could ever be realized.

FIVE STILL HELD INCOMMUNICADO IN SPY PROBE

Prime Minister King Will Give General Statement on Probe In House Monday

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 16 (CP)— The Royal Commission espionage today turned to study of evidence against the five remaining suspects in Canada's month-old Soviet spy inquiry while parliamentarians awaited a general statement Prime Minister Mackenzie King has promised to give the Commons Monday.

Thus far, nine persons have been identified as agents in the ring—two men and two women named in the Commission's first interim report two weeks ago, four men named in the second interim report yesterday and a member of parliament arrested Thursday night.

The member was Fred Rose, 38-year-old Labor-Progressive member for Montreal Cartier, who was arraigned in Montreal yesterday on two espionage charges and later released on $10,000 bail.

Arraigned shortly after him in the same court was Dr. Raymond Boyer of Montreal, assistant chemistry professor at McGill University and key research worker in the development of the super-explosive RDX, who was named in yesterday's interim report. He also was released on bail of $10,000.

Also named in the second report and arraigned in Ottawa police court on similar charges were these three:

Harold Gerson, about 30, Montreal, former munitions department official; Sqdn. Ldr. Matt Nightingale, 40, Montreal, Bell Telephone employee and former R.C.A.F. officer, and Dr. David Shugar, 30, Polish-born Torontonian, who formerly did research work for the navy on anti-submarine detection devices.

All Released on Bail.

All were released on payment of bail — $5,000 for Gerson and $1,500 each for Nightingale and Shugar.

The other two men and two women already charged are out on bail and will re-appear in court here March 20 with Gerson, Nightingale and Shugar. Mr. Rose and Dr. Boyer will re-appear in court in Montreal, March 22.

Echoes of the far-reaching inquiry were heard in the Commons yesterday when M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, called attention to newspaper reports of Mr. Rose's arrest and protested the failure of the government to inform the House of the charges against the Russian-born parliamentarian.

$1,500,000 Fire Loss As Hangar, 4 U. S. Planes Burned at Torbay, Nfld.

St. John's, Nfld., March 16 (CP. Cable) — A large hangar and four United States Army Air Force planes were destroyed by fire at Torbay Airport today. Damage was estimated at $1,500,000.

The fire broke out in the early hours of the morning and the fire department here rushed all available equipment to the airport six miles away.

The hangar was a mass of flames when the fire fighters arrived. Firemen and service personnel fought the flames for hours, shifting gasoline trucks fro mthe danger area and preventing the conflagration from spreading to other buildings.

Early reports of the fire indicated damage was confined to the hangar and four aircraft.

GOERING SWEARS KEITEL SOUGHT MINOR COMMAND

Complained "He Had Been Eating More Rot Than Bread"

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Nuernberg, March 16 — (AP) — Hermann Goering described Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel today as a snubbed liaison officer who had pleaded for permission to leave Hitler's entourage for a minor field command "because I have been eating more rot than bread."

Goering testified for the fourth successive day at the war crimes trial before the international military tribunal.

Questioned by Keitel's counsel, Goering described the former chief of the Nazi high command as little more than a figurehead in many respects.

Goering recalled that he once had said to Keitel: "Whether orders are signed by you or Meier doesn't make any difference to me. Save time and paper. I am the supreme commander of the air force and immediately subordinate to the Fuehrer."

Goering said Keitel, who is one of his 21 fellow defendants here, had the "ungrateful task" of administering strategy which others decided.

"I remember Keitel once asked if I could see he was given a front-line command," Goering declared. "He said he would be satisfied with one division in order to get away, because he had been eating more rot than bread."

Goering said the fact that many of the Fuehrer's commands were signed by Keitel did not mean Keitel had had any voice in framing them.

"Other generals called Keitel a yes-sayer," he testified.

Asked about a prosecution charge that Keitel threatened to bomb Prague in March, 1939, Goering barked:

"I said yesterday, and I repeat, that I made that threat."

Goering contended that Keitel was moderate in his attitude toward Hitler's demand for a lynch law against captured Allied fliers, and proposed sending a note first to the Allies warning them that "measures would have to be taken."

JAP-WRITTEN BIOGRAPHY OF GENERAL MacARTHUR

Tokyo, March 16 —(AP)— A Japanese-written biography of General MacArthur has set new publishing records in Japan with a preliminary sale of nearly 800,000 copies. A DEAR DICE GAME

Reno, Nev., March 16 —(AP)— For 36 hours, onlookers reported, an unidentified man sat at a table and played dice, sending for coffee and never eating, and lost $198,000. The game ended with a role of a single dice. Each got an ace. In the roll-off the house man got a trey, the guest — described as an easterner—a deuce. Club owners would not identify the player nor confirm his losings.

$20,000 INCOME TAX ON DICE GAME WINS

Los Angeles, March 16 —(AP) —"Is this where I declare $53,000 income I won in dice games in Europe in 1945?" an ex-soldier asked at an international revenue office here. Told it was, he filled out a form and paid over $20,000 tax. Collector Harry V. Westover, who related the incident, did not disclose the honest taxpayer's name.

NEW FIVE-YEAR PLAN TO BOOST PRODUCTION

Military Forces Will be Maintained, Strengthened During the Period

By REMBERT JAMES

Moscow, March 16 (AP)—The new five-year plan for Russia will develop atomic power and boost production to 1 1-2 times the pre-war level, N. A. Voznesensky, head of the Planning Department, has informed the supreme Soviet.

Speaking at a joint session last night of both Houses of the Russian parliament, Voznesensky asserted that "monopolistic capitalism can produce a new aggressor," and declared that the Soviet Union would maintain and strengthen its military forces during the five-year period from 1946 to 1950.

The Houses, by a rising vote, agreed to drop the title of "Commissar" and substitute that of "Minister" for its highest government leaders, and to change the name of the council of peoples' commissars to council of ministers.

In his outline of the new five-year plan, Voznesensky said prizes would be awarded to scientists to stimulate research on such projects as the development of atomic power.

In addition, the Soviet will expand its technical schools to accommodate 1,200,000 students and will increase its expenditures for education and culture to the equivalent of about $13,333,000,000, or about 2 1-4 times the pre-war total, he continued.

Other phases of the five-year plan, as outlined by Voznesensky:

Rationing of bread, flour and cereal will end this year. There will be more butter, sugar and shoes in the immediate future.

Heavy industry will be doubled by 1950 and automobile production will be tripled to quadrupled. The annual production by 1950 of iron will be 19,000,000 tons; of steel 25,000,000 tons; coal 250,000,000; oil 35,000,000 tons; electricity 85,000,000,000 kilowatt hours.

The equivalent of about $3,330,000,000 will be earmarked for railroad improvements, and about $3,500,000,000 to finance 72,000,000 square metres of new housing.

The Soviet national income will be boosted to about $14,750,000,000 by 1950.

CHURCHILL CALLS ON U. N. O. TO SETTLE CRISIS

Former Premier Says Russia Demanded A Fortress Inside Straits At Potsdam Parley

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 16 (CP) — Winston Churchill rested today after a banquet at which he declared the English-speaking people held out the hand of friendship to the Russian people and "if the Soviet government does not take advantage of this sentiment ...the responsibility will be entirely theirs."

He commended the current events in Iran to the attention of the United Nations Security Council opening here March 25 and repeated his recent declaration that the hope of the world rested upon a "fraternal association" of the English-speaking people.

He made no direct reference to the attacks made upon him through the newspapers by Premier Stalin and referred to him only once as the "renowned chief" of the "handful of able men" who rule the Russians.

"I do not believe that war is inevitable nor imminent," Mr. Churchill said. "I do not believe that the rulers of Russia wish for war at the present time."

Commenting on reports that Russia, instead of evacuating Iran as did the British and Americans under the tri-partite treaty, now was sending more troops into that country, Mr. Churchill said:

"This is one of those cases for which the United Nations Security Council was especially devised and I am very glad to read in the newspapers that the Soviet representatives will attend the meeting of the Security Council which is to take place in New York March 25."

Wants Matter Threshed Out

"By all means let the matter be threshed out there and let respect be shown, even by the greatest or most deeply-interested powers, to the conclusions of the Security Council."

Mr. Churchill made the first public disclosure that Britain and the United States had offered Russia at the Potsdam conference "a joint guarantee of the complete freedom of the (Dardanelles) Straits in peace and war, whether for merchant ships or ships of war."

"To this guarantee Turkey could gladly have subscribed," he continued, "but we were told that that was not enough. Russia must have a fortress inside the straits from which she could dominate Constantinople."

Mr. Churchill was interrupted by laughter and cheers when, at the start of his address, after a long, standing ovation, he said that in his Fulton, Mo., address 10 days ago he had felt it necessary "to speak in arresting terms about the present plight of the world."

He said he had been "invited to give my counsel freely in this free country, and I am sure that the hope I expressed for the increasing association of our two countries will come to pass, not because of any speech which may be made but because of the tides that flow in human affairs in the course of our unfolding destiny."

Pravda Dispatch Says U. S. Moves Valuable Property From Japan

Moscow, March 16 (AP) — Pravda, in a dispatch from Vladivostok, said today the United States was removing highly valuable property from Japan to the United States.

A special Tass correspondent said his story was based on reports in Japanese newspapers and in the Tokyo edition of Stars and Stripes.

The dispatch in the Communist Party organ said the loot reportedly seized by the Americans included platinum, gold, silver, jewelry and other property worth $500,000 from a German warehouse.

Pravda quoted Japanese newspapers as saying that on Oct. 10, 1945, United States military authorities took 650 pounds of platinum, some gold and upwards of 248 tons of silver from the Japanese military and naval ministries.

Stars and Stripes, United States army newspaper, of Nov. 7, 1945, was quoted as reporting that United States counter espionage police discovered and requisitioned a German warehouse in Tokyo, where they appropriated jewelry and other property.

Pravda quoted the Nippon Times of Feb. 8, 1946, as saying that United States patrols had requisitioned 400 bars of silver of 75 pounds each.

Asserts Britain Given Concessions For Oil in Iran

Claims Russia Has Been Refused Similar Treatment

London, March 16 — (CP) — The Moscow radio said today that the Iranian government was "defending the monopolist possession of British oil concessions in Iran" by refusing to grant Russia similar concessions in the country's northern provinces.

The broadcast said the assertion was made by Alexeev, a writer for the government newspaper Izvestia.

It quoted Alexeev as saying that under the 1921 Soviet-Iran Treaty Iran pledged not to transfer to any third power mining, oil, railway or other concessions given up by Russia, but he added that the treaty had been broken "on numerous occasions" by the Iranian government.

"In a period of 20 years, the Iran government had tried to bring about conflict between the U.S.S.R. and other great powers, Alexeev was quoted as saying. "One must not forget all these facts which have such important significance for the development of Soviet-Iranian relations."

The writer said that the Soviet-Iranian Treaty of 1921, which barred "third party" concessions, was made for the security of the Soviet Union, particularly its Baku oil fields. He said the Standard Oil concessions were cancelled in 1922 as a result of "energetic protests by the Soviet government," and that the concessions originally were intended to cause Soviet interests to "collide" with those of the United States.

Alexeev added that the treaty subsequently was broken by Iran in 1923, 1937 and 1939, with the explanation that Iran did not have the capital, technique or specialists to exploit her own resources.

Tehran, March 16 —(AP)— Gen. Ahmed Sepehbod Amir Ahmedi, minister of war, told newspapermen today he "denied categorically" all statements accredited to him by foreign newspapermen following a press conference March 13 in which he was reported to have said the Iranian army would defend the capital "to the last man" if Russian troops move toward Tehran.

Ahmedi and Prince Firouz, political under-secretary of state and director of propaganda, who met jointly with newspapermen to make the official denial, charged that the minister's actual responses had been "completely misinterpreted" by a war department interpreter, who sat in at the March 13 press conference.

Firouz added that foreign radio reports that Tehran residents fear Russian invasion "are completely false." He handed out a copy of a paper headed "war ministers' denial," which he asked newspapermen to distribute to "correct false impressions created abroad."

Earlier, advance units of a Russian column moving south around Lake Urmia near the borders of Turkey and Iraq, were reported 60 miles southeast of Sauljbulagh, seat of the semi-autonomous shiekdom of Kurdish Chief Ghazi Mohammed.

There were no further reports from two Rusisan columns which left Tabriz several days ago. One moved into Mianeh, midway between Lake Urmia and the Caspian Sea, while the other was last reported swinging west toward Khoi, north of Lake Urmia, toward the Turkish boundary.

Soviet Magazine Attacks American 'Atomic Politics'

Moscow, March 16. (Reuters) Attacking United States "atomic politics" and summing up developments in the United States connected with utilization of atomic energy, the influential Soviet magazine New Times said: "Even if one has the strongest imagination, it is difficult to suppose all this can provide that confidence which the United Nations Organization considers necessary for taking successful measures for the control of atomic energy."

Referring to forthcoming atomic bomb tests in the Pacific the magazine added: "According to some American newspapers, foreign observers should be invited for 'the creation of fear of the atomic bomb and the conviction of all humanity of the need for permanent peace'. . . The reactionary Jingoist press also connects it with other intentions which are not so benevolent. It speaks of 'the defence of new interests of the United States' in all corners of the world."

GO BACK TO WORK

Dangenham, Essex, England, March 16 (Reuters) — Twelve thousand of the Ford Motor Company's factory employees last night decided by a large majority to go back to work on Monday, thus ending a seven-day deadlock which began with an unofficial sit down strike last Friday.

Tremors Continue In Mojave Desert, Aqueduct Repaired

Los Angeles, March 16 —(AP) —The earth continued to twitch today, but workmen sped repairs to the Los Angeles aqueduct, caved in by a massive boulder dislodged in Southern California's most severe earthquake since 1933.

Settling shocks still were felt on the Mojave Desert some 150 miles north of here, where occurred the only damage from a tremor scientists said was comparable to the Long Beach disaster 13 years ago this month, or the equally severe Santa Barbara quake in 1925.

One boulder tore a nine-foot hole in the concrete pipeline yesterday, spouting water across the arid desert at a rate of 100,000 gallons a minute before it could be shut off at an intake still further north.

The first tremor was felt at 8:21 a.m. E.S.T., followed by the major shake at 8:50 a.m. Stiff successors followed at 2:20 p.m., 4:55 and 12:50 a.m., today, with minor adjustments at frequent intervals.

REHABILITATION COM. TO HOLD MEETING

The Belleville and District Rehabilitation Committee will hold a special meeting in the offices of the War Time Prices and Trades Board on Tuesday, March 19 at 8 o'clock, Chairman Dougal Marshall announced today.

A number of items of special interest is slated on the agenda and will come under discussion at the meeting.

COOLER WEATHER HELPS SAP RUN

Return of cooler weather Friday night aided materially in an increase of a flow of sap in the district, farmers said today. The run has been fairly good during the past week, but cooler nights were necessary, and that is just what the weather man sent along.

The sugar-making season this year is the earliest for some time, and thus far conditions have been conducive to a good run of sap, although warm nights slowed the yield down in the latter part of the week.

MUSKRAT YIELD MAY BE RECORD FOR THIS DISTRICT

Reports from trappers of the district indicate the harvest of muskrat pelts this year approach, if not establish a record. One trapper who has forty-five traps in his lines, stated that he caught sixty rats in two days "running the lines."

The animals appear to be in fairly good condition and the majority of the pelts are of good quality. Muskrat dinners are becoming a popular bill of fare in many households.

Sale of trapping licences continues at a consistently high rate, according to Ed. Thomas, issuer.

TRAPPER GETS DUCKING TRYING TO SECURE MUSKRAT

Clarence Hill, returned veteran of Shannonville, who is doing a spot of muskrat trapping, secured some fine specimens from his traps this morning, but got an icy ducking into the bargain.

Approaching one of his traps in which was caught a large rat, Hill, probing his way across a small patch of ice on the river, him and he stood in icy water hi mand he stood in icy water up to his neck.

He managed to scramble to safety, but not before he had retrieved the rat from the trap. The muskrat, a wily veteran, had only three legs. It apparently had been trapped before for its right hind leg was torn off at the hip joint.

We'll Work Out Of Tense Situation Says President

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 16 (AP)—President Truman encouraged hope that troubled international relations will take a turn for the better.

He does not consider the current situation as fraught with danger as many people believe.

"I'm not alarmed by it," he declared, giving his permission for direct quotation. "I'm sure we'll work out of it."

The chief executive's hopefulness was echoed by two important Washington figures, although diplomatic officials remained apprehensive over ultimate Soviet intentions in the Iran area.

Senate majority leader Alben Barkley (Ky.) commented "it has been my opinion all along that the situation isn't as bad as the headlines would seem to indicate."

And Senator Claude Pepper (Dem.-Fla.) told reporters, "I think entirely too much emphasis has been laid on the bad side of the international situation. I think people who do so are rendering a public disservice."

Sensitive to the current drift of foreign affairs, the House of Representatives leadership sought quietly meanwhile to stem the flood of members' speeches rapping Russia and other wartime Allies. The time is not appropriate one of these leaders told a reporter privately, for "Russia-baiting."

Some lawmakers, too, crossed their fingers on what might develop in the speech Winston Churchill makes tonight in New York.

The President also disavowed any plans another meeting with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee and said that he had had no personal communications with Stalin over what diplomatic officials consider the alarming situation involving Iran, Turkey and Iraq and Russia.

Five Sons, Father, Faulkner Family, Stirling, Served

Docking of the troopship "Ile de France" in Halifax on Sunday will strike a happy note in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard W. Faulkner, Stirling, in that she will have carried Cpl. G. Blake Faulkner the last of four sons home from overseas.

Three other sons had previously returned from overseas after serving in the Canadian armed forces, while a fifth son, as well as the father served with the forces in Canada during Second Great War.

Overseas the longest, Cpl. Blake Faulkner age 26 is also the last to return home. He went overseas in December in 1939 with the first contingent and as a member of the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment and was three times wounded, the first time in Sicily. Later he served in Italy and in Belgium, Holland and Germany. Since cessation of hostilities he has been associated with Y.M.C.A. work in England.

First to Return

Third son of the proud Stirling couple, Roscoe Faulkner, age 24, was the first to return from overseas. Also a member of the "Hasty Pees", Roscoe too was seriously wounded in Sicily and was flown back to Algiers to hospital, returning to Canada two years ago. He is serving as bookkeeper at the new veterans' hospital at Kingston.

Earl Faulkner, 22, was the only member of the family not to choose the khaki and served in the navy as a crew member of the destroyer Iroquois with which ship he saw action. He is now living in Victoria, B.C.

Allan Faulkner, youngest of the fighting Faulkner sons, trained as a paratrooper and returned to Canada in June, 1945, while the oldest brother Lorne, was still in training at the cessation of hostilities. The father is a veteran of both wars, having served in the veterans' guard in World War II.

Haligonians Face First Beer Ballot In Seventeen Years

Halifax, March 16 — (CP) — Haligonians, urged on by newspaper and radio publicity, are facing their first beer ballot in 17 years. Citizens will answer at the polls March 20 the question: "Are you in favor of the sale by the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission of beer and wine by the glass or open bottle in the city of Halifax."

Three other Nova Scotia communities, New Waterford, Glace Bay and Dominion, in industrial Cape Breton, have voted within the last two years in favor of adding beer by the glass to present facilities for obtaining alcoholic beverages.

Under the present Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act, adopted in 1930 after 14 years of prohibition, a citizen must buy his beer, wine or spirits in a provincial government store and consume it in his home, unless he is a member of a licensed club where he may drink his own liquor on club premises, paying dues and a small "corking" charge.

Urging a "yes" vote is the "plebiscite committee for a progressive Halifax." On the other side is "the citizens' committee to oppose beer parlors in Halifax."

Both sides have contended that it is not a fight between "wets" and "drys." Spokesmen at anti-tavern headquarters have stated their committee membership is not limited to total abstainers.

Slogan of the opposition forces is "Don't sign a blank cheque on March 20th."

Using the slogan "liberalize and modernize our liquor laws." The group favoring beer by the glass has replied in newspaper advertisements, "Trust in the government to bring in the best tavern system."

Saturday Market

Despite the fact tapping of maples took place approximately one week ago, there was no evidence of maple syrup on the local produce market Saturday morning. Farmers claimed that generally speaking the run of sap thus far had been below normal with snow already having disappeared from the woods.

Eggs held firm on the market at 40 cents for firsts and 35 cents for mediums, while a few extras were quoted at 45 cents the dozen. Fowl ranged from 40 to 50 cents the pound, while a few Winter vegetables were quoted at regular prices on the outside market.

One vendor quickly disposed of his stock of Spy apples at 85c the Green birch stovewood was basket. quoted at $14 the cord, while shoats were held at from ten to twelve-fifty each.

TILL THE PAY CHECKS ROLL OUT AGAIN

The 113-day General Motors strike is over, but it will be some time before pay checks are received by the thousands of workers who took part in the strike. Many of them are without funds to purchase the daily necessities. For these the union maintains its own version of a super-market. Here is Arnold Langaniere passing out a box of groceries to Harold Eathorne at local union headquarters, Detroit, Mich.

Alfred Jones, Who Served in Two Wars, Ready to Enter Civvy Street

"I don't know whether to take my old job back again on April 1st, or wait for what looks like further war developments. Not much sense in me taking a civvy job, get used to the old rut and then pop back into uniform," remarked Alfred Jones, 17½ Bridge Street West, the other day.

Apparently Mr. Jones can't get enough war into his system. Just let a bugle blow; or the blaring notes of a military band ring in his ears, and he drops everything and dashes for the nearest recruiting station. The army is in his blood.

Had Share of War

And he has had his share of war. He served four and one half years in the first big show, and recently was discharged from the Canadian Army after serving five and one half years in the last world disagreement. Ten years of active service takes quite a chunk out of any man's life.

He enlisted in 1914 in "C" Battery, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and went through the entire campaign in France, Belgium and Germany without a scratch. As far as that is concerned, he bore a more or less charmed life throughout his ten years in the army, for he came through scatheless from his entire period of service.

Discharged in 1919

He was discharged from the army after the cessation of hostilities of the First Great War, in April, 1919. Then came the interim of peace and he went back to his job as a motor mechanic.

The dogs of war growled again in 1939 and Jones, dropped tools and exchanged his mechanic's overalls for the trim battledress of a gunner in his old army love, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Went Overseas in '40

He went overseas with his battery in December, 1940 and served and trained with it until D-Day. He saw service in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany being attached to the headquarters of a field regiment. He was discharged as in 1919, with the rank of sergeant, after arriving in Canada late in 1945.

Now he is back on "Civvy Street" taking a well-earned holiday and expects to resume his civilian capacity, looking after the "innards" of indisposed cars and trucks, in the near future.

Racing Pigeon Club Notes

Trenton's newest hobby and sport club that of racing homers has certainly created plenty of excitement and enthusiasm amongst pigeon fanciers throughout the district.

The last meeting brought together many fine men, young and old, from Trenton, Brighton and Belleville and one of the most successful meetings took place. Many essential items of interest came under discussion and fine points of pigeon racing were moved and carried into the minutes of the club. The club being newly formed and funds not being too large it was decided that for this season trophies would not be used as prizes unless donated by interested persons, however as an alternative diploma showing record of bird achievements be issued to the owners of the first three birds showing the greatest speed velocity per thousand yards per minute. The loft showing the greatest average speed record will also become the owner of a diploma giving the achievements of the loft.

Record System Started.

A file record system was also brought into effect to show the records of all individual birds entered in the races. This gives each fancier certified proof of bird achievements for pigeon registration, also proof for anyone purchasing birds from any club member.

After a very successful meeting club members spent an hour of their time visiting the loft in Trenton.

It is suggested that interested persons contact the club secretary O. R. Newton, Trenton, for information about the sport. Belleville enthusiasts may contact any of the fanciers listed below for information: Charles F. Bishop, 172 Front Street; Bill Dennis, Pine Street; U. Wardaugh, Murney Street; Warren Soules, 135 Lingham Street; Mr. Campbell, 51 Murney Street; Jerry Clement, Jones Street.

POLICE BLOTTER

Joy riders are blamed by police for the theft of a motor car owned by Alfred Rodgers, Emily Street, which was recovered a few hours later parked on Pinnacle Street. The auto had disappeared from in front of the owner's residence, police were informed.

Petty thievery from parked cars owned by people attending the stage performance at the Belleville Collegiate, was reported with one resident losing a pair of gloves from the glove compartment of his car. Otherwise police circles were comparatively quiet with the exception of the apprehension of a few drunks.

FIVE STILL HELD

Reporting that Mr. Rose had been arrested on the advice of commission counsel, Mr. King said the member was "believed to be" the intermediary "Debouz" who was said in the commission report to have obtained information from Dr. Boyer.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, said the refusal of habeas corpus proceedings, holding of men without charge, without bail or counsel was "a serious matter."

Mr. King said he would be the last person "to wish to see the liberty of any individual curtailed in any way at all that it was possible to avoid short of the safety of the state being the main consideration."

He tabled both reports of the royal commission and asked members to study them before he spoke on the subject Monday.

Scientists, Two Technical Men, Official of Former Munitions Dept. Now Named in Espionage Inquiry

Ottawa, March 16 — (CP) — A prominent Canadian scientist, two other technical men and an official of the former Munitions Department composed the group of four additional persons named on Friday in Canada's espionage investigation.

Outstanding of the group was Dr. Raymond Boyer, McGill University chemistry professor who had a prominent part in the development of the super-explosive RDX.

Sqdn. Leader Matt Simon Nightingale, a graduate of McGill University and former employee of the Bell Telephone Co., served in the R.C.A.F. land communications branch.

Lieut. David Shugar, 30, of Toronto, was active in naval research work and was well posted on anti - submarine detection equipment.

H. S. Gerson of Montreal, described as being in his early 30s, was regarded as a comparatively unimportant official in the Munitions Department but being in charge of ammunition production records was well posted to provide information in that field.

Dr. Boyer Authority

Dr. Boyer was considered one of the outstanding Canadian authorities on explosives and he took a prominent part in chemical work which led to development of the new super-explosive RDX.

At McGill University, where he had been a member of the staff since early in the Second Great War, he was rated as one of the most popular lecturers in science. His courses in organic chemistry served as a model for other Canadian universities.

Dr. Boyer was one of a group of five scientists who received special commendation from Munitions Minister Howe in 1943.

"Through their work and the methods which they developed, these five men have made an outstanding contribution to the Allied cause," Mr. Howe said. "Their discoveries have increased substantially the striking power of the United Nations. Canada is grateful to them."

Disclosure that Dr. Boyer of RDX fame was among those involved in the espionage case recalled the statement of the Royal Commission on espionage in its interim report that among the instructions received by Russian officials in Ottawa were orders to obtain details of operations of the explosive plant at Valcartier, Que., where RDX was made, with the formula used and samples of the explosive.

Member of Research Committee

During the war years Dr. Boyer was a prominent member of the research and development committee of the National Research Council, serving as its secretary for one year.

He also was a highly regarded member of the vital, but little known committee of English, American and Canadian researchers who worked on RDX. At one time he served as national co-ordinator of all extra-mural explosive research of the National Research Council.

In May, 1945, he was elected chairman of the Canadian Association of Scientific Workers. That association in a statement issued March 1 protested the detention and treatment of a person described as 'an eminent Canadian scientist' and a "prominent member" of the association.

The association said it was aware that this scientist, "who has worked tirelessly and effectively throughout the war in the scientific service of his country," was being held by the R.C.M.P. in Ottawa without the benefit of counsel.

"The association affirms its complete confidence in the integrity and innocence of this man," the statement said. "We protest most vehemently both the manner of his arrest and his subsequent treatment, and therefore demand that he be allowed immediate access to counsel."

Born in Montreal Dr. Boyer attended Loyola College in that city as a youth and then went on to McGill where he received the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Philosophy in chemistry. His post-graduate work included a year with Dr. E. P. Kohler at the Converse Memorial Laboratory at Harvard University, 2 years at the University of Vienna and a year at the Sorbonne in Paris.

His wife and two children, a boy of five and a girl of two years, live in Montreal.

Gerson's Position

As an employee of Allied War Supplies Ltd., a Crown company operating under the Munitions Department, Mr. Gerson was in a position to provide information supplementing that known to Dr. Boyer. His employment in the corporation dated from January, 1941, to July, 1944, and he was assistant to the head of production control. The company was concerned with chemicals and explosives.

After his connection with the corporation, Mr. Gerson was employed directly by the Munitions Department until November, 1945, when he joined War Assets Corp., also a Crown company. In the Munitions Department he was secretary and chief of the Records Division of the ammunition production branch and after joining War Assets he still had some duties with the Munitions Department.

Mr. Gerson was a mining engineer and held a degree from McGill University.

Nightingale's Training

Sqdn. Leader Nightingale also was a graduate of McGill where he won his Bachelor of Science degree in 1928. He received his early education there and also attended military school in Mobile, Alabama. At McGill he took a special course on transmission and engineering telephone work and later joined the Northern Electric Co. as a draughtsman.

In 1928 he joined the Bell Telephone Co. as a telephone transmission engineer and he remained there until 1942 when he enlisted with the R.C.A.F. He was posted to the branch Land Lines technical section and on his discharge in 1945 returned to employment with the Bell Telephone Co.

Dr. Shugar in Research

Dr. Shugar, born at Opacow, Poland, graduated from McGill and received a Doctor of Philosophy degree in physics. From January, 1941, until February, 1944, he was employed at Research Enterprises Ltd., a Crown company at Toronto which was engaged in secret research work.

In 1944 he was commissioned as a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy and was posted to the directorate of electrical [illegible] where he worked on anti-submarine detection devices [illegible] naval establishments and laboratories in Canada, United States and the United Kingdom. On his discharge from the navy Jan. 31, 1946, he was employed in the health department.

Jobs Follow Organization—

But Employers and Workers Must Assist

Organisation of Canada's manpower during the war was made possible through co-operation of employers and workers.

This co-operation is no less necessary to assist in organizing the employment market during the present critical period.

Some manpower controls still remain. These are still law. They are aimed at assisting in organizing the employment market.

Remaining controls are designed to help employers and workers—and actually require only minor assistance from the public.

YOU ARE URGED TO COMPLY WITH THE FOUR CONTROLS WHICH REMAIN:

1. Employers MUST notify the National Employment Office of any need for workers, as soon as that need is known—and before anyone is engaged to fill the employment vacancy.
2. Where employers engage workers outside the National Employment Service they MUST notify the nearest NES Office within three days, that an employee has been engaged. (Form NSS 312 is provided for this purpose.)
3. Unemployed workers seeking employment MUST register with the National Employment Office if unemployed for 7 consecutive days.
4. Generally speaking, any employer or employee MUST give 7 days' notice to the other party of any intention to terminate employment. (Form NSS 120 is still required.) Exceptions may be learned from the nearest NES Office.

The partners to industry—employers and employees—should help the National Employment Service to promote a high level of employment by complying with these simple rules.

Only with public support can an employment service give full assistance to the community.

Make full use of the Local Office of the National Employment Service. It is there to serve your needs, and those of the entire Community.

Hope Butter Ration Up to Six Ounces By First of May

Vancouver, March 16 — (CP) — Although it is hoped Canada's domestic butter ration will be increased from four to six ounces by May 1, the possibility of improvement in the overall situation remains "fairly obscure," O. W. Rodomar, administrator of ration administration, Montreal, said in an interview here on his arrival from a conference of western administrators at Calgary.

Whether there will be an improvement depends upon the nation's ability to produce next year, said Mr. Rodomar.

Unlike sugar, butter is a domestic problem, and upon this fact rest many contributing factors which together have resulted in a "very serious" situation and a 4-ounce butter ration.

TOOK OWN LIFE

Herford, Germany, March 16 — (AP) — Field Marshal Walther Von Model, who had been hunted since his army was crushed in the Ruhr trap a year ago, took his own life with a revolver, April 21, 1945, British intelligence officers said Friday.

They said he feared that if he surrendered himself to the western allies he would be turned over to the Russians as a war criminal.

CANADIAN HOSTEL CLOSED

Belfast, March 16 — (Reuters) —The Canadian Legion hostel here closed Thursday night after 20 months of providing bed and board for Dominion servicemen. Attlee's Govt. Predicts Labor Shortage for Years

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 16 (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee's Labor Government, launching a new "work for prosperity" campaign, forecasts a labor shortage lasting for years despite a bigger potential working population than in 1939 when almost 1,300,000 were jobless.

Larger military forces, critical housing needs, the post-war exports drive and a backlog home demand for consumer goods are largely responsible.

Socialist plans for a higher living standard, if successful, will mean higher production and a permanent demand for more workers among an aging population; and output must increase to pay for expanded social services.

Mr. Attlee in a House of Commons speech set the Dec. 31, 1946, total working population at 20,000,000 men and women, compared with 19,750,000 in 1939. But these figures include the armed forces which will be 1,100,000 strong compared with 477,000.

Thus the strength for work in industry and public and private service will be 373,000 less than before the war.

Most manpower targets for specific industries are government secrets but some have been announced and they show the pressure of demand for labor:-

Export Industries—1,550,000 at Dec. 31, 1946, or 405,000 more than at mid-1939.

Housing and Civil Engineering—1,400,000 at Dec. 31, 9,490,000 more than at mid-1939.

Agriculture—Maintenance of the present working force of 1,010,000 which is 100,000 above mid-1939.

To make sure available manpower is used to best advantages the cabinet has drafted a four-point allocation priority:-

"1. Hold back all less-essential schemes;

"2. Push on with those essential to ordinary life or the recovery of industry:

"3. Hold back in areas of labor shortage;

"4. Push on rapidly in areas showing unemployment, particularly the so-called depressed areas where unemployment was most serious in peacetime."

SELL AT AUCTION

New York, March 16 — (CP)—The "Alice in Wonderland" manuscript will be sold at auction for the second time in its history next April 3. Eighteen years ago the manuscript was sold in Sotherby's auction rooms in London to A. S. W. Rosenbach, a collector, for $75,259.

St. Patrick's Day

St. Patrick's Day comes at that season of the year when the hearts of people everywhere are open to the expansive suggestions and outpourings of the spirit of the coming spring. From the Emerald Isle has come the influence of the Irish spirit which is experienced in many parts of the globe. Erin is not a large country but it has had an influence of real potency in the world, especially the English-speaking world, which is represented in so many lands.

On this saint's day the songs of Erin and its sweetest music are heard far and wide wherever Irishmen and descendants of natives of the green isle dwell.

Irelan dis fortunate in its saint who was one of the greatest missionaries of Christianity of all time and a tireless builder of churches. He is said to have ordained a vast number of priests and Armagh has the honor according to tradition of having been fixed upon for his see back in the year 454, nearly fifteen centuries ago.

Ireland is fortunate in its saint who was Wales in theirs is fortunate in her patron saint. St. Patrick, St. George, St. Andrew and St. David express so much that is characteristic of the peoples whose patron saints they are. It is the quality of human nature to imbibe the spirit of those whom they exalt and it is therefore not at all strange that the very ideals of the people of Ireland, Wales, Scotland and England should be high and exercise an influence upon their neighbors and upon the wide world.

On St. Patrick's Day the spirit of the Irish people expresses itself as it has expressed itself down the ages. None of the arts is left unaffected by the spirit of the Irish. In poetry, in song, in music, in dance, in the drama, in painting there is the Irish trait. The national trait is pronounced and Irishmen are welcomed anywhere in the world.

It is to the glory of this spirit of the Irish that it has lived through the centuries and it is certain that though the Irish are not a numerous people they will endure to exert their benign influence upon mankind.

Abroad the Irish spirit lives for the Irish have had the tendency of spreading over a great part of the earth and yet have never lost their identity though they are good citizens in the land of their adoption or of their birth. In Canada, for instance, the Irish folk, mostly of Irish parentage and descent, carry the real spirit of the dwellers in Erin. So tenacious are these people, like those of the other branches of the British race, of their origins and their noble past.

The coming of St. Patrick's Day again lays stress on the contribution the people of the Emerald Isle have made to the world's progress. They are a people who are greatly liked, they possess strong racial characteristics which add to their appeal and they exert an influence which is far beyond the measure that a race of their numbers might be expected to have. This influence proves the human, kindly, generous and noble qualities which mark this people. Irishmen have proven themselves leaders in every field and in every service.

Spiders Help Science

One of the few firms in Britain where spiders are welcome guests is that of F. Barker and Son, "Sun-Dial" House, Clerkenwell Road, London. Complying with the necessity for assisting the peoples of many lands to grow more food, this firm is responding to orders for extremely fine instruments needed for immediate land surveying. In order to provide the necessary materials for some of these instruments, spiders' webs have to be spun to measure. Spiders are taken to the firm by a member of the staff and placed in special, long, narrow boxes. These are handled in such a way that the spiders are cajoled to provide webs of the correct strength. Horses' hair is also used in another land-surveying instrument that is in great demand. During World War II, this firm has been employed in providing fine military instruments and the workshops at the back of the premises are as busy as they were during the war years.

Striking Figures

Figures given by experts as to the numbers of people in Europe who will die of starvation run as high as sixty million for a six month period. These estimates must shock the world with the possibilities of suffering and other consequences of famine. The lesson is clear, everyone can help and should help by saving wherever possible to leave something to be sent to the stricken peoples.

The Churchills Honored

The great city of New York honored one of the greatest Englishmen, whose mother was an American, the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and Mrs. Churchill on Friday at the city hall in City Hall Square and presented him with a golden key, symbolic of the freedom of the city. In the evening he was banqueted and two thousand guests heard the great statesman speak in that peerless English oratory so familiar to the English-speaking world through the many broadcasts of the war years. New Yorkers, like United States people everywhere, know how to pay honor to the distinguished, especially the war leader of their great British ally.

No Light Task

Prof. Raymond T. Ellickson of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn has done some calculating which is enough to shatter romantic dreams of mining for coal, gold and other ores in the Antartic after atomic bombs have done their work.

According to the best available estimates the Antarctic ice cap is 1,800 feet thick and covers about five million square miles. Prof. Ellickson's calculations show that at a temperature of minus 40 degrees F. it would take 100,000 years to produce enough uranium.

At $10,000 a pound (some authorities say $100,000) Prof. Ellickson figures the cost of blowing or melting away the Antarctic ice cap would be about $660,000 billion, about 2,500 times the national debt.

W. E. Gordon, of Woods Hole, Mass., is just as discouraging. He calculates that it would take 30 million bombs of the type used in Japan to dispose of Antarctic ice. Even the clearing away of only 1,000 square miles would take six billion bombs.

Vice-Regal Fashion Note

In preparation for her new life in Canada Lady Alexander has been shopping in London. This usually delightful (feminine occupation has many limitations in present-day Britain even with an extra allowance of coupons. But the London dress designers will no doubt strive to present Canada's first lady in a manner to do credit to their art.

Lady Alexander would like to have had a crinoline, but has had, instead, to concentrate on styles that will not "date." She has consequently chosen evening gowns that may perhaps help to turn Ottawa away from the dalliance with a mode that comes straight out of the Victorian era.

Ottawa is overcrowded as it is. The demand on housing space alone writes off the crinoline as impracticable. Therel wil surely be many relieved minds amongst the hostesses at this vice-regal restraint.

As for styles that do not "date," Ottawa has got along pretty well on them during the past five years or more. Her Royal Highnesss the Princess Alice has been a shining example of that. And there may be more than one reason to continue such fashions in the seasons to come.

—Ottawa Citizen.

OLD FANCY

When in sleep the baby smiles, in a baby's lovely way,
'Tis the angels talking to it, so the Irish used to say.
'Tis the angels that are whispering what the grown-ups cannot hear—
Something very, very pretty in the little darling's ear.

Oh it's just a pretty fancy, but I think it may be so.
Since the baby cannot tell us, true or not, we'll never know
But a smiling, sleeping baby is so beautiful to see
That the angels may be talking is believable to me.

As you're bending o'er the cradle when your little one's asleep
And you're pulling back the covers just to get a better peep.
If you see a smile come playing on those chubby cheeks of pink.
That the angels then are talking it is comfortable to think.

Austria a Pawn In Struggle For Balance of Power

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Vienna, March 16 — (AP) — Austria is on a mighty tough spot, for her geographical position makes her a pawn in the great and dangerous readjustment of balance of power which is going on in Europe.

That is a personal tragedy for Austria. But for the rest of the world it is — or should be — a sharp reminder that the remolding of Europe and Asia constitutes a peril to international peace.

Austria lies just within the strategic zone which observers generally have recognized as the Russians' minimum objective in their westward sweep across Europe. Moscow's tentative goal — as it emerged in the closing days of the war — was a line running from the strategic German port of Stettin on the north, southward to the head of the Adriatic. East of that line lay Poland, Czechoslovakia and Austria.

The Muscovites have consolidated all that vast area with the exception of Austria. This country remains in occupation by the four Allied powers.

The Americans, British and French would like to terminate four-power occupation at an early date and turn the country over to the newly elected Austrian government, it is understood. The Russians, however, are not prepared for such a move, and are keeping in their zone a force of troops which is far bigger than all the other Allied contingents together.

Moscow regards Austria as an essential part of the Russian zone of influence.

As things now stand, the four powers will continue to hang on here. Either all go out together, or all stay together. From the Russian standpoint, a withdrawal of the other three Allies would provide a happy solution, for the Red line could then be moved forward to the western boundary of the country, and the tentative boundary of the new zone of influence would be complete. Whether the boundary would remain there is a question of hot speculation in many parts of Europe.

Protracted military occupation of Austria will mean economic disaster, in the view of many economic experts. More to the point is the shortage of food which is producing much under-nourishment in some parts of the country. This scarcity has forced the Allied authorities to cut the basic food ration down to 1,200 calories a day — and in some areas the people are already subsisting on 700 calories. Two thousand calories is the minimum necessary to maintain health.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Washington, March 15 (CP)—Fighting what may prove to be a lost cause, Chester Bowles, economic stabilizer, has had to give some ground to those demanding an end to price controls, all the while pleading for an end to the "fear and doubt and blind self-interest" which he claims threatens the country with wild inflation.

Meanwhile consumers face continued shortages of commodities which should be in plentiful supply and which many declare would be easily available but for controls of prices.

Shortage of luxury goods, motor cars, radios and other items contributing to high living standards, might be tolerated with comparative ease.

But when there is a shortage of essential foods, such as butter, and of such a desperately-needed comodity as lumber, the situation becomes serious.

Those who advocate continued price controls and cry out against black markets find comfort in a reprint used in the current issue of the Democrat, organ of the Democratic party, or an edict of the continental Congress of April 15, 1776, fixing ceiling prices of a number of commodities and warning: "Assorted vultures who are preying on the vitals of their country in time of common distress by selling above prices set by this price chart shall be exposed by name to public view."

Some 400 Washington correspondents were hosts to Winston Churchill, his wife, and children Sarah and Randolph, but what the former war leader said was not to be published. It may be reported, however, that most of the questions directed at him had to do with the loan to Britain and if his answers could be published they might be a great help to United States understanding.

STATEMENTS CONSOLIDATED

Toronto, March 16 (CP)— Two statements of claim filed in a libel and slander action for $20,000 against Premier Drew of Ontario yesterday were consolidated into one by G. D. Conant, Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario, on motion of Andrew Brewin, counsel for plaintiff John Alvin Rowe, former Ontario Provincial Constable. Rowe was a key figure in the unsuccessful "political gestapo" charges made by C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe against the Drew administration.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

CHRONIC APPENDICITIS MY EYE

At intervals—long intervals, thank goodness—I receive a query like this: The doctor says I have chronic appendicitis and that I had better have my appendix removed What would you advise? (E. W. M.)

On that information I can't form an opinion. However, the instructions to correspondents which are or should be printed here frequently if not daily tell what letters I answer. Letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene—not letters pertaining to disease, diagnosis or treatment. The query above pertains to disease, diagnosis and treatment.

But I'll say what I think about chronic appendicitis in a general way.

If by "chronic appendicitis" the doctor means that the patient has had one or more attacks of acute appendicitis and there is reason to believe there is still trouble in the appendix which indicates the patient is heading towards another attack, the so-called interval operation is probably advisable now. Removal of the appendix in the interval between attacks of appendicitis is a "clean' operation, that is, without the hazard of spread of infection that attends operation when acute inflammation is present.

On the other hand if "chronic appendicitis" purports to explain any kind of constant disturbance of digestion or any vague or puzzling discomfort or pain that recurs persistently, then, if there has been no definite attack of acute appendicitis, operation for "chronic appendicitis" would be exploratory, in my judgment. In other words shall we go and see what we can find and what we can do about it?

I'm not at all facetious about this. If I were the patient I might well say "O.K., go on in and have a look see." Not that I regard the receiving end of an exploratory operation lightly, but on the other hand I know how much the patient has to be thankful for—I've been there. It was no exploration in my case, but a swell—swell was right—case of acute gangrenous appendicitis, even though we caught it in less than 24 hours after the first and only "acute indigestion" I ever had in my life.

There are lots of symptoms of the constant, persistent or nagging kind, centered in or referred to the interior department, which, I think, would make a proposal to go in and see attractive to me.

But make no mistake about it—I mean don't misunderstand me—I still say the diagnosis of "chronic appendicitis" is not borne out by pathology.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Belly Breathing

I have owed a debt of gratitude for many moons for the benefit I have had from the belly breathing exercise. I had been an insomniac of years standing when I read your article and sent for the belly breathing instructions. Soon after I started the exercise I noticed I was dropping off to sleep much sooner—in fact sometimes I was asleep before I had finished the seance. (Mrs. H. T.)

Answer—Thank you. Any reader may have the pamphlet "Belly Breathing" by asking for it in writing and inclosing stamped self addressed envelope.

Cardiovascular Degeneration

A term you used has stuck in by mind for some time—cardiovascular degeneration. Would that be your ten-dollar word for hardening of the arteries? If so, I'll be glad to receive any literature you care to submit. (E. H.)

Answer—Cardio (heart) vascular (blood vessel) degeneration (structural change in cells, tissues, organs, wear and tear, loss of elasticity or resilience), includes not only arteriosclerosis (hardening of arteries) but myocarditis, slow heart failure, coronary thrombosis, angina pectoris, chronic interstitial nephrites (Bright's disease) and cerebral hemorrhage (apoplexy, stroke of paralysis). If this hasn't scared you away, send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet CVD.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How can insects fly about in a moving car?

Insects can fly about in a closed car while it is moving because the air in which the insects are moving is travelling with the car.

If an insect were to fly slowly above a fast-moving flat car it would soon be left behind with that part of the atmosphere in which it was flying.

Likewise, if a man in a moving car jumps straight up he will alight on about the same spot from which he jumped. His motion through space is the same as that of the train. He moves with the car, and since the air in the closed car moves with it also, there is no friction to hold him back while he is in the air.

If a man did the same thing on an open car he would be held back by the friction of the air and would alight slightly farther to the rear of the spot from which he jumped. The U. S. Bureau of Standards estimates that if a person jumps straight up three feet on an open car travelling seventy miles an hour when there is no natural wind he will alight about fifteen inches farther back.

Of course, the same principle applies to closed compartments in moving boats, ships, airplanes, trucks, etc.

Many people have the erroneous notion that a bird or aviator flying high in the sky is left behind by the ground below as the earth rotates on its axis. Such is not the case. If it were, Charles A. Lindbergh could have gone north to the proper latitude, ascended to a considerable altitude and remained in the same vicinity until Paris passed beneath him!

The atmosphere in which we move is just as much a part of the earth as the solid ground on which we walk. The entire earth, including the blanket of air around it, is rotating upon its axis and revolving around the sun. It is absurd to suppose that the earth moves through the atmosphere. If such were the case, a terrific gale would be created by the earth speeding through space and every unattached object would be swept off. The atmosphere is held to the rest of the earth by gravity and goes with it because there is nothing in space to hold it back.

THINKS STALIN WRONG

Capetown, March 16 — (Reuters) —Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts Thursday said in the South African House of Assembly that it was possible Generalissimo Stalin was wrong in the interpretation which Stalin put on Winston Churchill's March 5 speech at Fulton, Mo., which the Russian leader yesterday described as a call to war on the Soviet union. He was replying to an attack on Russia by Dr. D. F. Malan, Nationalist party leader.

SOFT COAL MINERS PARLEYS HOLD LABOR ATTENTION

Operators Have Not Yet Had Opportunity to Reply to Demands

New York, March 15 — (AP)— Negotiations for a new wage contract for 400,000 soft coal miners, who will be told by John L. Lewis to strike April 1 if their demands are not met, held principal attention on the United States labor front today.

The bituminous coal operators, to whom Lewis, president of the American Federation of Labor United Mine Workers, presented nine general demands Tuesday, have not had an opportunity to reply. They complained that Lewis, without any actual bargaining, had consumed 20 per cent of the time available for negotiating a contract before the strike deadline on the present agreement.

Union officials headed by Lewis talked about what he called unsatisfactory health and safety conditions prevalent in the coal industry. He told the operators "the terrible conditions in the mining industry" were proper matters for discussion of the national wage conference.

In demands to the operators, Lewis proposed among other things, higher wages, shorter work week and a health and welfare fund for the miners.

Green Asks New Wage-Price Policy

A.F.L. president William F. Green, in a speech at Carbondale, Pa., last night, described the economic situation as dark and confused and attacked the administration's new wage-price policy.

Mr. Green called for a new wage-price policy to be drafted with labor, industry and agriculture assistance and said it should be in effect only for one year. After that, he said at the annual dinner on the Carbondale Central Labor Union, all government controls over wages and prices should be dropped.

"Finally," he asserted, "I urge with all the emphasis at my command that the government eliminate itself from the sphere of labor-management relations except for offering a strengthened conciliation service to both parties, and allow labor and industry to work out their problems through the proper methods of collective bargaining and voluntary arbitration."

Adjournment Without Agreement

One of the biggest strikes continued as negotiations in the wage dispute involving 75,000 C. I. O. electrical workers at Westinghouse Electric Corporation were adjourned without an agreement.

Meanwhile, the 100,000 strikers at General Electric, who went on strike with the workers at Westinghouse and General Motors Corporation electrical division Jan. 15, prepared to return to their jobs. The Union's conference board ratified the agreement granting 18½-cent-hourly wage increases, and early approval was expected to be given by the strikers.

Today the C.I.O. United Auto Workers General Motors Council was to meet in Detroit to act on an agreement granting 18½-cent-hourly pay boosts to 175,000 production workers, ending the 113-day walkout.

Idle throughout the country because of labor disputes totalled between 675,000 and 775,000, including the G. E. and G. M. strikers.

Legislature Shows Speed in Throne Speech Debate

Toronto, March 16 — (CP) — Four speeches were completed in 40 minutes in the Ontario Legislature yesterday as the debate continued on the Throne Speech, possibly a record for brevity.

The House heard W. Griesinger (PC — Windsor-Sandwich), W. Robertson (CCF — Wentworth), V. Martin (L — Nipissing) and W. A. Murray (L — Stormont.)

Before the debate resumed however the legislature heard Premier Drew read the citation of the award of the Victoria Cross to Maj. John Weir Foote of Barrie, the padre who won the Empire's supreme award for bravery by his care of the wounded at Dieppe with utter disregard for his own safety.

Maj. Foote was an honored guest at the legislature, and made a short and modest statement after Liberal opposition leader Farquhar Oliver and C.C.F. leader W. J. Grummett had associated themselves with Premier Drew's tribute. The tall, dark-haired chaplain termed himself a "junior member" of the company of V.C. winners.

Major Foote had remained behind on the bloody Dieppe beaches after the Canadians withdrew from the assault on Aug. 19, 1942. He was a prisoner of war in Germany for three years.

Windsor Still on Map

In the Throne Speech debate Mr. Griesinger said Windsor was "still on the map" despite the 100-day strike at the Ford Motor Company of Canada last fall. Production of motorcars and Allied products would keep Windsor factories busy "for years to come," he said. He asked government assistance in helping Windsor improve its physical appearance. Windsor was one of the largest ports of entry to Canada.

Mr. Robertson warned against the danger of soil erosion in the Hamilton area and also talked of labor relations. He said he would like to believe assertions that management was negotiating in good faith with unions in Hamilton "but I know from personal experience that employers are using every device known to offset the demands of labor." He also spoke of the housing shortage in Hamilton.

Farmers Exploited is Claim

Mr. Martin urged construction of a slaughterhouse and cold storage in North Bay. Farmers were being exploited by dealers and traders who capitalized on the fact farmers had to send their products to Toronto.

Mr. Martin also urged extension of hydro facilities in northern Ontario's rural municipalities.

Mr. Murray told the House of a shift of population from rural areas to cities and said farming could be made appealing under proper legislation. Every effort should be made to develop "the purest and highest standard of food," and to improve home markets.

The legislature adjourned until Monday.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES NAMED IN ESPIONAGE ACTIVITIES

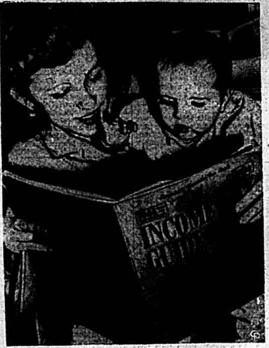
BOYER

NIGHTINGALE

SHUGAR

Prime Minister King said that "appropriate action has been taken on the basis of the report" when four government employees were named in connection with the alleged espionage activities. They are Dr. Raymond Boyer, assistant professor of chemistry at McGill University; Harold Samuel Gerson, employee of Allied War Supplies, Ltd.; Sqdn.-Ldr. Matt Simons Nightingale, of the branch land lines of the R.C.A.F. and Dr. David Shugar, of the directorate of electrical supply, R.C.N. They were all at one time on positions of trust.

TAX WORRIES AT A TENDER AGE



Having amassed the sum of $629.54 last year as a professional model, 7-month-old Wendy Rey Stocking, of Chicago, is faced with tax worries at a very tender age. The tiny wage-earner appears to be taking her fiscal worries cheerfully enough as she consults tax expert Shirley Ayasse, of Chicago, in preparing to pay.

SOLVES HOUSING SHORTAGE

Detroit, March 16 (AP) — A small white dog solved her housing shortage the hard way. She routed a skunk out of a hollow tree, produced three puppies and then defied residents of the area who sought to remove her. Food was brought to the quartet for two weeks before a Humane Society investigator could make friends with the protective mother and move the family.

NO CASUALTIES

Miami, Fla., March 16 (AP)— A snake struck at a dog, a rat grabbed the snake by the tail and then a cat tried to chase the rat, Mrs. Paul J. Monser told police that all happened in her back yard today while she looked on and called for help. By the time the police arrived all was quiet. There were no casualties.

THRONE SPEECH DEBATE OPENS ON MONDAY

Progressive Conservative Leader Will be First Member to Take Floor

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 16 (CP) — Party leaders are scheduled to hold the floor in the Commons Monday when the cross-floor debate on the address in reply to the Throne Speech starts.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, will be the first to take the floor and he is to be followed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who has disclosed that he will include in his remarks a statement on the current espionage investigation.

Mr. Bracken adjourned the debate yesterday after Capt. Fernand Viau (L-St. Boniface) and Lt.-Col. R. H. Winters (L-Queen's-Lunenburg) moved and seconded a motion for adoption of the Throne Speech read at the opening of parliament Thursday.

The mover and seconder were heard after these developments:

1. Mr. King announced that vidence showed that Fred Rose (Lab.-Prog.-Montreal Cartier) was an intermediary in the Russian directed spy ring in Canada.

2. The Prime Minister tabled the second interim report of the Royal Commission investigating the espionage activities.

3. The members unanimously adopted a farewell address to the Governor-General, The Earl of Athlone, and Princess Alice, who leave Canada today.

The address was adopted unanimously by both the Senate and the Commons after party leaders had expressed appreciation for the work done by Their Excellencies and had wished them "God-speed."

Capt. Viau, in moving adoption of the address in reply to the Throne Speech, laid particular stress on the need for unanimous approval of the recent $1,250,000,000 loan to the United Kingdom.

Will Not Oppose Loan

The French-speaking veteran of the Second Great War spoke as reports spread that a number of French-speaking members from Quebec were planning to oppose the loan on the grounds that the interest terms granted to Britain were too generous. The interest rate was fixed at two per cent, beginning in 1951.

Finance department officials have estimated that the interest on the loan will cost Canada between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 annually until 1951 and about $12,000,000 annually from that year until the loan is repaid.

Capt. Viau said Canadians should not lose sight of the debt they owe Britain, nor the reasons why Britain's external financial position was in its present condition.

He made his appeal for unanimous adoption of the loan agreement in both French and English and said the loan would benefit Canada for years to come because it would increase export trade and markets.

A Business Proposition

Col. Winters, another veteran of the last war, looked on the loan as a business proposition that would give Britain an opportunity to buy Canadian goods.

"It would be generally recognized as fit and proper for Canada to wish to help England to the greatest possible extent in the light of her extreme and disproportionate wartime sacrifices," said Col Winters. "But at the same time, it is well to remember that the loan is greatly to Canada's interest from the point of view of business and post-war trade."

He called for closer co-operation between the Dominion and the provinces so that the same fruits of nationhood could be enjoyed by all citizens regardless of where they happened to be born or dwell.

While an agreement between the Dominion and the provinces on taxation fields would not be a cure-all, it would be a step toward "good understanding."

Governor-General Thanked

The Senate also gave unanimous support to an address expressing appreciation to the Earl of Athlone for his services as Governor-General and to Princess Alice.

The address was introduced by a motion sponsored by Hon. Wishart Robertson, government Senate leader, and seconded by Senator C. C. Ballantyne, acting Progressive Conservative leader. Brief addresses in French supporting the motion were made by Vincent Dupuis (L.-Quebec) and A. J. Leger (PC- New Brunswick).

"No one contributed more in a general way to the accomplishments of Canada in recent years," Mr. Robertson said.

The Governor-General had concerned himself not only with matters of government but with all phases of activity by the Canadian people. During his term he had extended hospitality to many distinguished visitors.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Married at Marmora, fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Cook, 25 Tyndall Avenue, Toronto, celebrated their anniversary in that city over the weekend with their three daughters, Mrs. William Black, Hollywood, Mrs. Cecil How, Regina, Sask., and Mrs. Tim Munro, Port Credit, in attendance. Out-of-town guests were the only living brother and sister of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Patterson, of Brantford, and Ex-Mayor and Mrs. George O. Tice, of Belleville.

The couple were married at Marmora when the groom was C.P.R. station agent at Big Springs. They moved to Western Canada and lived there for many years, recently returning to Toronto, where Mr. Cook holds the position of manager of the flatware department of the Cochrane Dunlop Hardware Company.

Many beautiful gifts were received from immediate relatives and friends including a bouquet of roses from the groom's firm. An anniversary dinner was held at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto last Saturday night and the table was graced with a three-tiered wedding cake, the gift of the daughters, while the table was decorated with yellow accia brought from California by Mrs. Black. The toast to the bride and groom of fifty years was proposed by Mr. Tice and ably replied to by Mr. Cook.

On Sunday afternoon a reception was held at the family residence where more than 125 called to pay their respects to the honord couple. The guests were received by the three daughters and tea was served by Mrs. G. O. Tice and Miss Lulu Cook.

50th Anniversary Of Wedding Is Celebrated

An item of interest to Belleville readers is the account of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Hetherington on March 4, which appeared in a recent issue of The Fenelon Falls Gazette:

"An event of much interest on Monday, March 4, was the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Hetherington, well-known residents of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Hetherington were at home to relatives, neighbors and friends during the afternoon and evening, at a delightfully arranged reception, and 225 guests called to extend congratulations.

"Beautiful bouquets of spring flowers from friends and relatives in Detroit, St. Catharines, Toronto and Fenelon Falls, and including one from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, were effectively arranged throughout the rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Hetherington were also the recipients of many other lovely gifts, among which was a purse of money from the family. Cards and greetings from absent friends were also received. Among those extending congratulations were members of the Village Council who called in a body. All of the family were at home for the occasion with the exception of the eldest son, Mr. Thos. Hethertington, Belleville, who was unable to be present because of illness.

Guests were received at the door by one of the sons of the family and registered in a guest book in charge of Joan Hetherington, a granddaughter and Helen Hetherington.

"During the afternoon Mrs. Staples, of Bobcaygeon, and Mrs. Albert Pogue, of Lindsay, sisters of Mr. Hetherington, poured tea, and in the evening, Mrs. Charles Hetherington, of Cannington, and Mrs. Robert Hetherington, Bowmanville, sisters-in-law, presided. Mrs. William Hetherington, Jr., Toronto, escorted guests to the dining room where the assistants were Mrs. Harold Hetherington, Toronto, Mrs. Thomas Hetherington, Belleville, Mrs. Dalton Hetherington, Colborne, and Mrs. Hector Hetherington, Verulam, daughters-in-law; Mrs. Clifford Martin, Mrs. Oscar Hetherington, Miss Ethel Hetherington, a niece, (Cannington), Mrs. Carl Wray, Mrs. Frank Johnston, Mrs. Walter Norris, (Cannington), Mrs. Gerald Hetherington, (Brighton), and Miss Dorothea Hetherington, (Belleville), granddaughters. Other assistants were Mrs. Joseph Lee, Mrs. Leslie Knox, Mrs. Fletcher Mitchell and others.

"Among the guests was the groomsman of 50 years ago, Mr. William Martin. The late Mrs. Martin was bridesmaid.

"On March 4, 1896, Miss Jane Britton and Mr. William Hetherington were married at the home of the bride in Verulam, by the Rev. Mr. McKinnon, Fenelon Falls. They made their home on the groom's farm in Verulam and continued to reside there until the fall of 1944, when they moved into the village, purchasing a residence at the corner of Colborne and Queen Streets. Mr. Hetherington took an active part in township affairs and was for eighteen years a member of Verulam Council, including two years as reeve. Both are faithful members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mr. Hetherington holding the office of elder. Mrs. Hetherington is a Life Member of the W.M.S., and was also a member of Blythe Women's Institute."

Women's Activities

F.W.T.A.O.

The regular monthly supper meeting of the F.W.T.A.O., was held at the Y.M.C.A., March 13, with the staff of the Prince of Wales School in charge of the program.

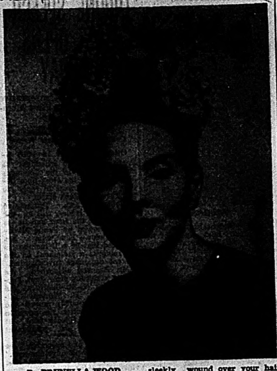
It was decided during the business part of the meeting that a constitution was needed and a special committee was appointed to look into the matter. Two resolutions regarding teachers' pensions were presented by the resolutions committee. A motion carried that these be forwarded to the resolutions committee of the Provincial Executive to be dealt with at the annual meeting.

The speaker of the evening, Major Everett Fairman, principal of King George School, was capably introduced by Miss Jane Smyth. Major Fairman told of his war years from the time of his leaving Halifax to his return to Canada. During that time he saw most of Southern England, Algeria, spent a terrible winter on the Ortona front, and went on to France and Germany. He said the Canadian soldiers were the best dressed and finest soldiers anywhere.

While in England he visited a number of schools where discipline is still very rigid with birch rod still the weapon of punishment. He saw the famous Black Forest of William the Conqueror's time, denuded now of many of its great old trees. Kew in lilac time was as lovely as the poet describes. On the docks at Algeria he found piles of oranges awaiting shipment to England. Algeria he found very hot and dirty with women often taking the place of horses on the plough.

Mrs. Anderson, of Queen Victoria School thanked the speaker for his extremely interesting address.

Hat and Hairdo Alliance



By PRUNELLA WOOD

WEAR YOUR hair in a (false) braid, these days? This is a hat which should gladden you, if so—and it isn't blue news from a topline designer if you are sticking solely to your own, scalp-grown locks of sparser luxury.

There it perches, a toquette, so called—atop a coronet braid sleekly wound over your hair which moulds the head closely. It will also ride a topknot of curls, even last year's pompadour, if you prefer them still as many do.

The toquette is blonde straw, paved out of sight with pale blue valley lilies. The left side, front is trimmed with a rose feather breast, a full blown rose.

St. Patrick's Day Concert Given At St. Michael's

Sure, and it was a broth of an Irish program, but for all that there was a bit of the international blarney mixed up with the proceedin's at St. Michael's Academy Friday night.

The auditorium was packed with concert lovers and they left with entertainment appetites satiated. There was color, dancing, music and singing, not to mention, be jabbers, the background of Ould Ireland, and the atmosphere of the Green that was in keeping with the occasion.

Giving an international touch albeit it was in honor of Saint Patrick was John O'Gorman giving forth with vocal selections; M'sieu George Desrosiers, "A Frenchman turned Irish for the night", pianist, and the Billy Grant family, with the breath of the heather of Auld Scotland performing on xylophone, piano and other instruments.

Splendidly Arranged

The program was splendidly arranged and went through its sequence of numbers that was enjoyable to all. Those in charge provided an admirable change in variety and the whole was a distinct credit to the artists participating and to those unheralded and unsung people who arranged and produced the concert.

Against a St. Patrick's Day setting, with a back drop of green flecked with large and small shamrocks, and the Harp of Ireland standing out, the various performers went through their paces with a skill and artistry that bespoke careful training and strict rehearsal.

It is difficult to pick out any particular stars, although Mr. Desrosiers, a pianist of marked ability stood out with an excellent mastery of his instrument. Miss A. Lafferty and Ed Brown brought back the songs of yesteryear and the smart dancing of Barbara and Ronnie Donovan brought rounds of applause.

The program:

St. Michael's Academy Juniors; vocal selections, Robert Lucy; duo-dance, Misses Marlene and Diane Smith; vocal selections, Mr. John Fahey; piano selections, Misses Barbara Forhan and Joan Kay; St. Michael's High School Glee Club; the Grant family and Catherine Barrett; songs of Yester-Year, Miss Anna Lafferty and Mr. Ed. Brown; vocal selections, Mr. John O'Gorman; reading, Miss Vivian Cannon; vocal selections, Mr. Harold Barrett; dance, Miss Barbara and Master Ronnie Donovan, Miss Mary Murphy; vocal selection, Mr. Edward Brown; piano solo, Mr. George Desrosiers.

Practical Nursing Requires Training

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 16 (CP) — Practical nursing has come into its own in Manitoba. It is no longer a wide-open field but a qualified and licensed profession.

The Licensed Practical Nurses Act—the first of its kind in the Dominion—was passed by the Manitoba legislature in March, 1945. As a result, more than 200 women in the province who previously acted as practical nurses were required to pass tests and fill out application forms leading to licensing.

The provincial department of public health has, at present, two schools for training in the Winnipeg district. It is planned to open other training schools in rural Manitoba this fall.

The course requires a minimum of one year. It calls for 12 weeks of concentrated study, field trips, demonstration and practice in the classroom and approximately 34 weeks of clinical experience in hospital wards. A one-month holiday is granted.

At the end of the three-month theoretical course, a provincial qualifying examination is held. Students must pass this examination before going on to their clinical training.

No tuition fee is charged. However, during the three months' theoretical work, students are required to maintain themselves and buy uniforms and books. This amounts to approximately $130 and includes four uniforms and 12 bibs and aprons. When they reach clinical training, they are paid $20 monthly for eight months.

Supervisor is Frances H. Vaugh, a graduate of United College in Winnipeg and the Winnipeg General Hospital. Petite and blue-eyed, Miss Waugh, an employee of the public health department, teaches a 10-hour course.

Six ex-service women are among the students. Thirty-one-year-old Irene Sampson was a sick berth attendant in the navy. Eileen McGrath, 23, was a driver in the army. She says she always wanted to take nursing and finds it "strange but not hard." The other girls are Marguerite Stewart, Louise, Toews, Connie MadGill and Gertrude Embury.

War Bride Honored By Red Cross Unit

Centenary—Under the auspices of the Red Cross Unit, the first war bride to become a resident of this community was given a reception on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Bruce Christie formerly of the RCNVR, and his wife, the latter who has just recently arrived from Scotland, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Holton. About forty friends and neighbors met to welcome the young couple, and shower them with gifts suitable to the occasion.

As president of the Red Cross Unit, Mrs. Fred Aikens was in charge of the program. After community singing Mrs. Aikens called the gathering to order and read an address to the young couple. Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Kelley then presented an overflowing gaily decorated basket of miscellaneous gifts.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Christie gratefully appreciative, thanked their friends for their kindness and good wishes and invited all to call and see them at their home.

Several friends spoke briefly and assured them that a real welcome awaited them in all activities of the community.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and a social hour enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Christie, of Thurlow, were guests at the reception.

Slim-Waisted Women Turn to Hoop Skirt

New York, March 16. (CP)—It looks as if Grandmother is going to have the last laugh after all. For her ultra-modern granddaughters, they of the streamlined silhouette and the stratosphere ambitions, are going back to hoop skirts.

Newest conversation piece on the summer fashion horizon is the good-old-fashioned hoop skirt, built on the same principle as those worn by belles of nearly 100 years ago.

The designers who launched this startling pendulum fashion is Adele Simpson, who decided if hips were in style again she would put hoops around them. The summer evening gowns she shows have a daguerrotype charm all their own, and conservative souls can wear them without the hoops, if they like. In that case they become merely slim-waisted, full-skirted dresses.

Miss Simpson also uses an ingenious method of cutting and tucking to produce a modified version of the hoop skirt for street wear. She calls it the "lantern front". It is a skirt with front fullness and a padded look about the hips.

These new picturesque styles are strictly for the slim-waisted. Though curves are in style above and below the diaphragm, that midriff must be slender and fragile. So we may go one step further and return to the day of the whale-bone corset. In which case Granny would be justified in letting loose a hearty guffaw.

TWO WOMEN KILLED

Fort Erie, March 16 (CP)—Two aged women were killed late Wednesday when their motorcar was struck at a level crossing by the New York Central Railroad's Buffalo-bound flyer. Victims were Mrs. Mary A. Pohle, 70, and Mrs. Margaret Sheehan, 80, both of Crystal Beach near here.

NAZI AGENT SOUGHT

French police are seeking Mme. Beatrice Borotra, wife of Jean Borotra, tennis star, on charges of being a member of a gang of Gestapo agents during the German occupation of France. She is reported hiding in Switzerland. A Britisher, Mme. Borotra was divorced from her first husband in 1934.

Hints on Adding To Butter Supply

The problem of housewives in stretching their butter supply is a universal one so that any suggestions that will increase the home requirements are always welcome. A writer to the Peterboro paper gives some hints along this line which are simple to follow if desired. The directions follow:

Save the cream off the top of your milk bottles till you have one quart, or a little over. (Always let the milk stand over night before removing cream or 24 hours). Leave cream in kitchen until it is room heat, then put the quart of cream in a 2-quart sealer that has been scalded and rinsed out with warm water, seal tight and roll in clean towel, tie tightly, to the paddle, or agitator, of your washing machine, with another tea towel. Be sure it is firmly tied, using two towels if necessary. Then set your machine in motion and let it run for about 20 minutes, then open and see if butter is there. If not run it a little longer. If it is cold it takes more time. Lift butter out with a clean spoon put in bowl and wash in several cold waters, working all the milk out with the spoon, salt to taste, about 1-2 teaspoonful a pound is usual, and you'll have a half pound of as nice butter, as you've ever tasted. It isn't black market butter for you, instead of taking your butter fat in your milk, you art separating them and using the fat in a different way. But it need not take any more milk than you ordinarily use and we would sure rather have butter for our bread, than richer milk and no butter.

Stretched Butter

Here is a good butter stretcher, that was given to me recently. I've tried several, but the trouble with most of them is, they are not so good in carried lunches. Sandwiches, kept in a lunchbox, in factory heat, become soggy, as the egg and milk added, separately oozes out. This recipe I now use does not make sandwiches soggy under any condition and can be used for ordinary butter, except for cakemaking, or frying, as the eggs and milk are made into a custard, before adding to butter.

Take 1 lb. butter and have in kitchen heat until soft, put cream from top of 2 quarts milk into saucepan and bring to boil, add 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten, and 1-2 teaspoonful salt, stir well and work until thick (do not boil). Cool then and work gradually into your butter with a fork. Beat well, put into bowl or mould, and place in refrigerator. Remove about 30 minutes before using, as it is a little harder than ordinary butter. This is a real good recipe and anyone who hadn't been told, would never guess by the taste or color that it was stretched butter.

Paris Shows Long Skirts

Paris, March 16 — (CP)—The pacemakers in the fashion world are unanimous on one thing: — skirts are going to be much, much longer — and that may mean ankle-length.

Pierre Balmain, the talented designer whose fall collection was one of the "sleepers" of the season, has come right out with a plan for it: "I would like the smartly dressed woman of 1946 to adopt ankle-length skirts for town wear."

The others, Bruyere, Jacques Hein — to not two who showed their new models recently — are lengthening skirts gradually and notably in afternoon dresses.

Apparently there are two flies in the ointment. The first and foremost is the shortage of material with which to make much longer clothes. But it is believed that this can be overcome in America as well as in France in anywhere from six to 12 months.

The second — and apparently this applies much more to Europe than America — is that pro-First Great War skirt lengths are impractical at a time when ladies are able to do much less riding in elegance than walking or bicycle riding. But anyway, very long skirts are definitely on the way.

Curves in Style

All in line with the international orgy of dress lengthening is the all-out manner in which designers are stressing a complete return to femininity and tossing out anything resembling the stiff masculine lines which have been required styling for so long.

Madeleine Vraiment, for instance, is showing everything with a waspwaist, swelling hips and moulded bosom effect. Her lines require a special little boned corset. Balenciage likes a tiny waist and draws attention to moulded curves.

It is a bandwagon and everyone is climbing on.

Balmain is joining Lelong in showing any number of cutaway-type suits, with a single button high up and with the jacket worn over tricky little vest and shirt effects that resemble a Victorian riding costume.

The effect is charming and makes for infinite variety.

Heim and Bruyere are showing more conservative clothes than Balmain. Bruyere is particularly fond of a short waistline and a long drop from the midriff to the hemline. Heim's clothes are youthful, restrained and in luscious colors.

SHURE BOY IT'S ST. PAT'S DAY IN THE MORNIN'

Irishmen Throughout the World Will Honor Their Patron Saint Tomorrow

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sons of Erin—whether they have kissed the Blarney Stone in County Cork or not—will be fluently persuasive in extolling the virtues of their patron Saint Patrick on his feast day tomorrow.

New admirers of the Emerald Isle and its great men are found among the troops who spent leave there during the war and while awaiting "that boat." Men with "Canada" on their tunics received a warm welcome there when the border was opened to uniforms again recently. During the war many had visited Eire in civilian dress.

Canadians of Irish descent will be wearing the green, carefully pulling on clay pipes and agreeing on one of the few subjects which they find above controversy—that March 17 should be a day of honor to the fifth century saint. But it was not ever thus.

At one time Irishmen split on the question of the anniversary of the death of St. Patrick at the Abbey Saul in County Down. One group said it was March 9 and another March 8. With a good eye for Hibernian compromise, a Father Mulcahey is said to have cleared up the controversy by adding eight and nine, satisfying both factions.

From The Hills of Down

France, Wales, Scotland and Ireland have been named as St. Patrick's birthplace but it is fairly certain that he was a captive swineherd among the hills of Down at the beginning of the fifth century. Escaping from the Emerald Isle he wandered to Rome where he entered the priesthood and was sent by Pope Celestine to preach in Ireland.

St. Patrick is said to have established 365 churches and baptized more than 12,000 persons in the course of his missionary work. While speaking at Tara he immortalized the shamrock when he held it up as an example of the dogma of Trinity showing the possibility of three in one and one in three.

Some authorities link the shamrock with the legend of the saint's prowess as a banisher of snakes and toads. Pliny in his "Natural History" says the trefoil, similar to the trifoliate emblem of Ireland, prevails against the sting of snakes and scorpions.

Whatever its powers may be, "himself" and "herself" will be sportin' the shamrock come the top of the mornin'.

Diplomats Taught By Viennese Girl

Researcher for Australian Government Speaks Five Languages

Canberra (CP)—When Australia's representative speaks this month in Washington at the international trade and employment conference, aimed at lowering tariff barriers so that the pattern of peace and production can emerge again from the debris of war, the facts and figures he casually tosses off will have been sifted through a woman's hands.

Gizelle Schneider, who is preparing for the conference does not think of herself as a career woman, but for four years she lectured at Melbourne University on economics, and for 18 months has worked in Canberra as a research officer in the international section of the department of post-war reconstruction. At the same time, she has been training external affairs diplomatic cadets.

Now her long-lashed, humorous green eyes are absorbed in files of information on Australia's economic policy. Casual about cables from London and Washington, calm about piled folios of economic information that would drive most people insane, never intense about a career which in some mysterious way just caught up with her, Gizelle Schneicer says she is having a marvellous time. She enjoys hard work.

"There is security in knowing I can do it," she says, "but my life isn't all work. I like people. I like parties."

She speaks Spanish, matriculated in German, did her university course in France, and should the conversation wanger into Polish, that's all right, too.

With her lively interest in politics, her knowledge of what goes on behind the scenes, her outstanding ability and her continual background, this Viennese is one of the most talented of the women who have adopted Australia as their country.

CUSTOM TO BE REVIVED

London, March 16 — (Reuters) —The ancient custom of judges at London's famous Old Bailey — central court of criminal justice— carrying nosegays of old English garden flowers and of strewing the docks with sweet smelling herbs, suspended during the war, will be revived this summer.

CONTINUE THREE YEARS

Newcastle, England, March 16 —(Reuters) — Rationing of confectionary in Britain will continue for at least three years, Alan F. Stephenson of the National Union of Retail Confectioners predicted here, adding that even at the end of that period normal output could not be expected.

By MARION CLYDE McCARROLL

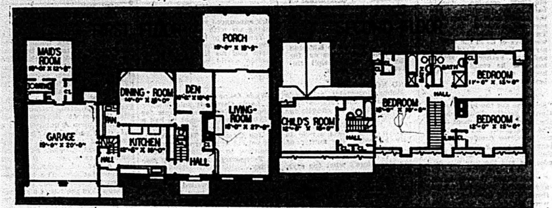
If you haven't quite decided yet just what type of house you're going to build when the time is right, you'll be interested in a new book that gives you a quick look at a variety of architectural styles. Shows you plans and interior views, besides, and then throws in a lot of suggestions for individual features like fireplaces, front doors, built-in bookcases and cupboards, windows, staircases, storage space — things like that.

Everything's illustrated, of course, and with pictures so fascinating that you'll hardly be able to choose which, of all the different houses and features they show, you'd most like to have for your own; or, if you can make up your mind, you'll have a hard time waiting until you can actually see them taking shape for you.

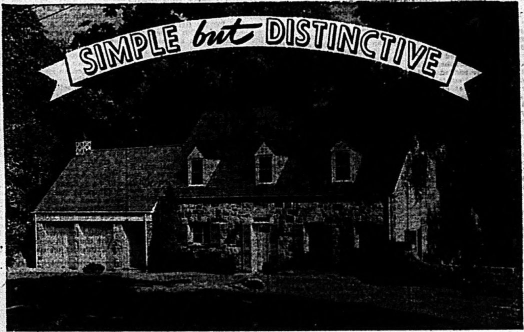
The book, written by Helen Koues and titled "How to Choose, Plan and Build Your Own House," describes itself as "A Complete Guide That Shows The Important Points To Look For When Choosing Your New Home." And that's fair enough. Add to that, the fact that it has a special type of home to offer to suit all sorts of conditions and tastes, and you get an idea of how much is packed between its colorful paper covers.

Whether you want to build your home along traditional lines or go ultra-modern with a pre-fabricated house built on the solar principle, you'll find pictures, complete descriptive material and plans. If you live on the seacoast, in the hills, are planning a vacation cottage or want to remodel an old farmhouse, this book will help you decide a lot of points about which you may be hesitating.

Typical of the material offered are the pictures and plan shown here, illustrating what it calls a "distinctive small house."



AND HERE ARE THE PLANS, showing first and second floor layouts. Note the separate stairway by which the child's room can be reached without going into the front of the house, and the location of the maid's room, giving the family perfect privacy and the maid her own unit.



PLANNED FOR AN AVERAGE modern family, this charming house of stone and wood siding has five bedrooms and four baths. Its pleasing proportions and architectural detail give it that distinction which, says Miss Koues in her book, should characterize every house.

Bird Specialist Will Take to Air In Search of the Whooping Crane

Toronto, March 16 (CP)—Ornithologists are taking to the air in search of the almost extinct whooping crane, the four-foot bird which was common in the Canadian west some 50 years ago.

Dr. Orlin S. Pettingill Jr. of Carlton College, Northfield, Minn., bird specialist and experienced wild-life photographer who found 25 of the birds in plane flights around the coast of Texas this winter, intends to seek them out by plane over Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba this summer.

The great white, heron-like birds are in grave danger of extermination. Despite their extreme wariness where man is concerned, their conspicuousness on the plains, plus accessibility brought about in the main by the automobile, have caused their slaughter to the danger point by thoughtless hunters and others. And this, despite the fact that the whooping crane is protected by game laws throughout the year.

It is thought that the once-familiar deep and sonorous trumpeting of the whooping crane, is created by the bird's enormous windpipe, the complicated convolutions of which are enclosed in the breast bone.

Found all across Canada from the international border to the tree limits of the north, the cheerful chickadee is on hand throughout the year conducting a tireless insect patrol.

If this bird has any fault at all, it has not yet been learned. Percy A. Taverner, eminent Canadian ornithologist, says that through the coldest, most blustery, the wettest or rawest of days, the chickadee will be "chickadeeing" as heartily and happily as on the sunniest of days.

A discouraged chickadee has yet to be found. But they have a new song as spring approaches. It has but two whistled notes, the first high and prolonged; the second two tones lower, and more brief. Two notes only, but they are full of joy and hope. Their unmistakable message is "Spring's here!"

How do the reindeer, lemmings, and other cold climate animals of the semi-polar wilderness in Canada and other northern lands, manage to survive the incredibly cold temperatures—what do they find to eat?

They survive and flourish because lichens, the pioneer plants of all land-grown vegetables, can withstand the bitterest sub-zero drop in temperature. One species, reindeer moss, is the chief item in the winter food of such animals. Without it, animal life in the sub-Arctic zone could not remain alive a single winter.

Lichens, though some of them are extremely tiny and insignificant to the unaided eye, are plants of amazing delicacy of structure; of great beauty. It is because of their hardiness and pioneering qualities that vegetation of the green earth of today became a reality. Lichens made the foothold, often the very soil, in which plants of later era flourish.

Without the humble lichens, much of the earth's crust today would be as bare and lifeless as it was in those geologic ages millions of years ago, when plant life began its first colonization of the crude and rocky desolation.

Open Post-Graduate School of Surgery

Melbourne, Australia (CP) — The Royal Australian College of Surgeons will establish the first post-graduate school of surgery in the southern hemisphere at Prince Henry's Hospital here soon.

Medical graduates who previously desired to qualify for a Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons had to go abroad. The school will also incorporate "refresher" courses for country and suburban practitioners.

Doctors are not the only ones who will benefit. The patients at the hospital will receive treatment from the skill of masters of surgery. The school will be launched as soon as additional accommodation can be provided.

New York, March 16. (CP)—Men who have rarely been fans of modern furniture will welcome the new modern pieces which are designed for comfort as well as beauty. Now those gentlemen who have found modern furniture too stiff and formal will find that they can curl up on a modern sofa or snooze in a modern chair without getting a kink in the neck or back.

New interesting modern pieces designed by Lester Tichy, of New York, who won first prize in House and Garden's architectural awards, are the last word in comfort and compactness.

Arm chairs are more rounded in design so that instead of the arms of the chair being completely out of line as rests for weary elbows, they are curved and comfortable. The furniture of natural birch is upholstered in cotton and mohair and the back and seat are slanted so that the maximum comfort of a chair is achieved. You can sit in these new modern chairs without aching to get out of them.

Mr. Tichy's tea-table which could adequately serve as a game table has a swivel section underneath which swings out to hold cigarette accessories; glasses, extra china or playing cards. And these are curved as are all the tables in this modern house. Sofa and coffee tables are low.

Desk and cabinets in Mr. Tichy's new modern house hang from the wall though all of them can be similarly used with legs. He found however, that the desk without legs gives more leg room and the light which hangs from the gooseneck wall bracket gives more work space.

Cabinets are decorative and of white lacquered birch with perforated wood fronts. They can generously house the radio, phonograph, record albums, magazines, and all the little things that normally clutter up a house. The sideboard has a clapboard arrangement for drawers eliminating hardware.

OF GOOD COLONIAL design is the doorway, with its quaint fanlight. Full length shutters on each side match those on the windows of the house.

MRS. TRYGVE LIE PLANS NEW LIFE

London, March 16. —(CP) — Hjordis Lie is all set to start a new life in the United States with only one room of furniture left from her old life in Norway.

A modest, motherly woman of medium height with brown hair and a quick, pleasant smile, the wife of the United Nations' secretary general explained that she had lost everything to the Germans during the War.

In addition to some paintings and a few family photographs, all she has been able to recover is enough typical Norwegian furniture to furnish one living room. If it is at all possible, she said she would like to take that furniture —birch covered with blue —to the States.

"It would be nice," she said a little wistfully, "to have for our private life one Norwegian room we brought with us."

Like many women in the Allied countries, Mrs. Lie has experienced what war can mean to women. With her husband and two elder daughters, she fled from the Germans to Sweden, then north to Finmark and by small boat down along the coast to Tromso, where she arrived just in time to catch the last cruiser which took the Norwegian king and government to exile in Britain.

The eldest of her three daughters, a former Norwegian A.T.S. girl, lost her husband in the Norwegian Air Force. Her youngest daughter had to be left in Norway and for four and a half years the anxious mother never saw her and received only four smuggled letters.

Day Never Came

"We left her with our cousin one day," said Mrs. Lie quietly, "and said we would come to fetch her tomorrow. But that tomorrow never came."

Mrs. Lie met her husband at grammar school in Grorud, a suburb of Oslo, when he was 12 and she was eight.

"We were married when I was 21," she said, and then laughed. "But there were other beaux before that."

Her eldest daughter, Sissel, 23, attended the San Francisco Conference with her father, but neither Mrs. Lie, Guri, 20, who acts as her secretary, or Mette, 14, have been to the States. They have, however, been to Russia, Germany, France, Holland, Belgium, Sweden and Finland with the U.N.O. secretary general.

Mrs. Lie expressed pleasure at hearing the permanent headquarters committee had recommended New York instead of San Francisco as an interim site because "it will be four days closer to come back to Norway for short visits."

One thing she is a little worried about is getting a cook.

"Perhaps in Brooklyn I can get a Norwegian cook," she said. "For our private life I would like someone who can cook Norwegian dishes."

SCULPTRESS GETS STRANGE REQUEST

New York (CP)—Blond Alice Littig Siems who has modelled from life hundreds of portrait heads, says her biggest problem as a sculptress has been the wives of distinguished sitters. They want flattering portraits of their husbands, and some have asked that she put hair on baldheads.

Mrs. Siems, who graduated in art from the University of Iowa deserted painting to be her own master in a more abstract and less photographic field. But she finds some customers stillput in the last word.

Scorning the usual head armature upon which sculptors model their plaster, Mrs. Siems merely puts a paper bag on a milk bottle and quickly blocks in the basic head shape. She works fast but so conscientiously that she needs six sittings.

Because she does not require her models to remain absolutely static, she has good luck with children. In fact she finds that they usually start experimenting with the clay themselves and don't want to be taken away from the studio.

For a portrait modelled in plaster and cast in bronze, she charges several thousand dollars though she hesitates to talk about it. She feels any talk of price is in bad taste and apt to put too much emphasis on the commercial side of her art. Yet when a customer who can well afford to pay a reasonable price starts quibbling, she usually gives up the commission. It's a sure sign, she says, that he'll never like what she does.

DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

Bobcaygeon Kinsmen Defeat Trenton Fliers in Second Game Of Playdowns at Oshawa 10-4

Winners Unleash Potent Scoring Punch and Looked Best When Shorthanded

Flashing very potent scoring punch, Bobcaygeon "Kinsmen" shellacked Trenton, R. C. A. F. "Fliers" to the tune of 10-4 in Oshawa Friday night to even up the best-of-three OHA Intermediate "B" series at one game apiece. The airmen won the first game in Lindsay Wednesday night by a 4-3 margin.

It was Bobcaygeon all the way last night. They could do nothing wrong and the "Fliers" could do nothing right. To rub it in, they received three penalties during the game and scored each time they were shorthanded. The "Fliers", on the other hand, had a bad night. It was the worst game they have played all season. Their attack was very weak and it looked at times as if they had never played together before. Several times they missed golden opportunities to score by just lacking the finishing touches to their plays.

The "Kinsmen" were paced by their big defenceman, Percy Nichols. He was the spearhead of their attack, scoring three goals as well as playing a standout game on the rearguard.

The "Kinsmen" presented a well-oiled, smooth-skating hockey machine and at no time was the issue in doubt. Their plays were a picture to watch and they will take a lot of beating before they hang up their gear for the season.

2-0 Behind First Period

The first period opened with Bobcaygeon pressing hard and only fine work on the part of Robertson kept them from scoring in the first minute of the game. They took the lead at the 2.30 mark when Percy Nichols took a pass from Ernie Nichols to open the scoring. At 8.06, "Irv" Nichols made it 2-0 after taking a nice pass from Newman to end the scoring for a period in which Trenton were completely outplayed.

The second session was played at a lightning-fast clip throughout. At 6.11, while Percy Nichols was serving a penalty for "cross-checking", Newman made it 3-0 on a pass from Richardson.

Trenton finally scored at 8.16, Bob Murray being the marksman after taking a nice pass from Dan Cowley. At the 11.10 mark, Bobcaygeon added another on a rather soft goal. Lee took a pass from Allan and let one drive from just inside the blue line. Robertson's view was partially blocked on the shot and the puck nestled in the corner of the twine.

Murray Got Second Goal

Trenton came back at 12.20 when Murray got his second goal of the night after taking Merpaw's rebound to rifle one in from close in. Percy Nichols drew a penalty for falling on the puck and once again, the "Kinsmen" displayed their scoring punch when Ernie Nichols combined with Richardson to make it 5-2 at the 17.45 mark. While Nichols was still in the penalty box, Murray combined with Dan Cowley for his third goal for the night to end the scoring for the period. The play was a little more even in this period although Bobcaygeon still had a slight edge in the play.

At 8.05 of the final stanza, 'Bernie' Merpaw drew the airmen to within one goal of the "Kinsmen" after Bob Murray had laid over a nice pass to Merpaw who was in the clear. At 8.32, Percy Nichols picked up his own rebound to score from close in, making it 6-4. Thirty seconds later, Ernie Nichols made it 7-4 after taking a pass from Newman.

Cowley missed a royal chance to score seconds later when he waltzed right in on the Bobcaygeon goal with only the netminder to beat. After he drew him out of position, he flipped it right over the net.

At 13.50, and while Murray was serving a penalty for "slashing", "Irv" Nicholls caught the puck at the Trenton blue line to prevent them from shooting it down the ice, dropped it and rifled a hard one which caught the corner of the net to make the score 8-4.

Score While Shorthanded

At 17.10, Kelley passed the puck out from the corner to Allen who was parked right in front of Robertson. Allen took the pass and blazed it into the rigging and the score was 9-4. Allen was penalized for tripping on the next play and once again, the "Kinsmen" scored while shorthanded, Percy Nichols being the marksman and Ernie Nichols drawing the assist, to finish the scoring for the night.

Just before the end of the game, Trenton pressed hard. At one time, there were three of them parked in front of the 'Caygeon net but they couldn't score. Danny Cowley had the puck right on his stick but seemed to get "buck fever".

For the winners, Percy Nichols was the outstanding man of the ice. The front line of Ernie Nichols, "Irv" Nicholls and Newman looked particularly good while Richardson, along with Percy Nichols, turned in an outstanding performance on the rearguard. Ross Nicholls played well in the nets.

Bob Murray, Johnny Perras, Merpaw and Cowley were the pick of the "Fliers" on the attack while Al Marshall and Middleton looked good on defence. "Robbie" Robertson played well "between the pipes" in spite of the fact that ten goals were scored against him.

The teams will meet in the deciding fixture on Thursday night in Oshawa.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER.

MA AND SIS HELPED, TOO

Alex Geraldi, hockey-scarred veteran of the shinny wars of two decades ago, settled down in his chair, and opined. "The old game ain't what it used to be. The big shots have got it down to a point where it is more or less glorified basketball."

• • •

"Why," the veteran added, warming up to his subject, "in the old days, if we caught an opposing player hanging around our end of the rink waiting for a pass to score, we'd have his hide on the fence in less time that it takes a chorine to land a sugar daddy."

• • •

Geraldi, who comes from a famous Tweed hockey family has long since hung up the stick and skates, but he still retains an active interest in the game. In fact, it is hereditary with the Geraldi boys, there were no less than five of them, and they took to hockey when they were kids like a cut-off toper to a stolen bottle of suds.

• • •

"I remember," the not-so-old-timer recalled, "away back in the twenties, when the family iced a team that met and defeated the then Tweed High School. There were five of us in the family, myself, George, Fred, Mac and Bert. Father was active, too, and he could swing a hockey shillalagh with the best of 'em.

• • •

"Annyhoo," he went on. "Someone got the idea that the Geraldi family should take on the fancied high school team. The idea grew, and consulting the boys, we decided to challenge the young upstarts from the knowledge factory. They accepted and the war was on."

• • •

"We talked it over again and nothing doing but we go through with the idea. Those were the days of seven-man hockey and the only Geraldi males we could muster were myself, four brothers, Frank McGowan, a brother-in-law and dad as manager."

• • •

"Don't worry, son," said my mother, "we won't let you down." And they didn't. Came the night of the game and we nearly fainted when my sister Elsie trotted out in goalkeeper paraphernalia and my mother padded and sweatered, skated out to take her place on the defence. Myself, Frank, George, Fred and Mac went out on the forward lines, with Mac acting as substitute.

• • •

"The game was played in an open-air rink. The night was cold and a big crowd turned out. Mother on the defence spared no punches and those high school forwards knew they were hit when Ma heaved 'em into the boards or skated them off into the corners. Elsie was busier than a one-armed carpenter with the hives and kicked out plenty of rubber."

"Who won?" and Alex, smothered a smile. "You'd never guess. The Geraldi gang hung a neat 3-1 defeat on those knowledge knibblers and Ma and Elsie sat back waiting for contracts from pro hockey squads."

MARMORA CHAMPS

Marmora won the laurels of the Trent Valley Hockey League the other night when its squad defeated Madoc 3-1 in Campbellford in the fourth game of the three-of-five series. Marmora won three games to Madoc's one. The Marmora crew copped, with their victory the new Bata Memorial Trophy, donated by Thomas Bata in memory of his father the late Thomas Bata. The trophy designed by the Benedict-Proctor Company, Trenton, will be presented to the winners at a league banquet scheduled for later in the month.

They're having a real hockey war over in "Spain" according to reports. Picton Vets and Wellington Eskimos are in the throes of the finals for the county championship, and it seems the boys can't agree off the ice any better than when they're battling it out in each other's arenas. It seems that both teams have a game apiece and Thursday night, the third game of the series was schedule for the county town. The "Iron Dukes" from Wellington 'tis reported, kicked over the traces and refused to travel the odd eleven miles. So the game was called off. And there the matter stands.

• • •

It seems there are a flock of city fans trekking eastward tonight to Kingston to see what might be the final game of the Intermediate "A" series between Kingston Locos and Peterborough. The Choo-Choos have won three to the Pete's one and the tussle tonight, if copped by the Limestone City aggregation, will put the series in the bag. There is plenty of keen rivalry between the squads and the Petes with their backs to the wall can be depended upon to make the battle an epic one.

• • •

The Belleville Bruins, still smarting from that defeat dished out to them in the second game of their Junior "B" series playdowns with the Kingston Saints, will be a tough gang to beat down in Kingston on Tuesday night when they meet the Limestone City youngsters in the third and deciding game. Bruin officials said today that they will make efforts to take the Bears to Kingston before Tuesday and get in a spot of practice. There has been a lot of diversified opinion on the Moher penalties dished out by Ref Radley in the second game, and consistent airing of the affair is not helping the Bruins' cause to any extent. The game and its incidents are more or less water under the well-known bridge and all the amateur squawking in the world won't do the kids any good. The Bears might better forget the unfortunate affair and concentrate on winning the Tuesday night battle. At that, so some of the players inform this corner, they are not exactly tickled to death with alleged Belleville fans who go to Kingston and root their lungs out for the Saints. "It just ain't cricket", the boys mean.

AND NO FOOLIN'

Bobby Rosenfeldt, gal sports columnist of the Toronto Telegram takes up the cudgels for Canadian speed skaters in a recent pillar. Bobby takes exception to a sports article in Life Magazine the author of which claims all sorts of things for a current U.S.A. speedskating star. Here's what she says, and we concur:—

I have just finished thumbing an article in Life, copiously illustrated, on Miss Gretchen Merrill of the Skating Club of Boston who recently won the national figure-skating championship. Miss Merrill is a lovely gal, an excellent skater and has a fine record in the United States, but the author is unfair to her.

• • •

Having described her as "without peer," literally without an equal in that sport, the article continues: "Some professional and amateur skating authorities believe her the greatest figure-skater in the world, a claim which she has never had a chance to establish because the war cancelled all international competition."

• • •

Whoa there, Mr. Author! If you dig into the knapsack of your mind just a little, you might recall the North American figure-skating championships held in New York last March. If you're still hazy, let me lift the fog. Barbara Ann Scott, a vivacious little lady from Ottawa (that's in Canada) gave Miss Merrill a chance to establish the claim of "world's best." Well, it's in the records, Mr. Author, that Miss Merrill finished second to Miss Scott . . . . So there!

Baseball Conclave Tomorrow

Central Ontario baseball representatives gather here at the Hume Arena tomorrow afternoon to discuss baseball possibilities and the possible formation of an Eastern Ontario Senior Baseball League. Ken J. Colling, Ontario Baseball Association executive will be here from Kingston and outline potential plans. Representatives from Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa, the Lakeshore League, Picton, Batawa, Trenton Air Station who will be here should make the discussion an interesting and lively one. The moguls are looking forward to Belleville representation, and it behooves some one who is interested in baseball in this city to attend, if only to listen and learn what the other fellows are planning to do.

"Do-or-die" For Belleville Bears Tuesday

It will be "do-or-die" for the Belleville "Bears" when they tangle with Kingston "Saints" in Kingston, Tuesday night in the third and deciding of their best-of-three series for the right to advance into the second round of the O.H.A. Junior "B" playdowns against Scarboro.

The Bears took the first game of the series by a 10-9 score last Monday night but dropped a 7-6 verdict Wednesday night after enjoying a 6-3 lead with less than five minutes to go.

The Bears are having a workout in Kingston on Sunday in preparation for the game and captain "Jerry' Moher feels certain that his team will be making the trip to Oshawa next week to engage Scarboro.

The series thus far has been a real thriller and indications point to a capacity house in Kingston next Tuesday night. It is expected quite a number of Belleville sport fans will be making the trip.

Paper Against Holding Of Olympic Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Criticism has been aroused in Australia over the proposed resumption of the Olympic games at London in 1948. Describing the Olympiad as "nothing but a battle of nations," vice-president of the Amateur Swimming Union of Australia said yesterday at Melbourne he had hoped the games never would be revived.

The Melbourne Herald held to the editorial view that there was sufficient international misunderstanding without reviving the Olympics, pointing out that even in the last Empire games in Sydney a sporting spirit was lacking.

Fred Corcoran, manager of the Pro Golfers Association, said yesterday at Jacksonville, Fla., that Byron Nelson, 1945 ace of the fairways, was not washed up. The Toledo shotmaker only needed a rest. Nelson was entered for the Masters' Tournament at Augusta, Ga., April 4-7.

The American Bowling Congress Tournament started at Buffalo last night with 25,567 entries for the singles, 12,780 doubles and 5,744 five-man teams. Entry fees totalled $399,235 and the prize money amounts to $260,000.

Promoter Bobby North of New York announced yesterday he was linking up with playfair Brown of Toronto to handle boxing shows in Maple Leaf Gardens. North said his first Toronto attraction would be Willie Joyce, South Bend, Ind., negro lightweight.

When Owner Sam Breadon of St. Louis Cardinals sold Walker Cooper to New York Giants for $175,000, it was thought he had a hefty successor as No. 1 catcher in Joe Garagiola. The rookie is not yet out of the army, however, according to word at the club's St. Petersburg training camp yesterday.

Australia has invited an India cricket team to tour the Commonwealth in 1947-48, it was announced at Melbourne yesterday. An Australian eleven will tour South Africa in 1949-50.

After British light-weight champion Freddie Mills stepped out of the R.A.F. yesterday, his manager, Tom Broadribb, made an offer for his fighter to meet world champion Gus Lesnevich of the United States at London in May.

Slugger Roland Gladu of Montreal Royals last season was reported to have arrived in Mexico City yesterday to play for the Nuevo Laredo team. Mexican baseball league officials also stated that Roberto Ortiz, formerly with Washington Senators, has arrived in Mexico.

Benson High of Omaha defeated Norfolk, Neb., 6-4 in a tournament game at Lincoln, Neb., yesterday. It wasn't baseball and it wasn't hockey but it was a regulation basketball match which set a low-scoring record for the annual state high school competitions.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Toronto, March 16. (CP)—From here in on the Memorial Cup trail, according to precedence of many season, turnstiles will click at a merry rate as Toronto's hockey fandom renews evidence of a warm spot for its own—or anybody else's—junior pucksters.

A city where the Allan Cup race usually is relegated to "added attraction" status, crowds of 10,000 are commonplace through the regular season at junior matches. The turnstile tune mounts to crescendo at playoff time as many as 15,000 or more push their way through.

Last year a total of 65,000 fans paid to watch Toronto St. Michael's outlast Moose Jaw in a a five-game series—a per-game average of some 13,000. With the city's lone Allen Cup aspirant, Toronto Staffords, long since eliminated and the Maple Leafs closing their N.H.L. season this weekend, officials predict this average may be eclipsed this year.

This interest has resulted in almost annual criticisms from other centres for one of its offshoots—a tendency of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to hold both Eastern Canada finals and the Dominion championships where they will draw the most.

W. A. Hewitt, O.H.A. secretary, points out that there are several hotbeds of Junior Hockey in the West, "notably Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton," but as in smaller Ontario centres, the capacity of their rinks is limited.

In connection with the criticism, Hewitt points out that the O.H.A. was instrumental in organizing the Dominion playoffs and for the first two years—1919 and 1920—financed them until the C.A.H.A. took over the next year.

This year, with the field narrowing down in playoffs, Toronto St. Michael's as defending champions present a strong team that their supporters term a "cinch" to be in there at the finish.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

BY JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP)—It may be a little early to talk tennis, but some sports writers are bemoaning Britain's lack of a champion of "supreme skill and that elusive quality known as personality" to see lawn tennis on its feet again this year.

Bruce Harris, writing in The Evening Standard, recalled that after the last war Suzanne Lenglen burst upon Wimbledon as a girl of 20 and writes "her all-conquering play, very 'French' temperament, pleated skirt and bandeau gave her a following like a star of opera...She set feminine fashions. The best advertisement tennis ever had."

Harris says she hasn't a successor—not even the Americans who are coming to Britain this summer.

Things aren't shapping up any too well for Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club. Last year the club lost £1,187 ($5,342) and membership dwindled from 3,400 in 1939 to 839. A minimum of 4,500 members is required to keep the club on its feet.

Some Scottish football clubs had the idea of a "super" league, but it lasted, in imagination, just three weeks.

After a meeting of 12 leading Scottish clubs, it was decided the Scots would resume next season with two leagues with the pre-war promotion and relegation operating. The first division will consist of the 16 clubs originally suggested for the "super" league and the second division will have 14 clubs.

Royal Ascot on pre-war lines will be restored in June. All buildings at the racetrack have been freed and the stands emptied of army stores.

The King and Queen, who will entertain a house party at Windsor Castle for a week, will drive up the course in semi-state with the Princesses on each of the three days of the meeting—June 18, 19 and 20. Officials are preparing for an Ascot "on the coronation year scale" and admission to the royal enclosure will be on pre-war lines.

Capt. Sir Malcolm Campbell has been granted the honorary rank of major, it is announced in the London Gazette, Sir Malcolm Britain's speed king, commanded an army motorcycle unit when the war started.

He served in an armored division and was also chief of a military police squad. In 1943 he was transferred to the infantry general list.

A record total of 52 entries reached the acceptance stage for the Lincolnshire Handicap April 3, but one well-known owner, Miss Dorothy Paget will not have an entry. She has withdrawn Sun Storm, Prince Floriomonde, Distel and Speckled Band.

Previous "high" entry was when Squadron Castle won the 1939 Lincoln from 37 others.

NEW SUPERFORTRESS

Dayton, O., March 16 — (AP)— A new Superfortress — the B-50 —with more power and better flight performance than the B-29 was announced by the Air Technical Service Command at Wright Field. An experimental model has been tested since 1945 under the supervision of the A.T.S.C. and the Pratt and Whitney aircraft division of United Aircraft Corporation. A production version now is being built by Boeing Aircraft at Seattle.

Briefs From Training Camps

Miami Beach, Fla., March 16—(AP) — Even near-sighted spectators will be able to see the numbers on the uniforms of Philadelphia Phillies this season. As a step to help fans follow the game, manager Ben Chapman has ordered new outfits for the Phillies bearing 12-inch numerals instead of the old six inchers.

Pasadena, Calif. — Manager Jimmy Dykes of Chicago White Sox will undergo an emergency stomach operation this week and will be confined to hospital for at least three weeks.

Miami Beach — "There is no two ways about it," said president Bob Carpenter, Jr., of Philadelphia Phillies today. We'll have to get a catcher." Carpenter's remark followed an exhibition game in which first-string backstop Andy Seminick fumbled several plays.

Anaheim, Calif — Manager Luke Sewell let it be known today his pitching staff carries St. Louis Browns' chief hopes in the 1946 pennant race. Of the 23 moundsmen in training camp, he listed the most likely starters as southpaw Al Hollingsworth and right handers Denny Galehouse, Bob Muncrief, Jack Kramer, Nelson Potter, Steve Sundra and Tex Shirley.

Orlando, Fla. — Washington Senators have run into a batch of minor injuries and illness, retarding their spring conditioning. The first team in Havana is suffering from sore feet all around due to the hard playing field and outfielder Jeff Heath of Fort William, Ont., may be idle for a week or so.

Clearwater, Fla. — Allie Reynolds, Red Embree and Steve Gromek, three of the big four on the Cleveland pitching staff, are scheduled to work today against St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg.

Lakeland, Flt. — Beaten in four straight exhibitions, Detroit Tigers are hoping pitchers Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout can whip Cincinnati here today.

Los Angeles — Bill Nicholson and Andy Pafko socked homers for Chicago Cubs yesterday to help defeat the Browns, 8-7.

Yearling Sales
An exciting gamble . . . trying to pick the yearling that will come galloping in ahead at the finish. For instance Alsab (illustrated here) sold for $700 in the Saratoga sales, then became one of the finest racers, earning more than $350,000 and winning many of the greatest stakes.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 937

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

To learn bridge, Horse Sense supplies you with the simplest possible rules. To remember any department of bidding or play, there is an easy guide that clicks.

In the opening lead department, the most preferred lead is an honor card. That's an ace lead to show less than three cards or any other honor to show a sequence group. They are known as tops.

Second choice of leads is a fourth best in a suit or four cards or more. That's from a long suit that has no top card lead. They are known as longies.

Third and last choice of leads is from a suit that is not long; a suit of three cards or less; known as shorts. The lead from such is the highest card.

Thus, you get a natural guide for remembering the order of choice of leads. Simply remember a basic wardrobe ensemble. It is tops, longies, shorts; the order of preference of leads.

If you have a desirable honor card lead from tops, select that lead first. With no such lead from the tops group, look for a fourth best lead from a longie. With neither such, lead highest of a short.

Thus, if you lead a tops, you may have a longie or a short. If a short, you deny having a desirable longie or top.

It is your opening lead against five diamonds from this hand:

♠Q 9 7 5 3
♥9 5
♦Q 8 4
♣9 6 2

Your lead is the five of spades, your fourth best in a longie. You thus admit that you have no sequence top to lead from in any suit. Your second choice lead denies having a first choice lead.

Suppose there was some reason why you should not lead from that long spade suit. In that case, you would have led from a short.

Adapt a Horse Sense guide with pardonable pride.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 16 (AP) — If you'll step in a little closer, we'll talk about "O.S.S." the first picture which a movie studio wants to keep a secret.

Whether or not it stays a secret when it is released remains to be seen, but until that time Paramount has clamped down security regulations which would make the atomic bomb secrecy seem like common gossip. "O.S.S." stands for the hush-hush United States wartime agency that worked behind enemy lines—office of strategic services.

But patriotism is not the reason for the close-lipped attitude. You see, Warners and 20th-Fox are also making O.S.S. films and the word about plot and action might get around. I tried to cross-examine Geraldine Fitzgerald about the role she plays in the picture.

"I can't tell you whether I am a good or bad character," she said. She couldn't even tell me what nationality she played or where the story was laid.

"I had to swear to secrecy before I signed for the role," she explained. "Before I signed, I couldn't even see the script. Parts of it were read to me over the phone. Now Alan Ladd and I are the only players who have complete scripts."

Charlie Ruggles may go to England to make movies with his producing brother, Wesley . . . Ann Rutherford needs no outside coaching as a department store model in "Inside Job." Her husband is vice-president of a large chain of them . . . British Peggy Cummins who got the lead in "Forever Amber", says a prayer before every important test or scene.

Major League Waiver Lists Soon to Pile Up

By The Canadian Press

With the 30-day trial period for ex-servicemen terminating shortly in the pre-season baseball training activities, it was predicted at Tampa, Fla., yesterday that major-league waiver lists would soon be piling up. Some players on the national defence list would be optioned to minor leagues at the same pay providing they can be waived out of the majors at the $7,500 price. But the club owners were said to be scanning the lists to pick up promising rookies at the nominal waiver rate.

Brooklyn Dodgers and their farm clubs have a swarm of former servicemen in their training school, Sandford, Fla., and rival clubs are scouting the prospects, it was reported.

The $50,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita today is likely to have a field of 10 starters, among which is the favored Texas Sandman, fifth in the $100,000 Santa Anita a week ago. First three horses in the latter feature, War Knight, First Fiddle and Snow Boots, have not been entered today.

The opening-round lead of the $10,000 Jacksonville, Fla., Open yesterday was grabbed by Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., with an eight-under-par 64. Three strokes off were Ed Oliver of Tauton, Mass., and Chick Harbert of Detroit.

Volley-ball was invented in 1896 by William Morgan, physical director at Holyhoke, Mass. The 50th anniversary of the game will see a Y.M.C.A. international tourney at Chicago May 9-11, with teams of the United States, Canada and Mexico competing.

Boat crews of Oxford and Cambridge re-appeared in the Thames yesterday to prepare for their traditional race March 30 after a lapse of seven years.

Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the U.S. Pro Golfers Association, yesterday found a word for it. He said the word "Bogey" was incorrect in describing a one-over-par score and forthwith coined the term "bat" to meet the long-delayed need.

Willie Joyce, Negro lightweight of Gary, Ind., got a bit of a surprise last night in Madison Square Garden, New York, when a newcomer, Danny Kapilow of Brooklyn, held him to a 10-round draw in a scrap which grossed $38,187.

TITLE MAY GO TO S. AMERICA

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, March 16 (AP) — A major United States tennis championship was in danger of going to South America today for the first time since 1937, and the second ranking United States player won't be around to prevent it.

It will fall to blond Don McNeill to keep the national indoor singles title in the United States when he tangles with Pancho Segura of Ecuador in the finals of the first board-court tournament in five years at the Seventh Regiment Armory this afternoon.

McNeill, who took several titles out of South America during the war, blasted his way into the finals last night by trouncing Alejo Russell of Buenos Aires, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

At the same time, Segura scored the major upset of the season by dumping Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del., second ranking player of the United States and top-seeded entrant here, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Neither McNeill nor Segura has lost a set in this tournament. If Segura wins today he will be the first South American to take a major United States title since Anita Lizana of Chile defeated Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland in the women's finals in 1937.

In Manhattan

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, March 16 (CP) — Big news of this week along Broadway these days—is the announcement that London's old Vic Theatre Company is to be imported for 48 performances between May 6 and June 15.

The group headed by Lawrence Ollivier and Ralph Richardson, which made repertory history in Britain throughout and after the blitz, will present both parts of Shakespeare's 'Henry IV', Shaw's "Arms And The Man" and a double bill including Yeats' version of Sophocles' "Oedipus" and Sheridan's "The Critic."

The 50-player troup which will carry its own scenery and costumes for the brief engagement will—if every house is full—just about meet expenses for its sponsors, Theatre incorporated. Already the clamor for tickets would indicate a succession of sellouts, but in this case Theatre Incorporated can't extend the run as it is doing for its revival of "Pygmalion," starring London's Gertrude Lawrence and Toronto's Raymond Massey.

The old Vic Company must leave New York early in the summer to start preparations for next season when it is to merge with the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre to form a National Theatre Company.

Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion who turned from pugilism to painting, now seeks another outlet for his artistic urge and will appear in the cast of "Walk Hard," opening here March 26.. The tradition that ticket-takers in all local Shubert houses mutilate the ducats while clad in the stiffest of boiler shirts and dinner jackets has been shattered by shortages.

LEAFS, RANGERS AT END OF TRAIL THIS WEEKEND

Toronto Fans Will Get Last Glimpse of Two Stalwarts, Schriner and Carr

(By The Canadian Press)

They finish the schedule tonight and Sunday, and that's the end for the Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup winners a year ago, and for the New York Rangers. The other teams in the National Hockey League — Montreal, Boston, Chicago and Detroit, go into the play-offs for the Stanley Cup.

Tonight Canadiens, holding an impregnable lead in the standing, entertain the third-place Chicago Black Hawks. Detroit plays at Toronto. On Sunday the Canadiens will be at New York, Toronto at Detroit and Chicago at Boston.

At the moment Montreal holds a five-point lead over Boston, with Chicago a point back and Detroit another three points under in fourth place. The three teams back of Montreal can shuffle the placings thoroughly in the week-end tussles.

Leafs in their last home game of the season tonight will give the Toronto fans perhaps their last glimpse of two hockey stalwarts — Dave (Sweeney) Schriner and Lorne Carr.

Schriner and Carr both insist they're hanging up their skates after the Leafs' games tonight and Sunday.

Conn Smythe, manager of the Leafs, said presentations will be made to both Schriner and Carr in recognition of their 200-goal totals in N.H.L. play. Carr reached that mark some time ago; Schriner made it only a few nights ago.

And, now the pressure's off, the Leafs will show Detroit an old forward line — Schriner, Carr and Taylor. Billy Taylor will be put at centre with Schriner and Carr on the wings. It was this line that broke the hearts of Detroit in 1941-42 when Detroit won three straight and Leafs came back to win four in a row.

CHICAGO CUBS WILL BE STRONGER THAN LAST YEAR

Mound Corps Headed by Hank Borowy Whose 11 Wins Meant Title Last Season

By RUSS NEWLAND

Los Angeles, March 16 — (AP) —Chicago Cubs, defending National League champions, will field a more formidable club this year than last through the return of top players from military service.

Charley Grimm is too cagey to stick out his chin with the prediction he is bossing a repeater but his confidence speaks for itself.

The mound corps is headed by Hank Borowy whose 11 wins meant the title for the Cubs. Reliable Claude Passeau's arm is O. K. again. He won 17 last year. Hank Wyse, top hurler with 22 victories, and ageing southpaw Ray Prim are ready.

Clyde McCullough and Ben Warren, back from the wars, apparently have displaced holdovers Mickey Livingston, Paul Gillespie and Dewey Williams for the choice catching berths.

The infield is strictly 1945 vintage with league leading hitter (.355) and "most valuable" Phil Cavarretta at first; Don Johnson, second; Lenny Merullo, short, and Stan Hack (.323), third. Bob Sturgeon, impressive in training, could displace Merullo at short.

U. S. SERGEANT SHOT

Frankfurt, March 16 — (AP)— A United States Army sergeant was shot to death in his billet at Heddernheim Thursday and military police, finding a 20-year-old German girl standing over him with his own gun, said they were investigating the possibility of murder in a lovers' quarrel.

CALENDAR KIND

Dublin, March 16 — (CP) — The calendar has been kind to many an Irishman this coming St. Patrick's Day. The law says saloons must close on Ireland's national festival except when it falls on a Sunday — and isn't tomorrow Sunday?

HAMILTON TIGERS WIN ALL-ONTARIO SENIOR PLAYOFF

Defeat McIntyre Mines 5-0 and Copper Cliff Captures Junior Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers won the Ontario senior hockey title last night by defeating McIntyre Miners 5-0 at Timmins, winning the all-Ontario senior playoff by three games to one in a best-of-five series.

At the same time Copper Cliff Redmen captured the Northern O.H.A. junior title by beating Porcupine 5-1 and taking a best-of-five northern final by three games to one.

Copper Cliff won their way into the all-Ontario final against either Toronto St. Michaels or Oshawa Generals. Which of these two teams will win the O.H.A. junior "A" title is the $64 question. They play the third game at Toronto this afternoon, and so far each have won one in the best-of-seven series.

Copper Cliff and Porcupine put on a ding-dong battle that was not reflected in the 5-1 score. Copper Cliff had a 2-0 lead going into the third frame, on goals by Prete and Smrke, but the last period produced fireworks.

Pirie of Porcupine and Smrke swung at each other and it was minutes before the officials could get play started. Altogether two major penalties, a misconduct and two minors were handed out.

Flynn, Cooney and Heale got the other Copper Cliff goals and Mesich scored the lone Porcupine tally.

The senior game at Timmins was a whitewash for the McIntyre team which had surprised Hamilton fans by winning the second game of the series at Hamilton. Mason and Shillington each scored two goals for Tigers last night, and Robertson got the other. Four of the Hamilton goals were rifled past Brownlee in the McIntyre nets in the first period.

"DINA CASHMAN"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 6

Vere had told her his history in odd erratic bursts and snatches. He was the only son of divorced parents; his father was in New York with a second wife; his mother was Mrs. Cutter Holland of Burlingame.

His mother had remarried since the divorce but after another marital failure had resumed the name by which she had long been known. Vere had had two years at the State University and then had gone on to Yale to prepare for the law school; he had taken a leave of absence for the fall quarter and was now being coached to re-enter after Christmas. He had wanted to be an aviator, but his eyes hadn't been quite up to the mark.

Quite evidently her talk had fascinated him; she had known it. She had been quite aware that his dancing eyes never left her face when she was talking, that any details she could give him of Dooley or Donny or the crazy finances of the Cashman family were deliciously entertaining to him in themselves and were all the more entertaining when retailed in her own way, with her eyes and color and laughter to give them point.

But whatever he derived from her was as nothing to what his talk meant to her. It was talk of a world whose existence she knew only from the movies but with which she had never dreamed of making contact.

Doors opened into Bagdad itself when Vere casually mentioned polo, mentioned trips to Europe, mentioned what the butler said, or spoke of his mother's chauffeur. Vere went to dances and danced with the debutantes; Dina could find his name in the papers among the lists the next day. He did not care much for the prospect of these dances; he explained that they never really got underway until midnight, and he got terribly sleepy, but after you once got there it was kind of fun.

They had known each other about three weeks when Vere had asked her to come up to Paradise Valley on a skiing trip. Dina had naturally objected that she couldn't ski. Oh, that was easy, nobody else could either; all she had to do was fall around in the snow. But she hadn't any of the right clothes!

Easy too. All she neded was a sweater and a skirt; she had a coat, of course. Yes, she had this coat—the coat with the mangy fur collar. Well, that would do fine. He'd manage the sweater. He'd borrow one of his sister's; Mimi was away in Honolulu, and her room must be full of stuff.

And he had actually brought to the store for her inspection a day or two later a suitcase containing two pleated plaid skirts and two woolen sweaters. The clothing had decided Dina, but she had hesitated for a few more questions.

"Someone—someone married goes along?"

"Oh, sure. Half of them are married! We all have dinner together at the inn and break up early. Some of the mothers play bridge, but I don't. Our crowd gets up early to climb up Bald Hill; we get a two good hours in before breakfast. Breakfast about nine, waffles and thick bacon And then we all go out until about three, and come in for lunch, and loaf and bathe and start for home."

"It sounds such fun!"

"It's the greatest fun in the world."

"But who would I be with, Vere? I mean—my father'd skin me if anything was queer about it. I mean—suppose I was one of the other girls—who'd I be with?"

"You mean what woman?"

"Not—not to be up there with a lot of boys," the girl had submitted doubtfully.

"Well, you see, here's how it is. Mrs. Thomas is going and Mrs. Waite, and I don't know who else. Freddy Lippincott says — for instance, 'Mrs. Waite, this is Miss Watson from Baltimore, who's staying with Mother; which room will she have? Mrs. Waite says, 'Howdy-do, Barbara, you are in with Margot.' Still, if any funny business goes on at night," Vere had added, "those married girls don't interfere."

"Don't?" Her laugh had held a scandalized note.

"No. It's none of their business. They're playing bridge all night, anyway, and asleep all morning. But they're there," Vere had finished with an illuminating grin that had made Dina laugh again. "That's all the mothers want to know!"

"And does it?" she had asked seriously. "I mean—they don't do anything wrong?"

"Well, I guess some of the fellers and girls sort of have that in mind when they go," the boy had answered after a moment's thought.

"But the thing is, if — anyway, here's what my mother's always said about Mimi," he interrupted himself to explain, as one suddenly enlightened, "if you can trust a girl, she's safe. And if you can't she isn't. And where she goes, or what you let her do or don't let her do, doesn't much matter."

"And when would we go?"

"This week I can't get off until Saturday afternoon. But that's all right; we get up there for dinner."

"I'll ask about it at home." But she had already made up her mind that there would be no asking about it; she would tell them instead. She was 19, after all; she was no longer a child.

Rolled in luxurious rugs, she had sat beside Vere on the long drive, and to them it had been far too short. Then had come the bewildering joyful experience of taking possession, with one Martha Wilson, of a room in a beautiful little brown cabin — the most luxurious room and the most comfortable cabin Dina had ever seen, even if they were high up in the snowy Sierras.

Soft lights, soft Indian rugs, a fireplace in which logs were burning, a bathroom whose towels were downy and warm and the size eof small sheets, perfumed soaps, fat white pillows, hot water; nothing imaginable was lacking.

It was ecstasy, after the long cold, cramping drive, to stretch and relax to waste a lazy, sleepy half-hour about the fire before separating for baths, to rejoin each other in time for the 8 o'clock dinner, fresh and rested and completely in love with the adventure.

Vere was of course next to her at dinner; they were late in finding their places at a great round table at which several of the pretty young women, Dina was relieved to discover, were indeed married and so might well be counted as chaperons.

She was casually introduced, no questions were asked, and although an evident state of intimacy existed between most of the other members of the party, no special attempt was made to draw her into it or evince the slightest responsibility for her.

But as the atmosphere was one of great freedom Dina was not made uneasy, and then the long meal, interspersed by dances accompanied by the radio, was over she was quite willing to end the day at quarter to ten.

"Where are you?" asked a handsome woman of perhaps 30, who had been mentioned as "Lollie Reynolds."

"We're in the cottage at the end of the row," Martha Wilson answered as she lighted a cigarette. Everything seemed quite regular to Dina; she had never been here before and she did not know many of the persons about her, but everyone seemed to be taking the situation comfortably and for granted.

She had on a blue lace dress borrowed from Frances Tack. It was not new but, being lace, it fell into soft lines and was conspicuous neither for smartness nor shabbiness.

And with it she wore a white wooly coat which Vere had brought along today; the coat was not new either; it was comfortably inconspicuous among a score of wooly coats, and Dina felt it deliciously warm and protective.

"Your sister Mimi had a coat almost identically like that, Vere," a girl said at dinner.

"Seems to me she did,". Vere agreed, undisturbed.

"Only hers hadn't any pockets" the girl added after a scrutiny.

"Don't remember," Vere said.

Dina knew that she should not yawn, and she patted a yawn back with her hand. She saw Mrs. Reynolds look at her sharply, and as Martha Wilson had disappeared a few minutes previously with the clear statement that she was dead on her feet and making for bed, Dina smiled at Vere and, to cover a sudden uncomfortable rush of embarrassment, proposed she follow Martha.

She had done something wrong she knew, something that made Mrs. Reynolds look at her with that sudden keeness and that insufferable hint of a smile, and she wanted to get away before any further cloud could mar this thrilling evening.

She and Vere walked out under the cold clear November sky, and Vere looked up at the mountain peaks all about them and predicted that there would be swell skiing tomorrow.

"I wish I could ski!" Dina lamented.

"Well, you try it. And after you've tried it awhile we'll go up to the toboggans. That's swell. All you do is sit down and have me hang onto you."

They reached their own small cabin; Dina had gathered from the general conversation at dinner that in most of the cottages either girls or men had been quartered. In this one, which possessed four bedrooms, however, two quite young married couples had been placed, Vere, and Martha Wilson's young man, whose name was Travers Porter, Martha, and herself. The place was quite dark.

They went in, and Vere piled wood on the fire in the sitting room and it blazed up gloriously. He and Dina sat down before it, Vere pushing two low armchairs together, so that with his left hand he could hold Dina's right.

It was an exquisite hour, so perfect she wished it might have gone on forever, Vere was serious now; she had seldom seen him so; he turned to smile to her now and then, stared into the fire.

Sleepiness was overcoming her; the warmth of the room, the comfort of her deep chair, the fatigue of the long trip in cold fresh mountain air were too much.

When the honeymooning little Peatties came in, complaining over the luck that had given the Wendells a grand slam on that last rubber, Dina was ready to rise and to escape into her unbelievably comfortable bedroom. Bill and Laura Peattie dropped down to chat with Vere and have a last drink; Dina could hear the waiter's voice and the clink of glasses as she got into bed.

She was still awake, watching the angles of white moonlight on the floor, awed by the unearthly quiet of the great snowy mountains outside, when her door quietly opened.

Her eyes went to it in quick panic; it did not sound like Martha, who always carried a great rush and noise and scent of cigarettes wherever she went.

It was Vere, in wrapper and slippers. He came quietly in and sat on the bed and covered her hand with his hand. Travers Porter had come in after Vere had gone to bed, he reported, to say that Martha Wilson was staying with the Hochhsimer girls at the hotel.

NO MONEY FOR MAMA

Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski, who has told her socialite mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, to go find a job. Gloria intends to use her wealth to give unfortunate children some of the childhood happiness she herself missed, she says. As a result her mother has been offered a job by Hollywood in "It Happened on Fifth Avenue."

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding her nervous book called Relaxation, the Key to Happiness, and I said, Darn it all, I've got a splinter in my finger and it's getting werse instead of better

Well how would you expect it to get if you dont have it taken out for land sakes? ma said, and I said, I thought I'd just trust it a while and see if it would werk itself out.

It'll werk its way in, more likely, ma said. I never saw anybody so afraid of a little splinter, except perhaps your father. I wish you were old enough to reed this book, then you'd realize that if you just stood there perfectly relaxed and let me take it out for you while you remained calm and detatched, you wouldn't feel a single pang of pane, she said, and I said, Oh no, I wouldn't feel a single pang, I'd just feel a dubble triple pang.

There you go, getting yourself all tensed up in your mind and your mussels before I ever start, ma said. Dont you realize it's not the splinter that panes you, it's your emotions? she said, and I said, No mam, it's this splinter, I can feel it doing it.

That's only what you think, and that's just why you're all tied up with nervous tension, ma said. Now here, I've got a nice sharp needle, she said.

And she took a hold of my hand, saying, Now all you've got to do is relax sensibly and tell yourself fermly that it's not going to hert in the slightest.

Well jimminy, ma, with all my experience having splinters, why should I tell myself sutch a lie? I said, and ma said, Your experience has been with nervous tension, that's what I'm trying to tell you, now try to relax all over as if your mussels didn't even exist.

Maybe if I kept my finger in the jar of vaseline for a hour, the splinter would relax itself out, I said, and ma said, There, it's out now, and you never even knew it.

And she showed it to me to prove it, and I said, Aw heck, ma, you went and talked me out of it.

The result being I felt half mad and 3 quarters lucky.

MADE 128 QUILTS DURING WAR YEARS

Sheho, Sask., March 16—(CP)—Mrs. H. L. P. Russell of Sheho believes she can rightly lay claim to being the queen of Saskatchewan's quilters.

During the war years, Mrs. Russell was instrumental in fashioning 128 double-bed size quilts for shipment overseas. Now she is finishing eight more which will be presented to British war brides who will be taking up residence in the Sheho district.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE POLICE COMMISSION

BY-LAW NUMBER A

Relating to Owners And Drivers Of Cars And Other Vehicles Regularly Used For Hire

PASSED the 23rd. day of February A.D. 1946.

WHEREAS Boards of Commissioners of Police of Cities are authorized by Statute to pass By-Laws for licensing, regulating and governing teamsters, carters, draymen, owners and drivers of cabs, busses, motor and other vehicles regularly used for hire within the City and for establishing the rates or fares to be charged by the owners or drivers of such vehicles for the conveyance of goods or passengers, either wholly within the City or to any other point not more than three miles beyond its limits and for providing for and enforcing payment of such rates or fares and for revoking and cancelling the license;

THEREFORE the Board of Commissioners of Police for the City of Belleville hereby enacts as follows:

(a) "Owner" shall mean any person licensed to operate an automobile livery in the City of Belleville.

The Chief of Police shall have supervision over all persons licensed under this By-Law and over all cabs together with the equipment used by them.

The owner of any Cab shall not use or operate the same or allow the same to be used or operated without a license hereinafter set forth, which said license may be in form "B" to this By-Law annexed or in some like form and such owner shall prior to obtaining his license pay such fee thereof to the Treasurer of the City of Belleville as may be prescribed by the Board from time to time.

Before the owner's license shall be issued, the applicant therefor shall file with the Treasurer of the City of Belleville a certificate of a Policy of Insurance issued by a Company authorized to issue Indemnity Insurance Policies in the Province of Ontario, for a period of time which extends to or beyond the expiry of the current license year, insuring the applicant to the amount of $10,000.00 against liability for damages resulting from injury or death occasioned by any accident arising out of the operations of the Cab in respect of which a license is applied for, with a maximum of $5,000.00 for bodily injuries to or death of any one person arising out of any one accident including passenger hazard for the above amounts, and to the amount of $1,000.00 covering legal liability for damage to property of others. Every such policy shall be kept in force by such owner during the period for which such license issued to him, or any renewal thereof, is in effect and should he fail to renew the same from time to time and pay the premiums due thereon, the Chief of Police may, upon notice to him, cancel such license. Every authorized insurer insuring the applicant and holders of licenses issued by the Treasurer on the authority of the Board shall at least fifteen (15) days prior to the cancellation of any policy held by the holder of any license issued under this By-Law notify the Treasurer of the said City by registered mail of its intention to cancel the said policy, and provisions to this effect shall be inserted in the policy by the Company issuing same.

Every Owner of one or more Cabs required to be licensed under this By-Law shall take out a separate license for each cab, the fee for such license shall be $10.00. Such license for carrying passengers shall not authorize the holder thereof to carry for hire, gain or reward, or hope thereof, any goods or chattels other than the bona fide luggage of the passengers being carried by him, but the mere carrying of a few small parcels or chattels when requested by a passenger shall not be deemed a breach of this section.

$650,000 Addition to Be Constructed By Corbin Lock Company of Canada

Their Majesties And Daughters To Visit S.A.

London, March 16 (CP)—The Royal family will visit the Union of South Africa early next year, it was announced Thursday night at Buckingham Palace.

It will be the first time a reigning sovereign has visited South Africa since the Union was formed in 1909.

The heiress-presumptive, Princess Elizabeth, and her sister, Princess Margaret, will accompany the King and Queen.

It will be the Royal family's first trip abroad since the King and Queen visited Canada and the United States in the Spring of 1939.

Prime Minister Smuts extended the invitation.

The Royal party hopes to reach Captown some time in February.

For the Princesses it will be their first tour outside the United Kingdom.

It has not yet been settled whether the Royal party will fly or make the journey by sea.

The King and Queen visited East Africa as Duke and Duchess of York at the end of 1924 and the beginning of 1925, when they did some big-game shooting and visited Uganda.

Mayor Ayrhart Of Campbellford Buys New Plane

Mayor Ayrhart, of Campbellford, has purchased a 16 m.m. movie projector, which will be available for service clubs or schools and similar organizations, for educational purposes. It is his intention to use the machine in connection with the present publicity campaign, for which he will make films of the town and its surroundings. The mayor has also retained the services of a local boy as his private pilot, and expects delivery this summer of a four-seated amphibian plane, which he ordered during his recent trip to the United States.

About 200 More Employees Will Be Added—Construction to Start Soon

Plans for immediate construction of a new factory addition totalling 52,000 square feet of floor space and which with necessary equipment will cost an estimated $650,000, have been announced by Mr. L. E. McLean, manager of the Corbin Lock Company of Canada, Ltd.

Tenders for construction of the new addition have already been called and company officials hope to get construction started within six weeks' time. The new addition will make Corbins one of the largest factories in Belleville and will call for an additional personnel of about 200, bringing total factory employees to around 450 workers.

One Storey Construction.

Plans for the new addition, which will take the form of several buildings to the south and to the west of the present factory, are by W. L. Sommerville, Toronto architect. Construction will be of one storey and of brick and structural steel, with felt and gravel roof.

Principal addition will be a southward extension of the present building along Coleman Street giving the plant a frontage of 442 feet, while the western elevation will extend about 300 feet.

Manufacturers of finishing hardware, cabinet locks, padlocks and door closers, Corbins came to Belleville fifteen years ago when the firm had a personnel of 110 employees.

Today, vastly increased foreign exports, together with demands of the firm's Canadian business, have necessitated expansion of the Belleville plant, according to Mr. McLean. Plans call for export to all foreign countries, whereas prior to the war, exports were made to the British Empire only.

Wide Range of Work.

As an indication of the wide range of work done at the Corbin plant, the manager stated that no less than 18,000 different parts are made at the Belleville plant. This calls for the same number of patterns or dies. Some locks have as many as 23 different parts.

Full consideration to the comforts of workers has been made in planning the factory expansion, the buildings to be well lighted with continuous sash on the exterior walls and will also be well ventilated. Heating will be by unit heaters. A well-equipped hospital with a full-time nurse in charge is included to take care of possible injuries to workers. Office space will be enlarged to run 85 feet south on Coleman Street.

Mass Production Method.

The one-storey construction of the new addition has been planned to promote best possible efficiency in plant operation, according to the manager. Raw materials will be taken in at one section of the plant and in typical mass production method will emerge from the other end of the plant in the finished state ready for shipping.

To the west of the present plant will be the new iron foundry, the storage buildings, japanning and pattern rooms, while in the proposed new addition to the south products will be polished and finished. This particular part of the plant will also look after packing and shipping, as well as stores and receiving.

General manager of the Belleville Corbin plant is Mr. L. E. McLean, while K. N. Gerow is works' manager, and Jack M. Wilson, sales manager. All three of the above men are directors of the Belleville firm.

KILLER WHALES COME ASHORE

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16 — (AP) — Twenty-seven killer whales, weighing up to two tons each, came ashore Thursday on the beaches south of here. Fishermen were preparing to pull the fish off the beach into deep water, fearing that if the whales died where they lay stranded, sharks might be attracted. Seafarers surmised one of the big fish was wounded and came inshore to escape attack from sharks, and that the others followed.

Full Independence For India if Wanted Attlee Tells Commons

London, March 16 — (CP) — Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons Friday that if India chooses full independence from Britain "in our view she has the right to do so."

"It will be for us to help to make the transition as free and easy as possible," he declared during debate on the mission of three cabinet members who will go to India shortly to take up again the problem of self-government for India.

But, he said, "I hope the Indian people may elect to remain within the British Commonwealth.

"If she does so elect," he added, "it must be by her own free will, for the British Commonwealth and Empire is not bound together by chains of external compulsion."

Mr. Attlee said that Britain, in making a final treaty with India, was not "going to hold out anything to our own advantage that would be to the disadvantage of India."

Great Advantages Within Commonwealth.

He said he thought India would "find great advantages" within the Commonwealth and warned that "no great nation can stand alone today."

The House earlier advanced to third reading a bill repealing emergency powers of the British Central Government in India providing for an all-Indian council to advise the Viceroy, Viscount Wavell. There was little discussion.

The bill, already passed by the House of Lords, also grants wider legislative powers to the Indian legislature, which can modify laws passed by proclamation during the war emergency.

The greater legislative powers are to become effective April 1 and to extend for one year, with authority to the British government to extend them an additional year by proclamation.

It was learned on good authority that Merkle was taken out of the city by train yesterday and returned to the camp at Hansen, Ont.

B. C. Food Survey Shows Not Enough Vegetables Eaten

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 16 (CP)—A 10-year-old in Vancouver who painstakingly filled out a chart showing all the foods he ate in a week may not know it, but he is helping to revolutionize the eating habits of a country.

A unique nutritional survey, devised from two years' study of the best features of similar surveys in the United States and Britain has just been completed in the British Columbia centres of Vancouver, Nanaimo, Vernon, Prince George and Abbotsford. Proved successful in B.C., these survey methods now are expected to be used to help raise health standards in other provinces.

The methods are the brain-children of Dr. L. B. Pett chief of the Health and Welfare Department's Nutrition Division, and Dr. F. W. Hanley, the division's medical officer.

Designed to help find those sections of the population needing improved nutrition, there will probably be work in the areas covered by it for some years through instruction of individuals examined and through pre-natal, well-baby and child clinics to improve health standards, Dr. Pett told The Canadian Press.

Of the 1,800 school children between six and 10 who were examined, the investigating team tried to pick out approximately 100 in each school in order to get a representative cross - section.

Before the six-week intensive campaign began, much preliminary work was done by the B.C. provincial board of health, the Metropolitan Health Unit of Vancouver and the Red Cross.

Menu Tabled

Workers of these agencies got the co-operation of each child's parents to keep a chart of his menu for a week. The child himself filled out a weekly record of the kinds of food he ate, at mealtime and in snacks, but did not keep track of the quantity, since it was felt this might be an unreliable record at best.

Results of the charts were tabulated and measured by the yardstick of Canada's Food Rules. In general there was a shortage of vegetables other than potatoes revealed and whole-grain cereals and cod liver oil were also found to be eaten in insufficient quantities.

After this work was done the Nutrition Division's team arrived to do the main work of the survey on the invitation of the B.C. Health Department. It was headed by Dr. Hanley for the first three weeks and by Dr. Pett for the latter half and also included a nurse, Miss E. M. Perkins, and a laboratory specialist, Miss P. MacPhee(both of Edmonton.

The children got their parents' permission for a medical examination and their height and weight was noted. The investigators paid special attention to the parts of the body most likely to show signs of malnutrition—the skin, tongue, gums, eyes, lips, skeletal system, teeth and posture.

If the child was coughing they took a special look at his chest and throat and made other tests if they were needed.

A few drops of blood were taken from the finger tip of each child and this sample was analyzed for iron. Then the blood serum was packed on dry ice and flown to Ottawa where it was further analyzed for vitamin C and protein content.

Plans for surveys of Canadian nutritional levels were drawn up before the war by Canadian Council on Nutrition but had to be shelved until hostilities ended.

'44 Plot Aimed At New Government To Sue for Peace

New York Times Dispatch Relates Course of Events

New York, March 18 —(CP)—The New York Times said today in a Berlin dispatch that the July, 1944, attempt on Hitler's life was a conspiracy which included not only some of Germany's leading men, such as prominent army and navy officers, but also important diplomats and leading Roman Catholic and Protestant churchmen.

"Continually the plotters, who were frequently in disagreement with each other about methods and objectives, sought and established contact with Allied emissaries, including former British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, through German and British clergymen and Mrs. Alexandra Kollontay, former Soviet envoy to Sweden," the dispatch said.

"But they were inevitably told that no commitments would be made in advance and they were left to crystallize their own determination to overthrow their own government.

Nazi Overthrow and Peace Aims.

"The plot had as its ultimate objective the overthrow of the Nazi regime with the arrest of all principal leaders and the establishment of a new government that would sue for immediate peace."

The newspaper listed what it said was the composition of the proposed German peace government to succeed the Nazi regime. The government was to include members of the National, Social Democrat and Catholic Centrist parties, as well as ministers drawn from non-Nazi military personnel to fill army, navy and defence portfolios.

Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, former mayor of Leipzig, pre-war German chief of staff, was to have been chief of state in the new government with Karl Goerdeir as chancellor. Field Marshal Gen. Erwin von Witzleben, one-time commander of the German army in the west, was to have been commander of the armed forces.

The dispatch said that the plot to remove Hitler began in 1938 when the Fuehrer removed Field Marshal Gen. Werner Von Blomberg and Col.-Gen. Werner Von Fritsch from their positions as war minister and army commander, respectively, following a quarrel.

The dispatch went on to relate the chain of incidents in which German military leaders fell from grace with the Fuehrer and joined the conspirators.

"Even Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel, first great Nazi war leader, gave up his erstwhile hero role with Hitler and entered the putschist ranks after a violent interview with the Fuehrer July 9, 1944, when Hitler refused Marshal Rommel's demands to evacuate Normandy immediately," the dispatch said.

Within a week Rommel was wounded by a fighter plane and later he was removed from hospital by Gestapo agents who allowed him to poison himself to avoid formal trial.

"Aside from the army itself, one of the most important participating groups in the plot was the military intelligence division of the Supreme Command. Through its subsidiary agencies the intelligence section entered into savage rivalry with Heinrich Himmler when the latter sought to place all secret intelligence under the Gestapo bureaus.

"The chief of the intelligence staff, Admiral (Wilhelm) Canaris—who, contrary to all evidence that he is dead, is believed by some well-informed persons to be still alive and in hiding—and the head of the central bureau, Maj. Gen. Hans Oster, were immensely important to the conspiracy.

False Credentials for Plotters' Trip

"Gen. Oster was in charge of intelligence and provided numerous false credentials for the plotters' trips around Germany and into foreign capitals.

"In this way one of the arliest plans in the Putsch was worked out. This was for the simultaneous renunciation by all German generals on the eastern front of their allegiance to Hitler.

"Baron (Albrecht) Von Kessel said that he had been simultaneously instructed to seek contact with Allied emissaries at the Vatican at this time to arrange for their support but they remained firm in the insistence upon the Casablanca terms of unconditional surrender.

"Quiet But Useful Part"

"...certain clerics also took a quiet but useful part, among them were Michel Cardinal von Faulhaber of Munich and Konrad Cardinal von Preysing of Berlin, then Bishop of Berlin, Bishop Theophil Wurm of Wuerttenberg, as were a few members of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits)...

"The most important intellectual group in the opposition centred about the faculty in Freiburg University, who had strong idealistic and moral grounds for opposition to Nazism...

First Hoped Not Necessary to Assassinate Hitler.

"... At first it was hoped that it would not be necessary to assassinate Hitler, but that he and the Nazi leaders could be arrested and tried.

"... However, after (Gestapo Chief) Himmler began to suspect the intelligence section and following the generals' refusal at the last minute to co-operate in the plan to renounce allegiance to Hitler, a political attempt was agreed upon especially to release officers from their personal oath of allegiance to Hitler.

"The first attempt at assassination came in the Spring of 1943 and was arranged by Lt.-Gen. Joachim Von Treskow and Col. von Schlaberndorff. Col. von Schlaberndorff, who is one of the few important plotters still alive, said that he had put a time bomb in a briefcase in Hitler's aircraft when he had visited the Fuehrer at his eastern front headquarters. The mechanism failed to detonate, Col. von Schlaberndorff said, and he managed to get the briefcase out of the plane before it was discovered.

"Count Klaus von Stauffenberg was assigned to his political murder and he planned to leave a similar bomb briefcase in a room where Hitler had scheduled a conference with his generals in December, 1943. The conference, however, was cancelled at the last minute.

Too Many Nazis Absent

"In July, 1944, at least three more attempts, all of exactly the same nature, were tried out. For some curious reason Count von Stauffenberg carried an explosive briefcase to conferences with the

RUSSIAN TROOPS SAID WITHDRAWING FROM E. GERMANY

Dispatch to London Paper Says Step Began In Middle of December Last Year

London, March 18 — (AP) — Russian troops were reported being withdrawn from eastern Germany, which they have occupied since VE-day.

The report came from the Berlin correspondent of the London Sunday Observer, who quoted "well informed Allied and German sources" as saying that 75 per cent of the original Russian occupation force already had been withdrawn and that the remainder would be replaced soon by a small force of Soviet military police.

The dispatch said the withdrawal began in mid-December and originally was scheduled to be completed about March 5, but had been delayed by transportation difficulties. All large German estates on which Soviet troops have been quartered are being transferred to German communities and will be divided among landless peasants, the correspondent said.

Changes in Complex Working Rules Asked by Union

By JAMES R. BACON

Chicago, March 18 (AP) — Proposals of two railroad brotherhoods for changes in 45 complex working rules are being considered by an emergency fact-finding board now conducting public hearings here.

The Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Engineers contend the revisions would raise salaries, improve working conditions and adjust "inequities" in the wage structure.

But the railroads say the rule changes asked by the brotherhoods would pile $2,500,000,000 or more on top of their annual costs.

The railroads estimated that a basic wage increase, demanded as one of the rules changes asked by the brotherhoods, would cost $920,000,000, with an additional $1,500,000,000 cost if the other 44 proposed changes were granted.

Faced with the union's threat to strike in support of the demands, the railroads offered 29 counter-proposals.

The trainmen also are presenting rule revision demands of the dining car stewards and yardmasters. The railroads argue that the stewards' proposals would result in tripling present pay of those employees, and that the yardmasters—"representatives of management—would be reduced to the status of call boys."

Combination of Anaesthetics Permits Surgeons to Use Electric Knife

By RENNIE TAYLOR

San Francisco, March 18—(AP)—A combination of anaesthetics which for the first time permits surgeons to use the electric knife in chest operations was announced today by Dr. Phyllis Harroun and Dr. F. E. Beckert of the University of California Medical School.

The combination consists of nitrous oxide or laughing gas commonly used in tooth extraction, and curare, a powerful poison originally utilized by South American Indians to make their arrow tips more deadly.

Reporting in Anaesthesia, a medical journal, Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert explained that the laughing gas puts the patient to sleep and the curare paralyzes the breathing muscles, which must be immobilized during chest surgery.

Even more important, neither curare nor nitrous oxide are explosive. That eliminates the danger that the tiny sparks from the electric knife will cause an explosion in the lungs of the patient.

Ordinary surgical anaesthetics such as ether and cyclopropane are potent enough to put the patient to sleep and paralyze chest muscles, but they are highly explosive. There have been instances in which accidental sparks in operating rooms have caused explosions with fatal results.

The electric knife, as distinguished from the surgeon's scalpel, is advantageous in chest operations because the stream of little sparks not only cuts thru the flesh but also cauterizes the wound and seals off many of the smaller veins and arteries which it severs. This helps to prevent excessive bleeding.

There are several other non-explosive anaesthetics but they are generally held to be unsuitable for chest surgery, especially where an operation is prolonged, Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert said.

In most operations the chest muscles are permitted to continue functioning so that the patient receives enough air naturally to sustain respiration. When the chest muscles are immobilized, a breathing bag attached to the mouth performs this job.

Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert said the curare - nitrous oxide combinations had been used in 68 operations with good results.

Nazis Never Considered Offensive Action Against The Western Hemisphere

—Goering

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, March 18 — (AP) —Hermann Goering testified before the international military tribunal today that the Nazis never considered offensive action against the Western Hemisphere.

The No. 1 defendant at the war crimes trial here, taking the witness stand in his own defence for the fifth day, also asserted that Nazi efforts to make an economic penetration in South America were unavailing in the face of competition by the United States and Britain.

"Threatening the American continent was never spoken of," Goering declared, adding:

"Even if Germany had completely dominated Europe her small fleet and lack of bombers would have forbade any aggressive action against the United States."

To questions on prosecution charges that the Nazis conspired to gain domination of Europe, Goering replied that "conspiracy may be variously interpreted."

"In the sense that it would mean men would plot secretly and in the dark about secret plans—that, of course, never took place," he said.

"In the sense that the Fuehrer had comprehensive conferences and out of them decided on certain things — you can mention conspiracy only in that connection."

Apparently striving, as in preceding days on the witness stand, to shoulder as much responsibility as possible for the Nazi's policies, Goering declared that "no one else worked with the Fuehrer as closely as I. No one else had the influence I had. Only the Fuehrer and myself could conspire. No one else was concerned."

He explained that he referred only to the period before his relations with Hitler deteriorated, in the closing days of the war.

Goering defended the Hitler dictatorship as "the only possible form for government" for the Reich in 1933 and boasted:

"We demonstrated that Germany could be raised in a short time from miserable poverty to prosperity."

Goering relaxed to smile once when Justice Robert Jackson of the United States tried to cut short his exhaustive reply to a question concerning the commitment of political opponents to concentration camps.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence of Britain presiding, intervened to admonish Jackson that the tribunal wanted to hear a complete answer.

UNRRA WILL NOT OPERATE BEYOND END OF THIS YEAR

Formal Statement Issued by Tyler Wood, Acting U. S. Delegate

By ALEX SINGLETON

Atlantic City, March 18 (AP) —The United States served firm notice today on delegates from 47 countries that it did not contemplate that the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration should continue beyond the end of this year in Europe and the middle of 1947 in Asia.

In a formal statement issued by Tyler Wood, United States acting delegate, Tyler Wood the American State Department flatly declared that "of course, no one has ever contended that U. N. R. R. A. alone could solve all the economic ills of a post-war world or that large scale programs of relief could be continued indefinitely."

Then it added:

"Our expectation has been that with the funds now pledged to U.N.R.R.A. by the contributing governments, the receiving countries would find it possible by the maximum development and use of their own resources, and with the assistance of the international fund and bank which have just been organized, to carry on without further U. N. R. R. A. aid."

The statement was issued less than 48 hours after Director General Herbert Lehman had declared that U.N.R.R.A.'s functions would have to continue beyond the coming deadlines for their expiration.

It appeared to spike at the outset a growing drive in this seaside resort city to perpetuate the life of the organization, rather than push through a plan to turn the functions over to the newly-born United Nations organization.

Delegates remained vague on just how U. N. R. R. A.'s operations would be financed after the expiration date. This appeared to be one of the chief problems confronting the council session in coming days. At present, the United States carries the major part of the load, approximately 75 per cent.

Out of Mr. Wood's conference came the first official word that Russia was planning to sell France 600,000 tons of grain, and the disclosure that liberty ships already have been diverted to the Black Sea to handle the first shipments.

BRITISH LIBERALS OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR REVIVAL

Fundamental Point of View and Distinctive Policy Stressed

London, March 18 — (Reuters) —The once-great Liberal party — producer of such outstanding political figures as Ewart Gladstone, Herbert Asquith, and David Lloyd George — has opened a revival campaign aimed at moving it out of the eclipse into which it entered after the First Great War.

"Coats off for the future," is the title of a pamphlet issued by the party's reconstruction committee which is at once an inquest on the party's almost complete failure in the general election last year and a blueprint for the future. It called for the evangelical fervor of a crusade.

Party strength in the House of Commons was whittled to 12 in last summer's general election.

Its eight authors — candidates at the last election headed by Noel F. Newsome, party chairman — reached these conclusions:

"Organization alone will not bring revival. We must show beyond doubt that we are a party with a fundamental point of view of our own and distinctive policy based on an understanding of the spiritual and human aspect of every problem.

"We must convince the people that we are utterly free from the merely materialistic approach to life. We must show that we have advanced beyond other parties in realizing that men cannot get happiness through economic and social measures alone, but must bring to the solution of their problems moral integrity, human understanding and superhuman faith."

If the Liberal party could accomplish this, the pamphlet said, "we shall be swept forward on a tremendous wave of public reaction against the false prophets of materialism."

WHEAT-SAVING PROGRAM PLANNED BY DOMINION

Aimed at Maintaining Canadian Shipments At a Maximum For Next Four Years

Ottawa, March 18 (CP)— Canada has undertaken a new, nine-point program aimed at maintaining Canadian food shipments to starving peoples throughout the world at a maximum during the next four years.

The government's plan, announced Sunday night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, will encourage over-all food production on "the most scientific basis," speed deliveries to countries where food is most needed, and effect economies in domestic consumption of wheat.

Direct Appeal

A direct appeal to Canadians which stressed the importance even of small increases in Canada's wheat exports, Mr. King said a pound of flour would keep one person alive for a day and the food wasted by many Canadian families "would keep a child alive in some other part of the world."

Following closely the Throne Speech, which dealt at length with the world food shortage and said "grave disorders, endangering peace itself," must be anticipated if food needs were not met, the announcement made these proposals:

1. Wheat available for domestic milling is being reduced by 10 per cent on the basis of 1945 purchases.

2. Wheat for distilling purposes is being reduced by 50 per cent compared with the amount used in 1945.

3. A campaign is being taken to encourage saving by consumers of wheat products and to encourage home gardens.

4. Increased quantities of oats and No. 4 wheat are to be made available for export if possible.

5 Farmers are being urged to plan production to obtain a maximum food yield over the next four years.

6. Special arrangements are being made to encourage immediate marketing of wheat stores on farms.

7. Reduction of inventories of wheat for export have been established.

9. Modification of regulations affecting bulk shipments of flour and feed is planned.

Mr. King said the reduction in flour production should produce an extra 2,500,000 bushels for export in the next six months without causing any serious domestic shortages. The step had been taken as preferable to any increase in the extraction rate in the milling of flour.

It is not believed the reduction of wheat for distilling purposes will have any effect on liquor supplies for several years.

Encouragement to farmers to make further deliveries was promised, with "certain special arrangements in respect of wheat deliveries" to be announced at an early date. It is believed substantial quantities of wheat are being kept in storage on the farms.

Composer of "Beer Barrel Polka" Finds Life Good in Czech Village

By GUY BETTANY

Vrane, Czechoslovakia, March 18 — (Reuters) — The composer of one of the world's greatest song hits, "The Beer Barrel Polka" or "Roll Out the Barrel," has been found in this sheltered little Czechoslovak village near Prague.

He runs its inn and conducts its band and said contentedly, when reminded that $80,000 in royalties and performing rights awaits him in Britain:

"What shall I do with it? I have my music, my wife, my children and my inn. Money and fame — those are good, indeed. But I shall not let them interfere with all this."

Then Jaromir Vejvoda, whose name the world has long been seeking to acclaim, drew a beer.

Vejvoda confessed the melody of his rousing song — popular with virtually every Canadian soldier — originally was the lament of a lover — the outpourings of Jaromir's own "broken" heart when rejected, 12 years ago, by the first girl of his choice. The composer said: "It took four years, after writing this tune, to find a publisher."

Eventually it became popular in many countries. In the United States, a recording band drummer casually suggested 'Beer Barrel Polka' as a title. That has been its American title ever since.

Lew Brown replaced the old love lament with one about beer.

The first Jaromir knew of the success of his tune was in 1942 when he switched on his concealed radio extremely low. The penalty for listening to the BBC, if found by the Germans, was death. The strains of an orchestra came through.

"Darling," he cried to his wife. "They are playing my polka."

R. Rossow, U.S. Official, Detained At Red Army Post

Russia Does not Want Issue Taken Before U.N.O. Council

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 18 — (AP) —With a single week remaining until the United Nations Organization Security Council meets, the Iranian crisis neared the breaking point today.

A steady stream of reports of new difficulties and sensational incidents in the strife-ridden Middle Eastern country brought these latest top developments:

1. The United States vice consulate at Tabriz, Robert Rossow, was detained half an hour at a Red Army post last Friday. This was three days after the United States told the world that instead of pulling out of Iran Soviet forces were moving through Tabriz deeper into that country. The Russians expressed regret, and the State Department here said it attaches no significance to the incident.

2. While little of what is happening in Tehran squeezes thru the tight lid of secrecy, one report officially forwarded here came to light. It said the Russian diplomat in Tehran had warned Premier Ahmed Qavam that Russia would consider it an unfriendly act for the Iranian government to reopen its case before the United Nations security council. There is no evidence, however, that the Iranian premier in any way has modified his earlier word to the United States government that Iran would present its case.

3. United States officials' best estimate of the possibilities at the moment is that the Russians may try either to break Qavam's resistance or pull off a coup d'etat to put a new government in power. The immediate Soviet objective would be to get official Iranian authority for the presence of Red Army troops in Iran. Those troops were supposed to have been withdrawn March 2, and the fact that they still remain is the key point in the entire Iranian crisis.

The tenor of American-Russian relations was set meanwhile by State Secretary Byrnes with his assurance on the one hand that the American government does not intend to enter into a military alliance with Britain and his insistence on the other that the United States must act immediately to maintain and strengthen its armed forces.

To do this he called for peacetime military training.

By JOHN A. PARRIS

London, March 18 —(AP)— Iranian embassy officials in London said today that Iran was prepared to negotiate oil concessions with Russia only on condition that Soviet troops leave the country.

An embassy spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that Premier Ahmed Qavam now is negotiating with the Russians in Tehran. He said it was "highly improbable" in view of an Iranian law prohibiting oil talks until foreign troops were evacuated.

"We do not believe that the premier would dare to breach this law," he added.

The spokesman added, however, that since parliament has been dissolved, Qavam is the virtual ruler of the country, but declared the premier would have to answer to the new parliament when it is elected.

Embassy officials said there were no Iranian objections to Russia having oil concessions in northern Iran.

Both Britain and the United States are understood to hold the view that they should be given an opportunity to negotiate oil concessions on an equal basis with Russia or any other power.

BODY RECOVERED

Sault Ste. Marie, March 18 —(CP)— The body of two-year-old Robert Watt, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Watt, was recovered late last night frob under thin ice in a creek in the extreme east end of the city.

Missing since noon Sunday when the infant's older brothers and sisters started out on a half-mile walk, the youngster is believed to have strayed from the group. City police were called late in the afternoon and assisted neighbors in dragging the creek.

A number of rowboats patrolled the river and the search was almost given up for the night when the body was recovered several hundred yards down the swollen, fast flowing creek.

Perform Autopsy On Male Torso Found in Gully

Hamilton, March 18 (CP) — An autopsy will be performed today on an unidentified male torso found Saturday by schoolchildren in a gully seven miles southeast of this city, while a search continues for the head, arms and legs which had been dismembered in an amateurish way from the body.

The underwear-covered torso had two bullet wounds in the back and finding of a blood-stained shirt, which also contained two holes in the back, near the scene spurred search for other clues to what police believe may have been a gang-slaying.

The torso was discovered some 30 feet from the top of a brow on the mountain road, under a moss-covered ledge. The position indicated it had been placed there in an attempt at concealment, and not tossed hurriedly from a passing vehicle.

Police are probing possibility the body might be that of Roco Perri, self-styled "King of the Bootleggers," who disappeared from his Hamilton district haunts nearly two years ago. Three other Hamilton men also have been reported missing in the last two years.

The body was not decomposed and police believe that although cold weather might have preserved it, it could not have been placed there earlier than two or three months ago.

Until discovery of the shirt, which was buttoned and apparently had been pulled from the body after dismemberment, it was considered likely the man had been killed many miles away.

Additional Signs Of Spring Seen

Additional signs that spring is definitely on the way were seen in two city departments over the weekend when grass fires were reported to the city fire departments and the city sweeper appeared on the streets for the first time this season.

On Saturday the first grass fire alarm of the season was answered by the fire department with another being reported on Sunday. Two chimney fires were also answered by the department.

City police were advised by the public works department to check for all-night parking on the main thoroughfares of the city as the street sweeper would be out. City hall officials reported this was not the earliest that the streets had dried sufficiently for operation of the sweeper and added the sweeper had occasionally worked as early as January.

Heavy Influx Of Tourists To District Expected

Present indications point to one of the heaviest influxes of tourists in years in Hastings County, if inquiries arriving at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce can be judged a criterion.

Daily, the mails bring in requests from all parts of the United States and Canada, asking for information regarding holiday spots, resorts, hotels, cabins etc.

A number of requests have also arrived at the Chamber asking for information regarding parcels of land in the county which would be suitable for the erection of summer resorts. Some have stated that the writers are desirous of constructing resorts on the Trent Road, if property is available.

It is expected that a number of resorts that were closed because of shortage of help, will be reopened this year.

SPY SUSPECT RELEASED ON BAIL

Miss Mary Willsher, one of the accused in the espionage probe, is photographed as she leaves the Ottawa police station after posting $1,500 bail. She has been remanded with other suspects until Wednesday. She is being escorted by her lawyer, R. K. Laishley, and a friend.

Peter B. Smith, Young Pianist, Wins Nettleton Trophy and Orme Scholarship in Ottawa Festival

Peter B. Smith, son of Rev. Arthur Smith and Mrs. Smith, St. Thomas' Rectory, Bridge Street east, took a prominent part in the recent Musical Festival in Ottawa, where he is preparing for a career as a pianist. He won the Nettleton Trophy and the Orme Scholarship; in competition for the latter award he played Concerto No. 2 by Rachmaninoff.

In referring to the festival the Ottawa Journal said: "More than 1400 persons packed Glebe Collegiate Auditorium last night and hundreds of others were unable to obtain seats, to see the "Ottawa Music Festival Association presentation, "Highlights of the Festival", featuring stars of the Festival, and to witness the awarding of scholarships of a total value of $1,100.00, to Peter B. Smith, Ottawa's brilliant seventeen-year-old pianist, to Miss Marjorie Purvis, talented leader in ladies' vocal solo classes, and to twenty-one others. Fifteen trophies were also presented. Winners of the principal scholarships, each of the value of $100.00, were Peter B. Smith, the Orme Scholarship, and Miss Marjorie Purvis, the Lindsay Scholarship.

Peter Smith was not scheduled to appear on the program of "Highlights of the Festival", as no accompanist was available to play the orchestral background to the concerto which won him the high commendation of the adjudicators. But when numerous requests were received for his appearance, the association altered the program. The promising young pianist played a selection of his own choice, Fantasy in F. Minor, and won loud acclaim from the audience.

Blaze in Turret of St. Andrew's Church Extinguished With Difficulty

Fire presumably catching from an overheated smokestack rising from the southwest corner of the structure caused damage to a turret on St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, and occasioned firemen an anxious time before the flames were extinguished.

A hole of approximately six square feet in area was burned in the turret roof 75 feet above the street level with the city pumper and booster having to be brought into play to get water on the fire.

Lack of an aerial ladder also hampered firemen in their efforts to combat the blaze as a combination of extension and roof ladders was necessary for firemen to reach the seat of the fire. Shingles and roof sheathing had to be torn out to completely extinguish the flames with water from the booster tank.

Church officials did not consider the fire caused any appreciable damage as it was confined to the turret and did not reach the roof of the church proper, but intimated repairs would undoubtedly be costly owing to amount of scaffolding needed to reach the damaged part of the building.

Held for Theft Of Narcotics From Doctor

Chance identification in the city led to the arrest in Campbellford late Saturday night of Thomas S. Cook, 46, of Warkworth, on charges of breaking and entering with theft, involving theft of a medical bag and quantity of narcotics from the office of Dr. J. J. Robertson early Friday morning.

When arrested by Inspector Clair Hayes of the local police force, Cook police said had in his possession a hypodermic syringe, while the medical bag was later recovered at a cabin where the accused had been reported staying earlier in the week. Cook has been remanded on the above charge and will appear in police court here.

According to police Cook is charged with entering the office of Dr. Robertson after midnight Thursday and of stealing the medical bag and narcotics. The theft was reported Friday morning.

Said known to police as a drug addict, Cook had been seen in the city late in the week and further investigations by Inspector Hayes revealed the man had gone to Campbellford. Late Saturday Inspector Hayes went to Campbellford and apprehended Cook on the street of that town.

'44 PLOT AIMED

Fuehrer on July 6, 12 and 16 but each time the apparatus was not detonated because too many other important Nazis were absent from the meetings.

"However, by uly 20 it became obvious to the conspirators' own general staff that action must be taken regardless of circumstances.

"It was evidence that the Gestapo had learned of the plot and it was decided to murder him at Rastenburg.

". . . the plot went wrong from the start. The bomb failed to kill Hitler because the conference scene was changed from the bunker to a wooden hut, whose thin roof blew off absorbing much of the force of the blast. Hitler at that moment had quit his chair to examine a map.

Hitler Blasted Through Door

"He was blasted through the door of the hut and injured to a decree that for the rest of his life he was partly deaf and saomewhat paralyzed in the left arm and leg. He was able, however, to meet Benito Mussolini's special train a few hours later and that night to announce on the radio: 'Providence has preserved me from all harm.'

"Four of the assembled group with Hitler were killed: Gen. Schmundt, Gen. Korten, Col. Brandt and one of the Fuehrer's doubles, a man named Berger."

The dispatch concludes with an account of the arrests of those of the conspirators who did not succeed in committing suicide, their summary court bartial and execution.

Home and School Club Requests Physical Training Instructor For Elementary City Schools

Members of the Queen Mary Home and School Association at their last regular meeting unanimously endorsed a resolution suggesting to the local board of education that the employment of a full time physical training instructor be considered for the elementary schools in the city.

The matter of a physical training instructor for local public schools was introduced to association members by the president, Mrs. Harry Croll who stressed the importance of physical fitness in developing children's minds.

Planned recreation governed by a physical instructor would include baseball, football, basketball and other games would help produce physical fitness in a manner to the liking of pupils and would also teach co-operation. Continued following school hours, planned recreation would assist in keeping children's spare time occupied and would assist in combatting juvenile delinquency.

Work Outlined

The work of a school nurse was outlined to members by Mrs Watt who stated that by regular inspection the troubles which tend to retard a pupil's ability to study, were detected and brought to the attention of the family doctor. Also by regular inspection, the spreading of possible communicable diseases could be prevented.

Medical Health Officer Dr. G. S. Cronk outlined the work of health units which are being established across the province, stating that nine units already had been formed. He stated that Belleville and district was much in need of a health unit which comprizes a full time health officer and a staff of nurses. Dr. Cronk stated there was far too much work to be done to be accomplished by a part time health officer.

Value of Education

The value of education in the care and feeding of children was stressed by the speaker, and also the use of vaxine and toxoid as immunization against communicable disease. Serious sickness might be prevented if parents were educated to recognize symptoms of various diseases thus permitting early calling of the physician.

Completing the program a very interesting moving picture of outdoor life in the James Bay district was shown by Major Frink on the school movie projector. The picture showed the business day at a typical trading post and also fur trapper covering his trap lines.

The prize given for the greatest number of parents attending the meeting was won by Principal C. I. Frederick's room.

Trainload of Coal In Ruhr Stolen By Black Market

By TOM REEDY

Herford, March 18 —(AP)— The black market now is organized so cleverly in Germany that a gang was able to steal an entire trainload of coal in the Ruhr, transport it 200 miles to Aurich near the North Sea and swap it for potatoes.

This flagrant case was disclosed by a British military officer whose position forbids his quotation by name.

The officer said the remarkable theft of hundreds of tons of coal was only one example of the "brains" behind the black market.

"Obviously these gangs are reaching into high railroad circles," he said. "They must have connections with Germans who have been retained to run the rails."

Illicit trading has reached such proportions that British occupation authorities have set up special teams of police, working with Germans, in concentrated efforts to trap the ringleaders.

Fantastic stories circulate throughout the zone of sharp dealings, some pure rumor and others based on some fact.

Some gangs have been caught on the highways through systematic road checks. Since these checks have been intensified, though, the marketeers have taken to the back roads where it i salmost impossible to track them down.

This senior officer told a reporter that the police effort must be concentrated on the big operators.

British Railway Hangover Causes Increasing Number of Accidents

(By Basil Dean, Writing From London, In the Vancouver Daily Province)

To problems of late-running, overcrowded, broken - down coaches and worn-out locomotives, Britain's railways this Spring have another headache added: their accident rate has stepped up sharply, threatens to bring down on their heads a growing barrage of public criticism.

Since Christmas, major rail crashes have come almost weekly. The epidemic of serious accidents seems to have coincided with the four railway companies efforts to speed up war-reduced schedules and restore canceled services—efforts which began last October.

Most recent was a crash on the London and North-Eastern line just outside London, when three trains plowed into each other during the night. Miraculously, the crash killed only two people; several hundred passangers in the crowded trains escaped with a mere shaking.

• • •

To the growing murmur of public questioning about reasons for increasing accidents, the railways so far have given no reply. But all England knows the "Big Four" companies — still operating under overall state control through the powerful Ministry of War Transport — are trying to get back to peacetime operation with rolling stock which was largely out of date in 1939 and with a labor force still not far above the austerity levels of wartime.

British railway roadbed, proudly touted in peacetime years as the finest in the world, cannot be maintained at anything approaching pre-war standards until thousands of drafted track maintenance men are released from all services. Basically, the tracks are still the best-laid in the world; every inch is heavily rock-ballasted and rails, instead of being spiked directly to the ties, are floated on iron "chairs" and wedged with wooden blocks to give flexibility. To keep such tracks at perfection pitch, the blocks must be individually hammered into position once a week—and that means more labor than Britain's railways can hope to have for months.

• • •

New locomotives and new coaches are trickling into service, but it is scarcely an exaggeration to say that virtually every coach and every locomotive on British railways today needs a complete factory overhaul; many of them should properly be junked.

Like Canada's railways, Britain's lines today are carrying far more passengers than they carried before the war, and with less equipment. Until they have built up a sizeable backlog of new equipment, they cannot take the old out of service for long enough to carry out necessary major overhauls — even supposing they had the workshop labor needed to do the overhauling.

• • •

Sops have been thrown to the traveling public—which is showing increasing signs of impatience with late-running trains, increasing anxiety over the number of fatal accidents —in the form of dining and buffet cars, long vanished from British trains.

But such comforts for long-distance travelers do little to appease London's commuters, who are nightly packed into trains at the rate of up to 22 people in compartments designed to seat ten. This congestion reached its climax recently when overflow passengers on one train were jammed so tightly into the baggage car that the door burst open and a woman fell out and was seriously injured. Meanwhile, the best the railways can do is to promise relief "as soon as conditions permit."

"Have a care Jack Dalton! Unhand that package of crisp, crunchy, delicious Grape-Nuts Flakes!"

"Curses! Foiled again! Every time I try to make off with some malty-rich, honey-golden Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes I'm stopped by this guy Curly Crisp!"

"And why not? That's a neat package you've got there. Those Grape-Nuts Flakes supply carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood; other food essentials."

"But these are no ordinary flakes! They're made of two grains—wheat and malted barley. And skilfully blended, baked and toasted for crispness, tempting taste and easy digestion."

"Hand over that giant economy package, villain. I'm a bit wolfish myself, when it comes to Grape-Nuts Flakes!"

REDS "BLUFFING"

Photographed as he arrived at the White House for a conference with President Truman is W. Averell Harriman, former U. K. ambassador to Russia, who is reported to have told Congress that the Soviet Union is "playing a game of bluff" and is unprepared for war, despite all the sound and the fury that has been raised over the Soviet policy in Iran. The conference with President Truman was believed in connection with the Iranian crisis. Meanwhile the Senate passed unanimously legislation that will enable Lieut.-Gen. Bedell Smith to keep his full rank while serving as U. K. ambassador to Russia, succeeding Harriman.

Tells Canadians To Cease Mistrust

Montreal (CP)— Luc Rochefort, French-language author from Three Rivers, Que., said in an interview here on his return from a tour of the United States that French and English-speaking Canadians must not mistrust one another and should learn to make mutual allowances.

Mr. Rochefort, whose trip took him to American centres where large populations of French origin are to be found, said that French-speaking citizens of the Dominion must come to realize that in learning English they will not be endangering anything in their social heritage but that they will benefit.

"We have been isolated for 150 years," he said. "Our leaders have told us that if we are not, we will lose our Catholic religion and our cultural integrity.

"I went to New Orleans, where we have the descendants of the Acadians who migrated from Nova Scotia in 1755. They have not lost their religion and they still speak French, though all also speak English."

Mr. Rochefort also spoke of the former Canadians of French language in New England,. saying that "they are prospering in all walks of life and they have not lost their religion or their traditional culture."

"This shows that our fears in Canada have not been well grounded," he added.

Toronto, March 18 — (CP) — Mrs. Clara Edelstone of Chicago is 100 years old, but that didn't stop her from flying to Montreal Saturday for the wedding of her great-granddaughter, Phyllis Edelstone. As she posed for photographers during a brief stop at nearby Malton airport, she told reporters she had decided to go home the same way.

Muskrat Trapping in Province Points to Most Successful Year

Toronto, March 18 (CP) — Muskrat trapping, a major industry in Ontario with a $2,000,000 annual yield, pointed today toward one of its most successful seasons in the wake of record catches and good prices.

The season, aided by early spring floods that forced the quatic rodents from their waterside homes, opened in 13 counties, March 9 and will end within a few days. Exact closing date depends on weather and breeding conditions—the season usually lasts ten or twelve days — and is left to the discretion of the Provincial Minister of Game and Fisheries.

Toronto fur buyers describe the pelts as "deep and healthy" and said that prices generally ranged from $3 to $4 a skin. Number of licences issued trappers was not available but it is a record.

Hundreds Killed.

Swirling waters of the Grand River in southwestern Ontario, whipped to a frenzy by flash flooding several days ago, chased thousands of muskrats from their natural haunts and scores of hunters killed hundreds.

The 'rats scrambled over the banks, even climbed trees to escape the roaring waters and the crashing ice. Veteran and other trappers knocked muskrats on the head for hours.

Practically every trapper in the district had plenty of pelts. One buyer from Dunnville paid $1,500 for 500 skins, while 17-year-old John Vloet received $50 for 20 skins, some of which were not of best quality.

Would Have Adverse Effect.

Army veteran Donald Friesman paid $240 for 59 skins, said the money represented a "gold mine" compared with his army pay. There was a warning note too. F. R. Edie, veteran riverman, trapper and fisherman said the heavy catches along with loss of hundreds of 'rats trapped in the grinding ice would have an adverse effect on the 1947 catch.

There were meagre takes this season too. A lower muskrat population in Stratford district made for a decreased catch compared to 1945.

Throughout Brant County the catch was "poor," although trappers are more plentiful than for many years. Game Warden Harry Clark said that because of cold weather in some county areas the 'rats were not running and that traps set at night were frozen by morning. Unfavorable weather also curtailed trapping activities in Oxford County and the take mostly had been negligible.

It was different throughout Middlesex County where signs point to a good season. County Game Overseer Bert Smalley, of Strathroy, said fur buyers were paying an increase of $3.20 a pelt, an "unusually good price."

Most of the 'rats are being trapped along the Sydenham and Sauble River and one youth trapped 60 in one morning.

"At $3.20 a pelt that's a good morning's work in any 'rat trappers' language," Smalley said.

The overseer added that clubbing of the animals, as in the Grand River flood district, was "an unfortunate practise" because it meant that many females would be killed.

"We don't believe in killing off the propagating stock," he said in estimating that 90 per cent of the kill in Middlesex were males.

In the Belleville and Kingston districts of Eastern Ontario trappers appear headed for a high-scoring season. 'Rats are plentiful and marshes are packed with their houses.

Dover Township trappers look to a $300,000 crop and throughout the Hamilton district, with current prices at $3.50 a skin, the trappers are having their best season in years.

Hotel Menus May Be Simple Again

Regina (CP)—Some of those fancy names on hotel menus are going to be simplified if Ernest J. Eetli, catering supervisor of the Canadian Pacific Railway has his way. But he adds quickly it won't be practical or even possible to eliminate them entirely because the language of food is a world-wide language.

Potage Parmontier might quite well become just plain potato soup on menus of the future while Gigot D'Agneau-Bretonne — leg of lamb with baked beans—may become just Leg of Lamb Breton Style and Gotes De Oeu Roties may be just plain Roast Prime Ribs of Beef.

However, he said, many of the high-sounding names would be too lengthy for menus in anglicized form. And besides, what of the European tourist who won't be familiar with the anglicized form. Something he will recognize will have to be left on the menus.

Jobs Follow Organization—

But Employers and Workers Must Assist

Organization of Canada's manpower during the war was made possible through co-operation of employers and workers.

This co-operation is no less necessary to assist in organizing the employment market during the present critical period.

Some manpower controls still remain. These are still law. They are aimed at assisting in organizing the employment market.

Remaining controls are designed to help employers and workers—and actually require only minor assistance from the public.

YOU ARE URGED TO COMPLY WITH THE FOUR CONTROLS WHICH REMAIN:

1. Employers MUST notify the National Employment Office of any need for workers, as soon as that need is known—and before anyone is engaged to fill the employment vacancy.
2. Where employers engage workers outside the National Employment Service they MUST notify the nearest NES Office within three days, that an employee has been engaged. (Form NSS 312 is provided for this purpose.)
3. Unemployed workers seeking employment MUST register with the National Employment Office if unemployed for 7 consecutive days.
4. Generally speaking, any employer or employee MUST give 7 days' notice to the other party of any intention to terminate employment. (Form NSS 120 is still required.) Exceptions may be learned from the nearest NES Office.

The partners to industry—employers and employees—should help the National Employment Service to promote a high level of employment by complying with these simple rules.

Only with public support can an employment service give full assistance to the community.

Make full use of the Local Office of the National Employment Service. It is there to serve your needs, and those of the entire Community.

Calvert—1622
MEN OF VISION
MacDonald—1891

In 1891 Sir John A. MACDONALD said:
"Foster and Develop the Dominion"

More than a century ago, from Scotland came the boy destined to be the first Prime Minister of Canada. Lawyer at twenty-one . . . at twenty-nine a maker of laws . . . the full maturity of his genius created a nation—Canada. Statesman and leader . . . inspired in the cause of unity . . . chief architect of Confederation—here was a man of vision, a clear-headed Canadian.

In 1622 CALVERT said:
"The Force of their Imagination Led Them"

• Man of vision in the 17th century . . . founder of historic colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland . . . Calvert said to his settlers three centuries ago. "Preserve Unity."

"I see the future . . . it is a good country," wrote Calvert in the early 1600's. Well may it be that thus he prophesied Canada's bountiful nationhood.

Famous English statesman and early pioneer, Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert's ideals of unity have been shared by all men of vision through the centuries since Calvert's time. Today . . . every Canadian can be a man of vision. Let each by his own efforts "foster and develop the Dominion."

• • •

Upon unity of purpose depends the full measure of our stature as a nation. There is only one Canada for clear-headed Canadians.

Sudan's Progress to Nationhood

The United Kingdom's payment to the Sudan of a hundred thousand pounds towards its development, as the first instalment of two million pounds grant-in-aid, is comparable to the large sums now being provided to nearly all British dependencies under the colonial development and welfare acts passed during the war.

The object is to enable the colonial governments, particularly the poorer ones, to undertake long-term development and welfare schemes and research. The Sudan, though not a British colony but an Anglo-Egyptian condominium and therefore not entitled to benefits of British legation, is in fact mainly a British responsibility since Britain is in the position of senior trustee. The United Kingdom Government decided therefore that it would be unfair if the Sudan, which like the British Colonies contributed actively to the war effort and bore wartime sacrifices, were by the fact of being a condominium to be debarred from receiving any comparable financial assistance, having regard to the close association of the United Kingdom Government with its administration.

The Sudan Government, a semi-autonomous administration under British guidance and control, last year drew up a five year postwar plan involving the expenditure of eleven and a half million pounds. High place is given revenue producing projects but apart from creation of wealth by developing natural resources, such as agriculture, the expansion and improvement of social services, especially health education, are to be undertaken. The Sudan would be unable to bear all these costs out of its own resources and without aid many schemes would have to be curtailed or postponed. The resulting wealth increase would be to advantage of both countries, as the Sudanese buy as far as possible in the British market.

Most urgent items of the plan are agriculture and forestry schemes, measures to combat soil erosion, and improve rural water supplies irrigation, including enlargement of the Gezira scheme. This is the most important single enterprise in the Sudan and enables cotton and maize to be grown. Education is to receive a million pounds of which half will be spent on the Gordon Memorial College at Khartoum.

The object is to enable the Sudanese to undertake long term planning and to take an increasing share in higher administration of their own country.

The Sudan is in two parts, a country of steppe and desert, part of the great N. A. Arabian desert inhabited by Hamitic and Arab-speaking Muslims forming part of the Islamic world and in the south is Sudan proper, inhabited by negroid peoples in a primitive state of pagan culture, yet linked by tradition and the Nile to the Arabs of the north.

Roads, railways and air routes are to be built for economic progress. The Gezira cotton scheme was opened as a co-operative undertaking between Sudan Government, the commercial syndicate and native tenant farmers. The syndicate agreed to allow the concession to be taken over by the Sudan Government in 1950. Social services were founded after the reconquest and in 1940 over 30,000 boys and girls attended government schools and another 20,000 mission and private schools. Today the great majority of the scattered population are within range of medical help. Hospitals yearly treat some hundred thousand in patients and over six million out patients. Many of the worst epidemic diseases have been brought under control and the worst reduced to negligible proportions. Technical and professional training is also provided. By 1940 a large and increasing majority of Sudanese were in all grades of the civil service and technical engineering posts and Sudanese judges and advocates and thirty-five Sudanese in the higher administrative government posts. It is hoped to fill senior administrative posts with Sudanese as soon as men of sufficient education, character and administrative ability can be trained for them.

Aid by Compass

The British Distant Reading Gyro-Magnetic Compass, an invention brought to perfection during the war years, is today enabling the great fleets of passenger planes that are beginning to girdle the earth to find their way with absolute accuracy, whatever the storm or the darkness. The invention was thought out by a team of R.A.F. scientists, whose aim was to make a compass that would operate with dead accuracy while an aircraft was weaving through ack-ack. It had to be one that would correct for the difference between true and magnetic north and would operate other instruments such as bomb-sights and the automatic pilot. In addition, it had to have electrical repeaters to inform all the members of the crew, at their individual stations, of the exact course of the aircraft. The completion of the instrument altered the whole aspect of long-range flying. It made possible precision track-keeping and position-finding such as was never dreamed of before, and it enabled pilots to discharge their bombs, in the right order and on the right place, with split-second precision. The compass that is now installed in the mighty planes that American and Britain are building for the sky routes of the world has a job for peace as well as war.

Peace-Time Radar

The peace-time applications of the wonders of radar have been the subject of a great deal of conjecture. In the air and at sea radar continues as standard equipment and a great safety device it is. But on the land its commercial application still seems something for future development. British railways are reported considering considering radar installatious on new high speed locomotives in a program designed to improve service to compete better with the air lines. It can be applied easily to locomotive operations, a British scientist notes, "but it would mean bulky equipment . . . and the engine driver would have to be a radio technician as well as a driver."

And even on some ships radar is welcomed with scepticism. It has been installed on some coastal vessels which sail the rock-walled passages of the Pacific. But its role remains an auxiliary. "We still stick to the toot and listen formula," one master admitted. The audible echo which has characterized Pacific Coast navigation for years thus seems destined to remain, at least temporarily, in a favored position over the visual echo as screened on the radar equipment. But the possibility remains that eventually the coastal ships will move up and down the Pacific inlets without a blast from whistle or siren as their masters become acclimatized to science's contribution to their lot.

Raleigh Up-To-Date

A Journal girl, confronted by a pool of water stretching across the sidewalk, hovered on the brink wondering how she could cross without getting her feet wet. As she pondered a uniformed masculine arm went around her waist, she was swung neatly over the puddle on to dry land on the other side, and her rescuer in Air Force uniform went on his way.

Sir Walter Raleigh was no more gallant and far less practical, when he saved Queen Elizabeth from wetting her feet and earned for himself a place in the national legends. Sir Walter, it will be recalled, with a courtly gesture removed his embroidered cloak, spread it over the puddle which impeded the royal progress, and so the Queen crossed without embarrassment.

This Air Force chap brings chivalry up to date, saves beauty in distress—and saves himself a cleaning bill.

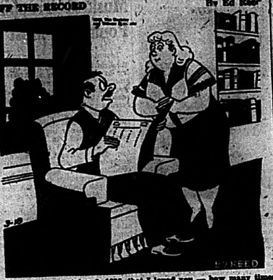
LETTER VIII

Beloved, days go slowly by,
But busy with my tasks am I,
And busy with my double share
Of morning, noon and evening care.
Time was I often heard you say:
"What will you do when I'm away?
The birthdays and the dates they fall!
Who will remind you of them all?

Beloved, 'twas a joy to find
The record of your heart and mind—
The little book you used to keep
Beneath your linens, hidden deep,
And in your careful writing penned
The name and street of every friend,
The number and the date, that none
Might be forgotten were you gone.

Beloved, there it all appears—
The glory of those golden years!
The many things you used to do
To cheer the lives of those you knew,
As if you'd feared, without a list,
There might be one who would be missed.
We turn its pages day by day
And think of you not far away.



"I told you on October 2, 1935, that I loved you — how many times must I repeat it?"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 18th., 1926

The Rev. N. S. McKechnie and Mrs. McKechnie have returned from Mount Forest.

Mr. W. B. Deacon has returned home after a business trip to Western Canada as far as the Pacific coast.

Mrs. George Dickey has returned home after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hill in Hastings.

Miss Ethel Benedict has returned home from Peterborough where she visited with friends.

Mr. Robert Bogle in a letter to the press advocates the changing of the name of our city from Belleville to Quinte City. He says that we are surrounded with places ending in "ville" and the impression given by the name Belleville is that it is a small village. He thinks that this is one reason why our city is often overlooked by business men looking for a suitable location in which to establish themselves in the manufacturing business.

30 YEARS AGO

MARCH 18th., 1916

Mr. Donald Mays, of Washington Territory, is visiting his parents in Tyendinaga township after an absence of 26 years.

The kind influence of St. Patrick, the beloved saint of the Irish, was evidently present at the curling rink yesterday afternoon when two Irish rinks defeated two Scotch rinks. Much interest was shown in the match. The veteran skip, Frank Dolan, Sr., was in his glory and he trimmed his opponents to the King's taste as he has done before on many a St. Patrick's Day. Yesterday was the 37th. St. Patrick's Day curling match in which he has taken part as skip and during that long time he lost only two games. He is now 74 years old. The result of the game yesterday was 29 to 17 in favor of the Irish. The following composed the rinks: Irish Rink 1—H. A. Kerr, W. A. Dolan, W. N. Belair, Frank Dolan, skip 16; Scotch rink 1, A. S. White, J. S. Cook, Arthur McGie, J. G. Galloway, skip 6. Rink 2, Irish—Fred D. Diamond, H. B. Stock, J. S. McKeown, J. A. Kerr, skip 13. Scotch Rink 2—A. R. Symons, W. T. Stone, C. J. Symons, Dr. M. J. Clarke, skip 11.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 18th., 1906

Complaints are made that the street lights are not turned on early enough. It is dangerous walking in the dark on slippery walks.

Mr. Percy Pitney has returned home from Toronto where he spent several days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cochram of Madoc, were visitors in town today.

To celebrate St. Patrick's Day, two rinks representing Ireland and two rinks representing The World played a curling match yesterday which resulted in a victory for the Irish. The following composed the rinks: Irish Rink, 1—Walter Belair, W. E. Burke, S. W. Vermilyea, F. Dolan, skip 20. The World Ring 1 — G. Jenkins, W. E. Schuster, J. H. Harte, J. D. Clarke, skip 10. Irish Rink 2—W. Dolan, F. Dolan, Jr., W. Cochrane, E. J. Butler, skip 14. The World Rink 2—M. Sprague, Arthur E. Lewis, J. A. McFee, T. Thompson, skip 17.

50 YEARS AGO

MARCH 18th., 1896

The street crossings are in a terrible condition today with slush. The snow is disappearing rapidly.

Contractors say that the prospects for building this spring are not bright.

Sheriff Hope went to Madoc today on official business.

Mr. A. Morton has returned home after visiting friends at Plainfield.

Mr. Charles Malloy of Toronto, is visiting his parents at their home on Dunbar St.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the office of E. Guss Porter for the purpose of forming a branch of the Equitable Savings Loan and Building Association. The following officers were elected: President, J. A. Marshall; vice-president, William McGie; solicitor, E. Guss Porter; valuator, Thomas Hanley; secretary-treasurer, W. S. Clarke; directors, Louis Benmore, S. W. Vermilyea, R. A. Davis and James R. Gerow.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press

Ottawa, March 18 (CP) — Increasing pressure by organized labor for general wage increases points to the likelihood of important developments within the next few weeks. Canadian Congress of Labor Unions, in an effort to co-ordinate their wage drives, have formed a special strategy committee scheduled to meet in Ottawa this week.

Wages and reduced working hours were a topic of discussion at a recent meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress executive and the subjects will come up again when both these groups, representing a total of more than 700,000 workers make submission to the federal cabinet early next month.

Meantime, the National War Labor Board is considering evidence in a wage increase application by the Brotherhood of maintenance of Way Employees on seven Canadian railways. The case, first of large proportions heard under new wage control regulations, is expected to provide indications of the policy the board will follow in administering the new order. However in some respects the case differs from that of an industry where employees are grouped in single localities.

A number of other railway unions are known to be preparing cases for submission and some already have served notice on the railways they are out for higher wages.

Approach of spring and the opening of lake navigation brings the possibility of an early showdown in demands of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) for an eight-hour day without reduction in pay.

The United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) one of the most active C.C.L. unions in the wage campaign, also is scheduled to have an appeal from a Nova Scotia War Labor Board decision heard by the National Board within the next few weeks. The Noca Scotia Board turned down the Union's request for wage increases to workers in the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. steel plant at Sydney, N.S.

While Prime Minister Mackenzie King is asking for an amendment to the Department of External Affairs Act to enable him to name someone to take his place as head of the department, it would not be surprising if no change were made for several months.

High Commissioners: When Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey leaves his London post early next month, two Canadian High Commissionerships will be vacant. The other post needing an appointment is at Capetown.

It is thought Prime Minister Mackenzie King may make a minor reshuffle in his whole diplomatic corps which would also include the appointment of an Ambassador to Chile—another vacant post.

Speculation has been that, following precedent, the London appointment may be a political one. The Capetown and San Diego posts almost certainly will go to career men.

Ontario Budget To be Introduced On Wednesday

Toronto, March 18 (CP)—With an overwhelming Progressive Conservative representation holding the whip-hand, the second session of Ontario's 22nd legislature moves into its third week today minus the political sound effects which marked the last full session of the House a year ago.

After two weeks, the first peace session since 1939 already has poured some 50 government bills into the legislative mill and has heard all but three speakers scheduled to participate in the Throne Speech debate, expected to end today. Premier Drew has indicated the vote on the Throne Speech likely will take place Tuesday, followed by debate on the budget which Provincial Treasurer Frost hopes to introduce Wednesday.

The early date for the budget has been arranged to provide greater opportunity for discussion of estimates, usually introduced near the end of a session. The Premier in adjourning debate Friday noted there has been criticism from both sides of the House in the past concerning late introduction of estimates.

After the budget debate it is expected Attorney - General Blackwell will present his proposed changes in Ontario liquor laws, long a topic of corridor gossip. The view in legislative circles is that the new proposals will be withheld until the tailend of the session, which is considered unlikely to last more than a month.

No Political Manoeuvring

Because of the top-heavy government majority in a chamber where the Progressive Conservatives hold 66 of 90 seats, there has been little opportunity for the political manoeuvring which occurred last year. Then the Progressive Conservative government had a minority in the House with only 38 seats and was defeated when Liberals, C. C. F. and Labor-Progressives joined in voting on a C.C.F. amendment to the address in reply to the Throne Speech.

No such division is likely this year. There has been little blood and thunder from the official opposition led by Farquhar Oliver, who has the direct support of 10 Liberal and two Liberal-Labor members. Mr. Oliver, who has indicated he does not relish the role of Liberal leader, criticized the Throne Speech vigorously but has seldom crossed swords with the government on outstanding issues.

So far the most outspoken critics have been the two Labor-Progressive members, leader A. A. MacLeod of Toronto Bellwoods and J. B. Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrews. Both articulate speakers, they have frequently raised such questions as labor and housing.

Newspapermen say it's one of the quietest sessions in years. "It's less work this way, but it was more fun last year," said one gallery veteran.

Prairie Govts. Will Co-operate In Wheat Program

(By The Canadian Press)

Governments of Canada's grain-growing Prairie Provinces were prompt in announcing today co-operation with the Canadian food conservation program announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King at Ottawa.

The program includes a reduction of 10 per cent in the amount of wheat available for domestic milling, and a cut of 50 per cent in wheat used for distilling, along with measures to increase production and cut down waste.

Agriculture Minister D. L. Campbell said Manitoba would co-operate fully and the Manitoba government would give full support to publicizing the program. Saskatchewan's Agriculture Minister, I. C. Mollet, said he is considering calling a conference of farm leaders to help implement the program and expressed hope the Federal government would make concessions in income tax to farmers.

At Edmonton, Alberta's Agricultural Minister, D. B. MacMillan also expressed the hope that farmers' income tax regulations would be revised. He said Alberta would be glad to co-operate in supplying needy countries with food products and was particularly anxious to see that Britain's needs are met.

No Immediate Effect

The reduction of 50 per cent in amount of wheat for distillery purposes is not expected to have any immediate effect. Toronto distillers said effects would not be apparent for a few years except perhaps in the case of gin, which does not go through a long aging process. There is a shortage of rye at present, as a result of cuts made in 1942. British Columbia distillers said major decreases in production would result.

Distillers however were not surprised by the announcement. One official pointed out that since the war distilleries have not been able to buy first quality wheat, and have been using mostly the number three type. The use of wheat in direct production of alcohol and beer had been banned in the United States under the food conservation program announced by President Truman Feb. 6.

There will be less flour as a result of the cut in wheat for domestic milling. And families are also being asked to voluntarily reduce the consumption of wheat products. Accompanying this part of the program was a call by Prime Minister King for work on victory gardens which filled a big gap during the war years. "By increased production of vegetables and other alternative foods, more wheat will be released for export" he pointed out.

DON'T BE A BABY ABOUT STIFF SHOULDER

Having had shoulder bursitis I know how easy it is for the patient and how difficult it is for the doctor to forestall the patient's inclination to avoid the discomfort or even pain of the passive movements or manipulations of the shoulder by doctor or physical therapist under the doctor's direction or by a competent member of the patient's family under specific direction, which are so necessary in the successful treatment of bursitis.

Here is an alternative which nearly every one who has shoulder bursitis must face: Which is preferable, a few weeks of discomfort or actual pain for an hour or so a day, or a permanently crippled shoulder?

So important is this passive manipulation and later active exercise in the treatment of shoulder bursitis that, in my judgment, it would be advisable to anethetize the patient, say with a few whiffs of nitrous oxide (laughing gas) and oxygen every day for the seance if the patient is unwilling to co-operate while conscious.

The passive movements of the shoulder should begin as soon as the early inflammation subsides. To leave the shoulder in a sling or otherwise immobilized for days or weeks before instituting such treatment is to invite more or less disability for life.

Anethetizing the patient with gas or other anesthetic is not the only recourse for the physician when the patient behaves like a baby and refuse to endure the discomfort or pain of proper treatment. In some cases it is most satisfactory to inject a local anesthetic into or around the bursa and then manipulate the shoulder, of course within reasonable range, after the anesthetic has benumbed sense of pain.

Aside from analgesics (pain-killers) no internal medicine that I know of is worth one whit as a remedy for bursitis, unless it be vitamin D. I'll give my conjecture about that a little later.

In the great majority of cases bursitis is caused by either a single injury or repeated injuries as in prolonged overuse of the arm in some work or play ... involving violent or extremely heavy effort.

Whether any cases at all are due to focal infection I don't know—from the structure of the bursas such infection would seem unlikely to occur, but from the character of the lining of the bursas (serous membrane identical with the lining of the joints) we must acknowledge that focal infection is not out of the question. If bursitis of this nature does occur, its general treatment would be the same as the treatment for ordinary bursitis.

X-Ray EVIDENCE

Is it harmful to keep a tooth in the mouth if X-ray shows it is abscessed? (E. J. M.)

Answer—On X-ray evidence alone I'd sit tight. If there were "kernels" (thickened lymph nodes under edge of jaw or in side of neck) I'd want the abscess drained. Not necessarily extraction of the tooth, however. Even a tooth condemned by unsupported X-ray evidence is worth saving, in my opinion.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Does the Government pay a premium on rare coins?

The United States Government does not pay or receive a premium on any issue of coins or paper currency, domestic or foreign.

Persons wishing to dispose of what they consider rare and valuable coins should be in touch with private coin dealers.

The Government does not engage in the rare coin business.

Rumors are sometimes spread that the U. S. Treasury Department intends to "call in" certain coins and notes at a high premium.

Although old issues of metal and paper money are replaced by new ones, the Government never "calls in" coins or paper currency and the origin and purpose of these rumors are not known.

In 1929 a false rumor was started, probably as a joke, that the Government would pay twenty-five cents for every Indian-head one-cent piece presented at the Chicago Centennial in 1933. Many people went to considerable pains to collect large numbers of the coins with a view of getting the Government premium.

In reply to the numerous communications received as a result of the erroneous report the Treasury Department in 1930 said:

"The Government pays no premium upon any issue of coins. There is no premium whatever offered by the Government on Indian-head one-cent pieces. There are millions of them in circulation."

Saskatchewan Plans First Socialized Health Program in the Dominion

By H. L. JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, March 18 — (CP) — Saskatchewan is planning a complete, province-wide plan of contributory health insurance designed to provide every man, woman and child with all health services. And it's going to be done with or without federal participation.

This first socialized provincial health plan in Canada will take time. Premier Douglas said today the program probably would be completed by 1950 in Saskatchewan if a federal health plan emerged from the Dominion-Provincial conference into which the provincial plan would be enmeshed.

Should the federal plan fall through, Saskatchewan's C. C. F. government plans to "go it alone" and hopes to have a full plan in operation in the early 1950's providing for hospital treatment, diagnostic services, medical, dental and optometric care and drugs. This would cost more than a federally-sponsored plan but would be partly financed through revenues from Crown companies the government has established.

A recent statement of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons advocated a form of state-aided health insurance administered by a "politically independent commission." The College opposed any system of making doctors "servants of the government on a salary" and said patients should have a choice of doctor.

Some doctors are on the health advisory committee which mapped the government's health plan but the program has yet to reach the medical services stage and no system of doctor remuneration has been worked out. On this point Premier Douglas conceded there "might be some differences of opinion."

Registration of everyone in the province will begin this fall. Certain groups such as servicemen now receiving free hospital care will be excluded.

The government is asking power to make an annual maximum levy of $5 per persons with a maximum of $30 per family to be collected "in the same manner as municipal taxes" or by payroll deduction. Those refusing to pay would be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding $25 and a surtax of 50 cents would be added to the basic tax for every three months of delinquency. Parents would be liable for dependents.

The hospital bill is the beginning of the third phase of the government's health program. Free care is already provided for tuberculosis, cancer, mental and venereal disease cases and for old age and blind pensioners and dependents, mothers allowances cases and dependents and indigents and departments.

A medical college is being established at the University of Saskatchewan to provide medical personnel for the long-range plan.

Township School Areas Favored In No 9 Tyendinaga

Aftermath of a well attended meeting held in the No. 9 Tyendinaga schoolhouse, ratepayers of the section voted almost unanimously in favor of township school areas. Under the chairmanship of Floyd Goodfellow, 85 per cent expressed themselves as being in favor of this modern system of school administration.

School Inspector R. H. Macklem, outlined the advantages to be gained under the new system. Thomas Blatherwick who acted as secretary of the meeting reported that the majority of the ratepayers in the other school section in the southwest corner of the township including school sections 1, 4, 5 and 11 had already expressed their approval at public meetings.

Inspector Macklem congratulated the trustees and people on the interest shown in education and pointed out that S. S. No. 9, Tyendinaga was one of the first sections to join the circulating township library. Other indications that Tyendinaga people want the best in education, he said, is that the only rural dental clinics in South Hastings are found in the township and also that Tyendinaga led Sidney and Thurlow in memberships in the South Hastings Educational Association.

What's New at Metropolitan?

THERE ARE many items of good news for policyholders in the 1945 record of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries in Canada and the United States reached a new all-time high of $623,000,000. Mortality among policyholders, excluding war deaths, was the lowest on record. The yield on the Company's investments followed the general trend and declined somewhat. The Company had asset gains which made it possible to revise policy and annuity reserves so as to reflect lower interest earnings. Scales of dividends to policyholders were maintained, and in some cases slightly increased.

Unassigned surplus funds at the year end amounted to $448,600,000. In addition the Company had special surplus funds of $109,400,000, of which $95,100,000 represented a special reserve for possible loss or fluctuation in the value of investments and $14,300,000 a Group Insurance reserve for epidemics, etc. These funds represent an extra cushion of safety for policyholders.

In its report to policyholders in Canada and the United States for 1945, Metropolitan provides answers to many of the questions a policyholder would be likely to ask if he could make a personal visit to the Company. Among questions answered, for example, are . . .

Were there many extra claim payments last year due to the war?

Would longer life for policyholders reduce the cost of Life Insurance?

In what types of investments did the Company put its money?

In addition to answering these and many other questions, the report gives a financial summary of the Company's operations during 1945. Whether or not you are a policyholder, you will find this report interesting and informative. To get a copy, just write to the Canadian Head Office, Ottawa, and ask for the Company's annual report entitled, "What's New At Metropolitan?"

...it's 6 steps to your doorstep

1. Your milkman makes the last step in delivering milk to your doorstep... but before he can do so, many other steps must be made, too.

2. The farmer must milk the cows, cool the milk, have it ready for "pick up" ... and do countless other chores to keep the herd clean and healthy.

3. The highway trucker picks up the milk at the farm, hurries it to the dairy . . . often battling blizzards and deep snowdrifts.

4. The laboratory technician tests and safeguards the milk . . . makes sure it is pure, germ-free, to protect your health.

5. The dairy plant operator, usually an agricultural school graduate, using modern hygienic equipment, processes and bottles the milk in accordance with the rigid regulations of the Dept. of Health.

6. The dairy executive keeps everybody "in step". His initiative and organizing ability have made today's milk service as economical and reliable as electric light and running water.

Rose Supporters Demonstrate And Three Arrested

Montreal, March 18 (CP) — Barred from a hall where a mass meeting had been planned, several hundred supporters of Fred Rose, Labor-Progressive member of parliament for Montreal-Cartier, staged a noisy demonstration on St. Lawrence Boulevard last night until police broke up the gathering and took three of the demonstrators into custody.

Guy Caron, 34-year-old provincial leader of the Labor-Progressive party and one of the orators at the impromptu meeting was arrested on a charge of "disturbing the peace" by causing a gathering by making a speech, while two other men were held for "refusing to circulate."

Earlier yesterday, five men were arrested for the illegal distribution of circulars advertising the planned meeting, allegedly in contravention of a city by-law which requires a licence for handing out circulars. Among the literature seized were copies of a message signed by the provincial committee of the Labor-Progressive party, headed: "Hands Off Fred Rose." Three men were picked up by police on a similar charge Friday night, a few hours after Rose had been arraigned in a Montreal court for giving secret information to Soviet Russia during the war, and were subsequently fined $10 and costs.

City squads and Royal Canadian Mounted Police were kept busy all day yesterday checking reports of possible meetings and demonstrations.

Police said the hall in which the meeting was to be held was denied to the organizers when its owner, Nathan Naskin, learned the nature of the proposed get together. The crowd refused to go home until finally dispersed by police.

In addition to Caron, a returned war officer, impromptu speakers included a woman and an unidentified "third division man."

Lantigen is a specially prepared dissolved vaccine and has been used successfully in the treatment of various diseases. Lantigen is not a patent medicine. Lantigen is a bacterial vaccine in a dissolved state, is devoid of drugs and safe to take. Lantigen is a natural aid. It is produced from the bacteria which are peculiar to the particular disease requiring treatment. Being in a completely dissolved state the vaccine is operative locally by absorption into the tissues of the tongue, tonsils, throat, and the intestinal tract and is further operative by means of its distribution throughout the system. More than 150,000 people in Australia have enjoyed relief from the distressing affects of catarrh and allied conditions.

Four N.H.L. Teams Open Playoffs on Tuesday; Leafs, Rangers, End Year With Wins

Chicago Black Hawks Play At Canadiens and Detroit at Boston

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's Montreal Canadiens against Chicago Black Hawks, and Boston Bruins against Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League play-offs.

The Stanley Cup line-up was not settled until the last shot had been fired in the regular league schedule last night. Boston won second place by defeating Chicago 5-3.

Toronto Maple Leafs made their exit for the season in a blaze of glory, walloping Detroit 7-3 Saturday night and then triumphing at Detroit Sunday by 11-7 after throwing more pucks past goalie Harry Lumley than that stalwart netminder has seen all season.

Montreal Canadiens, holding an impregnable lead, trounced Chicago 6-3 Saturday and then lost by 8-5 to the tail-end Rangers at New York last night. The Boston-Chicago struggle was the fifth game of the weekend.

There were 13,900 at Boston Gardens last night as the Bruins and Hawks battled for second-place and the right to meet Detroit instead of Montreal in the semi-finals. Bruins got away to a 4-0 lead before Chicago hit the scoring sheet.

Scoring Carnival

Bep Guidolin opened for Boston in the first frame and Bobby Bauer and Don Gallinger made it 3-0 in the second. Gallinger made it 4-0 before Hawks started to click. Clint Smith, Doug Bentley and Pete Horeck scored in succession, but Hawks couldn't get the tying marker. Instead Milt Schmidt notched the last for Boston.

In the scoring carnival at Detroit Toronto led 4-2 at the end of the first and 6-3 at the end of the second. Nine goals whistled past the hapless netminders in the last frame—five Leaf counters and four Wing tallies.

Gaye Stewart led the Toronto snipers with three goals and Gus Bodnar had two. The other Leaf scorers were Captain Syl Apps, Bill Ezinicki, Wally Stanowski, Billy Taylor, Sweeney Schriner and Jackie Hamilton.

Harry Watson and Adam Brown each got two goals for the Wings, and the others were scored by Ted Lindsay, Rolly McLenaghan and Carl Liscombe.

It was another wild-scoring affair at New York when the Rangers managed to hang up their first victory over the Canadiens. The Habitants had won eight and tied one of the previous nine games against New York.

For the Rangers, Cal Gardner, Tony Leswick and Phil Watson each scored twice, and Bill Moe and Rene Trudel got the others. Toe Blake scored twice for Montreal and Jim Peters, Bob Fillion and Dutch Hiller got the others.

Managers Rave Over Pitching Of Bill Wight

By GAYLE TALBOT

St. Peterburg, March 18 (AP)—The most talked-about rookie in Florida at the moment is a left-handed pitcher named Bill Wight who has earned raves from every manager who has seen him throw.

Although he is not listed as a New York Yankee and, technically, is not even the property of that club, he will do his pitching at Yankee Stadium this summer.

Bill never pitched higher than class-B ball before the war. It will be the loss of the Kansas City fans that manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees decided to take the youngster to the club's Panama training camp.

In the first game the Yankees played against Panana All-Stars, it was Wight who followed Spud Chandler on the hill and mowed the southern neighbors down.

Then, the Yanks came up to St. Petersburg, and it happened again. In the first exhibition against the Cardinals, Chandler and the rookie again teamed up, and the score was 5-0. Wight gave up one hit in the last four innings.

The clincher game last Saturday when Wight pitched seven innings against the Cardinals and held them to a brace of hits and two unearned runs as the Yanks scored their sixth straight win in Florida.

Wight has a fine fast ball, a sharp curve and control that has not yet wavered.

PETES ELIMINATED

Kingston, March 18 (CP)—Led by second line centre George McGregor who scored six goals and assisted in another, Kingston Locos Saturday night defeated Peterboro Petes 10-5 to win the best-of-seven O.H.A. Intermediate A group final series. Kingston won the series 4-1.

Locos now advance to meet Collingwood.

Carr-Harris, Watts, Murphy and Catlin scored the other goals for Kingston. Tompkins got two for Petes, and Kingdon, Heal and Vitarelli ran in the others.

Locos were one up on Petes as they went into the third period, but scored the last five goals after Petes' fifth had been tallied.

BUFFALO BISONS AND CAPITALS HEAD DIVISIONS

American Hockey League Closes Schedules With Series of Interesting Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Buffalo Bisons, leaders of the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League, finished the regular schedule in their habitual style, trouncing the second-place Hershey Bears 10-6.

Tom Cooper and Len Halderson led the Buffalo offensive with a brace of goals each while Bob Blake, Wilf Field, Gerry Bellemare, Fred Hunt, Paul Mundrick and Art Lessard added the other tallies for the victors. Joe Bell scored twice for Bears, the other markers coming off the sticks of Hymie Buller, Peggy O'Neill, Hal Cooper and Norm Larson.

Indianapolis Capitals, leaders of the Western Division also in style, hammered the second-place Pittsburgh Hornets for a 10-4 victory. Cliff Simpson performed the hat trick for Caps while Jim Keating and Les Douglas scored twice Earl Siebert, Sid Howe and Tony Bukovitch added the other Indianapolis scores while Guy Boesch, Billy Grigg, Johnny Mahaffy and Joe Klukay were the Hornet sharpshooters.

Hornets had more luck Saturday when Don Metz scored late in the third period to give them a 5-4 victory over Cleveland Barons. Metz had scored another goal previously to complete the Pittsburgh count with Johnny Mahaffy, Ernie Dickens and Peanuts O'Flaherty. Dan Sprout, Fred Thurier, and Tommy Burlington with two goals, accounted for the Cleveland scores.

Cleveland had its turn Sunday, whipping New Haven Eagles 5-4 on New Haven ice. Lou Trudel, Ed Prokop, Tommy Burlington, Dick Adolph and Gordie Davidson scored for Barons and Bill Cupolo, Billy Gooden and Ray Powell, with two goals, notched the New Haven markers.

Hershey Bears and St. Louis Flyers battled to a 4-4 draw Saturday on home ice. Armand Gaudreault, Lester Brennan, Joe Bell and Norm Larson tallied for Bears while Pat McCreavy spearheaded the St. Louis attack with a brace of goals, Bill Jennings and Dick Kowcinak scoring the others.

Goals by Jud McAtee, Danny Summers and Paul Gladu gave Flyers a 3-1 victory over Providence Reds at Providence last night. Bill Warwick scored the sole Red goals.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Chicago's fiery Max Bentley was held scoreless over the weekend but the 61 points he gathered over the season were sufficient to earn him top spot in the National Hockey League individual scoring race which ended last night. His 31 goals and 30 assists give him an eight-point edge over Toronto's Gaye Stewart, who copped second place with 37 goals and 16 assists for 53 points. Toe Blake of Montreal picked up four points in two games to jump into a third-place tie with Clint Smith of Chicago, three points behind Stewart. Maurice Richard of Canadiens picked up five points to move alongside Bill Mosienko of Chicago with 48 points. Elmer Lach of Montreal and Abe Demarco of New York earned three and two points respectively to share seventh place with 47 points each.

ARNE ANDERSON GUNDER HAEGG DECLARED PROS.

Swedish Commission Bars Two Runners From Amateur Competition for Life

By EDWIN SHANKE

Stockholm, March 18 — (AP)—Gunder Haegg, the world's fastest miler, and his Swedish countryman, Arne Andersson, the world's second fastest miler, have been declared professionals and barred from amateur competition for life.

In announcing the action Sunday after a two-day secret conference on an island in Lake Maelar, the Swedish Athletic Association Board did not disclose the amount of money Haegg and Andersson were accused of receiving for races, but a reliable private source told the Associated Press they acknowledged receiving 40,000 crowns (approximately $10,000) when asked to make a report to the Association.

(In New York, Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U. who handled Haegg's United States tours in 1943 and 1944, said Haegg received only one dollar a day for incidental expenses while in the United States, but that, of course, the A.A.U. paid for his meals, hotels and transportation).

Swedish sportswriters generally estimated the money Haegg and Andersson received at "more than 75,000 crowns" ($18,500).

The Board said it found some of the penalties against amateur regulations "too stern and desires to obtain the possibility of restoring amateur standings under certain conditions to athletes who have lost it." The Board did not say whether this meant it would try to have Haegg and Andersson reinstated in time for the 1948 Olympics at London.

Records Will Stand

Bo Lindman, chairman of the Board, said the records of Haegg and Andersson will stand in the Swedish record books. Haegg set seven world standards including the 4:01.4 for the mile and 3:43 for the 1,500 metres. Andersson, who previously held the mile mark of 4:01.6 before Haegg bettered it last July, is the holder of the three-quarter-mile record of 2:56.6.

Whether the International Amateur Athletic Federation will allow the records to remain in the books still was open to question but Swedish sportsmen pointed to the case of Paavo Nurmi as a precedent. The famed Flying Finn was barred by the I.A.A.F. but his records were allowed to stand.

Seven other Swedish runners, not as well known as Haegg and Andersson, were penalized as the Board climaxed months of investigation after the charges first came into the open last November.

Others Barred

The other seven runners involved are:

Henry Kaelarne, an outstanding middle-distance runner of the 1930's, now retired; barred from amateur competition for life.

Suspended for two years: Bror Hellstroem, Goestra Jacobson and Aake Spaagert. The first two are long distance runners, the latter a middle distance man.

Suspended for one year: Arne Ahlsen, Hans Liljevist and Sven Malmberg, all middle distance runners.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 332

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A lower than an honor card may hold a lowly station. But credit it with usefulness for giving information.

The order of preference of leads is tops, longies, shorts. A top card lead is the first choice. With no top, choose to lead fourth best from a longie. With to top or longie, lead highest from a short.

A top refers to an honor lead from a sequence or other desired combination. A longie is a suit of at least four cards. A short is any suit with less than four cards (three cards or less.)

Thus when you lead a low (smaller than an honor) card, you deny having a top. If your low card lead is the highest of a short, you deny having a desirable lead from a longie.

If your low card lead is your fourth best in a suit, partner knows you have exactly three cards higher. Any additional cards you may have in that suit will be lower than your led card.

If your low card lead is your highest in a suit, partner knows you have less than four cards. Your original holding in that suit must be either three cards or two cards or one card.

Think out loud at this moment and you will come up with a very appropriate question. It is: "How does partner know when my low card lead is the highest or the fourth best in my suit?"

Let me asure you that he has a very easy way of finding out. There is a simple method by which a partner determines. It is a must among expert players. Within a few days I will tell it to you.

Meantime, suppose partner leads heart five and you have these hearts:

♥A J 9 4 2

If you learn he has not three higher hearts, partner can have no more than one lower one. Because you have two lower. If you see the trey in dummy, you know partner's five is his only heart.

Elementary, my dear Watson.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 18 (AP) — Recently Peter Lawford was mobbed by girls when he attended a preview of one of his pictures at the Westwood village theatre. It was a frightening, but pleasing event for the young actor, because he was once an usher at the same theatre.

Three or four years back Lawford was a slight, good-looking young actor with a wisp of an accent that denoted his English parentage. He had done bits around the studios but never clicked in the big time. He was usually borrowing to pay for odds and ends.

Peter finally landed a contract at M-G-M and played a bit in a film which also featured a young actor named Gene Kelly. He advanced, helped by a good performance as Irene's Dunne's son in "White Cliffs of Dover." "Son of Lassie" established him and the bobby-soxers took him to their hearts. His position will be consolidated with "Two Sisters from Boston" and "My Brother Who Talked with Horses."

Until her recent role in "Young Widow" with Jane Russell, Penny Singleton has devoted the last eight years to playing "Blondie" in films and on the radio.

The Sunday radio show keeps her busy, and the film making, a couple a year, gives her all the work she can handle with raising her children, Dorothy Grace, 10, and Robin Susan, three, and making a home for husband Robert Sparks, a Universal film executive. Sparks first met her when he had insisted she was the perfect actress for the first "Blondie." He was then an executive at Columbia studios.

"Blondie is my best girl friend" says Penny. "She's the luckiest thing that ever happened to me, and I'm grateful. I hear kids on the playgrounds using phrases from the comic strip. They're our big audience, of course. Our comedies are successful, I think, because they're tied to the safest thing in the world—the home."

Bette Davis has a sense of humor, even on a honeymoon; her station wagon had every sort of trouble on the long trip, so Bette has name it "The Reluctant Wagon."

Bruce Woodcock Soon Coming To United States

By VERNON MORGAN

Manchester, England, March 18—(Reuters) — Bruce Woodcock, the British heavyweight champion who shortly will fly to the United States to try his luck against the best American heavies, faces one danger — overeating.

"I'll let Bruce get kneedeep in fillets mignon for the first day or two, and I don't mind telling you I'll be doing the same," his manager, Tom Hurst, said. "But I'll not let him eat himself out of the fight."

Regarded as Britain's best heavyweight prospect since Tommy Farr fought and lost to Joe Louis, Woodcock lives only five minutes walk from the railway yards where he is employed as a locomotive fitter. Woodcock still carries out his training in a converted old barn near Doncaster—home of one of Britain's greatest races, the Saint Leger. This old shack has only the bare necessities for him. to get into shape. There is no fancy equipment. His shower is a bucket of water held by his father or brother.

One secret of his success to date has been the perfect understanding between himself and his manager. In the ring Woodcock need only glance at his corner for instructions and gets them in a nod or a wink.

The main purpose of his 3,000-mile trip to New York is to justify his claims to a title fight, and he is supremely confident. He has been offered a fight with Lee Oma, the New York heavyweight, but his manager said he will box either Tami Mauriello, or Joe Baksi, "and Bruce will be good enough for either of them."

Hockey Sidelights

By ED FITKIN

Toronto — Along the hockey rialtos the experts are inching slightly toward Montreal Canadiens as No. 1 choice for the Stanley Cup...Analysts base their claims on the powerful defensive play of the Habs, because in a short series, when the boys are playing man-for-man, it's that air-tight rearguard that invariably settles the toughest of arguments ...Leafs proved that last spring when they utilized a dozen sound men to mould a sequence of upset victories and won out through the breathtaking brilliance of Goalie Frank McCool...The sharpest shotsmiths in the League couldn't penetrate Frankie Boy's armour once he began his Horatio-on-the-Bridge tableau.

• • •

Canadiens are backed by the puckfending magic of Bill Durnan, who has proved beyond doubt that he rates with the best ...Bill, who kicked around in amateur ranks for so many years and never got his chance to test the potency of N.H.L. Deadeye Dicks until wartime, said before the start of the season that he welcomed the opportunity to finally find out how good these big-name players were...Well, it was a case of "Veni, Vidi, Vici" for Sweet William...He is still the No. 1 Goalie of the League—for the third consecutive season... And it's a hockey oddity that Durnan is the first goalie to win the Vezina Trophy three years in a row since it was first put up for competition and was subsequently won by George Hainsworth during the next three seasons...George was goaltender for Canadiens at that time.

• • •

Irvin has two of the finest defencemen in the League in king-size Butch Bouchard and that Mad Irishman, Kenny Reardon... Reardon, in Dick's opinion, is the best of the current crop of rearguards in the N.H.L....And there isn't much wrong with speedy little Glen Harmon or quiet, effective Leo Lamoureux...Frankie Eddolls is around for emergency operations...With the Punch line (which Tommy Gorman calls his Lunch Line) starting to zing again, and Murph Chamberlain his old self, those Habs should blaze quite a trail to the Stanley Cupboard this spring...Their only worry, it appears, is Detroit ... That has Irvin spending the odd sleepless night...The Wings have exercised a bit of the old superiority over the Habs this winter —and Irvin, always obsessed by what he calls the Hidden Hand, is haunted by the fear that his Canadiens will roll over and play dead in a short series with the Wings...At least Dick isn't haunted this year by the annual spectre of the Leaf's decapitating his Habs...Irvin's sweetest hockey nectar this season was the downfall of his old club.

Boston Bruins rate in our book as the team most likely to provide the upset drama to this year's Stanley Cup sprints...Like Canadiens, the Bruins are well fortified with powerful operators ... That's a pretty healthy defence formation that Art Ross can ice—Brimsek in goal; Johnny Crawford, Pat Egan, Jack Church, Murray Henderson and even old Dit Clapper for blue-line duties.. Up front the Rossmen now have three solid lines in operation... The Kitchener Kids, who are still together and will remain so until the end of the season; the Sprout Line of Don Gallinger, Bep Guidolin and Bill Shill, which has been providing much of the Boston punch; and a new formation featuring peerless Bill Cowley, dynamite Roy Conacher and cocky Terry Reardon...We saw Cowley and Conacher mark their return to competition with sound performances in Boston last Sunday ...Bill's wrist is still on the weak side but his condition is tip-top, thanks to plenty of outdoor skating around Ottawa...Young Conacher, a true big leaguer, isn't as sharp as he will be by playoff time—but that shot of his is still a beauty to behold...He hasn't the blistering power that Brother Charlie possessed, but Roy's drive is far more accurate...and invariably the foot-high type that proves so effective...He should add the needed punch to the third line...Herbie Cain, Jack McGill and Kenny Smith are also available should there be any injuries...and it's possible that Bus Wycherley and Lloyd Gronsdahl will be able to step in for emergency purposes...So keep a wary eye on those Bruins.

• • •

Detroit's Red Wings shape up as the "unknown quantity" of the coming skirmishes...The Wings have been in-and-outers this season but now seem to be working smoothly...You can discount that 9-4 licking by the Hawks the other eve as Jolly Jawn Adams gave a bunch of guys named Joe a workout...The Hawks, despite their blistering speed, the potency of the Pony Line, plus such Handy Andys as George Gee, Red Hamill, Alex Kaleta and Clint Smith, are weak defensively and in the rugged Stanley Cup duels, with the opposition's toughest checkers tailing the light Hawk stars, Chicago may collapse because of this deficiency. However, strange things happen when the chips are down...and we've never yet been psychic enough to foresee the future. It should be quite a climax to quite a season.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 18 (CP) — Those old-timers around Montreal who remember the colorful, glamorous days of Montreal Canadiens in the N.H.L. when Leo Dandurand was at the helm can't be blamed if they dream rosy dreams of a new French-Canadian era on the football field.

Those dreams came a little closer last week with the appointment of the graying Dandurand as president of the Big Four football team being formed in Montreal.

Leo comes out of sports retirement with the announced intention of giving football to the French-Canadians and making them like it. Perhaps he won't be as successful as he was in endearing Canadiens and their flashy hockey ways to the rabid Montrealers, but it's a worthy effort.

Though football doesn't provide the same rousing action, thrills and spills that brought out the wild enthusiasm that always has characterized the Habitant backers in the Montreal Forum, there's no telling what a little well-placed razzle-dazzle will do.

With Maestro Lew Hayman at the helm after his Toronto sojourn the Montreal club can build on a good foundation.

Players are important, and if Dandurand sticks to his intention of getting as many French-Canadians on the team as possible and starts that important job of selling the game to Montreal's biggest bloc of potential customers the game will be revived in Montreal.

Lew Hayman, sharing the enthusiasm, feels that the team will "go places" next fall.

If they find out they like what they've been missing, the stadium rooting sections are going to be noisy places these autumn days.

The added hit, "The Red Dragon," stars Sidney Toler as Charlie Chan.

"DINA CASHMAN"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 6

"You won't be scared, Dina, staying here alone?"

"Oh, no! Not with all these other people in the house!"

"I'm right next door here."

"I know." Her voice was almost inaudible.

He slid to his knees beside the bed and put his face against her neck.

"Gee, you smell sweet!" he said. "I've never loved anyone in my life the way I love you, Dina. My mother never loved me much, and I hardly knew my dad! It's changed my whole life, knowing you and loving you and our talking together. It seems to me you're the first thing in my life I ever found for myself. Not school nor teaching nor being told what to do—but myself. 'Member I told you that that first night at Cotta's? 'Member the red dress?"

"And Frances thinking you were Freddy Lippincott and Freddy was you."

"And that first time we went out and we were going to a movie and didn't ever get to it?"

"Because we sat and talked until nearly eleven!"

"I love you, Dina. Gosh, I love you!" He was browsing over her face with his hungry lips; she loved his bigness and the sureness of the arm that was about her, and she loved, too, the youngness of him, his little-boy eagerness to be loved, his affectionate anxiety to be reassured, to be told that he meant to her what she meant to him.

"You do love me, don't you?" he said.

"Ah, I do love you, with all my heart!" Dina whispered.

* * *

She was awake when the dawn came coldly over the mountains and began to fill the cold room with gray light. Dina lay thinking, wondering how she could face this day. What would Vere say, when they met?

She was not sure that she had been asleep at all, but when Martha, ready for bath and change, came yawning and complaining into the room at six o'clock Dina pretended to be asleep.

"Why we have to be routed out in the middle of the night," Martha grumbled. "You'd better get up, Dina; everyone is!"

Someone was hammering on the door.

"Girls!" It was Vere shouting to them. "Get up!"

Dina caught her breath; the blood raced to her heart. That was Vere, and she loved him with every fiber of soul and body. Of course she could meet him; there was nobody else in the world for her now.

"How soon'll you be ready?" he was calling.

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" Martha called back. "Give us time. We'll be out in six seconds!"

Ready in that many minutes they actually were, Dina equipped head to foot in the warm, gay clothes that were part of the fun of the trip. Vere had stopped on the way up the day before to buy her woolen stockings, cap and scarf; she was wearing his sister's peasant sweater and she carried the great white coat to go over all.

High up in the great snowy mountains, with the exhilarating freshness of the icy air stinging color into her cheeks and her eyes blazing like stars, she felt suddenly confident and gay. Her tawny hair, not gold, not brown, had fluffed up against the lemon, black, and blue stripes of her cap; her hands were lost in striped mittens that came well up on her wrists.

It was not hard to join the milling and hilarious crowd that was gathering in the breaking dawn, to catch at Vere's hands and feel herself lost in his big embrace. Her very soul was warmed by his kiss.

"Dina, you look marvelous! Did you have coffee?"

"No, did you?"

"No, but some of them did."

"I'd rather wait and be starving for breakfast."

"So'd I. Oh, darling, how sweet you look!" She had another kiss and a wild embrace under cover of the morning shadows; then they were racing along the snowy trail laughing and shouting with the rest.

Her last fears disappeared; after all, she was nineteen and he was twenty-four; why shouldn't they be married? His family might not like it, but that had happened before. Families did not count. They loved each other, that was all that mattered.

And presently the Winter sun burst out brilliantly, shining gloriously on the snow, and laden clouds, spectacularly purple in the bright light, were massing on the southern mountains.

Nothing in Vere's manner in the slightest degree suggested that anything today was different from yesterday, and Dina quickly adapted her manner to his and entered into the business of the morning as wholeheartedly as he did.

She immediately had her reward. He never left her side; there might have been no one else on the broad white hillside but themselves.

Vere's hand catching hers when she slipped in the snow; Vere steadying her body against his own, a big arm gripped tightly about her; Vere murmuring encouragements to her and laughing under his breath as she floundered and stumbled.

Both of them becoming gloriously warm and breathless and ravenously hungry, so that the brightly lighted breakfast room of the hotel was heaven to reach at half-past nine, and the relays of hot coffee and bacon, waffles and fruit could not come fast enough or often enough.

The big place was filled with feasting holidaymakers; everyone was in great spirits, and when snow began to filter down softly across the windows, and all the outdoor world grew dim and mythical, Dina felt that she had been transplanted to a land unknown, where nothing of the dark sordid past could follow her.

She knew she was lovely in borrowed costume, and she knew Vere was proud of her. When they all scrambled out again after breakfast for a few more hours of excitement he stayed with her, hardly spoke to anyone else, and because of his complete absorption drew about himself and Dina all the other members of their own group, curious to see something of the girl who had so completely bewitched him.

They tobogganed down a long white hill with the powdered sugar flying down from the skies and up from the earth about them.

Dina and Vere skated, first brushing off the snow with brooms from a small section of the mountain lake—Dina not so much at a disadvantage here, for very small girlhood had been spent in Arkansas, and she was entirely at home on the ice.

Her easy prowess made Vere prouder than ever, and for a happy hour they circled about to the steady pounding of classical old waltzes from a loudspeaker hidden in the pines.

Then, alarmingly, it was two o'clock and lunch time, and immediately after lunch bags had to be packed and the cars started down the long road through the snow.

"We've got to get out of the snow belt before dark," Vere reminded her. Dina did not care if they were caught in the snow; anything just to be with him, just to hear his voice.

And this long drive home was perhaps the happiest time of all. She rested against his shoulder, and sometimes he drove with his left hand and put his right arm about her.

Big fur rugs were piled over her; she was snug and warm under them, and she might have fallen asleep but for the joy of being close to him—a joy that would end, for a while anyway, when he put her down at her father's door that night.

"It's so little to say that it's the happiest time I've ever had, Vere!"

His voice was very low.

"In spite of the fact that I love you too much, Dina?"

She pressed even closer against his arm.

"I didn't mean to," he said, "but you were so darned sweet! The sweetest—well, anyway, you forgive me and you love me! It's not as if we were kids. We've both liked other people, had crushes. But this is the real thing."

"Oh, this is the real thing!" she said fervently.

They talked tirelessly of their love. Of what he felt when first he had seen her, of what it meant for them to be together now, of how little the world outside mattered.

He told her that he had been lonely all his life. He was always laughing, sure, and he made a lot of racket, sure; but he really never had had either a father or a mother. His mother was always at Palm Springs or in New York or in Europe. His father he hardly knew. He had an uncle, Rogers Holland, who was rich and kind of a nice old fellow, but he did not see him very often.

"He sends me a couple of hundred now and then," Vere said carelessly.

"A couple of hundred!"

"Well, his wife died and he has no kids. Cold, darling?"

"No. Terribly comfortable." The man glanced down sideways and saw her looking up, bright-eyed out of her nest of furs and leaned down to kiss her temple.

They had a late dinner at the Palace Hotel; there was no one else in the dining room. They could talk, leaning on the table, and Dina could look deep into his eyes, with the new light of love welling in her own, and lay her hand over his and tell him that so long as he loved her she did not regret anything, she was not sorry for anything.

And then it was half-past ten and tired and cramped and cold, she was getting out of the car at Railway Flats and lifting her face for a last kiss.

Then blankness.

* * *

Blankness. For though she saw him again she knew, as women have known from the beginning of time, that she had lost him. The fear came first with a chilling, sickening little tremble of her spine, an ache between her eyes.

It grew; it strengthened. It was always with her. She had lost more than youth, she had lost more than girlhood, up there in the little cabin in Paradise Valley. She had lost peace.

More than once Vere came to the grocery and they talked, Dina fingering his coat lapel, raising her heavy lashes from heavy eyes to smile at him. But now there was so little to say!

They could not have another Saturday night in the Sierras because looky, he told her, Molly McGuire and Pen Stafford were being married on Saturday night and he had to "ush."

And then, darn it, he had to go down to his mother at Palm Springs for Christmas and the New Year's game in the Rose Bowl, and after that he was going East. Remember he had told her that he was going to take a postgraduate there?

"But don't you care, darling," he said; "We'll write each other like anything! And before you know it I'll be back and get Mother to ask you to Tahoe. Because"—the smooth firm cheek had been against hers as he spoke, and she had caught the clean odors of shaving soap, lotion, and the perfume of his thick blond hair— "because there'll never be anyone but you!"
